The publication of the DAILY MISSAL is a very hopeful effort to bring back the liturgy into the spiritual life of Catholics. Our great Mass book is still undiscovered by and unknown to the great majority of even devout Catholics. Yet it is the cristallized thought and prayer of Latin Christianity, of its Saints and Martyrs and holy priests throughout the centuries.

May works like this which facilitate its use bring back to us the sanctities its venerable phrases and inspired forms both denote and convey.

AUSTIN DOWLING,
Archbishop of Saint Paul.

DIVISION OF THE ECCLESIASTICAL YEAR.

The Ecclesiastical Year* begins on the first Sunday of Advent and ends on the Saturday which follows the twenty-fourth Sunday after Pentecost. It is composed of liturgical seasons, or times, called Temporal Cycle, or Proper of the Time. Its aim is to show us our Lord in the traditional setting of the great mysteries of our holy religion. Simultaneously with this cycle a secondary one is forming, called the Sanctoral Cycle, or Proper of the Saints, because it is composed of all the feasts of holy souls, whom God associates to Christ in the work of the redemption.

I.—TEMPORAL CYCLE.

This circle or cycle is divided into two parts: that of Christmas, and that of Easter. Both of these cycles is sub-divided into: time before, during, and after these two great feasts, which have for aim to prepare the soul for them, to allow it to celebrate them with solemnity, and then to prolong them during several weeks.

A.—Christmas Cycle, or of the Incarnation.

(1) Advent (in Latin: Adventus) is composed of four weeks, during which we long with the patriarchs and prophets for the coming of our Lord.

(2) Christmas brings before our eyes the birth of the Word Incarnate, Who is born in us, and His Epiphany, or manifestation to the world.

(3) The time after the Epiphany includes from one to six Sundays, which recall to us the hidden life of Christ at Nazareth, and manifests to us His divinity.

B.—Easter Cycle, or of the Redemption.

This cycle depends upon the Easter moon and begins between January 18, and February 22.

* The year is a vast ring of feasts to which is given, from the Greek, the name of cycle or circle.

(1) Nine weeks lead up to the great feast of Easter. They are divided into three periods:

(a) Septuagesima brings before us during three weeks the public life of our Lord, and with Lent, which follows it, gives us a summary of it.

(b) Lent represents, by forty days of penance, the forty days' fast of our Lord in the desert, in which we participate.

(c) Passiontide, which comprises the two last weeks of Lent, shows us during a fortnight, the last sufferings of Christ, and His death on the cross, so that we may, with Him, die to our sins.

(2) Eastertide gives us to participate in the greatest of all the feasts: Easter with its privileged octave, when our soul, risen with Christ, lives with Him during five weeks whilst He founds the Church, and then ascends to heaven on Ascension-day. The feast of Pentecost closes this period by the descent of the Holy Ghost into our souls.

(3) The Time after Pentecost shows us, during twenty-four or twenty-eight weeks, the fruits of holiness which the Holy Ghost and the Blessed Sacrament cause to develop in the Church, to the end of the world. This last event is brought before us on the twenty-fourth Sunday after Pentecost.

The feast of Easter, the centre of the year, is always celebrated on the Sunday after the fourteenth day of the March moon. This day is counted only from the twenty-first of March. If it is full moon before the twenty-first, the paschal moon will be the following one—hence the difference sometimes of a month. In other words: the extreme dates for the celebration of Easter are the twenty-second of March and the twenty-fifth of April.

II.—SANCTORAL CYCLE.

Pius X. in his bull Divino afflatu, points out the order to be observed in the celebration of the feasts of saints which, in the course of the year, come in among those of the cycle of the mysteries of our Lord's life.

The first place is given to the Blessed Virgin.

Then come the holy angels. Next, according to the greater or less share they have in the plan of the incarnation, St. John the Baptist, the precursor of the Messias, St. Joseph, St. Peter and St. Paul, and the other apostles, who have always been celebrated with special solemnity.

The feasts of national saints, patrons of dioceses, and parishes come in the first rank because of special gratitude due to them.

Next come feasts of dedication of churches, martyrs, pontiffs (that is, popes or bishops), doctors (that is, fathers of the Church, the authorised interpreters of the word of God), confessors (that is to say, those who by their life or doctrine have confessed Christ), virgins, and holy women.

The most important and the most numerous solemnities of this cycle, especially those of the Time after Pentecost, bring into full light the cycle of Christ, for it is by Him that the world must be renewed: Instaurare omnia in Christo.

Resting one upon the other, these two cycles form, as it were, an immense monstrance set with precious stones. In the centre is the Host, or the Mass, called of the Faithful with the three parts which constitute it: the offertory, the consecration, and the communion.

Around it is the Mass of the Catechumens which varies every day, and shows us at the altar, like luminous rays, the different mysteries on each of the Sundays and solemnities of the Proper of the Time. Then, like lesser rays, in the intervals left free, shine the feasts in honour of the saints. The Church, who carries this divine sun through the world in all times, raises it daily towards heaven in her liturgical worship, so that by it we may offer to God an ever renewed homage of our gratitude, and receive from it daily the treasures of grace and holiness which flow from it.

I.—OF THE OCCURRENCE AND CONCURRENCE OF FEASTS.

In this simultaneous movement of the Temporal and Sanctoral Cycles it happens that feasts of the Proper of the Time and those of the Proper of the Saints fall upon the same day. This is called occurrence of feasts. When the second Vespers of a feast meets with the first Vespers of the following feast, it is called concurrence of feasts. (First Vespers are said on the eve of a feast, and the second on the feast itself.)

When two feasts occur, the lesser gives place to the greater. When they concur, the greater supersedes the lesser, and if they are of the same degree, they share Vespers.

2.—THE RITE AND DEGREES OF FEASTS.

The feasts kept on the days of the year are not all equal in importance and solemnity. The Church has established their rank by a special rite, and by different degrees.

The rite of a feast consists in the form which constitutes it. There are three principal rites: (1) A double rite, so called because the antiphons are doubled by repeating the whole of them before and after each psalm of Vespers. There is only one collect at Masses of this rite (provided there is no Commemoration to be made of one or more saints). (2) A semi-double rite, on which only the first words of the antiphons are said before the psalms. The whole of them are said after the psalms. There are always three collects at Masses of this rite. (3) A simple rite.

The degrees of a feast consist in the greater or less solemnity with which they are celebrated. They are thus distinguished:

Doubles of the first class	Ordinary doubles
Doubles of the second class	Semi-doubles
Greater-doubles	Simples.

3.—SUNDAYS OF FIRST AND SECOND CLASS. ORDINARY SUNDAYS.

(a) Sundays of first class are:

The first Sunday of Advent and the four Sundays of Lent; Passion Sunday and Palm Sunday; Easter Sunday; Low Sunday; Whit-Sunday. These ten Sundays give place to no other feast.

(b) Sundays of second class are:

The second, third, and fourth of Advent; Septuagesima, Sexagesima, and Quinquagesima Sundays. These Sundays give place only to doubles of the first class.

(c) The other Sundays of the year give place to feasts of first and second class, as also to feasts of our Lord. But they supersede all greater and lesser doubles, and all semi-doubles. Feasts of double rank are then simplified, and only a commemoration is made of them at Mass and in the Office.

4.—PRIVILEGED OCTAVES, COMMON AND SIMPLE.

A double of the first-class can have:

1. A privileged octave.

(a) Of first order (Easter and Pentecost), so called because the Church does not permit during this octave the celebration of any other feast. Only commemorations of saints are made by collects proper to them.

(b) Of second order (Epiphany and Corpus Christi), which gives place during the octave only to feasts of first class, or to the octave-day of a feast of first-class on the calendar of the universal Church. A commemoration is always made of the octave.

(c) Of third order (Christmas and Ascension), which admit all feasts above the rite of simple during the octave, but the octave-day gives place only to feasts of first and second class. A commemoration is always made of the octave.

2. A Common Octave.

All the other octaves of feasts of first-class which have octaves. For example: the Immaculate Conception, the Assumption, All Saints, the dedication of churches, patronal feasts. These octaves admit the celebration of the same feasts as privileged octaves of third order. A commemoration of the octave is made on doubles of first and second class.

A double of the second class may have: A simple octave. A simple octave is one that is commemorated only on the eighth day under the rite of a simple (St. John, Ev., St. Stephen, etc.)

5.—PRIVILEGED AND NON-PRIVILEGED FERIAS.

Ferias are free days on which no feast of a saint is kept. Lent, which formerly was the time of preparation for the administration of baptism at Easter, has a special Mass for each feria, that is to say, for each day of the week. On ferias, which have not a proper Mass, the Mass of Sunday is said.

(a) The privileged ferias are: Ash Wednesday, and the three first days of Holy Week. These ferias do not give place to a feast.

(b) The non-privileged ferias are: Those of Advent and Lent, the Ember days, and the Monday of Rogation week. A commemoration is always made of them, and their gospel is read at the end of Mass.

On the ferias of Lent (after Ash Wednesday) and those in Passiontide (before Palm Sunday), the Ember days (not those in Pentecost week), on Monday of Rogation Week, and on ordinary vigils, if a feast of a greater or lesser double, or of a semi-double is served, it is allowed in private Masses to say the Mass of the feria or of the vigil with a commemoration of the feast, or the Mass of the feast with a commemoration of the feria or vigil.

All Souls' day (Nov. 2) excludes feasts which occur below the rank of first class, and transferred feasts of any rank.

6.—VIGILS.

Vigils, or eves, are a preparation, by a special office, for the celebration of the next day's feast. They are days of penance, the office is often long, and purple vestments are used.

There are: A. Privileged vigils. (1) Of first class, as the Vigils of Christmas and Pentecost, which do not give place to any feast. (2) Of second class, as the vigil of the Epiphany, which only admits feasts of first and second class of our Lord.

B. Ordinary vigils, as of apostles, etc.

7.—VOTIVE MASSES.

Votive Masses, which may be said on certain feast days of semi-double, or simple rite, and on certain ferias, have been instituted to meet the wishes of the faithful and satisfy private devotion. The ordinary votive Masses, as also the ordinary Masses for the dead, may not be said on greater ferias except on those of Advent.

PREFACE

LITURGICAL WORSHIP.

"When you pray, say: Father *" This is the name that from all eternity God the Son gives to His Father, the name that our Lord invariably pronounced with respect and love, the name He silently repeats in the Blessed Sacrament, and that we find constantly on the lips of the Church, His bride.

"You have received the spirit of adoption of sons, whereby we cry, Abba (Father)" † The Holy Ghost, as it were, flows forth from the Word in the Sacred Humanity of Christ and in the Church, bearing us all to the Father on the waves of His divine love.

This fount of living water which springs up in our hearts unto life eternal,‡ is doubtless the private prayer with which the Holy Ghost may inspire us, and in which we are led by Him to have recourse to God as children to their father, but it is principally the official prayer with which the Holy Ghost inspires His Church and which is called the Liturgy.§ In this prayer, all members of Christ's mystical body bear an authentic part in that worship of infinite adoration that its Head ceaselessly renders to God: "Always living to make intercession for us,"‖ as the Apostle tells us. Thus the word of the Master is realised: "The hour cometh when the true adorers shall adore the Father in spirit and in truth," which St. Anselm explains to mean that they will render a filial worship to God in the Holy Ghost and in union with Christ the Son of God. St. Paul says "by Him (i.e. our Lord) we have access both in one Spirit to the Father." †† All the properly sacerdotal formulas said by the celebrant at the altar (collect, secret, preface and postcommunion) are addressed to the Father through the mediation of the Son in the unity of the Holy Ghost. That is to say, that under the influence of grace attributed to the Holy Ghost we are united with Christ as man, as our priest or mediator, to honour the Father in Whom the whole blessed Trinity may be said to be implicitly contained, since from Him the Son and the Holy Ghost both proceed.

It is "through Christ that we go to God."‡‡ Therefore all the Church's prayers conclude with the words "Through Jesus Christ our Lord"; and the Canon of the Mass ends with the formula;

* St. Luke xi., 2. † Rom. viii., 15. ‡ St. John iv., 14.
§ From the Greek, a word signifying: "a public act." ‖ Heb. vii., 25.
 St. John iv., 23. †† Eph. ii., 18. ‡‡ 2 Cor.

" By Him, and with Him, and in Him, is to Thee, God the Father almighty, in the unity of the Holy Ghost, all honour and glory. For ever and ever. Amen."

THE SACRIFICE OF CHRIST.

The worship addressed by the Church to the Father through Christ takes the form both of sacrifice and of prayer.

Sacrifice is the highest form of liturgical worship, that which most fully recognises His sovereign dominion over His creature.

By His bloody sacrifice on the cross Christ merited for each of us our redemption and the graces necessary to obtain it.

After His resurrection and ascension He continues His priesthood by presenting His glorious wounds before His Father in our favour. On this bloodless calvary He obtains in heaven the application to our souls of what He merited for us on Golgotha.

THE HOLY SACRIFICE OF THE MASS.

At the same time, our Lord applies these same merits to us, even on earth: for this end He has left to His Church an unbloody sacrifice which not only represents, but renews, the bloody oblation of Calvary: holy Mass. The sacrifice is the same, for it is the same priest and the same victim. Christ is the High Priest; but to perform the rites of this sacrifice, a lower order of priesthood is necessary to supply what our Lord does not Himself perform. These ministers of the priesthood of Christ are the members of the Catholic hierarchy, and thus at one and the same time by Christ invisible, and by Christ visible, it is ordained that we shall pray to God in the person of the pope, bishops, and priests. These priests are the official intermediaries between heaven and earth. And it is by means of the liturgy that we can unite ourselves with the sacerdotal prayer of the Church, and all together day by day by the same rites, the same formulas, even by the same chant render to our Lord with her a worship worthy of the Most High.

Holy Mass, is thus the chief act* of catholic worship. It is also its central object, as the altar is the central object in our churches. All the grandest functions of the liturgy, ordinations, consecrations, benedictions, professions, take place during the celebration of the mystery of the altar. According to St. Thomas, all the sacraments are like the holy Eucharist, a participation in this sacrifice, or else are means whereby the soul is prepared for it.† Exposition and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament are as it were a continuance of it. We should, therefore, be quite wrong were we to separate such acts of piety as our communions and our adoration, from the act of the sacrifice; let us accustom ourselves to keep this connection practically in mind by communicating with the priest during Holy Mass, and by considering our Lord present in the tabernacle as the saving Victim.

PRAYER AND DIVINE OFFICE.*

The Church gives worship to God, not only by the Sacrifice of the Altar, but by the prayer which is also a sacrifice of praise: Sacrificium laudis. But the official prayer of the Church,—formed of prayers, holy readings and commentaries,—is itself developed from the Mass. It is this which still constitutes the preparatory instructions, or Mass of the Catechumens; from this came "Vigils" preparatory to Mass; and it has as it were overflowed over the whole day which it sanctifies, under the name of Divine Office. Thus we have at the present time the Mass "as the precious jewel set in the midst of the golden crown of the canonical Hours."† These Hours are: for the night office Matins or Vigils, and Lauds; for the day office, Prime, Terce, Sext, None, Vespers and Compline. At the present time they are collected together in one book, called the Breviary.

Of these Hours, one of the most solemn, and that which has least fallen into disuse among the faithful, is that of Vespers, the afternoon office. In the Roman Breviary, it consists of five psalms with antiphons, the capitulum, the hymn, the canticle Magnificat, and the prayer. It is also to be desired that the faithful should return to the liturgical practise of using the prayer of the Church, that is to say Compline, for their evening devotions, and as a morning prayer Prime, either in part or the whole. The "Daily Missal" will assist them in this practice.

The Anglican Church has taken all that is most interesting in its services from the Roman Office; its evening service is composed of extracts from our Vespers and Compline, and the "Anthem" which ends the service is but a substitute for our beautiful antiphons to our Lady.

THE ROMAN MISSAL.‡

Holy Mass is a liturgical drama. The parts taken by the different actors, that is, by the celebrant and his ministers, developed gradually and became fixed in the course of the first nine centuries of the Christian era. Instructions for these various parts are fully given; the part of the priest in the sacramentaries; in the gospel-books are found the part of the deacons; the lectionaries contain the epistles for the sub-deacon and the lessons for the lectors; while there are antiphoners and graduals for the use of the cantors. From the seventh to the sixteenth century these books were gradually brought together into the complete missal.

Pope Pius V. made its use obligatory in 1570, and suppressing, with few exceptions only, the different rites and formularies which had until then existed, imposed the use of the Roman Missal on the universal Church. Clement VIII. (1604), Urban VIII (1634), Pius X (1912) and Benedict XV (1920) have further perfected the work in several details. The Latin text and the rubrics of the Daily Missal are according to this latest official edition.

Special Feasts with proper Mass and Office are permitted to every diocese and to each religious Order, as additions to the Roman Missal and Breviary, and these will be as far as possible published as supplements to the Daily Missal.

We should cultivate in our minds a deep respect for the Missal. It contains the very expression of the Church's prayer, and is the framework of her most august rites of consecration and communion. It shares with the sacred species the right to be placed upon the altar. The gospel-book is included in it, and it contains extracts from several of the holy books of the Divine word, and in various ceremonies it takes the place of the book of the holy Scriptures. In the light of the sacred text contained in it. the altar becomes each day before our eyes as a corner of Palestine, where our Lord is waited for, is born, lives, preaches, suffers and dies for us, rises again, and from whence He sends forth His Holy Spirit with the special graces which that day's Holy Communion is to infuse into our souls. Let us then take the daily teaching of our Missal for our morning meditation.

THE DAILY MISSAL WITH VESPERS.

Our endeavour has been to make the Daily Missal as complete a work as possible with good illustrations. It has also been compiled to help on the revival of the Gregorian plain chant. Its paramount aim is, however, to make it easy for the faithful to understand and meditate upon the liturgical formulas.

This Missal contains the whole of the Roman Missal, with the one exception of the Masses "pro aliquibus locis," which will be found among the propers of those religious Orders or dioceses where these Feasts are celebrated.*

* The prayer for the King commonly used in England, after the principal Sunday Mass, will be found in the English and Scottish Supplements.

The rubrics of the Common of the Mass have been so arranged as to correspond with either High Mass or a Low or private Mass.†

This Missal also contains Vespers and Compline for each Sunday, and for such Feasts as may have to be substituted for the usual Sunday Office, that is to say, double feasts of the first or second class. In regard to Commemorations at Vespers, it has not seemed practical for the use of the laity to give more than those which invariably accompany the Office of 1st or 2nd class.

Besides the Propers for religious Orders and dioceses, it is proposed to publish at some future date, separate supplements containing: The Ritual of the Sacraments; Matins and Lauds for the last three days of Holy Week (Tenebrae); Christmas; and the Office of the Dead; also the Vatican edition of the Kyriale.

The translation of Scripture texts is from the Douay Version; the Psalms, Antiphons, and hymns of Vespers and Compline, by the very kind permission of Messrs. Blackwood and Sons, Edinburgh, together with that of the executors of the late Lord Bute, are taken from that author's translation of the Roman Breviary.

All the illustrations for the Daily Missal have been made by the gifted artist M. René de Cramer, professor at St. Luke's School, Ghent.

The chief care of the translator throughout the work has been to follow the Latin text as exactly as possible, even where literary elegance of style might seem to suffer. In a case touching faith and worship, it seems that exactitude is of more importance than elegance of diction.

In spite of this care and of that of the printers, it has been practically impossible to bring so important a work to an end without a few small mistakes. A list of corrigenda will be found, which we hope will not appear in a second edition. Any suggestions sent to the author will be gladly received.

The allusions to the practice of the answers at Holy Mass being made aloud by all those present at it (pp. 2 and 3, Method of Hearing Mass) will perhaps surprise many Catholics who are unaccustomed to it. It is to be noticed that we do not suggest that the prayers intended for the priest alone should be said by the laity; nor do we attempt to suggest that every Low Mass should be thus responded to by all. It is a form of religious service that may, however, when practised outwardly, help the faithful to participate inwardly in the offering of the holy Sacrifice. It was a custom which existed in the time of St. Pius V., and we find rubrics of that date evidently taking it for granted that the server is replying not only in the name of those present, but in their place or together with them.

As this practice might in some circumstances be unsuitable, it is ordered by a decree of the Sacred Congregation of Rites in 1922 that it should not be introduced in all times and places without discretion, and in all cases it rests with the Ordinary, as the sole judge of local conditions, to decide upon its introduction into each diocese.*

This judicious restriction, however, as we learn from a report presented in 1923 at the Eucharistic Congress held at Rome, is in no sense a condemnation. On the contrary, this method of celebrating, already recommended by His Eminence the Cardinal-Vicar Pompili for the diocese of Rome, was practised by His Holiness Pope Pius XI. himself in the course of the general Congress of 1922. It has been introduced in France in several dioceses, and encouraged by the whole Belgian Episcopate, as well as by the Provincial Council of Cologne, at least in seminaries, schools and convents.

PAX

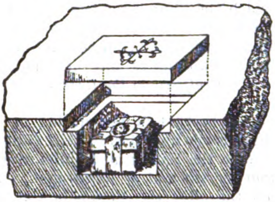
METHOD OF HEARING MASS.

1. The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass is an offering to the Most Holy Trinity.

To begin with, it must always be remembered that the Mass is a Sacrifice, that is to say an act by which the Church renders officially to God, in the name of all, a supreme worship of adoration or latria, which can lawfully be offered to God alone because of the transcendant excellence of His Divine Being, by Whom are all things and for Whom are all things. The Mass therefore can only be offered to the three Persons of the Most Holy Trinity.

The offering which the Priest makes to God in recognition of His supreme dominion over all created things is our Lord Jesus Christ Himself, Who by His sacrifice of the Cross paid to the Father an infinite worship of adoration, of praise, of propitiation for sin and of impetration. The Sacrifice of the Mass, by placing on the altar the Victim of Calvary, enables us consequently to adore God adequately through Him, to thank Him in a worthy manner for all His blessings, to appease Him fully by the offering of the blood of Christ, and to address supplications to Him which are always granted because they are made in the name of Him Who, displaying His glorious wounds to His Father, unceasingly pleads for us in heaven and in the Holy Eucharist.

As all the mysteries of the life of our Lord have contributed with the sacrifice of Calvary to our salvation, the Church commemorates the several anniversaries of those events in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass on the various feasts of the Temporal Cycle or Cycle of Christ. At Christmas, for example, the Church offers to God the Divine Child of the manger with everything appertaining to the infant stage of Christ's life that gave glory to the Father. She thus secures for us in a very special manner the application of the merits gained for us by Jesus during His infancy, and these will enable us to practise more effectually every year the virtues of which the Son of God and of the Blessed Virgin Mary then set us an example.



2. The Holy Sacrifice as an offering in honour of the Saints.

But the Mass is also offered up in honour of the Saints, as is shown in the Sanctoral Cycle. This implies an open recognition of the fact that it is to the Holy Eucharist as a Sacrifice and as a Sacrament that the Saints owe the graces granted to them in such abundance by God; indeed, we honour the Saints by thus glorifying the work of the Almighty in them.

It is also an act of homage paid to them when we unite them with our Lord in remembrance at the Altar, as is done on the anniversary of their death and from day to day in the Canon of the Mass. As members of the mystical body of Christ it is only right that they should be associated with the sacrifice of their Head, as by their sufferings and frequently by their death they have mingled their blood together with that of the Divine Victim. Here we find the explanation of the practice of the Church of letting in relics of Saints, and especially of Martyrs, in the altar-stone (see illustration) at the very spot where the Sacred Host is to be placed. " It is the whole redeemed city," says St. Augustine, " that is to say the congregation and company of the Saints, that is the universal sacrifice, and that is offered to God by the High Priest Who offered Himself up for us in His Passion."

In conclusion, we can pay no greater honour to the Saints than by offering up to God in their name the Blood of Jesus as an act of adoration of the Supreme Being and by way of thanksgiving to Him, through Christ, for the many blessings He poured upon them The Saints, eager as they are to glorify the Most Holy Trinity, are grateful to us for doing so to their intention, as it adds to their happiness. The efficacy of their past merits and present prayers is greatly increased when offered to God in close association with the merits and prayers of Jesus, the universal mediator. And this is what takes place especially on their feastdays, when Mass is celebrated in their honour. " Inasmuch as so many are pleading for us," the Collect for the Feast of All Saints asks God "to confer upon us, through Jesus Christ, the fullness of His mercy for which we long." Also God is more ready to accept the offering of the Blood of Jesus when made, so to speak, through the intermediacy of His Saints.

In hearing Mass three things are necessary :—

(i) We must reconstitute the historical framework of the event in the life of Christ, or of any of His Saints, the anniversary of which is being commemorated. The Mass of the Catechumens helps us to do this, with its various elements—Vestments, Chants, Introit, Epistle, Gospel, etc.

(ii) We must offer up to God, for His greater glory, the mystery of our Redeemer that is being commemorated, or the virtuous deeds of the Saint whose feast is being kept. This is done in the Canon of the Mass ; and, except in unavoidable circumstances, Holy Communion should not be partaken of without previously having made this offering, which conciliates the Almighty and secures us His Divine favour.

(iii) We must ask of God (in the Pater Noster), and obtain from Him by the merits and intercession of Jesus Christ and His Saints, the graces which they themselves obtained when still on this earth (as the fruit of the Communion and Postcommunion).

If in addition to this method, which is the method of the Missal, we adopt the dialogue form of prayer—reciting in unison the responses at Low Mass, and joining in the congregational singing, especially the Gregorian plain chant, at High Mass—our active participation in the sacred mysteries will be complete, and we will imbibe anew at first source the true Christian spirit in compliance with the wishes of Pope Pius X.

Speaking generally, it may be said that the best way in which we can take part in the Holy Sacrifice is to make our own the various forms of words used by the Priest, not of course by a process of purely mechanical repetition, but by pious and serious reflection corresponding to the thoughts expressed in the prayers of the Mass. Indeed, this would appear to be the ideal preparation for Holy Communion, seeing that it is the method of preparation prescribed by the Church for Pope, Bishops and Priests when celebrating Mass. It inspires in the soul sentiments of contrition (from the Introit to the Collects), faith (from the Collects to the Credo), hope (at the Canon of the Mass), love (at the Communion) and gratitude (from the last Prayers to the end), which are essential if we are to receive the Holy Eucharist fruitfully. This supreme act of participation in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass—a holy Communion—will therefore obtain for us the benefit of all its fruits, seeing that it complies as perfectly as possible with the conditions laid down in the Decree of His Holiness Pope Pius X. for securing " a more abundant production of the effects of Communion, such being a careful preparation, and a worthy act of thanksgiving after receiving the Divine Sacrament."

3. Parts of the Mass to be recited in dialogue with the Priest.

In the first place, the whole congregation can say out loud in Latin the responses made by the Choir boy, who really makes them on behalf of all.

Secondly, the congregation can also recite in Latin with the Priest all prayers that are chanted at a Sung Mass, such as the Gloria (Et in terra . . . .), the Credo (Patrem omnipotentem . . . .), the Sanctus and the Agnus Dei.

In addition, the congregation may also repeat three times out loud with the Priest the Domine, non sum dignus, words spoken by the latter on elevating the Host in sight of the communicants. As a matter of fact, the Priest does not speak these words on his own behalf, since he has already done that previous to himself communicating. In the ritual for the Sick the recipient is required to say this prayer with the Priest, and the Communion of the Sick does not differ essentially from the Communion partaken of at Mass.

MORNING PRAYERS

TAKEN FROM THE CANONICAL OFFICE OF PRIME.

The Church, ever solicitous for the glory of God and the sanctification of souls, sets apart certain hours of the day and of the night for prayer. "During the night I arose to sing Thy praise," says the Psalmist, and in monasteries Matins are recited in the middle of the night. "Seven times a day do I praise Thee," adds the Psalmist, and the official prayer of the Church ascends up to heaven at Lauds (dawn), Prime (first hour, 6 a.m.), Terce (third hour, 9 a.m.), Sext (sixth hour, noon), None (ninth hour, 3 p.m.), Vespers (when the star Vesper appears, 5 p.m.) and Compline (night prayers, with which all our duties and occupations come to an end).

In order to unite our voices with that of the Church, which sanctifies with its official prayer the first hour of the day, let us recite for our morning prayers a portion of the office of Prime.

Our Father, Who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. Amen.

Pater noster, qui es in coelis, sanctificétur nomen tuum. Advéniat regnum tuum. Fiat volúntas tua, sicut in coelo et in terra. Panem nostrum quotidiánum da nobis hódie. Et dimítte nobis débita nostra, sicut et nos dimíttimus debitóribus nostris. Et ne nos indúcas in tentatiónem : sed líbera nos a malo. Amen.

Ave María, grátia plena, Dóminus tecum; benedícta tu in muliéribus, et benedíctus fructus ventris tui, Jesus. Sancta María, Mater Dei, ora pro nobis peccatóribus, nunc et in hora mortis nostrae. Amen.

Hail, Mary, full of grace, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou amongst women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb, Jesus. Holy Mary, Mother of God, pray for us sinners, now and at the hour of our death. Amen.

Credo in Deum, Patrem omnipoténtem, Creatórem coeli et terrae. Et in Jesum Christum, Fílium ejus únicum, Dóminum nostrum, qui concéptus est de Spíritu sancto, natus ex María Vírgine, passus sub Póntio Piláto, crucifíxus, mórtuus et sepúltus: descéndit ad ínferos, tértia die resurréxit a mórtuis, ascéndit ad coelos, sedet ad déxteram Dei Patris omnipoténtis, inde ventúrus est judicáre vivos et mórtuos. Credo in Spíritum sanctum, sanctam Ecclésiam cathólicam, Sanctórum communiónem, remissiónem peccatórum, carnis resurrectiónem, vitam aetérnam. Amen.

I believe in God the Father Almighty, Creator of heaven and earth. And in Jesus Christ, His only Son, our Lord, Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, born of the Virgin Mary, suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead, and buried: He descended into hell, the third day He rose again from the dead, He ascended into heaven, and sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty, from thence He shall come to judge the living and the dead. I believe in the Holy Ghost, the Holy Catholic Church, the Communion of Saints, the forgiveness of sins, the resurrection of the body, and life everlasting. Amen.

Ambrosian Hymn.

THE star of morn to night succeeds,
We therefore meekly pray,
May God, in all our words and deeds,
Keep us from harm this day.

JAM lucis orto sídere,
Deum precémur súpplices,
Ut in diúrnis áctibus
Nos servet a nocéntibus.

May He in love restrain us still
From tones of strife and words of ill,
And wrap around and close our eyes
To earth's absorbing vanities.

Línguam réfraenans témperet,
Ne litis horror ínsonet.
Visum fovéndo cóntegat,
Ne vanitátes háuriat.

May wrath and thoughts that gender shame
Ne'er in our breasts abide,
And painful abstinences tame
Of wanton flesh the pride;

Sint pura cordis íntima,
Absístat et vecórdia;
Carnis terat supérbiam
Potus cibíque párcitas.

So when the weary day is o'er
And night and stillness come once more,
Blameless and clean from spot of earth
We may repeat with reverent mirth—

Ut cum dies abscésserit,
Noctémque sors redúxerit,
Mundi per abstinéntiam,
Ipsi canámus glóriam.

To God the Father glory be,
And to His only Son,
And to the Spirit, One and Three,
While endless ages run.
Amen.

Deo Patri sit glória,
Ejúsque soli Fílio,
Cum Spíritu Paráclito,
Nunc et per omne saeculum.
Amen.

ANOTHER FORM OF MORNING PRAYERS.

Our Father, p. 4.—Hail Mary, p. 5.—The Apostles' Creed, p. 5.

An Act of Faith in the presence of God.

O my God! I firmly believe that Thou art here present, and plainly seest me: that Thou observest all my actions, all my thoughts, and the most secret motions of my heart. I acknowledge that I am not worthy to come into Thy presence, nor to lift up my eyes to Thee, because I have so often sinned against Thee. But Thy goodness and mercy invite me to come unto Thee; assist me, I beseech Thee, with Thy holy grace, and teach me to pray to Thee as I ought.

An Act of Adoration and Thanksgiving.

O eternal God! Father, Son, and Holy Ghost; the beginning and end of all things; in whom we live, and move, and have our being; prostrate before Thee in body and soul, I adore Thee with the most profound humility. I bless Thee, and give Thee thanks for all the benefits Thou hast conferred upon me; that Thou hast created me out of nothing, made me after Thy own image and likeness, redeemed me with the precious Blood of Thy Son, and sanctified me with Thy Holy Spirit. I thank Thee that Thou hast called me into Thy Church, assisted me by Thy grace, admitted me to Thy sacraments, watched over me by Thy special providence; blessed me, notwithstanding my sins and unworthiness, with the continuance of Thy gracious protection; and for all the innumerable blessings which I owe to Thy undeserved bounty. I thank Thee especially for having preserved me during the night past, and for bringing me in safety to the beginning of another day. What return can I make to Thee, O my God, for all that Thou hast done for me? I will bless Thy holy Name, and serve Thee all the days of my life. Bless the Lord, O my soul, and let all that is within me praise His holy Name.

Here call to mind the chief sins of your past life, and make resolutions against the temptations and dangerous occasions you may meet with this day.

An Act of Contrition, with good Resolutions.

O my God! how little have I served Thee in time past! how greatly have I sinned against Thee! I acknowledge my iniquity, and my sin is always before me. But I repent, O Lord, I repent. I am heartily sorry that I have spent that time in offending Thee which Thou gavest me to be employed in Thy service, in advancing the good of my own soul, and obtaining everlasting life. I am sorry, above all things, that I have offended Thee, because Thou art infinitely good, and sin is infinitely displeasing to Thee. I love Thee with my whole heart—at least I desire so to do; and I firmly purpose, by the help of Thy grace, to serve Thee more faithfully for the time to come.

Receive, I beseech Thee, the offering I now make to Thee of the remainder of my life. I renew the vows and promises made in my baptism. I renounce the devil, and all his works, the world, and all its pomps. I now begin, and will endeavour to spend this day according to Thy holy will, performing all my actions so that they may be pleasing unto Thee. I will take particular care to avoid the failings I am so apt to commit, and to exercise the virtues most agreeable to my state and employment.

Ejaculatory Prayers.

Jesus, Mary, and Joseph, I give you my heart and my soul.

Jesus, Mary, and Joseph, assist me in my last agony.

Jesus, Mary, and Joseph, may I breathe forth my soul in peace with you.

My Jesus, mercy.

Jesus, meek and humble of heart, make my heart like unto Thy Heart.

O Most Sacred Heart of Jesus, I implore
That I may daily love Thee more and more.

Sweet Heart of Mary, be my salvation.

O my good Angel, whom God, by His Divine mercy, hath appointed to be my guardian, enlighten and protect me, direct and govern me this day. Amen.

MASS AND HOLY COMMUNION.

The Mass is a renewal of the Sacrifice on Calvary and the centre of the Christian life, and it is through the Mass that the Saviour of mankind imparts to the faithful the grace He gained for them on the Cross.

The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, therefore, is to the Christian the most important act of the day, for by it the soul, brought into close touch with Jesus crucified, accepts with greater cheerfulness its daily crosses.

Speaking generally, the best way in which we can participate in this Sacrifice is to adopt the formularies used by the Priest, not of course by purely mechanical repetition, but by devout and earnest meditation reflecting the thoughts expressed in the prayers of the Mass.*

By making our preparation with the Church and returning thanks to God with her we will ensure a worthy Communion and full participation in the Sacrifice of the Altar, and therefore in that of the Cross.

Preparation for Mass and Holy Communion.

Before celebrating Mass the Priest, if he has time, recites the following prayers. The faithful can recite them in union with him. This is an excellent preparation for Mass and for Holy Communion in case it is not possible to receive the latter during Mass. Pope Leo XIII. has granted an indulgence of one year to such as recite them (Dec. 20, 1884).

ANT. Remember not, O Lord, our offences, nor those of our fathers; and take not vengeance on our sins. (In Paschal time: Alleluia.)

ANT. Ne reminiscáris, Dómine, delícta nostra, vel paréntum nostrórum, neque vindíctam sumas de peccátis nostris. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Psalm lxxxiii.

Recited by the Israelites on their way to the Temple for the Feast of the Passover.

How lovely are Thy tabernacles, O Lord of hosts! my soul longeth and fainteth for the courts of the Lord:

Mine heart and my flesh rejoice for the living God.

Yea, the sparrow hath found an house, and the dove a nest for herself, where she may lay her young,

QUAM dilécta tabernácula tua, Dómine virtútum: concupíscit, et déficit ánima mea in átria Dómini.

Cor meum, et caro mea exsultavérunt in Deum vivum.

Etenim passer invénit sibi domum: et turtur nidum sibi, ubi ponat pullos suos.

* This subject is dealt with at greater length on p. 1.

Altária tua, Dómine virtútum: Rex meus, et Deus meus.

Even Thine altars, O Lord of hosts, my King and my God!

Beáti, qui hábitant in domo tua, Dómine: in saecula saeculórum laudábunt te.

Blessed are they that dwell in Thine house, O Lord; they will be ever praising Thee.

Beátus vir, cujus est auxílium abs te: ascensiónes in corde suo dispósuit, in valle lacrymárum in loco, quem pósuit.

Blessed is the man whose strength is from Thee; who hath settled in his heart to go up [to Thy Sanctuary], through the vale of tears, to the place which he hath appointed.

Etenim benedictiónem dabit legislátor, ibunt de virtúte in virtútem: vidébitur Deus deórum in Sion.

He that hath given the Law will give His blessing; they shall go from strength to strength: they appear before the God of gods in Zion.

Dómine, Deus virtútum, exáudi oratiónem meam: áuribus pércipe Deus Jacob.

O Lord God of hosts, hear my prayer: give ear, O God of Jacob!

Protéctor noster, áspice Deus: et réspice in fáciem Christi tui:

Behold, O God, our shield: and look upon the face of Thine Anointed.

Quia mélior est dies una in átriis tuis, super míllia.

For a day in Thy courts is better than a thousand.

Elégi abjéctus esse in domo Dei mei: magis quam habitáre in tabernáculis peccatórum.

I had rather be a menial in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness.

Quia misericórdiam et veritátem díligit Deus: grátiam et glóriam dabit Dóminus.

For God loveth mercy and truth: the Lord will give grace and glory.

Non privábit bonis eos, qui ámbulant in innocéntia: Dómine virtútum, beátus homo, qui sperat in te.

No good thing will He withhold from them that walk uprightly O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man that trusteth in Thee!

Glória Patri . . . .

Glory be to the Father . . . .

Psalm lxxxiv.

God has taken His people back into favour and continues to show them the treasure of His mercies.

Benedixisti, Dómine, terram tuam: avertísti captivitátem Jacob.

Lord, Thou hast been favourable unto Thy land: Thou hast brought back the captivity of Jacob.

Remisísti iniquitátem plebis tuae: operuísti ómnia peccáta eórum.

Thou hast forgiven the iniquity of Thy people: Thou hast covered all their sins.

Thou hast taken away all Thy wrath: Thou hast turned Thyself from the fierceness of Thine anger.

Mitigásti omnem iram tuam: avertísti ab ira indignatiónis tuae.

Turn us, O God of our salvation, and cause Thine anger towards us to cease.

Convérte nos, Deus, salutáris noster: et avérte iram tuam a nobis.

Wilt Thou be angry with us for ever? wilt Thou draw out Thine anger to all generations?

Numquid in aetérnum irascéris nobis? aut exténdes iram tuam a generatióne in generatiónem?

O God, Thou shalt again quicken us: and Thy people shall rejoice in Thee.

Deus, tu convérsus vivificábis nos: et plebs tua laetábitur in te.

Show us Thy mercy, O Lord! and grant us Thy salvation.

Osténde nobis, Dómine, misericórdiam tuam: et salutáre tuum da nobis.

I will hear what the Lord God will speak in me: for He will speak peace unto His people.

Audiam quid loquátur in me Dóminus Deus: quóniam loquétur pacem in plebem suam.

And to His saints, and unto them that are changed in heart.

Et super sanctos suos: et in eos, qui convertúntur ad cor.

Surely His salvation is nigh them that fear Him, that glory may dwell in our land.

Verúmtamen prope timéntes eum salutáre ipsíus: ut inhábitet glória in terra nostra.

Mercy and truth have met together: righteousness and peace have kissed each other.

Misericórdia, et véritas obviavérunt sibi: justítia, et pax osculátae sunt.

Truth hath sprung out of the earth: and righteousness hath looked down from heaven.

Véritas de terra orta est: et justítia de coelo prospéxit.

Yea, the Lord shall give that which is good: and our land shall yield her increase.

Etenim Dóminus dabit benignitátem: et terra nostra dabit fructum suum.

Righteousness shall go before Him: and shall set His footsteps in the way.

Justítia ante eum ambulábit: et ponet in via gressus suos.

Glory be to the Father . . . .

Glória Patri . . . .

Psalm lxxxv.

Appeal to the mercy of God.

Bow down Thine ear, O Lord, and hear me: for I am poor and needy.

Inclina, Dómine, aurem tuam, et exáudi me: quóniam inops, et pauper sum ego.

Custódi ánimam meam, quóniam sanctus sum: salvum fac servum tuum, Deus meus, sperántem in te.

Preserve my soul, for I am holy: O Thou my God, save Thy servant that trusteth in Thee.

Miserére mei, Dómine, quóniam ad te clamávi tota die: laetífica ánimam servi tui, quóniam ad te, Dómine, ánimam meam levávi.

Be merciful unto me, O Lord, for I cry unto Thee all the day long: rejoice the soul of Thy servant, for unto Thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul.

Quóniam tu, Dómine, suávis, et mitis: et multae misericórdiae ómnibus invocántibus te.

For Thou, Lord, art good and ready to forgive, and plenteous in mercy to all them that call upon Thee.

Auribus pércipe, Dómine, oratiónem meam: et inténde voci deprecatiónis meae.

Give ear, O Lord, unto my prayer: and attend to the voice of my supplication.

In die tribulatiónis meae clamávi ad te: quia exaudísti me.

In the day of my trouble I called upon Thee, for Thou hast heard me.

Non est símilis tui in diis, Dómine: et non est secúndum ópera tua.

Among the gods there is none like unto Thee, O Lord: neither are there any works like unto Thy works.

Omnes gentes quascumque ecísti, vénient, et adorábunt coram te, Dómine: et glorificábunt nomen tuum.

All nations whom Thou hast made shall come and worship before Thee, O Lord: and shall glorify Thy name.

Quóniam magnus es tu, et fáciens mirabília: tu es Deus solus.

For Thou art great and doest wondrous things: Thou art God alone.

Deduc me, Dómine, in via tua, et ingrédiar in veritáte tua: laetétur cor meum ut tímeat nomen tuum.

Teach me Thy way, O Lord, and I will walk in Thy truth: let mine heart be glad, that it may fear Thy name.

Confitébor tibi, Dómine, Deus meus, in toto corde meo, et glorificábo nomen tuum in aetérnum:

I will praise Thee, O Lord my God, with all mine heart, and I will glorify Thy name for evermore.

Quia misericórdia tua magna est super me: et eruisti ánimam meam ex inférno inferióri.

For great is Thy mercy toward me: and Thou hast delivered my soul from the lowest hell.

Deus, iníqui insurrexérunt super me, et synagóga poténtium quaesiérunt ánimam

O God, the wicked are risen against me, and the assemblies of violent men have sought after my soul, and have not set Thee before them.

But Thou, O Lord, art a God full of compassion and gracious, long-suffering, and plenteous in mercy and truth.

O look upon me, and have mercy upon me: give Thy strength unto Thy servant, and save the son of Thine handmaid!

Show me a token for good, that they which hate me may see it and be ashamed: because Thou, O Lord, hast holpen me, and comforted me.

Glory be to the Father . . . .

meam: et non proposuérunt te in conspéctu suo.

Et tu, Dómine, Deus miserátor et misericors, pátiens, et multae misericórdiae, et verax.

Réspice in me, et miserére mei, da impérium tuum púero tuo: et salvum fac fílium ancíllae tuae.

Fac mecum signum in bonum, ut vídeant qui odérunt me, et confundántur: quóniam tu, Dómine, adjuvísti me, et consolátus es me.

Glória Patri . . . .

Prayer of St. Ambrose to be said before Mass or Holy Communion.

O LOVING Lord Jesus Christ, I a sinner, presuming not on my own merits, but trusting to Thy mercy and goodness, fear and tremble to approach the table of Thy most sacred banquet. For I have defiled both my heart and body with many sins, and have not kept a strict guard over my mind and my tongue. Wherefore, O gracious God, O awful Majesty, I a wretched creature, reduced to extremity, have recourse to Thee the fount of mercy, I fly to Thee that I may be healed, and take refuge under Thy protection, and I ardently desire to have Him as my Saviour Whom I am unable to withstand as my judge. To Thee, O Lord, I show my wounds, to Thee I lay bare my shame. I know that my sins are many and great, on account of which I am filled with fear. But I

AD mensam dulcíssimi convívii tui, pie Dómine Jesu Christe, ego peccátor, de própriis méritis nihil praesúmens, sed de tua confídens misericórdia et bonitáte, accédere véreor et contremísco. Nam cor et corpus hábeo multis criminibus maculátum, mentem et linguam non caute custodítam. Ergo, o pia Déitas, o treménda Majéstas, ego miser inter angústias deprehénsus, ad te fontem misericórdiae recúrro, ad te festíno sanándus, sub tuam protectiónem fúgio: et quem júdicem sustinére néqueo, salvatórem habére suspíro. Tibi, Dómine, plagas meas osténdo: tibi verecúndiam meam détego. Scio peccáta mea multa et magna, pro quibus tímeo. Spero in misericórdias tuas, quarum non est númerus.

Réspice ergo in me óculis misericórdiae tuae, Dómine Jesu Christe, Rex aetérne, Deus et Homo, crucifíxus propter hóminem. Exáudi me sperántem in te: miserére mei pleni miseriis et peccátis, tu qui fontem miseratiónis nunquam manáre cessábis. Salve salutáris Víctima, pro me et omni humáno génere in patíbulo crucis obláta. Salve nóbilis et pretióse Sanguis, de vulnéribus crucifíxi Dómini mei Jesu Christi prófluens et peccáta totíus mundi ábluens. Recordáre, Dómine, creatúrae tuae, quam tuo Sánguine redemísti. Poenitet me peccásse, cúpio emendáre quod feci. Aufer ergo a me, clementíssime Pater, omnes iniquitátes et peccáta mea: ut purificátus mente et córpore, digne degustáre mérear sancta sanctórum; et concéde, ut sancta praelibátio Córporis et Sánguinis tui, quam ego indígnus súmere inténdo, sit peccatórum meórum remíssio, sit delictórum perfécta purgátio, sit túrpium cogitatiónum effugátio, ac bonórum sénsuum regenerátio, operúmque tibi placéntium salúbris efficácia, ánimae quoque et córporis contra inimicórum meórum insídias firmíssima tuítio. Amen.

trust in Thy mercy, for it is unbounded. Look down upon me, therefore, with eyes of pity, O Lord Jesus Christ, eternal King, God and Man, crucified for man. Hearken unto me, for my hope is in Thee; have mercy on me, who am full of misery and sin, Thou who wilt never cease to let flow the fountain of mercy. Hail, Victim of salvation, offered for me and for all mankind on the tree of the cross. Hail, noble and precious Blood, flowing from the wounds of my crucified Lord Jesus Christ and washing away the sins of the whole world. Remember, O Lord, Thy creature, whom Thou hast redeemed with Thy Blood. I am grieved because I have sinned, I desire to make amends for what I have done. Take away from me therefore, O most merciful Father, all my iniquities and sins, that, being purified both in soul and body, I may worthily partake of the holy of holies; and grant that this holy oblation of Thy Body and Blood, of which all unworthy I purpose to partake, may be to me the remission of my sins, the perfect cleansing of my offences, the means of driving away all evil thoughts and of renewing all holy desires, the advancement of works pleasing to Thee, as well as the strongest defence for soul and body against the snares of my enemies. Amen.

Prayer of St. Thomas of Aquin.

Omnípotens, sempitérne Deus, ecce accédo ad sacra-

Almighty and eternal God, behold, I am about to approach the Sacrament of Thine only-begotten Son, our Lord Jesus Christ. I approach as one who is sick to the physician of life, as one unclean to the fountain of mercy, as one blind to the light of eternal brightness, as one poor and needy to the Lord of heaven and earth. Wherefore I beseech Thee, of Thine infinite goodness, to heal my sickness, to wash away my filth, to enlighten my blindness, to enrich my poverty, and to clothe my nakedness, that I receive the bread of Angels, the King of kings, and the Lord of lords with such reverence and humility, with such contrition and devotion, with such purity and faith, with such purpose and intention, as may conduce to the salvation of my soul. Grant, I beseech Thee, that I may receive not only the Sacrament of the Body and Blood of our Lord, but also the fruit and virtue of the Sacrament. O most indulgent God, grant me so to receive the Body of Thine only-begotten Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, which He took of the Virgin Mary, that I may be found worthy to be incorporated with His mystical body and numbered among His members. O most loving Father, grant that I may one day contemplate for ever face to face Thy beloved Son, Whom now on my pilgrimage I am about to receive under a veil, Who liveth and reigneth with Thee in the unity of the Holy Ghost, God, world without end. Amen.

The Blessing of Water.

On Sundays, before the Parochial Mass, the Celebrant blesses the water and sprinkles those present in order to prepare them by this act of purification to participate worthily in the Holy Sacrifice. The water is blessed in the sacristy or on the Epistle side of the altar. The Priest wears a purple stole.

℣. Adjutórium nostrum in nómine Dómini.

℟. Qui fecit coelum et terram.

℣. Our help is in the Name of the Lord.

℟. Who made heaven and earth.

The Priest exorcises the salt:

Exorcízo te creatúra salis per Deum ✠ vivum, per Deum ✠ verum, per Deum ✠ sanctum, per Deum, qui te per Elisaeum prophétam in aquam mitti jussit, ut sanarétur sterílitas aquae: ut efficiáris sal exorcizátum in salútem credéntium: et sis ómnibus suméntibus te sánitas ánimae et córporis et effúgiat atque discédat a loco, in quo aspérsum fúeris, omnis phantásia et nequítia vel versútia diabólicae fraudis, omnísque spíritus immúndus adjurátus per eum, qui ventúrus est judicáre vivos et mórtuos, et saeculum per ignem.

℟. Amen.

I exorcise thee, creature of salt, by the living ✠ God, by the true ✠ God, by the holy ✠ God, by that God who ordered thee to be put by Eliseus the prophet into the water, that the barrenness of the water might be healed; that thou mayest become exorcised salt for the salvation of those that believe; and that thou mayest be for the healing of soul and body to all those receiving thee, and that there may be banished from the place in which thou hast been sprinkled every kind of hallucination and wickedness, or wile of devilish deceit, and every unclean spirit, adjured in the name of Him Who will come to judge the living and the dead, and the world by fire.

℟. Amen.

Orémus.

Let us pray.

O Almighty and eternal God, we humbly implore Thine infinite mercy, that this creature of salt which Thou hast bestowed for the use of mankind may be blessed ✠ and sanctified ✠ through Thy mercy, that it may make for health of mind and body to all who partake of it; and

He then exorcises the water:

I exorcise thee, creature of water, in the name of God ✠ the Father Almighty, and in the name of Jesus ✠ Christ His Son our Lord, and in the power of the Holy ✠ Spirit, that thou mayest be made exorcised water for the banishment of every power of the enemy, and that thou mayest be able to uproot and cast out that enemy himself, together with his rebel angels: by the power of the same Jesus Christ our Lord, Who will come to judge the living and the dead, and the world by fire.

℟. Amen.

Let us pray.

O God, Who for the salvation of mankind hast appointed water to be the foundation of Thy greatest Sacraments, graciously hear our prayers, and fill this element, which has in manifold ways been purified, with Thy power and blessing ✠: so that this creature of Thine, for use in Thy mysteries, may be endowed with divine grace to drive away devils and to cast out diseases; that whatever in the houses or possessions of the faithful may be sprinkled by this water may be freed from everything unclean and delivered from

The Asperges.

(For chant see the Kyriale.)

Before High Mass the Celebrant, after blessing the water in the Sacristy, wearing a cope and supported by his ministers, intones at the foot of the altar the Asperges me or Vidi aquam, according to the time of year; he then sprinkles the altar, and, passing down the church, sprinkles the clergy and people, saying in a low voice the Miserere.

Holy water is a sacramental that remits venial sins.—Hyssop is a tufted plant which the Jews used for aspersions.

Throughout the year.

Ant. Thou shalt sprinkle me with hyssop, O Lord, and I shall be cleansed; Thou shalt wash me, and I shall be made whiter than snow.

Ant. Aspérges me, Dómine, hyssópo, et mundábor: lavábis me, et super nivem dealbábor.

The Procession.

The Procession, which takes place before Mass in cathedrals, collegiate churches and abbeys, serves as solemn prelude to the great Act that is to follow. It originated in monasteries, where every Sunday the cloisters were perambulated, while chanting the Responses.

During Advent the Procession will remind us of the obligation we are under of preparing to meet Him Who is to come.

During Christmastide it represents the journeying of the shepherds and wise men from the East to Bethlehem, where they found the Infant Jesus.

During Paschal time it represents the visit of the holy women to the sepulchre, whither they went to embalm the Body of their Master.

The Vesting of the Priest.

The Priest washes his hands, and asks God for the grace of purity.

Da, Dómine, virtútem mánibus meis ad abstergéndam omnem máculam: ut sine pollutióne mentis et córporis váleam tibi servíre.

Give virtue, O Lord, unto my hands, that every stain may be wiped away: so that I may be enabled to serve Thee without defilement of mind or body.

The Amice symbolises the helmet of salvation, which protects the Priest against the devil.

Impóne, Dómine, cápiti meo gáleam salútis, ad expugnándos diabólicos incúrsus.

Put, O Lord, the helmet of salvation upon my head, that I may overcome the assaults of the devil.

The Alb is a figure of perfect integrity.

Deálba me, Dómine, et munda cor meum: ut in sánguine Agni dealbátus, gáudiis pérfruar sempitérnis.

Cleanse me, O Lord, and purify my heart: that being made white in the Blood of the Lamb, I may have the fruition of everlasting joys.

The Girdle typifies sacerdotal chastity.

Praecínge me, Dómine, cíngulo puritátis, et exstíngue in

Gird me about, O Lord, with the girdle of purity, and extinguish in my loins the desire of lust: so that the virtue of continence and chastity may ever abide within me.

lumbis meis humórem libídinis: ut máneat in me virtus continéntiae, et castitátis.

The Maniple, formerly for the purpose of removing perspiration, reminds us that it is our lot on earth to sow in tears.

May I be worthy, O Lord, so to bear the maniple of tears and sorrow: that with joy I may receive the reward of my labour.

Mérear, Dómine, portáre manípulum fletus et dolóris: ut cum exsultatióne recípiam mercédem labóris.

1. Amice; 2. Alb; 3. Girdle; 4. Stole; 5. Maniple; 6. Chasuble; 7. Biretta; 8. Dalmatic (for Deacons), or Tunica (for Subdeacons).

The Stole is a vestment of honour, being a symbol of immortality.

Restore to me, O Lord, the stole of immortality, which I lost by the transgression of my first parent: and although unworthy I draw near to Thy sacred mystery, may I yet be found worthy of everlasting joy.

Redde mihi, Dómine, stolam immortalitátis, quam pérdidi in praevaricatióne primi paréntis: et quamvis indígnus accédo ad tuum sacrum mystérium, mérear tamen gáudium sempitérnum.

The Chasuble is the emblem of charity, which makes the yoke of Christ light and agreeable.

Dómine, qui dixísti: Jugum meum suáve est, et onus meum leve: fac, ut istud portáre sic váleam, quod cónsequar tuam grátiam. Amen.

O Lord, Who hast said: My yoke is easy, and My burden is light: make me so to be able to bear it, that I may obtain Thy favour. Amen.

Administration of Holy Communion at other times than at the Communion of the Mass.

As Holy Communion affords us an opportunity of participating in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass together with the Priest, who thus consummates the sacrifice, it has always been the wish of the Church that the faithful who have offered up the Mass with him should also communicate with him.

The Church, however, in consideration of the fact that it is often difficult for members of the congregation to partake of Holy Communion at that precise moment, has made provision for their being able to do so either before or after Mass, or even without any Mass at all.

In those circumstances the Server recites, preferably together with the Communicants, the Confiteor (p. 137), the Priest saying the Verses Misereatur and Indulgentiam, etc., as at the giving of Holy Communion during Mass. On returning to the Altar, the Priest, after closing the Ciborium, recites the following prayers alternately with the Server:

O sacrum convívium in quo Christus súmitur, recólitur memória Passiónis ejus, mens implétur grátia, et futúrae glóriae nobis pignus datur. (T.P. Allelúia.)

℣. Panem de coelo praestitísti eis. (Allelúia.)

℟. Omne delectaméntum in se habéntem. (Allelúia.)

O sacred banquet, in which Christ is received, the memory of His passion is renewed, the mind is filled with grace, and a pledge of future glory is given to us. (P.T. Alleluia.)

℣. Thou didst give them bread from heaven. (Alleluia.)

℟. Containing in itself all sweetness. (Alleluia.)

Prayer outside of Paschal Time.

Orémus.

Deus, qui nobis sub sacraménto mirábili Passiónis tuae memóriam relíquisti: tríbue, quaesumus, ita nos Córporis et sánguinis tui sacra mystéria venerári, ut redemptiónis tuae fructum in nobis júgiter sentiámus. Qui vivis et regnas

Let us pray.

O God, Who in this wondrous Sacrament hast left unto us a memorial of Thy Passion: grant us, we beseech Thee, so to venerate the sacred mysteries of Thy Body and Blood, that we may ever feel in us the fruit of Thy redemption. Who livest and Spíritum nobis, Dómine, tuae caritátis infúnde, ut quos sacraméntis Paschálibus satiásti, tua fácias pietáte concórdes. Per Dóminum . . . in unitáte ejúsdem . . .

The Blessing.

(The musical notation of the Asperges will be found in the Kyriale.)

2. The Sign of the Cross.

The Priest, on coming to the foot of the Altar, makes the Sign of the Cross. When Mass is sung, the Choir begin the Introit (see the Proper) as soon as he approaches the Altar.

In nómine Patris, et Fílii, et Spíritus sancti. Amen.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

3. Ps. xlii.: Judica me.

(Omitted from Masses for the Dead and during Passion Time.)

At Low Mass we should respond to the Priest, who reminds us of the significance both to him and to us of the Altar at which, as the Office of the Blessed Sacrament says, " we feed on Christ, Who is the Renewer of our youth."

ANT. ℟. Introíbo ad altáre Dei.

℟. Ad Deum qui laetíficat juventútem meam.

℣. JUDICA me, Deus, et discérne causam meam de gente non sancta: ab hómine iníquo et dolóso érue me.

℟. Quia tu es Deus, fortitúdo mea: quare me repulísti, et quare tristi incédo, dum afflígit me inimícus?

ANT. ℣. I will go in unto the Altar of God.

℟. Unto God, Who giveth joy to my youth.

℣. JUDGE me, O God, and plead my cause against an ungodly nation: O deliver me from the unjust and deceitful man.

℟. For Thou, O God, art my strength: why dost Thou cast me off? and why go I mourning, because of the oppression of the enemy?

℣. O send out Thy light and Thy truth: let them lead me and bring me unto Thine holy hill, and unto Thy tabernacles!

℣. Emítte lucem tuam, et veritátem tuam: ipsa me deduxérunt, et adduxérunt in montem sanctum tuum, et in tabernácula tua.

℟. Then will I go unto the Altar of God, unto God, the gladdener of my youth!

℟. Et introíbo ad altáre Dei: ad Deum qui laetíficat juventútem meam.

℣. Upon the harp will I praise Thee, O God, my God! why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why dost thou disquiet me?

℣. Confitébor tibi in cíthara, Deus, Deus meus: quare tristis es, ánima mea, et quare contúrbas me?

℟. Hope thou in God: for I will still praise Him, Who is the health of my countenance, and my God.

℟. Spera in Deo, quóniam adhuc confitébor illi: salutáre vultus mei, et Deus meus.

℣. Glory be to the Father . . .

℣. Glória Patri . . .

℟. As it was . . .

℟. Sicut erat . . .

℣. I will go in unto the Altar of God.

℣. Introíbo ad altáre Dei.

℟. Unto God, Who giveth joy to my youth.

℟. Ad Deum qui laetíficat juventútem meam.

Ps. cxxiii. 8. ℣. Our help ✠ is in the name of the Lord.

Ps. ℣. Adjutórium nostrum ✠ in nómine Dómini.

℟. Who made heaven and earth.

℟. Qui fecit coelum et terram.

4. Public Confession.

To draw near to God we must further purify ourselves, and the Priest makes his confession, taking the Church triumphant and militant to witness, and especially all the faithful present.

℣. I confess, etc. . .

℣. Confiteor, etc. . . .

The Assistant Priests (or choir boy) turn towards the Celebrant and answer:—

℟. May almighty God have mercy upon thee, forgive thee thy sins, and bring thee to life everlasting.

℟. Misereátur tui omnípotens Deus, et, dimíssis peccátis tuis, perdúcat te ad vitam aetérnam.

℣. Amen.

℣. Amen.

Bowing down, they continue:—

℟. I confess to almighty God, to blessed Mary ever-virgin, to ℟. Confíteor Deo omnipoténti, beatae Maríae semper

Vírgini, beáto Michaéli Archángelo, beáto Joánni Baptístae, sanctis Apóstolis Petro et Paulo, omnibus Sanctis, et tibi, Pater, quia peccávi nimis cogitátione, verbo, et ópere, mea culpa, mea culpa, mea máxima culpa. Ideo precor beátam Maríam semper Vírginem, beátum Michaélem Archangelum, beátum Joánnem Baptístam, sanctos Apóstolos, Petrum et Paulum, omnes Sanctos, et te, Pater, oráre pro me ad Dóminum Deum nostrum.

blessed Michael the Archangel, to blessed John the Baptist, to the holy Apostles Peter and Paul, to all the Saints, and to you, father, that I have sinned exceedingly in thought, word and deed, (strike the breast three times as a sign of contrition) through my fault, through my fault, through my most grievous fault. Therefore I beseech blessed Mary ever-virgin, blessed Michael the Archangel, blessed John the Baptist, the holy Apostles Peter and Paul, all the Saints, and you, father, to pray to the Lord our God for me.

The Priest asks God to accept our confession:—

℣. Misereátur vestri omnípotens Deus, et dimíssis peccátis vestris, perdúcat vos ad vitam aetérnam.

℟. Amen.

℣. May almighty God have mercy upon you, forgive you your sins, and bring you to life everlasting.

℟. Amen.

Like holy water, public confession is also a sacramental, which through the merits of our Lord Jesus Christ obtains for us from God the remission of venial sins. So the Priest, making the sign of the Cross, in which we join him, pronounces a general absolution as follows:—

℣. Indulgéntiam, ✠ absolutiónem, et remissiónem peccatórum nostrórum, tríbuat nobis omnípotens et miséricors Dóminus.

℟. Amen.

℣. May the almighty and merciful Lord grant us pardon, ✠ absolution, and remission of our sins.

℟. Amen.

God observes our repentance, and will show us His mercy in His holy temple.

Ps. ℣. Deus, tu convérsus vivificábis nos.

℟. Et plebs tua laetábitur in te.

℣. Osténde nobis, Dómine, misericórdiam tuam.

℟. Et salutáre tuum da nobis.

Ps. lxxxiv. 7, 8. ℣. Thou wilt turn, O God, and bring us to life.

℟. And Thy people shall rejoice in Thee.

℣. Show us, O Lord, Thy mercy.

℟. And grant us Thy salvation.

Ps. ci. 2. ℣. Hear, O Lord, my prayer.	Ps. ℣. Dómine, exáudi oratiónem meam.
℟. And let my cry come unto Thee.	℟. Et clamor meus ad te véniat.
℣. The Lord be with you.	℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. And with thy spirit.	℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.
℣. Let us pray.	℣. Orémus.

5. The Priest ascends the Altar.

The Priest, ascending the Altar with his Ministers, prays again that he may be cleansed from all sin. At Low Mass the Server kneels on the first step, on the left side.

Take away from us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, our iniquities, that we may be worthy to enter with pure minds into the holy of holies. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.	Aufer a nobis, quaesumus, Dómine, iniquitátes nostras: ut ad Sancta sanctórum puris mereámur méntibus introíre. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. Amen.

The Celebrant kisses the Altar and says:—

We beseech Thee, O Lord, by the merits of Thy Saints, whose relics are here, and of all the Saints, that Thou wouldst vouchsafe to forgive me all my sins. Amen.	Orámus te, Dómine, per mérita Sanctórum tuórum, quorum relíquiae hic sunt, et ómnium Sanctórum: ut indulgére dignéris ómnia peccáta mea. Amen.

6. 7. The Introit and Kyrie.

(For the musical notation of the Kyrie see the Kyriale.)

At a Sung Mass the Priest blesses the incense, which he puts in the thurible, saying: " Be thou blessed by Him in Whose honour thou art about to burn." He then incenses the Altar in silence. But at Low Mass the Celebrant moves at once to the Missal on his right and reads the Introit (see the Proper). He then returns to the middle of the Altar and recites the nine supplications to the Father (Kyrie), to the Son (Christe) and to the Holy Ghost (Kyrie). This was the cry with which the sick appealed to Jesus.

Lord, have mercy.	Kyrie eléison.
Lord, have mercy.	Kyrie eléison.
Lord, have mercy.	Kyrie eléison.
Christ, have mercy.	Christe eléison.
Christ, have mercy.	Christe eléison.
Christ, have mercy.	Christe eléison.
Lord, have mercy.	Kyrie eléison.
Lord, have mercy.	Kyrie eléison.
Lord, have mercy.	Kyrie eléison.

8. The Gloria in excelsis.

(For musical notation see the Kyriale.)

(Omitted at Masses for the Dead, during Advent, Septuagesima and Lent, and on week-days that are not ferial.)

The Priest commences the Gloria, called by the Greeks the Greater Doxology or Paraphrase of the Gloria Patri. It begins with the words sung by the Angels at the birth of the Saviour, and continues the supplications of the Kyrie.

GLORY TO GOD

Glória in excélsis Deo, et in terra pax homínibus bonae voluntátis. Laudámus te. Benedícimus te. Adorámus te. Glorificámus te. Grátias ágimus tibi propter magnam glóriam tuam.	Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men of good will. We praise Thee, we bless Thee, we adore Thee, we glorify Thee. We give Thee thanks for Thy great glory.

(1) THE FATHER

Dómine Deus, Rex coeléstis, Deus Pater omnípotens.	O Lord God, heavenly King, God the Father almighty.

(2) THE SON

Dómine, Fili unigénite, Jesu Christe. Dómine Deus, Agnus Dei, Fílius Patris. Qui tollis peccáta mundi, miserére nobis. Qui tollis peccáta mundi, súscipe deprecatiónem nostram. Qui sedes ad dexteram Patris, miserére nobis. Quóniam tu solus Sanctus. Tu solus Dóminus. Tu solus Altíssimus, Jesu Christe.	O Lord Jesus Christ, the only-begotten Son. O Lord God, Lamb of God, Son of the Father, Who takest away the sins of the world, have mercy upon us. Who takest away the sins of the world, receive our prayer. Who sittest at the right hand of the Father, have mercy upon us. For Thou only art holy. Thou only art Lord. Thou only, O Jesus Christ, art most high,

(3) THE HOLY GHOST.

Cum Sancto Spíritu, in glória Dei Patris. Amen.	together with the Holy Ghost, in the glory of God the Father. Amen.

The preaching of Jesus.

SECOND PART.

"They were persevering in the doctrine of the apostles and in the communication of the breaking of bread and in prayers." (Acts of the Apostles ii. 42.)

INSTRUCTION, from the Collect to the Credo, or the Enlightenment of love.

ACTS OF FAITH.

The Priest begins the Second Part of the Mass by kissing the Altar and greeting the congregation.

℣. The Lord be with you.	℣. Dóminus vobíscum
℟. And with thy spirit.	℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

1. The Collect.

The Celebrant goes to the Missal and reads the Collect (see the Proper). At a Sung Mass the congregation, and at Low Mass the Server, answers :—

℟. Amen.	℟. Amen.

2.—The Epistle, or Sayings of the Prophets and Apostles.

The Subdeacon, and at Low Mass the Priest, proceeds with the reading of the Epistle (see the Proper). The Deacon, or the Server, answers :—

℟. Thanks be to God.	℟. Deo Grátias.

3. The Gradual and Alleluia.

After the Epistle the Gradual is sung, followed by the Alleluia and versicle (see the Proper). The Gradual is replaced by the Alleluia during Eastertide, and the Alleluia and versicle by the Tract after Septuagesima.

4. The Gospel, or Sayings of our Lord.

After the Gradual and Alleluia the Priest goes to the middle of the Altar and recites the following prayer, while the Subdeacon or Server carries the Missal to the Gospel side:—

Munda cor meum, ac lábia mea, omnípotens Deus, qui lábia Isaiae prophétae cálculo mundásti ignito: ita me tua grata miseratióne dignáre mundáre, ut sanctum Evangélium tuum digne váleam nuntiáre. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. Amen.

Cleanse my heart and my lips, O God almighty, Who didst cleanse the lips of the prophet Isaias with a live coal: vouchsafe of Thy gracious mercy so to cleanse me that I may worthily proclaim Thy holy Gospel. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

At High Mass the Deacon places the Gospel on the Altar and, after the Priest has blessed the incense, he says the Munda cor meum kneeling at the top of the steps, and asks for a blessing, which the Celebrant gives. At Low Mass the Priest says the same prayer:—

Jube domne (or Dómine) benedícere.

Pray, sir (or Lord), a blessing.

Dóminus sit in corde tuo (meo) et in lábiis tuis (meis): ut digne et competénter annúntiem Evangélium suum. Amen.

May the Lord be in thine (my) heart and on thy (my) lips, that so I may meetly and fitly announce His Gospel. Amen.

At High Mass the Deacon, and at Low Mass the Priest, goes to the Gospel side and recites the Gospel, making the sign of the Cross on the book, and on his forehead, mouth and breast. All present do likewise. As Charlemagne says in a letter to Alcuin, "By this sign of the Cross we will preserve our hearts from evil thoughts, so that they may remain pure and so be able to grasp the words of salvation."

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.
℣. Initium (or Sequéntia) sancti Evangélii secúndum . . .
℟. Glória tibi, Dómine.

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.
℣. The beginning (or continuation) of the holy Gospel according to . . .
℟. Glory be to Thee, O Lord.

The Deacon then incenses the book. At Low-Mass the Server comes down from the Altar and remains standing on the right. At the end of the Gospel he answers :—

℟. Praise be to Thee, O Christ.	℟. Laus tíbi, Christe.

The Deacon then kneels. Meanwhile the Priest kisses the book, the reading of which is a sacramental, and says :—

By the words of the Gospel may our sins be blotted out.	Per evangelica dicta deleantur nostra delicta.

5. The Sermon.

At High Mass, after the Celebrant has been incensed, the Sermon is preached. Notice, however, is first given of days of fasting or abstinence, and of the services, masses and devotions for the week; banns of marriage are proclaimed; the parishioners who are lately deceased or are dangerously ill are commended to the prayers of the congregation; Pastoral Mandates or Ordinances are read, concluding with the sermon.

6. The Credo.

(For the musical notation see the Kyriale.)

This is the Creed of the First Council of Nicaea (A.D. 325), revised by the Council of Constantinople (A.D. 381). It is said on Sundays, on Feasts of the Apostles and of Doctors, and on great feasts, when there are large congregations.

I BELIEVE IN GOD

I believe in one God,	Credo in unum Deum,

(1) THE FATHER

the Father almighty, maker of heaven and earth, and of all things visible and invisible.	Patrem omnipoténtem, factórem coeli et terrae, visibílium ómnium, et invisibílium.

(2) THE SON

And in one Lord Jesus Christ, the only begotten Son of God, born of the Father before all ages; God of God, light of light, true God of true God; begotten not made; consubstantial with the Father; by Whom all things were made. Who for us men, and for our salvation, came down from heaven; (the Celebrant genuflects and adores the Word made flesh) AND WAS INCARNATE	Et in unum Dóminum Jesum Christum, Filium Dei unigénitum. Et ex Patre natum ante ómnia saecula. Deum de Deo, lumen de lúmine, Deum verum de Deo vero. Génitum, non factum, consubstantiálem Patri: per quem ómnia facta sunt. Qui propter nos hómines, et propter nostram salútem descéndit de coelis. ET INCARNATUS EST DE SPIRITU SANCTO

EX MARIA VIRGINE: ET HOMO FACTUS EST. Crucifíxus étiam pro nobis: sub Póntio Piláto passus, et sepúltus est. Et resurréxit tértia die, secúndum Scriptúras. Et ascéndit in coelum: sedet ad déxteram Patris. Et íterum ventúrus est cum glória judicáre vivos, et mórtuos: cujus regni non erit finis.

BY THE HOLY GHOST, OF THE VIRGIN MARY; AND WAS MADE MAN. He was crucified also for us, suffered under Pontius Pilate, and was buried. And the third day He rose again according to the Scriptures; and ascended into heaven. He sitteth at the right hand of the Father; and He shall come again with glory to judge the living and the dead; and His Kingdom shall have no end.

(3) THE HOLY GHOST.

Et in Spíritum Sanctum, Dóminun, et vivificántem: qui ex Patre, Filióque procédit. Qui cum Patre, et Fílio simul adorátur, et conglorificátur: qui locútus est per Prophétas.

And in the Holy Ghost, the Lord and giver of life, Who proceedeth from the Father and the Son, Who together with the Father and the Son is adored and glorified; Who spoke by the Prophets.

(4) I BELIEVE IN THE HOLY CHURCH.

Et unam sanctam, cathólicam et apostólicam Ecclésiam. Confíteor unum baptísma in remissiónem peccatórum. Et expécto resurrectiónem mortuórum. Et vitam ventúri saeculi. Amen.

And one holy catholic and apostolic Church. I confess one baptism for the remission of sins. And I await the resurrection of the dead, (make the sign of the Cross) and the life of the world to come. Amen.

"Let the Credo resound," says the Council of Toledo (A.D. 589); "in that chant the true faith proclaims itself in a striking manner, and the soul of a Catholic people, requickening its faith, prepares to receive the Communion of the Body and Blood of Christ."

The Gospel Word and the Eucharistic Word are the twofold food that the Church gives daily to her children gathered round the table of the Altar. It is the Lamb of God Who, now as in ages past, speaks to us and sacrifices Himself for us.

Presentation of Jesus in the Temple.

B.—MASS OF THE FAITHFUL.

THIRD PART.

"Whilst they were at supper, Jesus took bread." (Matt. xxvi. 26.)

THE OFFERTORY, from the Offering to the Preface, or Love offering itself up to God together with the substance of the Sacrifice.

ACTS OF SELF-SURRENDER AND OBLATION.

(Intrinsic portion of the Sacrifice.)

The Priest begins the third part of the Mass by greeting the congregation :—

℣. The Lord be with you.	℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. And with thy spirit.	℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.
Let us pray.	Orémus.

In certain districts the faithful here make their offerings of blessed bread. This ceremony recalls the old custom of supplying the Priest with the bread and wine for the Sacrifice, and with the means for his support. The blessed bread is a sacramental.

The Priest says the Offertory Antiphon (see the Proper).

1. Offering of Bread and Wine.

The Server fetches the cruets. The Priest offers up the bread and, having made the sign of the Cross with it, places it on the corporal.

Súscipe, sancte Pater, omnípotens aetérne Deus, hanc immaculátam hóstiam, quam ego indígnus fámulus tuus óffero tibi, Deo meo vivo et vero, pro innumerabílibus peccátis, et offensiónibus, et negligéntiis meis, et pro ómnibus circumstántibus, sed et pro ómnibus fidélibus christiánis vivis atque defúnctis: ut mihi, et illis profíciat ad salútem in vitam aetérnam. Amen.

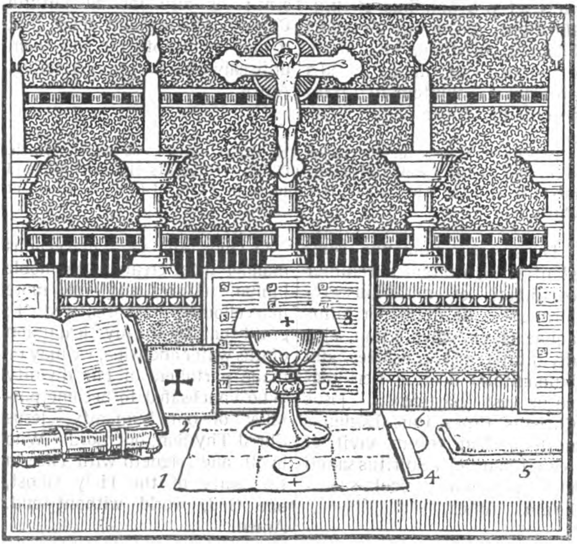
Receive, O holy Father, almighty and eternal God, this spotless host, which I, Thy unworthy servant, offer unto Thee, my living and true God, for mine own countless sins, offences and negligences, and for all here present; as also for all faithful Christians living and dead, that it may avail both me and them unto salvation for life everlasting. Amen.

Except at Masses for the Dead, the Priest blesses the water, which, according to the Council of Tibur (Tivoli), represents the faithful, and mixes it with the wine, which is about to be changed into the Blood of Christ.

Deus, qui humánae substántiae dignitátem mirabíliter condidísti, et mirabílius reformásti: da nobis per hujus aquae et vini mystérium, ejus divinitátis esse consórtes, qui humanitátis nostrae fíeri dignátus est párticeps, Jesus Christus Fílius tuus Dóminus noster: Qui tecum vivit et regnat in unitáte Spíritus sancti Deus, per ómnia saecula saeculórum. Amen.

O God, Who in a marvellous manner didst create and ennoble human nature, and still more marvellously hast renewed it; grant that, by the mystical union of this water and wine, we may be made partakers of His divinity Who vouchsafed to become partaker of our humanity, Jesus Christ Thy Son, our Lord: Who liveth and reigneth with Thee in the unity of the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end. Amen.

The Priest offers up the chalice, which he replaces on the Altar, making with it the sign of the Cross.



Offérimus tibi, Dómine, cálicem salutáris, tuam deprecántes cleméntiam: ut in conspéctu divínae majestátis tuae, pro nostra, et totíus mundi salúte cum odóre suavitátis ascéndat. Amen.

We offer unto Thee, O Lord, the chalice of salvation, beseeching Thy clemency: that it may rise up in the sight of Thy divine majesty as a sweet savour, for our own salvation and for that of the whole world. Amen.

The Priest bows down and says the Prayer of the three children of Israel in the furnace of burning fire.

In a humble spirit and a contrite heart may we be received by Thee, O Lord; and may our sacrifice so be offered up in Thy sight this day that it may be pleasing to Thee, O Lord God.

In spíritu humilitátis, et in ánimo contríto suscipiámur a te, Dómine: et sic fiat sacrifícium nostrum in conspéctu tuo hódie, ut pláceat tibi, Dómine Deus.

1. Corporal, Host and Chalice. 2. Burse. 3. Palla. 4. Mundatory or Purificator. 5. Chalice Veil. 6. Paten.

He then invokes the Holy Ghost and blesses the offerings.

Come, Thou Who makest holy, almighty and eternal God, and bless ✠ this sacrifice prepared for Thy holy name.

Veni sanctificátor omnípotens, aetérne Deus; et béne ✠ dic hoc sacrifícium tuo sancto nómini praeparátum.

2. The Incensing of the Offerings and of the Faithful.

At High Mass the Altar, the offerings, i.e. the bread and wine, and all present are incensed. This is a sacramental signifying the graces which the Holy Sacrifice is to obtain for us, and indicating our willingness to offer ourselves to God with Jesus in the odour of sweetness.

The Priest blesses the incense.

Per intercessiónem beáti Michaélis Archángeli, stantis a dextris altáris incénsi, et ómnium electórum suórum, incénsum istud dignétur Dóminus bene ✠ dícere et in odórem suavitátis accípere. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. ℟. Amen.	Through the intercession of blessed Michael the Archangel standing at the right of the altar of incense, and of all His elect, may the Lord vouchsafe to bless ✠ this incense, and to receive it for a sweet savour. Through Christ our Lord. ℟. Amen.

He incenses the bread and wine in the form of a cross.

Incénsum istud a te benedíctum, ascéndat ad te, Dómine: et descéndat super nos misericórdia tua.	May this incense which Thou hast blessed, O Lord, rise up before Thee, and may Thy mercy come down upon us.

He then incenses the Crucifix and Altar, reciting verses 2, 3 and 4 of Psalm cxl.

Dirigátur, Dómine, orátio mea, sicut incénsum in conspéctu tuo: elevátio mánuum meárum sacrifícium vespertínum.	Let my prayer, O Lord, be directed as incense in Thy sight; the lifting up of my hands at evening sacrifice.
Pone, Dómine, custódiam ori meo, et óstium circumstántiae lábiis meis:	Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth, and a door round about my lips:
Ut non declínet cor meum in verba malítiae, ad excusándas excusatiónes in peccátis.	Lest my heart incline to evil words, to make excuses in sins.

He returns the thurible to the Deacon, with a prayer that God may kindle in our souls the flame of everlasting charity.

Accéndat in nobis Dóminus ignem sui amóris, et flammam aetérnae caritátis. Amen.	May the Lord kindle within us the fire of His love, and the flame of everlasting charity. Amen.

Next the Priest is incensed, and after him the whole congregation, for the oblation which we offer up of ourselves has to be accepted by God. "The saintly soul makes a thurible, so to speak, of his heart, which exhales its perfume before God," says St. Gregory the Great. And so we participate in the Sacrifice, which will extend to us the effects of the Divine mercy, also represented by the incense.

At Masses for the Dead the Priest alone is incensed, immediately after the incensing of the Altar.

3. The Washing of the Hands.

Having received the offerings and incensed the Altar, the Priest cleanses his fingers out of respect for the Body of Jesus, which he is about to touch after the Consecration. Even at Low Mass he washes the tips of the first fingers of the hand.

This ablution has also a symbolic meaning. We must approach the Mystery with a pure heart, and this ceremony is a sacramental that purifies our hearts and prepares them for the Holy Sacrifice and for the Communion. "The water that flows over the tips of our fingers," says St. Augustine, "washes away the last traces of our impurities."

Psalm xxv. 6—12.

I WILL wash my hands among the innocent: and will compass Thy altar, O Lord:

That I may hear the voice of Thy praise, and tell of all Thy wondrous works.

I have loved, O Lord, the beauty of Thy house, and the place where Thy glory dwelleth.

Take not away my soul, O God, with the wicked, nor my life with bloody men:

In whose hands are iniquities: their right hand is filled with gifts.

But as for me, I have walked in my innocence: redeem me, and have mercy on me.

My foot hath stood in the direct way: in the churches I will bless Thee, O Lord.

Glory be to the Father . . .

LAVABO inter innocéntes manus meas: et circúmdabo altáre tuum, Dómine:

Ut áudiam vocem laudis, et enárrem univérsa mirabília tua.

Dómine, diléxi decórem domus tuae, et locum habitatiónis glóriae tuae.

Ne perdas cum ímpiis, Deus, ánimam meam, et cum viris sánguinum vitam meam:

In quorum mánibus iniquitátes sunt: déxtera eórum repléta est munéribus.

Ego autem in innocéntia mea ingréssus sum: rédime me, et miserére mei.

Pes meus stetit in dirécto: in ecclésiis benedícam te, Dómine.

Glória Patri . . .

At Masses for the Dead, and at Proper Masses during Passion Time, the Gloria Patri is omitted.

4. Prayer to the Most Holy Trinity.

The Priest bows low at the middle of the Altar. At Private Masses the Server kneels on the first step.

Súscipe, sancta Trínitas, hanc oblatiónem quam tibi offérimus ob memóriam passiónis, resurrectiónis et ascensiónis Jesu Christi Dómini nostri: et in honórem beátae Maríae semper Vírginis, et beáti Joánnis Baptístae, et sanctórum Apostolórum Petri et Pauli, et istórum, et ómnium Sanctórum: ut illis profíciat ad honórem, nobis autem ad salútem: et illi pro nobis intercédere dignéntur in coelis, quorum memóriam ágimus in terris. Per eúmdem Christum Dóminum nostrum. Amen.

Receive, O Holy Trinity, this offering which we make to Thee in remembrance of the Passion, Resurrection and Ascension of our Lord Jesus Christ, and in honour of blessed Mary ever Virgin, of blessed John the Baptist, of the holy Apostles Peter and Paul, of these and of all the Saints: that it may avail to their honour and our salvation: and may they vouchsafe to intercede for us in heaven, whose memory we keep on earth. Through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.

5. The Orate fratres and Secret.

The Priest kisses the Altar and, turning towards the congregation, says:—

Orate, fratres: ut meum ac vestrum sacrifícium acceptábile fiat apud Deum Patrem omnipoténtem.

℟. Suscipiat Dóminus sacrifícium de mánibus tuis, ad laudem, et glóriam nóminis sui, ad utilitátem quoque nostram, totiúsque Ecclésiae suae sanctae. Amen.

Brethren, pray that my sacrifice and yours may be acceptable to God the Father almighty.

℟. May the Lord receive the Sacrifice at thy hands, to the praise and glory of His name, to our own benefit, and to that of all His holy Church. Amen.

He then reads in silence the Secret or Secrets (see the Proper). As the offerings the congregation were wont to make at the Offertory were too great, the Priest selected a few for the purpose of the sacrifice and recited over them the prayer formerly known as Oratio super secreta, "Prayer over the oblations set apart." The word Secreta, "Secret prayers," is alone retained now. And in order that all present may signify their concurrence in the first part of the Mass of the Faithful, viz. the Offertory, he says the concluding words aloud:— per ómnia saecula saeculórum.

℟. Amen.

world without end.
℟. Amen.

It is truly meet and just, right and availing unto salvation, that at all times, but more especially on this day (especially at this season) we should extol Thy glory, O Lord, when Christ our Pasch was sacrificed. For He is the true Lamb that hath taken away the sins of the world; Who by dying hath overcome our death, and by rising again hath restored our life. And therefore with the Angels and Archangels, the Thrones and Dominions, and the whole host of the heavenly army we sing the hymn of Thy glory, saying again and again: (p. 51).

Preface for the Ascension.

From Ascension Day until the Vigil of Whitsun exclusive, except on feasts which have a proper Preface.

It is truly meet and just, right and availing unto salvation, that we should at all times and in all places give thanks unto Thee, O holy Lord, Father almighty, everlasting God: through Christ our Lord.

* Who after His resurrection appeared and showed Himself to all His disciples; and, while they beheld Him, was lifted up into heaven, so that He might make us partakers of His Godhead.

And therefore with the Angels and Archangels, the Thrones and Dominions, and the whole host of the heavenly army we sing the hymn of Thy glory, saying again and again: (p. 51).

Preface for Whitsuntide.

From the Vigil of Whitsun till the following Saturday inclusive, and at Votive Masses of the Holy Ghost, when, however, the words hodierna die (on this day) are omitted.

It is truly meet and just, . . . (see page opposite).

Vere dignum et justum est . . . (see page opposite).

Preface for the Feast of the Most Holy Trinity.

On Trinity Sunday, at Votive Masses of the Blessed Trinity, and on all Sundays throughout the year, except on feasts which have a proper Preface.

Vere dignum et justum est, aequum et salutáre, nos tibi semper, et ubíque grátias ágere: Dómine sancte, Pater omnípotens, aetérne Deus:

* Qui cum unigénito Fílio tuo, et Spíritu Sancto, unus es Deus, unus es Dóminus: non in uníus singularitáte persónae, sed in uníus Trinitáte substántiae. Quod enim de tua glória, reveláte te, crédimus, hoc de Fílio tuo, hoc de Spíritu Sancto, sine differéntia discretiónis sentímus. Ut in confessióne verae sempiternaeque Deitátis, et in persónis propríetas, et in esséntia únitas, et in majestáte adorétur aequálitas. Quam laudant Angeli atque Archángeli, Chérubim quoque ac Séraphim: qui non cessant clamáre quotídie, una voce dicéntes: (p. 51).

It is truly meet and just, right and availing unto salvation, that we should at all times and in all places give thanks unto Thee, O holy Lord, Father almighty, everlasting God;

* Who with Thine only-begotten Son and the Holy Ghost art one God, one Lord; not in the oneness of a single person, but in the Trinity of one substance. For that which we believe from Thy revelation concerning Thy glory, that same we believe of Thy Son, that same of the Holy Ghost, without difference or separation. So that in confessing the true and everlasting Godhead, we shall adore distinction in persons, oneness in being, and equality in majesty; which Angels and Archangels, the Cherubim too and the Seraphim do praise; day by day they cease not to cry out, saying, as with one voice: (p. 51).

Preface for Feasts of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

This Preface is said on feasts of the Blessed Virgin, except that of the Purification, and throughout their Octaves, even on other feasts which may fall therein, unless they have their own Preface; also at Votive Masses of the Blessed Virgin. According to the name of the feast is said: Et te in Annuntiatione, Visitatione, Assumptione, Nativitate, Præsentatione, or Conceptione immaculata. On the feast of the Seven Sorrows of the B.V. Mary is said: Et te in Transfixione; on that of Our Blessed Lady of Mount Carmel: Et te in Commemoratione; on that of the Most Holy Rosary and on all other feasts of the Blessed Virgin: Et te in Festivitate. At Votive Masses, on Saturday, is said: Et te in Veneratione.

It is truly meet and just . . . (as above).

* And on the . . . of the blessed Mary, ever a virgin, should praise and bless and proclaim Thee. For she conceived Thine only-begotten Son by the overshadowing of the Holy Ghost; and losing not the glory of her virginity, gave forth to the world the everlasting light, Jesus Christ our Lord. Through Whom the Angels praise Thy majesty, the Dominions worship it, and the Powers are in awe. The Heavens and the heavenly Hosts, and the blessed Seraphim join together in celebrating their joy. With these we pray Thee join our own voices also, while we say with lowly praise: (p. 51).

Preface for Feasts of the Apostles.

For feasts of Apostles and Evangelists.

It is truly meet and just, right and availing unto salvation, humbly to pray Thee, O Lord, the eternal shepherd, to abandon not Thy flock; but through Thy blessed Apostles to keep a continual watch over it; that it may be governed by those same rulers whom Thou didst set over it as shepherds and as Thy vicars.

*And therefore with the Angels and Archangels, the Thrones and Dominions, and the whole host of the heavenly army we sing the hymn of Thy glory, saying again and again: (p. 51).

Preface for Masses for the Dead.

It is truly meet and just, right and availing unto salvation, that we should at all times and in all places give thanks to Thee, O holy Lord, Father almighty, everlasting God: through Christ our Lord.

In Whom the hope of a blessed resurrection hath shone upon us:

For unto Thy faithful, O Lord, life is changed, not taken away: and the abode of this earthly sojourn being dissolved, an eternal dwelling is prepared in heaven.

2. The Canon or Rule of Consecration.

The Priest bows low, kisses the Altar, and silently—as throughout the Canon—asks God through Jesus Christ to accept our offerings. He makes the sign of the Cross three times over the host and chalice, to show that it is through the Redeemer that we obtain the blessing of the three persons of the Most Holy Trinity.

Wherefore, O most merciful Father, we humbly pray and beseech Thee, through Jesus Christ Thy Son, our Lord, that Thou wouldst vouchsafe to receive and bless these ✠ gifts, these ✠ offerings, this ✠ holy and unblemished sacrifice.

Te igitur, clementíssime Pater, per Jesum Christum Fílium tuum Dóminum nostrum, súpplices rogámus, ac pétimus, uti accépta hábeas, et benedícas, haec ✠ dona, haec ✠ múnera, haec ✠ sancta sacrifícia illibáta.

3. Reading of the Diptychs.†

The Priest interrupts the Canon and, with outstretched hands, prays for the Church Militant.

These in the first place we offer up to Thee for Thy holy Catholic Church, that it may please Thee to grant her peace, to protect, unite and govern her throughout the world, together with Thy servant N. our Pope, N. our Bishop (and N. our King), and all true believers and professors of the Catholic and Apostolic Faith.

In primis, quae tibi offérimus pro Ecclésia sancta tua cathólica: quam pacificáre, custodíre, adunáre, et régere dignéris toto orbe terrárum: una cum fámulo tuo Papa nostro N., et Antístite nostro N. (et Rege nostro N.), et ómnibus orthodóxis, atque cathólicae, et apostólicae fidei cultóribus.

† Formerly the Priest used to read from tablets or diptychs the names of those for whom Mass was said.

Meménto, Dómine, famulórum famularúmque tuárum N. et N. et ómnium circumstántium, quorum tibi fides cognita est, et nota devótio, pro quibus tibi offérimus: vel qui tibi ofiérunt hoc sacrifícium laudis, pro se, suísque ómnibus: pro redemptióne animárum suárum, pro spe salútis, et incolumitátis suae: tibíque reddunt vota sua aetérno Deo, vivo et vero.

Be mindful, O Lord, of Thy servants and handmaids N. and N. and of all here present, whose faith and devotion are known to Thee: for whom we offer, or who offer up to Thee this sacrifice of praise for themselves and theirs, for the redemption of their souls, for the hope of their safety and salvation, and who now pay their vows to Thee, the eternal, living and true God.

The Priest commemorates likewise the Church Triumphant.

4. Prayers in preparation for the Consecration.

The Priest spreads his hands over the chalice and host, as the High Priest formerly did over the victim sacrificed in expiation of the sins of the people. This is to show that Jesus substitutes Himself for us in taking on Himself the burden of our sins and washing them away with His blood, thus appeasing God and opening to us the gates of Heaven.

Hanc ígitur oblatiónem servitútis nostrae, sed et cunctae famíliae tuae, quaesumus, Dómine, ut placátus accípias: *diésque nostros * in tua pace dispónas, atque ab aetérna damnatióne nos éripi, et in electórum tuórum júbeas grege numerári.*† Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. Amen.

We therefore beseech Thee, O Lord, mercifully to accept this oblation of our servitude, as also of Thy whole family: and to dispose our days in Thy peace; and bid us to be delivered from eternal damnation, and to be numbered among the flock of Thy elect.† Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

† According to the Liber Pontificalis, the words in italics were added by St. Gregory about A.D. 600.

The Proper Hanc igitur for Easter and for Whitsunday is as follows :—

Hanc igitur for Easter and Whitsunday.

We therefore beseech Thee, O Lord, to be appeased and to accept this offering of our bounden duty, as also of Thy whole household, which we make unto Thee on behalf of these to whom Thou hast vouchsafed to bring to a new birth by water and the Holy Ghost, giving them remission of all their sins ; order our days * . . . (p. 61).

Hanc ígitur oblatiónem servitútis nostrae, sed et cunctae famíliae tuae, quam tibi offérimus pro his quoque, quos regeneráre dignátus es ex aqua, et Spíritu sancto, tríbuens eis remissiónem ómnium peccatórum, quaesumus, Dómine, ut placátus accípias : diésque nostros * . . . (p. 61).

The Priest makes the sign of the Cross over the host and wine, and prays that they may become the Body and Blood of Christ.

The Server rings the bell, and at Low Mass ascends the steps to raise the chasuble of the Priest and so facilitate his movements.

Which oblation do Thou, O God, vouchsafe in all things to bless ✠, approve ✠, ratify ✠, make worthy and acceptable : that it may become for us the Body ✠ and Blood ✠ of Thy most beloved Son our Lord Jesus Christ.

Quam oblatiónem tu, Deus, in ómnibus, quaesumus, bene ✠ díctam, ad ✠ scríptam, ra ✠ tam, rationábilem, acceptabilémque fácere dignéris : ut nobis Cor ✠ pus, et San ✠ guis fiat dilectíssimi Fílii tui Dómini nostri Jesu Christi.

5. The Transubstantiation and major Elevation.

The Priest has now reached the most solemn moment of the Mass. Obedient to our Lord's command, he re-enacts the Last Supper. " The sacrifice that is offered on the Altar," says the Council of Trent, " is the same sacrifice that was offered on Calvary : it is the same Priest, the same Victim." A great miracle now takes place. Although our Lord is wholly present under each of the consecrated species, because it is not possible that He should die again, the host, however, is only changed into the Body of Christ and the wine into His Blood. Thus the sacrifice of Calvary, where the Blood of Christ was separated from His Body, is represented on the Altar by an unbloody sacrifice, none the less striking.

Consecration of the Host.

Who the day before He suffered took bread into His holy and venerable hands, and with His eyes lifted up towards heaven,

Qui prídie quam paterétur, accépit panem in sanctas, ac venerábiles manus suas : et elevátis óculis in coelum ad te unto Thee, God, His almighty Father, giving thanks to Thee, blessed ✠, broke and gave to His disciples, saying: Take and eat ye all of this, FOR THIS IS MY BODY.

The Server rings the bell when the Priest genuflects, when he raises the host, and again when he genuflects. The consecrated species are thus shown to the congregation as a protest against the heretics who denied the Real Presence. Pius X. granted an indulgence of 7 years and 7 quarantines to all who, looking on them, said: "Dominus meus et Deus meus: My Lord and my God." To all such as do so daily he granted a plenary indulgence once a week provided they receive Holy Communion, subject to the usual conditions (S. C. Ind. July 12, 1906). Look on the host as it is raised, then bow down.

CONSECRATION OF THE WINE.

Símili modo postquam coenâtum est, accípiens et hunc praeclárum Cálicem in sanctas, ac venerábiles manus suas: item tibi grátias agens, bene ✠ díxit, dedítque discípulis suis, dicens: Accípite, et bíbite ex eo omnes. HIC EST ENIM CALIX SANGUINIS MEI, NOVI ET AETERNI TESTAMENTI: MYSTERIUM FIDEI: QUI PRO VOBIS ET PRO MULTIS EFFUNDETUR IN REMISSIONEM PECCATORUM.

Haec quotiescúmque fecéritis, in mei memóriam faciétis.

In like manner, after He had supped, taking also this excellent chalice into His holy and venerable hands, and giving thanks to Thee, He blessed ✠ and gave to His disciples, saying: Take and drink ye all of this, FOR THIS IS THE CHALICE OF MY BLOOD, OF THE NEW AND ETERNAL TESTAMENT: THE MYSTERY OF FAITH: WHICH SHALL BE SHED FOR YOU AND FOR MANY UNTO THE REMISSION OF SINS.

As often as ye shall do these things, ye shall do them in remembrance of Me.

The Server again rings the bell three times. Look on the Chalice, and then bow down and adore the Blood of Christ.

At Low Mass the Server comes down and kneels on the first step, on the right side.

6. Forms of Oblation of the Victim to God.

The Sacrifice of the Victim having been accomplished, the Priest proceeds to offer it up to God, calling to mind, as commanded by Christ, the principal mysteries of the life of our Saviour. With his hands stretched out he continues:—

Unde et mémores, Dómine, nos servi tui, sed et plebs tua

Wherefore, O Lord, we Thy servants, as also Thy holy people, calling to mind the blessed Passion of the same Christ Thy Son our Lord, and also His Resurrection from hell and His glorious Ascension into heaven, offer unto Thy most excellent Majesty, of Thy gifts and presents, a pure ✠ Host, a holy ✠ Host, a spotless ✠ Host, the holy ✠ Bread of eternal life, and the Chalice ✠ of everlasting salvation.

sancta, ejúsdem Christi Fílii tui Dómini nostri tam beátae Passiónis, nec non et ab inferis Resurrectiónis, sed et in coelos gloriósae Ascensiónis: offérimus praeclárae majestáti tuae, de tuis donis, ac datis, hóstiam ✠ puram, hóstiam ✠ sanctam, hóstiam ✠ immaculátam, Panem ✠ sanctum vitae aetérnae, et Cálicem ✠ salútis perpétuae.

The sacrifices of the Old Testament, which prefigured the Sacrifice of Calvary, proved acceptable to God. Much more so will the Sacrifice of the Altar be pleasing to Him.

Upon which vouchsafe to look with a propitious and serene countenance, and to accept them, as Thou wert graciously pleased to accept the gifts of Thy just servant Abel, and the sacrifice of our Patriarch Abraham, and that which Thy high priest Melchisedech offered to Thee, *a holy sacrifice, a spotless Host.

Supra quae propítio ac seréno vultu respícere dignéris, et accépta habére, sícuti accépta habére dignátus es múnera púeri tui justi Abel, et sacrifícium Patriárchae nostri Abrahae: et quod tibi óbtulit summus sacérdos tuus Melchísedech, *sanctum sacrificium, immaculátam hostiam.

The Priest bows low, calling to mind that the Victim sacrificed on the Altar in our churches is the Lamb "sacrificed" which is in heaven "upon the golden altar before the throne of God" (Apoc. viii. 3).

We most humbly beseech Thee, almighty God, command these things to be carried up by the hands of Thy holy Angel to Thine altar on high, in the sight of Thy divine majesty, that as many of us as, by participation at this altar, shall receive the most sacred Body ✠ and Blood ✠ of Thy Son may be filled with every heavenly blessing and grace. Through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.

Súpplices te rogámus, omnípotens Deus: jube haec perférri per manus sancti Angeli tui in sublíme altáre tuum, in conspéctu divínae majestátis tuae: ut quotquot, ex hac altáris participatióne sacrosánctum Fílii tui, Cor✠pus et Sán✠guinem sumpsérimus, omni benedictióne coeléstí et grátia repleámur. Per eúmdem Christum Dóminum nostrum. Amen.

* The words in italics were added by St. Leo in the fifth century.

7. The Reading of the Diptychs.

The Priest once more interrupts the Canon to pray for the Dead. "The souls in Purgatory are relieved during the Sacrifice offered up for their intention," says St. Jerome.

Meménto étiam, Dómine, famulórum, famularúmque tuárum N. et N. qui nos praecessérunt cum signo fídei et dórmiunt in somno pacis.

Ipsis, Dómine, et ómnibus in Christo quiescéntibus, locum refrigérii, lucis et pacis, ut indúlgeas, deprecámur. Per eúmdem Christum Dóminum nostrum. Amen.

Be mindful also, O Lord, of Thy servants and handmaids N. and N. who are gone before us with the sign of faith and sleep in the sleep of peace.

To these, O Lord, and to all that rest in Christ, grant, we beseech Thee, a place of refreshment, light and peace. Through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.

He then strikes his breast, and to the commemoration of the Church Suffering adds that of the Church Militant and Triumphant.

Nobis quoque peccatóribus fámulis tuis, de multitúdine miseratiónum tuárum sperántibus, partem áliquam, et societátem donáre dignéris, cum tuis sanctis Apóstolis et Martyribus: cum Joánne, Stéphano, Matthía, Bárnaba, Ignátio, Alexándro, Marcellíno, Petro, Felicitáte, Perpétua, Agatha, Lúcia, Agnéte, Caecília, Anastásia, et ómnibus Sanctis tuis: intra quorum nos consórtium, non aestimátor mériti, sed véniae, quaesumus, largítor admítte. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum.

And to us sinners, Thy servants, hoping in the multitude of Thy mercies, vouchsafe to grant some part and fellowship with Thy holy Apostles and Martyrs: with John, Stephen, Matthias, Barnabas, Ignatius, Alexander, Marcellinus, Peter, Felicitas, Perpetua, Agatha, Lucy, Agnes, Cecilia, Anastasia, and with all Thy Saints, into whose company, we beseech Thee, admit us, not considering our merit, but of Thine own free pardon. Through Christ our Lord.

Formerly the offerings to be used at the Agapae of the early Christians were now blessed. This explains the insertion of the crosses.

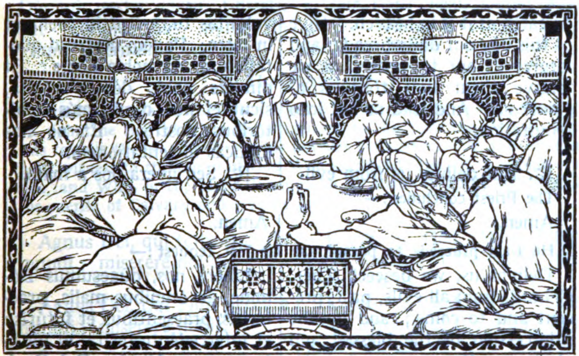
Per quem haec ómnia, Dómine, semper bona creas, sanctí ✠ ficas, viví ✠ ficas, bene ✠ dícis, et praestas nobis.

Through Whom, O Lord, Thou dost always create, sanctify ✠, quicken ✠, bless ✠, and give us these good things.

8. End of the Canon and the Minor Elevation or Rite of Oblation of the Victim to God.

The Priest finishes the Canon. He takes the Host and the Chalice and lifts them up to heaven. It is now, with the closing prayer of the Canon, that the Victim is offered up to God. "The lifting up of the victim as an offering to God," says Bossuet, "was formerly one of the ceremonies of the sacrifice. The Body and Blood of our Lord are now lifted up in the same spirit, these being really and truly our victim."

By ✠ Him, and with ✠ Him, and in ✠ Him, is to Thee, God the Father ✠ almighty, in the unity of the Holy ✠ Ghost, all honour and glory. For ever and ever.	Per ip ✠ sum et cum ip ✠ so, et in ip ✠ so, est tibi Deo Patri ✠ omnipoténti, in unitáte Spíritus ✠ Sancti, omnis honor, et glória. Per ómnia saecula saeculórum.



The Server may ring the bell when this elevation takes place, and the Priest raises his voice when pronouncing the concluding words, so that all present may ratify the prayers of the Canon by silently answering :—

℟. Amen.	℟. Amen.

All honour and glory should be given to God the Father almighty "by Christ, with Christ and in Christ."

Accordingly, when, greatly daring in our piety (audemus dicere), we address ourselves with the Priest to God as to a Father (Pater noster), we remind Him, and ourselves as well, that if we are children of God it is because of our intimate union with Jesus, the Son of the Father. As St. Paul says, we are a living body of which Christ is the head and we are the members. This union, this wedding of Jesus to our souls, began in baptism ; we have a symbol of it in every Mass when at the Offertory the Priest mixes a drop of water (our humanity) with the wine in the Chalice (the divinity of Christ) ; and it is actually consummated during Mass, according to Bossuet, in the Holy Communion.

The mediation exercised between us and the Father by Christ is a result of this twofold union which unites God made Man both to His Father and to us. "Through Christ Man," says St. Augustine, "we go to Christ God" ; as Jesus Himself declared, "I am the way" and "I am the gate." That is why all liturgical prayers are addressed to God "through Jesus Christ our Lord." In imitation of this official prayer of the Church, let us join our prayer to that of Jesus, and if we wish it to be answered let us offer to God the merits of His well-beloved Son in Whom He is well pleased. That is what the Master means when He says "Ask the Father in My name." With Jesus, and in His name, therefore, let us recite the Pater noster, and having made the offering of the Body and Blood of Christ, let us receive them in Holy Communion : thus the prayer spoken in such perfect union with Jesus will draw down on us the favours of the Father.

"Jesus took bread and broke and gave to His disciples." (Matt. xxvi. 26.)

FIFTH PART.

THE COMMUNION, from the Lord's Prayer to the Ablutions, or the Participation of Love in the Sacrifice by receiving Christ immolated.

ACTS OF LOVE AND DESIRE.

(Integral portion of the Sacrifice.)

1. The Lord's Prayer and Libera nos.

The Sacrifice is offered up to God, Who is appeased and is about to give us the kiss of peace in the Holy Communion. The Priest prepares himself for it by reciting the Pater noster, which is a sacramental. He makes us ask God for our daily bread and for charitable dispositions towards Him and our neighbour, without which we cannot receive Jesus.

Oremus.	Let us pray.
Praecéptis salutáribus móniti, et divína institutióne formáti, audémus dícere	Instructed by the saving precepts of the Redeemer, and following His divine instructions, we make bold to say:

The Priest, stretching out his hands, fixes his eyes on the Host.

Pater noster, qui es in coelis: Sanctificétur nomen tuum: Advéniat regnum tuum: Fiat	Our Father, Who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name; Thy kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation.

voluntas tua, sicut in coelo, et in terra. Panem nostrum quotidiánum da nobis hódie: Et dimítte nobis débita nostra, sicut et nos dimíttimús debitóribus nostris. Et ne nos indúcas in tentatiónem.

℟. But deliver us from evil. | ℟. Sed líbera nos a malo.

The Priest concludes:—

Amen. | Amen.

He then proceeds to paraphrase his last request:—

Deliver us, we beseech Thee, O Lord, from all evils, past, present and to come; and by the intercession of the blessed and glorious Mary ever virgin, Mother of God, together with Thy blessed Apostles Peter and Paul, and Andrew, and all the Saints, mercifully grant peace in our days: that through the bounteous help of Thy mercy we may be always free from sin and secure from all disturbance. Through the same Jesus Christ Thy Son our Lord, Who liveth and reigneth with Thee in the unity of the Holy Ghost, one God, for ever and ever.

Líbera nos, quaesumus Dómine, ab ómnibus malis, praetéritis, praeséntibus et futúris: et intercedénte beáta, et gloriósa semper Vírgine Dei Genitríce María, cum beátis Apóstolis tuis Petro et Paulo, atque Andréa, et ómnibus Sanctis, da propítius pacem in diébus nostris: ut ope misericórdiae tuae adjúti, et a peccáto simus semper líberi, et ab omni perturbatióne secúri. Per eúmdem Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum Fílium tuum. Qui tecum vivit et regnat in unitáte Spíritus sancti Deus. Per ómnia saecula saeculórum.

The Priest raises his voice when saying the last words, so that we may associate ourselves with this prayer by answering:—

℟. Amen. | ℟. Amen.

2. The Fraction of the Host.

Jesus, through His blood, brings peace to all; and the Priest with a particle of the Host, which he has broken into three pieces, makes the sign of the Cross three times over the Chalice, saying:—

℣. The peace ✠ of the Lord be ✠ always ✠ with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

℟. Pax ✠ Dómini sit ✠ semper ✠ vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

The Priest drops the particle of the Host into the Chalice, and this was the mixture which was formerly received. So he proceeds to say:—

May this mixture and consecration of the Body and Blood

Haec commíxtio, et consecrátio Córporis et Sánguinis

Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, fiat accipiéntibus nobis in vitam aetérnam. Amen.

of our Lord Jesus Christ avail us that receive it unto life everlasting. Amen.

3. The Agnus Dei.

Striking his breast, the Priest repeats three times the words spoken by St. John the Baptist when he proclaimed to the Jews the Messiah Who was to save them. The Precursor pursues his mission. At this moment he is witness to the Lamb of God Who sacrificed Himself to expiate our sins, and Who, in the Holy Communion, is about to apply to our souls the merits of Calvary and give us peace.

Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccáta mundi: miserére nobis.

Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccáta mundi: miserére nobis.

Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccáta mundi: dona nobis pacem.

Lamb of God, Who takest away the sins of the world, have mercy on us.

Lamb of God, Who takest away the sins of the world, have mercy on us.

Lamb of God, Who takest away the sins of the world, grant us peace.

4. Prayers in preparation for the Communion.

The Priest says three prayers, in which we are reminded of the effects that the Communion is to produce in our souls: peace, sanctification, and grace. At this point we place our reliance on the merits and " on the faith of the Church." The Spouse of Christ has herself prepared us for this solemn act, and our union with Jesus will be fruitful.

The first of these prayers is not said at Masses for the Dead.

Dómine Jesu Christe, qui dixísti Apóstolis tuis: Pacem relínquo vobis, pacem meam do vobis; ne respícias peccáta mea, sed fidem Ecclésiae tuae: eámque secúndum voluntátem tuam pacificáre et coadunáre dignéris: Qui vivis et regnas Deus per ómnia saecula saeculórum. Amen.

Lord Jesus Christ, Who saidst to Thy Apostles, Peace I leave with you, My peace I give unto you; look not upon my sins, but upon the faith of Thy Church; and vouchsafe to grant her peace and unity according to Thy will: Who livest and reignest God for ever and ever. Amen.

At High Mass the Priest here kisses the Altar and gives the kiss of peace, saying: Pax tecum. The kiss of peace is not given at Masses for the Dead.

Dómine Jesu Christe, Fili Dei vivi, qui ex voluntáte Patris, cooperánte Spíritu sancto, per mortem tuam mundum

Lord Jesus Christ, Son of the living God, Who according to the will of the Father, through the co-operation of the Holy Ghost, hast by Thy death given life to the world: deliver me by this Thy most holy Body and Blood from all my iniquities and from all evils; and make me always adhere to Thy commandments and never suffer me to be separated from Thee: Who with the same God the Father and the Holy Ghost livest and reignest God for ever and ever. Amen.

vivificásti: líbera me per hoc sacrosánctum Corpus et Sánguinem tuum ab ómnibus iniquitátibus meis, et univérsis malis: et fac me tuis semper inhaerére mandátis, et a te nunquam separári permíttas: Qui cum eódem Deo Patre et Spíritu sancto vivis et regnas Deus in saecula saeculórum. Amen.

Let not the partaking of Thy body, O Lord Jesus Christ, which I, unworthy, presume to receive, turn to my judgment and condemnation: but through Thy goodness may it avail me for a safeguard and a remedy of body and soul: Who livest and reignest with God the Father in the unity of the Holy Ghost, God, for ever and ever. Amen.

Percéptio Corpóris tui, Dómine Jesu Christe, quod ego indígnus súmere praesumo, non mihi provéniat in judícium et condemnatiónem: sed pro tua pietáte prosit mihi ad tutaméntum mentis et córporis, et ad medélam percipiéndam: Qui vivis et regnas cum Deo Patre in unitáte Spíritus sancti Deus, per ómnia saecula saeculórum. Amen.

5. Communion of the Body and Blood of our Lord.

The Priest genuflects, takes the Host and says:—

I will take the bread of heaven, and call upon the name of the Lord.

Panem coeléstem accípiam, et nomen Dómini invocábo.

He then repeats the words of the Centurion whose faith and humility obtained for him the healing of his servant. The Server rings the bell three times.

Lord, I am not worthy that Thou shouldst enter under my roof; say but the word and my soul shall be healed.

Dómine, non sum dignus, ut intres sub tectum meum: sed tantum dic verbo et sanábitur ánima mea.

The Priest receives the Body of Jesus Christ, saying:—

May the Body of our Lord Jesus Christ preserve my soul to life everlasting. Amen.

Corpus Dómini nostri Jesu Christi custódiat ánimam meam in vitam aetérnam. Amen.

He then recites the forms of thanksgiving taken from the Psalms which Jesus sang at the Last Supper.

Quid retríbuam Dómino pro ómnibus quae retríbuit mihi? Cálicem salutáris accípiam, et nomen Dómini invocábo.

Ps. cxv. 3, 4. What shall I render to the Lord for all the things that He hath rendered to me? I will take the chalice of salvation, and I will call upon the name of the Lord.

Laudans invocábo Dóminum, et ab inimícis meis salvus ero.

Ps. xvii. 4. Praising, I will call upon the Lord, and I shall be saved from my enemies.

The Priest receives the Precious Blood of our Lord, saying:—

Sanguis Dómini nostri Jesu Christi custódiat ánimam meam in vitam aetérnam. Amen.

May the Blood of our Lord Jesus Christ preserve my soul to life everlasting. Amen.

If any of the faithful are communicating, the Deacon at High Mass, otherwise the Server, and consequently the whole congregation which he represents, says the Confiteor.

℟. Confíteor Deo omnipoténti, beátae Maríae semper Vírgini, beáto Michaéli Archángelo, beáto Joánni Baptístae, sanctis Apóstolis Petro et Paulo, ómnibus Sanctis et tibi Pater, quia peccávi nimis cogitátione, verbo, et ópere, mea culpa, mea culpa, mea máxima culpa. Ideo precor beátam Maríam semper Vírginem, beátum Michaélem Archángelum, beátum Joánnem Baptístam, sanctos Apóstolos Petrum et Paulum, omnes Sanctos, et te Pater, oráre pro me ad Dóminum Deum nostrum.

℟. I confess to Almighty God, to blessed Mary ever Virgin, to blessed Michael the Archangel, to blessed John the Baptist, to the holy Apostles Peter and Paul, to all the Saints, and to you, Father, that I have sinned exceedingly, in thought, word, and deed, through my fault, through my fault, through my most grievous fault. Therefore I beseech the blessed Mary ever Virgin, blessed Michael the Archangel, blessed John the Baptist, the holy Apostles Peter and Paul, all the Saints, and you, Father, to pray to the Lord our God for me.

The Priest gives the Absolution. This is a sacramental which wipes out venial sins.

℣. Misereátur vestri omnípotens Deus, et dimíssis peccátis vestris, perdúcat vos ad vitam aetérnam.
℟. Amen.

℣. May almighty God have mercy upon you, forgive you your sins, and bring you to life everlasting.
℟. Amen.

All present join with the Priest in making the sign of the Cross.

℣. May the almighty and merciful Lord grant you pardon, ✠ absolution, and remission of your sins.

℟. Amen.

℣. Indulgéntiam, ✠ absolutiónem, et remissiónem peccatórum vestrórum, tribuat vobis omnípotens et miséricors Dóminus.

℟. Amen.

The Priest, lifting up the Sacred Host, says:—

Behold the Lamb of God, behold Him Who taketh away the sins of the world.

Ecce Agnus Dei: ecce qui tollit peccáta mundi.

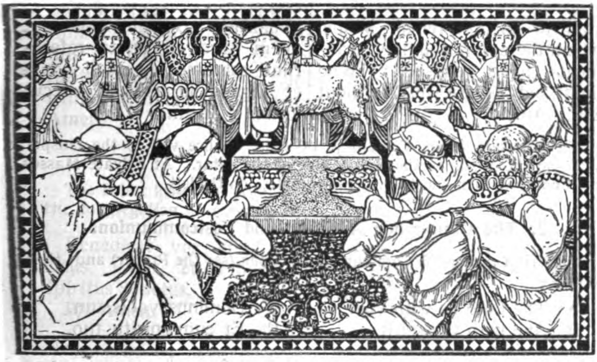
The Priest continues, striking the breast at the same time:—

Lord, I am not worthy that Thou shouldst enter under my roof: say but the word and my soul shall be healed.

Dómine, non sum dignus ut intres sub tectum meum: sed tantum dic verbo et sanábitur ánima mea.

Administering Holy Communion, the Priest says:—

May the Body of our Lord Jesus Christ preserve thy soul to life everlasting. Amen.



Corpus Dómini nostri Jesu Christi custódiat ánimam tuam in vitam aetérnam. Amen.

In imitation of the early Christians let us say Amen from the bottom of our hearts.

It must not be forgotten that even Spiritual Communion is an integral part of the Holy Sacrifice. So, if we are not communicating Sacramentally, let us at least express to our Lord our desire to do so.

Act of Spiritual Communion.

O most loving Saviour, great would be my happiness could I be counted of the number of those faithful Christians to whom it is given this day to draw nigh to Thy sacred table. How it would profit me could I now actually possess Thee in my heart, render to Thee there the homage that is Thy due, lay before Thee all the needs of my soul, and participate in the abundance of those graces which Thou bestowest on all who receive Thee worthily! Deign to accept, O Lord, the ardent desire that inspires my heart to be united to Thee. Purify my soul with one glance from Thine eyes and suffer me to partake of the fruits which a holy Communion produces in the hearts of the faithful who assist at this Sacrifice. Enlarge my faith, strengthen my hope, and fill my heart with the fire of Thy love, that it may be wholly Thine and at one with Thee and with all the members of Thy mystic body. By Thee, with Thee, in Thee and with Thy holy Church I give honour and glory to the Most Holy Trinity.

THANKSGIVING, from the Communion to the end, or Love's thanks to God through Jesus.

ACTS OF GRATITUDE.

(Complementary portion of the Sacrifice.)

The Church prepared us for the Communion withthe Priest. With him now let us make our Act of Thanksgiving.

1. Prayers during the Ablutions.

While the Minister or Server pours wine into the Chalice the Priest says :—

Quod ore súmpsimus, Dómine, pura mente capiámus : et de múnere temporáli fiat nobis remédium sempitérnum.	Grant, O Lord, that what we have taken with our mouth we may receive with a pure mind : and that from a temporal gift it may become for us an eternal remedy.

The Priest goes to the Epistle side of the Altar, and while the Minister or Server pours wine and water into the chalice to cleanse his fingers he says :—

Corpus tuum, Dómine, quod sumpsi, et Sanguis quem potávi, adhaereat viscéribus meis : et praesta, ut in me non	May Thy Body, O Lord, which I have received, and Thy Blood which I have drunk, cleave to my bowels : and grant that no stain of sin may remain in me, whom these pure and holy sacraments have refreshed: Who livest and reignest world without end. Amen.

remáneat scélerum mácula, quem pura et sancta refecérunt sacraménta: Qui vivis et regnas in saecula saeculórum. Amen.

The Ministers, or the Choir boy, take the Chalice veil to the Gospel side and the Missal to the Epistle side of the Altar. At Private Masses the Choir boy then kneels on the lowest step, on the left.

2. The Communion Antiphon and Postcommunion.

The Priest recites the Communion Antiphon (see the Proper) and then says:—

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

He then recites the Postcommunion or Postcommunions (see the Proper).

℟. Amen.

℟. Amen.

3. The Ite Missa est and Blessing.

The Priest then goes to the middle of the Altar, kisses it, and says:—

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

Then all, mindful of the great blessing God has just conferred on them, cry out their thanks. "There is nothing shorter and at the same time grander than this act of thanksgiving," says St. Augustine.

℣. Go, the Mass is ended.
℟. Thanks be to God.

℣. Ite Missa est.
℟. Deo grátias.

Or, at Low Mass, when there is no Gloria:—

℣. Let us bless the Lord.
℟. Thanks be to God.

℣. Benedicámus Dómino.
℟. Deo grátias.

And at Masses for the Dead —

℣. May they rest in peace.
℟. Amen.

℣. Requiéscant in pace.
℟. Amen.

The Priest bows down and dwells briefly on the object for which he has offered up the Holy Sacrifice:—

May the performance of my homage be pleasing to Thee, O holy Trinity; and grant that the sacrifice which I, unworthy, have offered up in the sight of Thy Majesty may be acceptable to Thee, and through Thy mercy be a propitiation for me and for all those for whom I have offered it. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Pláceat tibi, sancta Trínitas obséquium servitútis meae: et praesta: ut sacrifícium, quod óculis tuae Majestátis indígnus

The Priest kisses the Altar and, except at Masses for the Dead, gives the congregation his blessing :—

Benedícat vos omnípotens Deus, Pater et Fílius ✠, et Spíritus Sanctus.
℟. Amen.

May almighty God bless you: the Father, the Son ✠, and the Holy Ghost.
℟. Amen.

4. The Last Gospel: John i. 1-14.

The Priest goes to the Gospel side of the Altar and reads the beginning of the Gospel according to St. John. This Gospel reminds us that Jesus Christ is God, that the Word was made flesh, and that all such as receive Him with faith and love become with Him sons of God. That is what takes place in the Holy Communion.—The Server stands up and signs himself, like the Priest, on the forehead, mouth and breast.

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.
✠ ℣. Inítium sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.
℟. Glória tibi, Dómine.

In princípio erat Verbum, et Verbum erat apud Deum, et Deus erat Verbum. Hoc erat in princípio apud Deum. Omnia per ipsum facta sunt: et sine ipso factum est nihil, quod factum est: in ipso vita erat, et vita erat lux hóminum: et lux in ténebris lucet, et ténebrae eam non comprehendérunt.

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.
✠ ℣. The beginning of the holy Gospel according to St. John.
℟. Glory be to Thee, O Lord.

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by Him, and without Him was made nothing that was made. In Him was life, and the life was the light of men: and the light shineth in darkness, and the darkness did not comprehend it.

There was a man sent from God, whose name was John. This man came for a witness to give testimony of the light, that all men might believe through him. He was not the light, but was to give testimony of the light.

That was the true light, which enlighteneth every man that cometh into this world. He was in the world, and the world was made by Him, and the world knew Him not. He came unto His own, and His own received Him not. But as many as received Him, He gave them power to be made the sons of God; to them that believe in His name: who are born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God. AND THE WORD WAS MADE FLESH, and dwelt among us: and we saw His glory, as it were the glory of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth.

℟. Thanks be to God.

Erat lux vera, quae illúminat omnem hóminem veniéntem in hunc mundum. In mundo erat, et mundus per ipsum factus est, et mundus eum non cognóvit. In própria venit, et sui eum non recepérunt. Quotquot autem recepérunt eum, dedit eis potestátem fílios Dei fíeri, his, qui credunt in nómine ejus: qui non ex sanguínibus, neque ex voluntáte carnis, neque ex voluntáte viri, sed ex Deo nati sunt. ET VERBUM CARO FACTUM EST, et habitávit in nobis: et vídimus glóriam ejus, glóriam quasi Unigéniti a Patre, plenum grátiae et veritátis.

Let us pray.

O God, Who art the source of all holy wishes, righteous counsels and just actions, grant to Thy servants that peace which the world cannot give, so that our hearts being subject to Thy commandments and freed from the fear of our enemies, our days may be tranquil under Thy protection. Through our Lord Jesus Christ.

℟. Amen.

6. Prayers at the Foot of the Altar.

At Private Masses the Priest kneels on one of the Altar steps, the Server kneeling on the floor or on the first step. Together they say the following prayers prescribed by Pope Leo XIII. (300 days' indulgence).—Are exempt from this rule Private Masses of a solemn character at which there is singing and the organ is played, such as Masses for First Communion, Confirmation, or for the celebration of Marriage (Decree of June 20, 1913).

℟. Ave María . . .

℣. Sancta María . . . (ter).

℟. Hail Mary . . .

℣. Holy Mary . . . (three times).

After which is said:—

Salve, Regína, Mater misericórdiae! Vita, dulcédo et spes nostra, salve!

℟. Ad te clamámus, éxules fílii Evae.

℣. Ad te suspirámus geméntes et flentes in hac lacrymárum valle.

Hail, holy Queen, Mother of mercy! Hail, our life, our sweetness, and our hope.

℟. To thee do we cry, poor banished children of Eve.

℣. To thee do we send up our sighs, mourning and weeping in this vale of tears.

℟. Turn then, most gracious advocate, thine eyes of mercy towards us.

℣. And after this our exile, show unto us the blessed fruit of thy womb, Jesus.

℟. O clement, O loving, O sweet Virgin Mary!

℣. Pray for us, O holy Mother of God.

℟. That we may be made worthy of the promises of Christ.

Let us pray.

O God, our refuge and our strength, look down in mercy on Thy people who cry to Thee; and by the intercession of the glorious and immaculate Virgin Mary mother of God, of St. Joseph her spouse, of Thy blessed Apostles Peter and Paul, and of all the Saints, in mercy and goodness hear the prayers which we pour forth for the conversion of sinners, and for the liberty and exaltation of our holy Mother the Church. Through the same Christ our Lord.

℟. Amen.

Holy Michael Archangel, defend us in the day of battle; be our safeguard against the wickedness and snares of the devil.—May God rebuke him, we humbly pray: and do thou, Prince of the heavenly host, by the power of God thrust down to hell Satan and all wicked spirits, who wander through the world for the ruin of souls.

℟. Amen.

℣. Et Jesum, benedíctum fructum ventris tui, nobis, post hoc exílium, osténde.

℟. O clemens, o pia! o dulcis Vírgo María!

℣. Ora pro nobis, sancta Dei Génitrix.

℟. Ut digni efficiámur promissiónibus Christi.

Orémus.

℟. Amen.

The following invocation, thrice repeated, has been added at the request of Pope Pius X.:—

℣. Most Sacred Heart of Jesus,

℟. Have mercy upon us.

℣. Cor Jesu sacratíssimum,

℟. Miserére nobis.

In Ireland, the Psalm De Profundis (p. 11) is said for the souls of the victims of religious persecution.

If any Communicants present themselves here at the Altar rails, the Priest administers Holy Communion according to the rubrics on p. 31.

7. The Song of the Three Children.

An indulgence of one year is attached to the recitation of this canticle with its versicles and prayers, and of the two Prayers of St. Thomas Aquinas (p. 84) and St. Bonaventure (p. 85).—Decree of Leo XIII., Dec. 20, 1884.

The Priest, returning to the Sacristy, recites the Canticle of Daniel. Like the three companions of this holy Prophet, Ananias, Azarias and Misael, who were cast into a fiery furnace on their refusal to adore the golden statue set up by King Nabuchodonosor, we are the playthings of a wicked world and of our passions, which threaten to consume us with their burning flames. But, like the Angel of the Lord who " made the midst of the furnace like the blowing of a wind bringing dew," the Holy Eucharist will quench the heat of our passions. Let us therefore pour forth the Canticle of the Three Children in the midst of the flames.

The Antiphon is not duplicated, except on Double Feasts.

Form of Thanksgiving for Private Use.

The honour we owe to God and the interest we necessarily take in our own souls require that we should, for the edification moreover of others, prolong our thanksgiving by private prayer and meditation for so long as the sacred Host remains within us.

Jesus Christ has made His presence in the Eucharist subject to the holy species preserving their integrity within us; and so long as they continue to do so, writes Suarez, Christ acts on the soul through the operation peculiar to sacramental grace, or ex opere operato, to use the theological expression. We must, therefore, continue to co-operate with it by acts of faith and love if we are not to lose such precious gifts; and the more fervent those acts, the more plentiful will be the fruits of the Holy Sacrifice produced in our hearts by Holy Communion.

The best rule to follow is to rely on the intervention of the Holy Ghost, Who, as St. Paul says, "helpeth our infirmity and asketh for us with unspeakable groanings." *

"When you pray, say: Father," † Jesus enjoined on His disciples. It is the cry uttered from all eternity by the Son calling on His Father, and He repeats it now with us in our hearts. "You have received the spirit of adoption of sons, whereby we cry: Abba (Father)." ‡ Overflowing from the Word into the blessed Humanity of Christ and into the Church, the Holy Spirit ascends again in floods of love unto the Father. May our prayer, then, be wholly absorbed in the service of infinite adoration and of thanksgiving which Jesus unceasingly renders to God, for it is "by Him we have access both in one Spirit to the Father." §

"All our glorying is in Christ," says the Council of Trent: "in Whom we live; in Whom we merit; in Whom we satisfy; bringing forth fruits worthy of penance, which from Him have their efficacy; by Him are offered to the Father; and through Him are accepted by the Father." ‖

And seeing that the Church is the Spouse who unites her prayer most perfectly to that of Christ, let us read some of the forms of prayer belonging to her official worship which have all been composed under the direction of the Holy Ghost. The reading or recitation of these prayers, done with measured piety and attention, will build up our faith and fill our hearts with a holy love.

Jesus reposes in us now in the form of a Host, a victim sacrificed on the altar of our hearts, to Whom we are closely united. Let us, therefore, go over again certain passages in the Holy Mass, which is the supreme Eucharistic Sacrifice or Sacrifice of thanksgiving, and offer up to God that Victim which is ours. There is in this Mass of thanksgiving

* Rom. viii. 26.
† Luke xi. 2.

§ Eph. ii. 18.
‖ Fourteenth Session, Chap. VIII.

something that expresses more definitely that it is actually we who offer ourselves up with Christ, for at this moment more than at any other time are we one with Him.

The following prayers, for instance, might be repeated: the Gloria in excelsis (p. 39); the Credo (p. 42), as was the custom in times gone by after the Communion in Spain and Gaul; the prayers of the Offertory—"Receive, O holy Father, almighty and eternal God, this spotless host" (Jesus and ourselves) (p. 45), and especially the Preface: "It is truly meet and just . . . that . . . we give praise to Thee" (p. 51); the Prayers of the Canon—"Wherefore, O Lord, we . . . offer unto Thy most excellent Majesty . . . a pure victim" (p. 63), with the Final Doxology: "By Him, and with Him, and in Him, is to Thee, God the Father almighty, in the unity of the Holy Ghost, all honour and glory" (p. 66); the Pater noster (p. 67); the prayers during the Ablutions (p. 73), etc.

The Epistle, Gospel and Collects of the day may also be gone over again with much profit, for they are in the nature of a programme of the operations of God in our hearts. The action of Holy Communion, indeed, varies in accordance with the spirit of the feast; and as the preparation for the different Masses varies, so should also the service of thanksgiving.

Some further prayers are here given as recommended by the Church for use by her Priests after the celebration of Mass, to which have been added some hymns and indulgenced prayers.

Prayer of St. Thomas Aquinas.

(Thirteenth Century.)

I give Thee thanks, O holy Lord, Father almighty, eternal God, Who hast vouchsafed, not for any merits of mine, but solely out of the condescension of Thy mercy, to satisfy me a sinner, thine unworthy servant, with the precious Body and Blood of Thy Son our Lord Jesus Christ. I pray that this holy Communion be not to me a condemnation unto punishment, but a saving plea unto forgiveness. May it be unto me the armour of faith and the shield of good will. May it be the emptying out of my vices, the extinction of all concupiscence and lust, the increase of charity and patience, of humility and obedience, and of all virtues; a strong defence against the snares	Grátias tibi ago, Dómine sancte, Pater omnípotens, aetérne Deus, qui me peccatórem, indígnum fámulum tuum, nullis meis méritis, sed sola dignatióne misericórdiae tuae satiáre dignátus es pretióso Córpore et Sánguine Fílii tui Dómini nostri Jesu Christi. Et precor, ut haec sancta Commúnio non sit mihi reátus ad poenam, sed intercéssio salutáris ad véniam. Sit mihi armatúra fídei, et scutum bonae voluntátis. Sit vitiórum meórum evacuátio, concupiscéntiae et libídinis exterminátio, caritátis et patiéntiae, humilitátis et obediéntiae, omniúmque virtútum augmentátio: contra insídias inimicórum ómnium, tam visi-bílium, quam invisibílium firma defénsio; mótuum meórum, tam carnálium, quam spirituálium perfécta quietátio; in te uno ac vero Deo firma adhaesio; atque finis mei felix consummátio. Et precor te, ut ad illud ineffábile convívium me peccatórem perdúcere dignéris, ubi tu cum Fílio tuo et Spíritu sancto, Sanctis tuis es lux vera, satíetas plena, gáudium sempitérnum, jucúnditas consummáta et felícitas perfécta. of all enemies, visible and invisible; the perfect quieting of all my evil impulses, both fleshly and ghostly; a firm cleaving unto Thee, the one true God; and an earnest of a happy consummation. And I beseech Thee that Thou wouldst vouchsafe to bring me a sinner to that ineffable banquet, where Thou, with Thy Son and the Holy Ghost, art to Thy saints true light, fullness of content, eternal joy, gladness without alloy and perfect bliss. Through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.

Prayer of St. Bonaventure.

(Thirteenth Century.)

Pierce, O most sweet Lord Jesus, my inmost soul with the most joyous and healthful wound of Thy love, with true, serene, and most holy apostolic charity, that my soul may ever languish and melt with love and longing for Thee, that it may yearn for Thee and faint for Thy courts, and long to be dissolved and to be with Thee. Grant that my soul may hunger after Thee, the bread of Angels, the refreshment of holy souls, our daily and supersubstantial bread, having all sweetness and savour and every delight of taste; let my heart ever hunger after and feed upon Thee, Whom the Angels desire to look upon, and may my inmost soul be filled with the sweetness of Thy savour; may it ever thirst after Thee, the fountain of life, the fountain of wisdom and knowledge, the fountain of eternal light, the torrent of pleasure, the richness of the house of God; may it ever compass Thee, seek Thee, find Thee, run to Thee, attain to Thee, meditate upon Thee, speak of Thee, and do all things to the praise and glory of Thy name, with humility and discretion, with love and delight, with ease and affection, and with perseverance unto the end; and may Thou alone be ever my hope, my entire assurance, my riches, my delight, my pleasure, my joy, my rest and tranquility, my peace, my sweetness, my fragrance, my sweet savour, my food, my refreshment, my refuge, my help, my wisdom, my portion, my possession and my treasure, in Whom may my mind and my heart be ever fixed and firm and rooted immovably. Amen.

tem aetérni lúminis, torréntem voluptátis, ubertátem domus Dei: te semper ámbiat, te quaerat, te invéniat, ad te tendat, ad te pervéniat, te meditétur, te loquátur, et ómnia operétur in laudem et glóriam nóminis tui, cum humilitáte et discretióne, cum dilectióne et delectatióne, cum facilitáte et afféctu, cum perseverántia usque in finem: et tu sis solus semper spes mea, tota fidúcia mea, divítiae meae, delectátio mea, jucúnditas mea, gáudium meum, quies et tranquíllitas mea, pax mea, suávitas mea, odor meus, dulcédo mea, cibus meus, reféctio mea, refúgium meum, auxílium meum, sapiéntia mea, pórtio mea, posséssio mea, thesáurus meus, in quo fixa et firma et immobíliter semper sit radicáta mens mea, et cor meum. Amen.

Prayer of St. Augustine.

(Made public by order of Pope Urban VII.)

Before Thy eyes, O Lord, we bring our offences, and we compare them with the stripes we have received.

If we consider the evil we have wrought, what we suffer is little, what we deserve is great.

What we have committed is very grave, what we have suffered is very slight.

We feel the punishment of sin, yet withdraw not from the obstinacy of sinning.

Under Thy lash our inconstancy is visited, but our sinfulness is not changed.

Ante óculos tuos, Dómine, culpas nostras férimus et plagas quas accépimus, conférimus.

Si pensémus malum quod fécimus, minus est quod pátimur, majus est quod merémur.

Grávius est quod commísimus, lévius est quod tolerámus.

Peccáti poenam sentímus, et peccándi pertináciam non vitámus.

In flagéllis tuis infírmitas nostra téritur, et iníquitas non mutátur.

Mens aegra torquétur, et cervix non fléctitur.

Vita in dolóre suspírat et in ópere non se eméndat.

Si exspéctas, non corrígimur: si víndicas, non durámus.

Confitémur in correctióne, quod égimus: oblivíscimur post visitatiónem quod flévimus.

Si exténderis manum, faciénda promíttimus; si suspénderis gládium, promíssa non sólvimus.

Si férias, clamámus ut parcas: si pepérceris, íterum provocámus ut férias.

Habes, Dómine, confiténtes reos: nóvimus quod nisi dimíttas, recte nos périmas.

Praesta Pater omnípotens sine mérito quod rogámus, qui fecísti ex níhilo, qui te rogárent. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. Amen.

℣. Dómine, non secúndum peccáta nostra fácias nobis.

℟. Neque secúndum iniquitátes nostras retríbuas nobis.

Orémus.

Deus, qui culpa offénderis et poeniténtia placáris: preces pópuli tui supplicántis propítius réspice: et flagélla tuae iracúndiae, quae pro peccátis nostris merémur, avérte. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum.

℟. Amen.

Our suffering soul is tormented, but our neck is not bent.

Our life groans under sorrow, yet mends not in deed.

If Thou spare us we correct not our ways: if Thou punish we cannot endure it.

In time of correction we confess our wrong-doing: after Thy visitation we forget that we have wept.

If Thou stretchest forth Thy hand we promise amendment; if Thou withholdest the sword we keep not our promise.

If Thou strikest we cry out for mercy: if Thou sparest we again provoke Thee to strike.

Here we are before Thee, O Lord, shameless criminals: we know that unless Thou pardon we shall deservedly perish.

Grant then, O almighty Father, without our deserving it, the pardon we ask for; Thou Who madest out of nothing those who ask Thee. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

℣. Deal not with us, O Lord, according to our sins.

℟. Neither requite us according to our iniquities.

Let us pray.

O God, Who by sin art offended and by penance pacified, mercifully regard the prayers of Thy suppliant people, and turn away the scourges of Thy wrath, which we deserve for our sins. Through Christ our Lord.

℟. Amen.

The Te Deum (see Index) and the Adoro te (see Index): 100 days' indulgence.—Leo XIII, 1884.

An indulgence of 100 days may be gained if the Tantum ergo (see Index), with versicle and prayer, is recited after Communion.

the month, a plenary indulgence on the usual conditions on any day at the worshipper's option. (Pius IX., 1854.)

Obsecro Te.

Priests who say this prayer in thanksgiving after Mass gain an indulgence of three years applicable to the souls in Purgatory (Pius IX., 1846). He who says it, if possible kneeling, may obtain the pardon of any faults or mistakes of which he may have been guilty as the result of human railty during the celebration of Mass (Pius X., 1912).

Obsécro te, dulcíssime Dómine Jesu Christe, ut Pássio tua sit mihi virtus qua múniar, prótegar atque defendar. Vúlnera tua sint mihi cibus potúsque, quibus pascar, inébrier atque delécter. Aspérsio Sánguinis tui sit mihi ablútio ómnium delictórum meórum. Mors tua sit mihi vita indefíciens, crux tua sit mihi glória sempitérna. In his sit mihi reféctio, exsultátio, sánitas et dulcédo cordis mei. Qui vivis et regnas in saecula saeculórum. Amen.

I beseech Thee, most sweet Lord Jesus Christ, grant that Thy Passion may be to me a power by which I may be strengthened, protected and de fended. May Thy wounds be to me food and drink, by which I may be nourished, inebriated and overjoyed. May the sprinkling of Thy Blood be to me an ablution for all my sins. May Thy death prove to me life everlasting, Thy cross be to me an eternal glory. In these be my refreshment, my joy, my preservation and sweetness of heart. Who livest and reignest world without end. Amen.

Behold, O kind and most sweet Jesus, I cast myself upon my knees in Thy sight, and with the most fervent desire of my soul I pray and beseech Thee that Thou wouldst impress upon my heart lively sentiments of faith, hope and charity, with a true contrition of my sins and a firm purpose of amendment; whilst with deep affection and grief of soul I ponder within myself and mentally contemplate Thy five wounds, having before my eyes the words which David the prophet put in Thy mouth regarding Thee: They have dug My hands and feet, they have numbered all My bones (Ps. xxi. 17, 18).

En ego, o bone et dulcíssime Jesu,* ante conspéctum tuum génibus me provólvo, * ac máximo ánimi ardóre te oro atque obtéstor, * ut meum in cor * vívidos fídei, spei et caritátis sensus, * atque veram peccatórum meorum poeniténtiam, * éaque emendándi firmíssimam voluntátem velis imprímere; * dum magno ánimi afféctu et dolóre * tua quinque vúlnera * mecum ipse consídero ac mente contémplor, * illud prae óculis habens * quod jam in ore ponébat tuo David prophéta * de te, o bone Jesu: * Fodérunt manus meas et pedes meos, dinumeravérunt ómnia ossa mea* (Ps. xxi. 17, 18).

A plenary indulgence is attached to the recitation of this prayer before a figure of Christ Crucified, subject to Confession, Communion, and prayers (for instance five Pater's and five Ave's) for the intention of the Sovereign Pontiff. (Clement VIII., Benedict XIV., Pius VII., Leo XIII., and Pius IX. in 1858.)

Renewal of the Promises of Baptism.

I renounce Satan, and all his works, and all his pomps, and I pledge myself to Jesus Christ for ever.

An Oblation.

From the Spiritual Exercises of St. Ignatius of Loyola.—Indulgence of 300 days (Leo XIII., 1883).

Take, O Lord, into Thy hands my entire liberty; receive my memory, my understanding and my whole will. All that I am, all that I have, Thou hast given me, and I give it back again to Thee, to be disposed of according to Thy good pleasure.

Give me only Thy love and Thy grace: with these I am rich enough, and I desire nothing more.

Prayer to the Blessed Virgin.

Mary, Mother of God and Mother of Mercy, pray for us and for the faithful departed. (100 days' indulgence, Leo XIII.)

Memorare.

An indulgence of 300 days each time. Plenary indulgence once a month, on the usual conditions, if recited every day of the month (Leo XIII., 1884).

Memoráre, o piíssima Virgo María, non esse audítum a saeculo quemquam ad tua curréntem praesídia, tua implorántem auxília, tua peténtem suffrágia, esse derelíctum. Ego tali animátus confidéntia, ad te, Virgo vírginum, mater, curro, ad te vénio, coram te gemens peccátor assísto; noli, Mater Verbi, verba mea despícere, sed audi propítia et exáudi. Amen.

Remember, O most gracious Virgin Mary, that never was it known that anyone who fled to thy protection, implored thy help, and sought thy intercession, was left unaided. Inspired with this confidence, I fly unto thee, O Virgin of virgins, my Mother. To thee I come; before thee I stand, sinful and sorrowful. O Mother of the Word Incarnate, despise not my petitions, but in thy mercy hear and answer me. Amen.

Prayer to Saint Joseph.

Indulgence of 100 days (Pius IX., 1877).

O holy Joseph, father and protector of virgins, faithful guide to whom God entrusted Jesus most innocent and Mary, Virgin of virgins, I beg and beseech thee through Jesus and Mary, by this twofold deposit to thee so dear, make it thy care that, preserved from every defilement, pure in heart and mind, and chaste of body, I may serve with constancy Jesus and Mary, in perfect chastity. Amen.

Prayer to your Guardian Angel.

An indulgence of 100 days each time.—Plenary indulgence once a month, on the usual conditions, if recited every day of the month; on October 2, Feast of the Holy Guardian Angels, if recited every day; and at the point of death if recited frequently during life.

Angel of God, who art my guardian, enlighten, guard, direct and govern me, who have been committed to thee by the supernal clemency. Amen.

Angele Dei, qui custos es mei, me tibi commíssum pietáte supérna, illúmina, custódi, rege et gubérna. Amen.

O holy Patron Saint, pray for me.

Prayer for obtaining Indulgences.

My Lord and my God, I humbly beseech Thee, grant unto me, in consideration of the merits of our Lord Jesus Christ, all the indulgences attached to my prayers and works this day: I desire to enter into the dispositions necessary to gain those indulgences, in order that I may satisfy Divine Justice and relieve the souls in Purgatory.

VESPERS FOR SUNDAY.

In accordance with the Jewish custom, the Church begins and concludes the celebration of a feast with the Evening Service, or "First" and "Seoond Vespers." This, with Matins, is the most ancient and solemn of the canonical hours. It is said at the very time when formerly, under the Mosaic Law, the sacrificium vespertinum, or evening sacrifice, took place. This service included the offering up of incense, a custom which has been preserved by the Church: "Let my prayer be directed as incense in Thy sight: the lifting up of my hands, as evening sacrifice."—Ps. cxl. 2.

Let us make it a practice to attend this office, which is one of the most important portions of the official prayers of the Church, and always hearkened by God.

Making the sign of the Cross on the mouth, the following prayer is said kneeling:—

Aperi, Dómine, os meum ad benedicéndum nomen sanctum tuum: munda quoque cor meum ab ómnibus vanis, pervérsis et aliénis cogitatiónibus: intelléctum illúmina, afféctum inflámma, ut digne, atténte, ac devóte hoc offícium recitáre váleam, et exaudíri mérear ante conspéctum divínae Majestátis tuae, per Christum Dóminum nostrum. Amen.

O Lord, open Thou my mouth to bless Thy holy Name; cleanse my heart from all vain, evil and wandering thoughts; enlighten my understanding, enkindle my affections, that I may say this Office worthily, attentively and devoutly, and may so be meet to be heard before the presence of Thy Divine Majesty, through Christ our Lord. Amen.

O Lord, in union with that Divine intention wherewith Thou didst while upon earth offer Thy praises to God, I now recite this Office to Thee.

Dómine, in unióne illíus divínae intentiónis, qua ipse in terris laudes Deo persolvísti, has tibi horas persólvo.

The Pater noster and Ave Maria are said silently. The Celebrant then begins :—

Ps. cix.: Dixit Dominus.

This is one of the Messianic Psalms. The Messiah sits at the right hand of the Father. He is the Son of God, the Priest of the Most High; He is the King triumphant.

THE Lord said unto my Lord: Sit Thou at My right hand.

Until I make Thine enemies Thy footstool.

The Lord shall send the rod of Thy strength out of Zion: rule Thou in the midst of Thine enemies.

Thine shall be the dominion in the day of Thy power, amid the brightness of the saints: from the womb, before the day-star have I begotten Thee.

The Lord hath sworn, and will not repent: Thou art a Priest for ever after the order of Melchisedek.

The Lord at Thy right hand shall strike through kings in the day of His wrath.

He shall judge among the heathen, He shall fill the places with dead bodies: He shall wound the heads over many countries.

He shall drink of the brook in the way: therefore shall he lift up his head.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost.

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

The righteous shall be in everlasting remembrance. He shall not be afraid of evil tidings :

Parátum cor ejus speráre in Dómino, † confirmátum est cor ejus : * non commovébitur donec despíciat inimícossuos.

His heart is ready, trusting in the Lord. His heart is established, he shall not be afraid until he see his desire upon his enemies.

Dispérsit, dedit paupéribus : † justítia ejus manet in saeculum saeculi : * cornu ejus exaltábitur in glória.

He hath dispersed, he hath given to the poor : his righteousness endureth for ever : his horn shall be exalted with honour.

Peccátor vidébit, et irascétur, † déntibus suis fremet et tabéscet : * desidérium peccatórum períbit.

The wicked shall see it, and be grieved ; he shall gnash his teeth, and melt away : the desire of the wicked shall perish.

Glória Patri, et Fílio, . . .

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, . . .

Praise the Lord, O ye His servants, praise the Name of the Lord.

Ps. cxii.: Laudate pueri.

This Psalm is the beginning of the Hallel, which the Jews sang especially at Easter, while eating the Paschal Lamb.

PRAISE the Lord, O ye His servants, praise the Name of the Lord.

LAUDATE púeri Dóminum : * laudáte nomen Dómini.

Blessed be the Name of the Lord, from this time forth, and for evermore !

Sit nomen Dómini benedíctum, * ex hoc nunc, et usque in saeculum.

From the rising of the sun unto the going down of the same, the Lord's Name is to be praised.

Excélsus super omnes gentes Dóminus, * et super coelos glória ejus.

Who is like unto the Lord our God, Who dwelleth on high, and beholdeth what is lowly in heaven, and in the earth ?

Quis sicut Dóminus Deus noster, qui in altis hábitat, * et humília réspicit in coelo et in terra ?

He raiseth up the poor out of the dust, and lifteth the needy out of the dung-hill ;

Súscitans a terra ínopem, * et de stércore érigens páuperem :

Ut cóllocet eum cum princípibus, * cum princípibus pópuli sui.

Qui habitáre facit stérilem in domo, * matrem filiórum laetántem.

Ps. cxiii. : In exitu Israel.

This Psalm recounts the wonders worked by God during the exit from Egypt. Israel in her peril implores God's help. This is a figure of what God has done for His Church and of what the Church does for God.

In éxitu Israel de Aegypto, * domus Jacob de pópulo bárbaro :

Facta est Judaea sanctificátio ejus, * Israel potéstas ejus.

Mare vidit, et fugit : * Jordánis convérsus est retrórsum.

Montes exsultavérunt ut arietes : * et colles sicut agni óvium.

When Israel went out of Egypt, the house of Jacob from a people of strange language, Judah was His sanctuary, and Israel His dominion.

The sea saw it and fled : Jordan was driven back.

The mountains skipped like rams, and the little hills like lambs.

What ailed thee, O thou sea, that thou fleddest? and thou Jordan, that thou wast driven back?

Ye mountains, that ye skipped like rams? and ye little hills, like lambs?

The earth trembled at the presence of the Lord, at the presence of the God of Jacob:

Who turned the rock into a standing water, and the flint into a fountain of waters.

Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us: but unto Thy Name give glory,

For Thy mercy, and for Thy truth's sake. Wherefore should the heathen say: Where is now their God?

But our God is in the heavens: He hath done whatsoever He hath pleased.

The idols of the heathen are silver and gold, the work of men's hands.

They have mouths, but they speak not: eyes have they, but they see not.

They have ears, but they hear not: noses have they, but they smell not.

They have hands, but they handle not: feet have they, but they walk not: neither speak they through their throat.

May they that make them be like unto them: even every one that trusteth in them.

The house of Israel trusteth in the Lord: He is their help and their shield.

The house of Aaron trusteth in the Lord: He is their help and their shield.

Quid est tibi mare quod fugísti? * et tu Jordánis, quia convérsus es retrórsum?

Montes exsultástis sicut aríetes, * et colles sicut agni óvium?

A fácie Dómini mota est terra, * a facie Dei Jacob:

Qui convértit petram in stagna aquárum, * et rupem in fontes aquárum.

Non nobis, Dómine, non nobis, * sed nómini tuo da glóriam:

Super misericórdia tua, et veritáte tua: * nequándo dicant gentes: Ubi est Deus eórum?

Deus autem noster in coelo: * ómnia quaecúmque vóluit, fecit.

Simulácra géntium argéntum et aurum, * ópera mánuum hóminum.

Os habent, et non loquéntur: * óculos habent, et non vidébunt.

Aures habent, et non áudient: * nares habent et non odorábunt.

Manus habent, et non palpábunt: † pedes habent et non ambulábunt: * non clamábunt in gútture suo.

Símiles illis fiant qui fáciunt ea: * et omnes qui confídunt in eis.

Domus Israel sperávit in Dómino: * adjútor eórum et protéctor eórum est.

Domus Aaron sperávi in Dómino: * adjútor eórum et protéctor eórum est.

Qui timent Dóminum speravérunt in Dómino: * adjútor eórum et protéctor eórum est.

They that fear the Lord trust in the Lord: He is their help and their shield.

Dóminus memor fuit nostri: * et benedíxit nobis.

The Lord hath been mindful of us, and blessed us:

Benedíxit dómui Israel: * benedíxit dómui Aaron.

He hath blessed the house of Israel: He hath blessed the house of Aaron.

Benedíxit ómnibus qui timent Dóminum, * pusíllis cum majóribus.

He hath blessed them that fear the Lord, both small and great.

Adjíciat Dóminus super vos: * super vos, et super fílios vestros.

The Lord increase you more and more, you and your children.

Benedícti vos a Dómino, * qui fecit coelum et terram.

Ye are blessed of the Lord, Who made heaven and earth.

Coelum coeli Dómino: * terram autem dedit fíliis hóminum.

The heaven of heavens is the Lord's: but the earth hath He given to the children of men.

Non mórtui laudábunt te Dómine: * neque omnes qui descéndunt in inférnum.

The dead shall not praise Thee, O Lord, neither all they that go down into the grave.

Sed nos qui vívimus, benedícimus Dómino, * ex hoc nunc et usque in saeculum.

But we that live bless the Lord, from this time forth for evermore.

Canticle of the Blessed Virgin Mary : Luke i. 46-53.†

(To the tone of the Proper Anthem.)

Mary's answer to her cousin Elizabeth, who hails her as the Mother of God, blessed among women.

My soul doth magnify the Lord.
And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour.

Magnificat * ánima mea Dóminum.
Et exsultávit spíritus meus * in Deo salutári meo.

† This canticle is said standing. Begin it by making the sign of the Cross.

Quia respéxit humilitátem ancíllae suae : * ecce enim ex hoc beátam me dicent omnes generatiónes.

Because He hath regarded the humility of His handmaid : for behold from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed.

Quia fecit mihi magna qui potens est : * et sanctum nomen ejus.

Because He that is mighty hath done great things to me : and holy is His Name.

Et misericórdia ejus a progénie in progénies * timéntibus eum.

And His mercy is from generation unto generations, to them that fear Him.

Fecit poténtiam in bráchio suo : * dispérsit supérbos mente cordis sui.

He hath showed might in His arm : He hath scattered the proud in the conceit of their heart.

Depósuit poténtes de sede, * et exaltávit húmiles.

He hath put down the mighty from their seat and hath exalted the humble.

Esuriéntes implévit bonis : * et dívites dimisit inánes.

He hath filled the hungry with good things : and the rich He hath sent empty away.

Suscépit Israel púerum suum, * recordátus misericórdiae suae :

He hath received Israel His servant, being mindful of His mercy.

Sicut locútus est ad patres nostros, * Abraham, et sémini ejus in saecula.

As He spoke to our fathers : to Abraham and to his seed for ever.

Glória Patri, et Fílio, . . .

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, . . .

The Antiphon for the Magnificat is repeated, followed by the Collect. The necessary Commemorations are then made, and, if called for, the Suffrage of all Saints or the Commemoration of the Cross is added. If not, the Officiating Priest proceeds at once with Dominus vobiscum, as on p. 115.

Psalm cxv.

An act of thanksgiving for deliverance from deadly peril.

CREDIDI, propter quod locútus sum: * ego autem humiliátus sum nimis.

I BELIEVED, therefore have I spoken: but I was greatly afflicted.

Ego dixi in excéssu meo: * Omnis homo mendax.

I said in my haste: All men are liars.

Quid retríbuam Dómino, * pro ómnibus, quae retríbuit mihi?

What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits toward me?

Cálicem salutáris accípiam: * et nomen Dómini invocábo.

I will take the cup of salvation, and call upon the name of the Lord.

Vota mea Dómino reddam coram omni pópulo ejus: * pretiósa in conspéctu Dómini mors Sanctórum ejus.

I will pay my vows unto the Lord in the presence of all His people. Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His Saints.

O Dómine, quia ego servus tuus: * ego servus tuus, et fílius ancíllae tuae.

O Lord, truly I am Thy servant: I am Thy servant, and the son of Thine handmaid.

Dirupísti víncula mea: * tibi sacrificábo hóstiam laudis, et nomen Dómini invocábo.

Thou hast loosed my bonds. I will offer to Thee the sacrifice of thanksgiving, and will call upon the name of the Lord.

Vota mea Dómino reddam in conspéctu omnis pópuli ejus: * in átriis domus Dómini, in médio tui Jerúsalem.

I will pay my vows unto the Lord, in the presence of all His people: in the courts of the Lord's house, in the midst of thee, O Jerusalem!

Psalm cxvi.

The power of God has been made manifest: ours the duty of praising it.

LAUDATE Dóminum omnes Gentes: * laudáte eum omnes pópuli:

O PRAISE the Lord, all ye nations: praise Him, all ye people.

Quóniam confirmáta est super nos misericórdia ejus: * et véritas Dómini manet in aetérnum.

For His merciful kindness is great toward us: and the truth of the Lord endureth for ever.

Psalm cxxi.

Jerusalem is the perfect city, a type of the Church on earth and in heaven.

I WAS glad when they said unto me: Let us go into the house of the Lord.	LAETATUS sum in his quae dicta sunt mihi: * In Domum Dómini íbimus.
Our feet have been wont to stand within thy gates, O Jerusalem!	Stantes erant pedes nostri * in átriis tuis, Jerúsalem,
Jerusalem is builded as a city that is compact together:	Jerúsalem, quae aedificátur ut cívitas, * cujus participátio ejus in idípsum.
Whither the tribes go up, the tribes of the Lord, the testimony of Israel, to give thanks unto the name of the Lord.	Illuc enim ascendérunt tribus, tribus Dómini: * testimónium Israel, ad confiténdum nómini Dómini.
For there are set thrones for judgment, the thrones for the house of David.	Quia illic sedérunt sedes in judício, * sedes super domum David.
Pray for the peace of Jerusalem: they shall prosper that love thee.	Rogáte quae ad pacem sunt Jerúsalem: * et abundántia diligéntibus te.
Peace be within thy walls, and prosperity within thy palaces.	Fiat pax in virtúte tua: * et abundántia in túrribus tuis.
For my brethren and companions' sakes, I will now say—Peace be within thee!	Propter fratres meos et próximos meos, * loquébar pacem de te.
Because of the house of the Lord our God, I will seek thy good.	Propter domum Dómini Dei nostri, * quaesívi bona tibi.

Psalm cxxv.

A prayer to God for the return of the Jews to Jerusalem, and also for the return to God of the souls held in bondage by the devil.

WHEN the Lord turned again the captivity of Zion, we were like them that come again from sickness.	IN converténdo Dóminus captivitátem Sion: * facti sumus sicut consoláti:
Then was our mouth filled with laughter, and our tongue with singing.	Tunc replétum est gáudio os nostrum: * et lingua nostra exsultatióne.
Then said they among the heathen: The Lord hath done great things for them.	Tunc dicent inter gentes: * Magnificávit Dóminus fácere cum eis.

Magnificávit Dóminus fácere nobíscum: * facti sumus laetántes.

The Lord hath done great things for us : whereof we are glad.

Convérte Dómine captivitátem nostram, * sicut torrens in austro.

Turn again our captivity, O Lord, as the streams in the south.

Qui séminant in lácrymis, * in exsultatióne metent.

They that sow in tears shall reap in joy.

Eúntes ibant et flebant, * mitténtes sémina sua.

They go forth weeping, sowing their seed;

Veniéntes autem vénient cum exsultatióne, * portántes manípulos suos.

They shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing their sheaves with them.

Psalm cxxvi.

Vain are the efforts of man without the co-operation of God.

Nisi Dóminus aedificáverit domum, * in vanum laboravérunt qui aedíficant eam.

Except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it:

Nisi Dóminus custodíerit civitátem, * frustra vígilat qui custódit eam.

Except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain.

Vanum est vobis ante lucem súrgere: * súrgite postquam sedéritis, qui manducátis panem dolóris.

It is vain for you to rise up early, rise up when ye are rested, ye that eat the bread of sorrow:

Cum déderit diléctis suis somnum: * ecce haeréditas Dómini, fílii; merces, fructus ventris.

For He giveth His beloved sleep. Lo, children are an heritage of the Lord, the fruit of the womb is His reward.

Sicut sagíttae in manu poténtis, * ita fílii excussórum.

As arrows are in the hand of a mighty man, so are the children of the out-cast.

Beátus vir qui implévit desidérium suum ex ipsis: * non confundétur cum loquétur inimícis suis in porta.

Happy is the man that hath his desire satisfied with them: he shall not be ashamed when he speaketh with his enemies in the gate.

Psalm cxxvii.

Happy is the life of him who serves God.

Beati omnes, qui timent Dóminum, * qui ámbulant in viis ejus.

Blessed is every one that feareth the Lord, that walketh in His ways.

For thou shalt eat the labour of thine hands: happy shalt thou be and it shall be well with thee.

Labóres mánuum tuárum quia manducábis, * beátus es, et bene tibi erit.

Thy wife shall be as a fruitful vine on the sides of thine house:

Uxor tua sicut vitis abúndans, * in latéribus domus tuae.

Thy children like olive plants round about thy table.

Fílii tui sicut novéllae olivárum, * in circúitu mensae tuae.

Behold, that thus shall the man be blessed that feareth the Lord.

Ecce sic benedicétur homo, * qui timet Dóminum.

The Lord bless thee out of Zion: and mayest thou see the good of Jerusalem all the days of thy life.

Benedícat tibi Dóminus ex Sion: * et vídeas bona Jerúsalem ómnibus diébus vitae tuae.

Yea, mayest thou see thy children's children, and peace upon Israel.

Et vídeas fílios filiórum tuórum, * pacem super Israel.

Ps. cxxix.: De Profundis, p. 12.

Out of the depths . . . . . from all his iniquities.

De profundis . . . . ab omnibus iniquitatibus ejus.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost.

Glória Patri, et Fílio, et Spíritui sancto.

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

Sicut erat in princípio, et nunc, et semper, et in saecula saeculórum. Amen.

Psalm cxxxi.

One of the Messianic Psalms: David is to be the ancestor of Christ.

Lord, remember David, and all his meekness:

Memento Dómine David, * et omnis mansuetúdinis ejus:

How he sware unto the Lord: he vowed a vow unto the God of Jacob;—

Sicut jurávit Dómino, * votum vovit Deo Jacob:

Surely I will not come into the tabernacle of mine house, nor go up into my bed;

Si introíero in tabernáculum domus meae, * si ascéndero in lectum strati mei:

I will not give sleep to mine eyes, or slumber to mine eyelids;

Si dédero somnum óculis meis, * et pálpebris meis dormitatiónem:

I will not give the temples of mine head any rest, until I find out a place for the Lord, an habitation for the God of Jacob.

Et réquiem tempóribus meis: donec invéniam locum Dómino, * tabernáculum Deo Jacob.

Ecce audívimus eam in Ephrata: * invénimus eam in campis silvae.	Lo, we heard of it at Ephratah: we found it in the fields of "the Wood."
Introíbimus in tabernáculum ejus: * adorábimus in loco, ubi stetérunt pedes ejus.	We will go into His tabernacle: we will worship in His footprints.
Surge Dómine in réquiem tuam, * tu et arca sanctificatiónis tuae.	Arise, O Lord, into Thy rest, Thou and the ark of Thine holiness.
Sacerdótes tui induántur justítiam: * et sancti tui exsúltent.	Let Thy priests be clothed with righteousness, and let Thy Saints shout for joy.
Propter David servum tuum, * non avértas fáciem Christi tui.	For Thy servant David's sake, turn not away the face of Thine Anointed.
Jurávit Dóminus David veritátem, et non frustrábitur eam: * de fructu ventris tui ponam super sedem tuam.	The Lord hath sworn in truth unto David, and He will not turn from it: Of the fruit of thy body will I set upon thy throne.
Si custodíerint fílii tui testaméntum meum, * et testimónia mea haec, quae docébo eos:	If thy children will keep My covenant, and My testimony that I shall teach them,
Et fílii eórum usque in saeculum, * sedébunt super sedem tuam.	Then their children for ever shall sit upon thy throne.
Quóniam elégit Dóminus Sion: * elégit eam in habitatiónem sibi.	For the Lord hath chosen Zion: He hath chosen it for His habitation.
Haec réquies mea in saeculum saeculi: * hic habitábo quóniam elégi eam.	This is My rest for ever: here will I dwell, for I have chosen it.
Víduam ejus benedícens benedícam: * páuperes ejus saturábo pánibus.	I will abundantly bless her widows: I will satisfy her poor with bread.
Sacerdótes ejus índuam salutári: * et sancti ejus exsultatióne exsultábunt.	I will clothe her Priests with salvation: and her Saints shall shout aloud for joy.
Illuc prodúcam cornu David, * parávi lucérnam Christo meo.	There will I make the horn of David to bud: I have ordained a lamp for Mine Anointed.
Inimícos ejus índuam confusióne: * super ipsum autem efflorébit sanctificátio mea.	His enemies will I clothe with shame: but upon him shall My sanctification flourish.

Psalm cxxxvii.

Act of thanksgiving to God.

I WILL praise Thee, O Lord, with my whole heart: because Thou hast heard the words of my mouth.

Before the Angels will I sing praise unto Thee. I will worship toward Thine holy temple, and praise Thy name.

For Thy loving-kindness, and for Thy truth: for Thou hast magnified Thine holy Name above every name.

In whatsoever day I call upon Thee, answer me: Thou wilt strengthen my soul exceedingly.

Let all the kings of the earth praise Thee, O Lord, for they have heard all the words of Thy mouth.

Yea, let them sing of the ways of the Lord: that great is the glory of the Lord.

For the Lord is high, yet hath He respect unto the lowly: but the proud He knoweth from afar.

Though I walk in the midst of trouble Thou wilt revive me: Thou shalt stretch forth Thine hand against the wrath of mine enemies, and Thy right hand shall save me.

The Lord will give recompense on my behalf: Thy mercy, O Lord, endureth for ever: forsake not the works of Thine own hands.

CONFITEBOR tibi Dómine in toto corde meo: * quóniam audísti verba oris mei.

In conspéctu Angelórum psallam tibi: * adorábo ad templum sanctum tuum, et confitébor nómini tuo.

Super misericórdia tua, et veritáte tua: * quóniam magnificásti super omne nomen sanctum tuum.

In quacúmque die invocávero te, exáudi me: * multiplicábis in ánima mea virtútem.

Confiteántur tibi Dómine omnes reges terrae: * quia audiérunt ómnia verba oris tui:

Et cantent in viis Dómini: * quóniam magna est glória Dómini.

Quóniam excélsus Dóminus, et humília réspicit: * et alta a longe cognóscit.

Si ambulávero in médio tribulatiónis, vivificábis me: † et super iram inimicórum meórum extendísti manum tuam, * et salvum me fecit déxtera tua.

Dóminus retríbuet pro me: † Dómine misericórdia tua in saeculum: * ópera mánuum tuárum ne despícias.

Psalm cxxxviii.

Hymn to the infinite knowledge of God.

O LORD, Thou hast searched me, and known me: Thou knowest my down-sitting and mine up-rising:

DOMINE, probásti me, et cognovísti me: * tu cognovísti sessiónem meam et resurrectiónem meam.

Intellexísti cogitatiónes meas de longe: * sémitam meam, et funículum meum investigásti.

Et omnes vias meas praevidísti: * quia non est sermo in lingua mea.

Ecce, Dómine, tu cognovísti ómnia novíssima, et antíqua: * tu formásti me, et posuísti super me manum tuam.

Mirábilis facta est sciéntia tua ex me: * confortáta est, et non pótero ad eam.

Quo ibo a spíritu tuo? * et quo a fácie tua fúgiam?

Si ascéndero in coelum, tu illic es: * si descéndero in inférnum, ades.

Si súmpsero pennas meas dilúculo, * et habitávero in extrémis maris:

Etenim illuc manus tua dedúcet me, * et tenébit me déxtera tua.

Et dixi: Fórsitan ténebrae conculcábunt me: * et nox illuminátio mea in delíciis meis.

Quia ténebrae non obscurabúntur a te, † et nox sicut dies illuminábitur: * sicut ténebrae ejus, ita et lumen ejus.

Quia tu possedísti renes meos: * suscepísti me de útero matris meae.

Confitébor tibi quia terribíliter magnificátus es: † mirabília ópera tua, * et ánima mea cognóscit nimis.

Non est occultátum os meum a te, quod fecísti in occúlto: * et substantia mea in inferióribus terrae.

Thou understandest my thoughts afar off. Thou searchest my path, and my line,

And art acquainted with all my ways: before there is a word on my tongue.

Lo, O Lord, Thou knowest all things both new and old: Thou hast made me, and laid Thine hand upon me.

Such knowledge is too wonderful for me: it is high, and I cannot attain unto it.

Whither shall I go from Thy Spirit? or whither shall I flee from Thy presence?

If I ascend up into heaven, Thou art there: if I go down into hell, Thou art there.

If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea;—

Even there shall Thine hand lead me, and Thy right hand shall hold me.

If I say: Surely the darkness shall cover me: even the night shall be light about me in my pleasures.

For the darkness is not darkness to Thee: and the night shineth as the day: the darkness and the light to Thee are both alike.

For Thou didst form my reins: Thou hast upholden me from my mother's womb.

I will praise Thee, for Thy greatness is terrible: marvellous are Thy works: and that my soul knoweth right well.

My bones were not hid from Thee, when Thou madest me in secret: nor my substance in the lower parts of the earth.

Thine eyes beheld my substance yet being imperfect: and in Thy book all were written: day by day were they to be fashioned, when as yet there was none of them.

Imperféctum meum vidérunt óculi tui, † et in libro tuo omnes scribéntur: * dies formabúntur, et nemo in eis.

But to me, O God, Thy friends are exceeding honourable: their power is waxen right strong.

Mihi autem nimis honorificáti sunt amíci tui Deus: * nimis confortátus est principátus eórum.

If I should count them, they are more in number than the sand: I arose, and am still with Thee.

Dinumerábo eos, et super arénam multiplicabúntur: * exsurréxi, et adhuc sum tecum.

Surely Thou wilt slay the wicked, O God: depart from me, ye bloody men.

Si occíderis Deus peccatóres: * viri sánguinum declináte a me:

For ye say in thought: In vain shall Thy people take Thy cities.

Quia dícitis in cogitatióne: * accípient in vanitáte civitátes tuas.

Do not I hate them, O Lord, that hate Thee? and am not I grieved at those that rise up against Thee?

Nonne qui odérunt te Dómine, óderam? * et super inimícos tuos tabescébam?

I hate them with perfect hatred: they are to me as enemies.

Perfécto ódio óderam illos: * et inimíci facti sunt mihi.

Search me, O God, and know mine heart: try me and know my thoughts.

Proba me Deus, et scito cor meum: * intérroga me, et cognósce sémitas meas.

And see if there be any wicked way in me: and lead me in the way everlasting.

Et vide, si via iniquitátis in me est: * et deduc me in via aetérna.

Psalm cxlvii.

The blessings and the power of the Lord.

PRAISE the Lord, O Jerusalem! praise thy God, O Zion!

LAUDA, Jerúsalem, Dóminum: * lauda Deum tuum, Sion.

For He hath strengthened the bars of thy gates: He hath blessed thy children within thee:

Quóniam confortávit seras portárum tuárum: * benedíxit fíliis tuis in te.

He maketh peace in thy borders: and filleth thee with the finest of the wheat.

Qui pósuit fines tuos pacem, * et ádipe fruménti sátiat te.

Qui emíttit elóquium suum terrae, * velóciter currit sermo ejus:

He sendeth forth His commandment upon earth: His word runneth very swiftly.

Qui dat nivem sicut lanam, * nébulam sicut cínerem spargit.

He giveth snow like wool: He scattereth the hoar-frost like ashes.

Mittit crystállum suum sicut buccéllas: * ante fáciem frígoris ejus quis sustinébit?

He casteth forth His ice like morsels: who can stand before His cold?

Emíttet verbum suum, et liquefáciet ea: * flabit spíritus ejus, et fluent aquae.

He sendeth out His word, and melteth them: He causeth His wind to blow, and the waters flow.

Qui annúntiat verbum suum Jacob, * justítias et judícia sua Israel,

He declareth His word unto Jacob, His statutes and His judgments unto Israel.

Non fecit táliter omni natióni: * et judícia sua non manifestávit eis.

He hath not dealt so with any nation: neither hath He made known to them His judgments.

In his Motu Proprio of 1903 Pius X. insists on "the importance of the solemn chanting of Vespers, to which may with advantage be added a suitable sermon and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament." Compline may also be chanted in the evening, followed by Benediction: this devotion is thus brought into association with the official worship of the Church.

COMPLINE FOR SUNDAYS AND GREAT FEASTS.

As its name indicates, Compline is the canonical hour which completes and ends the day. It is the evening prayer of the Church, and there is none more beautiful. The office owes its present form to St. Benedict.

The Reader, bowing to the Officiating Priest, says :—

℣. Pray, Father, a blessing.

℣. Jube domne benedícere.

Short Lesson : 1 Peter v. 8, 9.

The Reader, turning towards the altar :—

Brethren, be sober and watch : because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, goeth about seeking whom he may devour : whom resist ye, strong in faith. But do Thou, O Lord, have mercy on us.

℟. Thanks be to God.

Fratres : Sóbrii estóte, et vigiláte : quia adversárius vester diábolus, tamquam leo rúgiens, círcuit, quaerens quem dévoret : * cui resístite fortes in fide. Tu autem Dómine miserére nobis.

Psalm iv.

Surrounded by his enemies, the Psalmist proclaims his trust in God. In the midst of the dangers of the night the Christian also hopes in Him.

Miserére mei, * et exáudi oratiónem meam.	Have mercy upon me, and hear my prayer.
Fílii hóminum úsquequo gravi corde? * ut quid dilígitis vanitátem, et quaeritis mendácium?	O ye sons of men, how long will ye be dull of heart? Why will ye love vanity, and seek after leasing?
Et scitóte quóniam mirificávit Dóminus sanctum suum: * Dóminus exáudiet me cum clamávero ad eum.	But know that the Lord hath set apart for Himself him that is holy: the Lord will hear me when I call unto Him.

Glória Patri et Fílio . . .	Glory be to the Father, and to the Son . . .

Psalm xc.

God and His Angels protect man in the midst of danger; therefore the Christian places himself during the night under the protection of God.

Qui hábitat in adjutório Altíssimi, * in protectióne Dei coeli commorábitur.	He that dwelleth in the help of the Most High, shall abide under the shadow of the God of heaven.
Dicet Dómino: Suscéptor meus es tu et refúgium meum: * Deus meus, sperábo in eum.	He will say to the Lord: Thou art my refuge, and my fortress, my God, in Him will I trust.

For He shall deliver me from the snare of the fowler, and from the noisome pestilence.

He shall cover thee with His wings, and under His feathers shalt thou trust:

His truth shall be thy shield. Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night;

For the arrow that flieth by day, for the pestilence that walketh in darkness, for the evil spirit that wasteth at noon-day.

A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand: but it shall not come nigh thee.

Yea, with thine eyes shalt thou behold: and see the reward of the wicked.

Because Thou, O Lord, art my trust: thou hast made the Most High thy refuge.

There shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling.

For He hath given His angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways:

They shall bear thee up in their hands, lest haply thou dash thy foot against a stone.

Thou shalt tread upon the adder and the cockatrice: the lion also and the dragon shalt thou trample under feet.

Because he hath set his trust upon Me, therefore will I deliver him: I will defend him because he hath known My Name.

He shall call upon Me, and I will answer him: I am with him in trouble: I will deliver him and glorify him.

ANOTHER FORM OF NIGHT PRAYERS.

In the Name of the ✠ Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Blessed be the holy and undivided Trinity, now and for ever. Amen.

Our Father, p. 4.—Hail, Mary, p. 5.—The Apostles' Creed, p. 5.

Come, O Holy Ghost, fill the hearts of Thy faithful, and kindle in them the fire of Thy love.

℣. Send forth Thy Spirit, and they shall be created.

℟. And Thou shalt renew the face of the earth.

Let us pray.

O God, Who didst instruct the hearts of the faithful by the light of the Holy Spirit; grant that, by the gift of the same Spirit, we may be always truly wise, and ever rejoice in His consolation. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Let us place ourselves in the presence of God, and give Him thanks for all the benefits which we have received from Him, particularly this day.

O my God! I firmly believe that Thou art here present, and plainly seest me, and that Thou observest all my actions, all my thoughts, and the most secret motions of my heart. Thou watchest over me with an incomparable love, every moment bestowing favours, and preserving me from evil. Blessed be Thy holy Name; and may all creatures bless Thy goodness for the benefits which I have ever received from Thee, and particularly this day. May the Saints and Angels supply my defect in rendering Thee due thanks. Never permit me to be so base and wicked as to repay Thy bounties with ingratitude, and Thy blessings with offences and injuries.

Let us ask of our Lord Jesus Christ grace to discover the sins which we have committed this day; and beg of Him a true sorrow for them, and a sincere repentance.

O my Lord Jesus Christ, Judge of the living and the dead, before Whom I must appear one day to give an exact account of my whole life! enlighten me, I beseech Thee, and give me an humble and contrite heart, that I may see wherein I have offended Thy infinite Majesty, and judge myself now with such a just severity, that then Thou mayest judge me with mercy and clemency.

Let us here examine what sins we have committed this day, by thought word, deed, or omission.

(If nothing occur to your mind wherein you have offended, renew your sorrow for the sins of your past life.)

Let us conceive a great sorrow for having offended God.

O my God, I detest these and all other sins which I have committed against Thy Divine Majesty. I am extremely sorry that I have offended Thee, because Thou art infinitely good, and sin displeaseth Thee. I love Thee with my whole heart; and firmly purpose, by the help of Thy grace, never more to offend Thee. I resolve to avoid the occasions of sin; I will confess my sins, and will endeavour to make satisfaction for them. Have mercy on me, O God, have mercy, and pardon me, a wretched sinner. In the Name of Thy beloved Son Jesus, I humbly beg of Thee so to wash me with His precious Blood, that my sins may be entirely remitted.

Let us endeavour, as much as possible, to put ourselves in the dispositions in which we desire to be found at the hour of death.

O my God, I accept of death as a homage and adoration which I owe to Thy Divine Majesty, and as a punishment justly due to my sins, in union with the death of my dear Redeemer, and as the only means of coming to Thee, my beginning and last end.

I firmly believe all the sacred truths which the Catholic Church believeth and teacheth, because Thou hast revealed them. And by the assistance of Thy holy grace, I am resolved to live and die in the communion of this Thy Church.

Relying upon Thy goodness, power, and promises, I hope to obtain pardon of my sins, and life everlasting, through the merits of Thy Son Jesus Christ, my only Redeemer, and by the intercession of His blessed Mother and all the Saints.

I love Thee with all my heart and soul, and desire to love Thee as the blessed do in heaven. I adore all the designs of Thy Divine providence, resigning myself entirely to Thy will.

I also love my neighbour for Thy sake, as I love myself. I sincerely forgive all who have injured me, and ask pardon of all whom I have injured.

I renounce the devil, with all his works; the world, with all its pomps; the flesh, with all its temptations.

I desire to be dissolved, and to be with Christ. Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit.

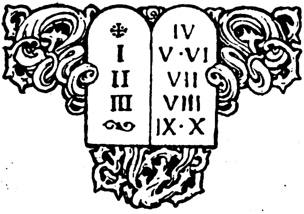
℟. Lord Jesus, receive my soul.

May the blessed Virgin Mary, St. Joseph, and all the Saints, pray for us to our Lord, that we may be preserved this night from sin and all evils. Amen.

Blessed St. Michael, defend us in the day of battle, that we may not be lost at the dreadful judgment. Amen.

O my good Angel, whom God by His Divine mercy hath appointed to be my guardian, enlighten and protect me, direct and govern me this night. Amen.

May Almighty God have mercy on us, and forgive us our sins, and bring us to life everlasting. Amen.



May the almighty and merciful Lord grant us ✠ pardon, absolution, and remission of all our sins. Amen.

COMMEMORATIONS.

I.—Classification.

There are several kinds of Collects* :—

1. The principal Collect of the day and the Special Collects or Commemorations of the Saints, Octaves, Ferias or Vigils memorialised in the Mass of the day.

2. The Common Collects or Collects of the Time, of which there are seven: Of the Blessed Virgin, For the Church; For the Pope, To Implore the Intercession of the Saints, For the Living and the Dead, For all the Faithful Departed, Of the Holy Ghost, and finally those at the option of the Priest. These Prayers vary according to the season of the year.

3. The Votive Collects, such as that for the Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament, that prescribed by the Bishop (or "imperata"), and various other Collects added out of devotion.

II.—General Regulations.

As a matter of principle—

1. On Double Feasts there is only one Collect, that of the day, unless Commemorations have to be made, or some final Collect is prescribed by the Bishop.

2. On Semi-double Feasts there are three Collects: one of the day and two of the Time.—If there is a Commemoration, however, the Collects of the Time are relegated to the third place, and even eliminated altogether if there are several Commemorations.

3. On Simple Feasts, Ferias and Vigils, there are three Collects, the same as on Semi-double Feasts. But the Priest is allowed to increase the number, out of devotion, to five or seven, but never more.

MASSES OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN ON SATURDAYS.

These can be said as Votive Masses according to the Season.

The Sabbath or Saturday signifies rest, and as it was in Mary that Wisdom found a resting-place in the Incarnation, this day is consecrated to the Blessed Virgin. Also there are five Masses in her honour for use at the different seasons for each Saturday on which no saint's day falls.

First Mass.—In Advent.

Lesson from the Prophet Isaias.—In those days, the Lord spoke unto Achaz, saying: Ask thee a sign of the Lord thy God, either unto the depth of hell, or unto the height above. And Achaz said: I will not ask, and I will not tempt the Lord. And He said: Hear ye therefore, O house of David: Is it a small thing for you to be grievous to men, that you are grievous to My God also? Therefore, the Lord Himself shall give you a sign. Behold a virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and his name shall be called Emmanuel.* He shall eat butter and honey, that he may know to refuse the evil, and to choose the good.

Gospel: Luke i. 26-38.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—

* The Virgin, according to Catholic tradition, is the Virgin Mary: Emmanuel (God with us) is the Incarnate Word; the butter and honey which He shall eat denote a period of devastation when there is nothing but the natural products of the earth for food.

At that time, the angel Gabriel was sent from God into a city of Galilee, called Nazareth, to a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David: and the virgin's name was Mary. And the angel being come in, said unto her: Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women. Who having heard, was troubled at his saying and thought with herself what manner of salutation this should be. And the angel said to her: Fear not, Mary, for thou hast found grace with God. Behold thou shalt conceive in thy womb and shalt bring forth a son and thou shalt call his name Jesus. He shall be great and shall be called the Son of the Most High, and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of David his father: and he shall reign in the house of Jacob for ever, and of his kingdom there shall be no end. And Mary said to the angel: How shall this be done, because I know not man? And the angel answering, said to her: The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee and the power of the Most High shall overshadow thee. And therefore also the Holy which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God. And behold thy cousin Elizabeth, she also hath conceived a son in her old age: and this is the sixth month with her that is called barren; because no word shall be impossible with God. And Mary said: Behold the handmaid of the Lord, be it done to me according to thy word.

tėmpore: Missus est Angelus Gábriel a Deo in civitátem Galiléae, cui nomen Názareth, ad Vírginem desponsátam viro, cui nomen erat Joseph, de domo David, et nomen Vírginis María. Et ingréssus Angelus ad eam, dixit: Ave grátia plena: Dóminus tecum: benedícta tu in muliéribus. Quae cum audísset, turbáta est in sermóne ejus: et cogitábat, qualis esset ista salutátio. Et ait Angelus ei: Ne tímeas, María, invenísti enim grátiam apud Deum: ecce concípies in útero, et páries fílium, et vocábis nomen ejus Jesum.* Hic erit magnus, et Fílius Altíssimi vocábitur, et dabit illi Dóminus Deus sedem David patris ejus: et regnábit in domo Jacob in aetérnum, et regni ejus non erit finis. Dixit autem María ad Angelum: Quómodo fiet istud, quóniam virum non cognósco? Et respóndens Angelus, dixit ei: Spíritus sanctus supervéniet in te, et virtus Altíssimi obumbrábit tibi. Ideóque et quod nascétur ex te sanctum, vocábitur Fílius Dei. Et ecce Elísabeth cognáta tua, et ipsa concépit fílium in senectúte sua: et hic mensis sextus est illi, quae vocátur stérilis: quia non erit impossíbile apud Deum omne verbum. Dixit autem María: Ecce ancilla Dómini, fiat mihi secúndum verbum tuum.

Offertory: Luke i. 28, 42.

Second Mass.—From Christmas to the Purification.

God has sent us a Saviour (Epistle) and the Votive Mass of the most holy Virgin proper to the season of Christmas reminds us that it is by Mary that we have had the happiness of receiving the Author of life (Collect). The Gospel pictures her beside the Child in the Manger, and the Church declares her "blessed, because she has borne in her womb the Son of the Eternal Father" (Communion), and truly worthy of all praise, because of her was born Christ our Lord (Offertory). The Collect and the Alleluia in setting forth the virginity of Mary make manifest to us—as in all the liturgy of Christmas—that Jesus has God for Father and that the Virgin is therefore herself the Mother of God.

Introit: Psalm xliv. 13, 15, 16.

ALL the rich among the people shall entreat thy countenance: after her shall virgins be brought to the King: her neighbours shall be brought to Thee with gladness and rejoicing. —Ps. xliv. 2. My heart hath uttered a good word: I speak my works to the King. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

O God, Who by the fruitful virginity of blessed Mary, hast bestowed on mankind the rewards of eternal salvation; grant, we beseech Thee, that we may experience her intercession for us, through whom we have been found worthy to receive the Author of life, our Lord Jesus Christ thy Son: Who with Thee.

And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

Third Mass.—From the Purification until Easter.

The Mass of the Blessed Virgin, at this season consecrated to the great work of our redemption, particularly shows Mary as Mother of our Saviour. She was predestined from all eternity for the role of co-redemptress (Epistle), for as Eve was the intermediary chosen by the angel of darkness to bring about the fall of Adam, so must Mary be the intermediary to whom the Angel Gabriel (Tract) was to deliver the message of salvation from heaven. Also is she blessed because she heard the Word of God and obeyed it (Gospel).

For thou art happy, O holy Virgin Mary, and most worthy of all praise: because from thee arose the sun of justice, Christ our Lord.

Fourth Mass.—From Easter until Whitsunday.

Mary is the Mother of the Risen Lord Who reigns for ever in heaven and on earth (Introit), and Who has re-established peace between our souls and God (Alleluia). Therefore the Liturgy proclaims her "happy and blessed above all women, because she carried in her womb the Son of the Eternal Father" (Alleluia, Offertory, Communion).

Mary is also the Queen of the Church founded by the Risen Christ. "Her power is established in Jerusalem and her abode is in the fullness of the Saints" (Epistle). For, at the foot of the cross, Jesus said to St. John, who personified all Christians: "Behold thy Mother" (Gospel). And Mary "always and everywhere protects our souls through her patronage" (Postcommunion).

Epistle: James i. 12-18.

Lesson from the Epistle of Blessed James the Apostle.—Dearly beloved, blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for, when he hath been proved, he shall receive the crown of life which God hath promised to them that love Him. Let no man, when he is tempted, say that he is tempted by God. For God is not a tempter of evils; and he tempteth no man. But every man is tempted by his own concupiscence, being drawn away and allured. Then, when concupiscence hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin. But sin, when it is completed, begetteth death. Do not err, therefore, my dearest brethren. Every best gift and every perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of lights, with Whom there is no change nor shadow of alteration. For of His own will hath He begotten us by the word of truth, that we might be some beginning of His creature.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Jacóbi Apóstoli.—Carissimi: Beátus vir, qui suffert tentatiónem: quóniam cum probátus fúerit, accípiet corónam vitae quam repromísit Deus diligéntibus se. Nemo cum tentátur, dicat quóniam a Deo tentátur: Deus enim intentátor malórum est: ipse autem néminem tentat. Unusquísque vero tentátur a concupiscéntia sua abstráctus, et illéctus. Deínde concupiscéntia cum concéperit, parit peccátum: peccátum vero cum consummátum fúerit, génerat mortem. Nolíte ítaque erráre, fratres mei dilectíssimi. Omne datum óptimum, et omne donum perféctum desúrsum est, descéndens a Patre lúminum, apud quem non est transmutátio, nec vicissitúdinis obumbrátio. ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.— At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: If any man come to Me, and hate not his father and mother and wife and children and brethren and sisters, yea and his own life also, he cannot be My disciple. Or what king about to go to make war against another king, doth not first sit down and think whether he be able with ten thousand to meet him that with twenty thousand cometh against him? Or else, while the other is yet afar off, sending an embassy, he desireth conditions of peace. So likewise every one of you that doth not renounce all that he possesseth cannot be My disciple.

Epistle: Wisdom x. 10-14.

Wisdom is personified in God, Who guided and blessed Jacob and Joseph and Who in the same manner guided the Saints.

Lesson from the Book of Wisdom.—THE Lord conducted the just through the right ways, and showed him the kingdom of God, and gave him the knowledge of the holy things: made him honourable in his labours, and accomplished his labours. In the deceit of them that overreached him He stood by him, and made him honourable. He kept him safe from his enemies, and He defended him from seducers, and gave him a strong conflict, that he might overcome and know that wisdom is Custodívit illum ab inimícis, et a seductóribus tutávit illum, et certámen forte dedit illi, ut vínceret, et sciret, quóniam ómnium poténtior est sapiéntia. He forsook not the just when he was sold, but delivered him from sinners: He went down with him into the pit, and in bands He left him not, till He brought him the sceptre of the kingdom, and power against those that oppressed him; and showed them to be liars that had accused him, and the Lord our God gave him everlasting glory.

Gospel: Matthew x. 34-42.

Religion rouses the hatred of the wicked. Jesus requires our love for Him to surpass that of our natural affections. It is better to lose our earthly life than to lose life eternal. All service done from supernatural motives will be rewarded in heaven.—The disciples of Christ are called little because they are humble.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: Do not think that I came to send peace upon earth: I came not to send peace, but the sword. For I came to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law. And a man's enemies shall be they of his own household. He that loveth father or mother more than Me is not worthy of Me: and he that loveth son or daughter more than Me is not worthy of Me. And he that taketh not up his cross and followeth Me is not worthy of Me. He that findeth his life shall lose it: and he that shall lose his life for Me shall find it. He that receiveth you receiveth Me: and he that receiveth Me receiveth Him that sent Me. He that receiveth a prophet in the name of a prophet shall receive the reward of a prophet: and he that receiveth a just man in the name of a just man shall receive the reward of a just man. And whosoever shall give to drink to one of these little ones a cup of cold water only in the name of a disciple, amen I say to you, he shall not lose his reward.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Nolíte arbitrári quia pacem vénerim míttere in terram: non veni pacem míttere, sed gládium. Veni enim separáre hóminem advérsus patrem suum, et fíliam advérsus matrem suam, et nurum advérsus socrum suam: et inimíci hóminis, doméstici ejus. Qui amat patrem aut matrem plus quam me, non est me dignus: et qui amat fílium aut fíliam super me, non est me dignus. Et qui non áccipit crucem suam, et séquitur me, non est me dignus. Qui invénit ánimam suam, perdet illam: et qui perdíderit ánimam suam propter me, invéniet eam. Qui récipit vos, me récipit: et qui me récipit, récipit eum, qui me misit. Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to Timothy.—Dearly beloved, be mindful that the Lord Jesus Christ is risen again from the dead, of the seed of David, according to my gospel: wherein I labour even unto bands, as an evildoer: but the word of God is not bound. Therefore I endure all things for the sake of the elect, that they also may obtain the salvation which is in Christ Jesus, with heavenly glory. But thou hast fully known my doctrine, manner of life, purpose, faith, longsuffering, love, patience, persecutions, afflictions: such as came upon me at Antioch, at Iconium and at Lystra: what persecutions I endured, and out of them all the Lord delivered me. Gospel: Matthew x. 26-32.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Nihil est opértum, quod non revelábitur: et occúltum, quod non sciétur. Quod dico vobis in ténebris, dícite in lúmine: et quod in aure audítis, praedicáte super tecta. Et nolíte timére eos, qui occídunt corpus, ánimam autem non possunt occídere; sed pótius timéte eum, qui potest et ánimam et corpus pérdere in gehénnam. Nonne duo pásseres asse véneunt? et unus ex illis non cadet super terram sine Patre vestro. Vestri autem capílli cápitis omnes numeráti sunt. Nolíte ergo timére: multis passéribus melióres estis vos. Omnis ergo, qui confitébitur me coram homínibus, confitébor et ego eum coram Patre meo, qui in coelis est.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: Nothing is covered that shall not be revealed: nor hid that shall not be known. That which I tell you in the dark, speak ye in the light: and that which you hear in the ear, preach ye upon the housetops. And fear ye not them that kill the body and are not able to kill the soul; but rather fear him that can destroy both soul and body in hell. Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? and not one of them shall fall on the ground without your Father. But the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear not therefore: better are you than many sparrows. Every one therefore that shall confess Me before men, I will also confess him before My Father Who is in heaven.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed James the Apostle.—DEAREST brethren, count it all joy, when you shall fall into divers temptations: knowing that the trying of your faith worketh patience. And patience hath a perfect work: that you may be perfect and entire, failing in nothing. But if any of you want wisdom, let him ask of God, Who giveth to all men abundantly, and upbraideth not: and it shall be given him. But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering: for he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea, which is moved and carried about by the wind. Therefore let not that Lesson from the Book of Wisdom.—THE souls of the just are in the hand of God, and the torment of death shall not touch them. In the sight of the unwise they seemed to die: and their departure was taken for misery; and their going away from us for utter destruction: but they are in peace. And though in the sight of men they suffered torments, their hope is full of immortality. Afflicted in few things, in many they shall be well rewarded: because God hath tried them, and found them worthy of Himself. As gold in the furnace He hath proved them, and as a victim of a holocaust He hath received them, and in time there shall be respect had to them. The just shall shine, and shall run to and fro like sparks among the reeds. They shall judge nations and rule over people, and their Lord shall reign for ever.

But before all these things they will lay their hands on you and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues and into prisons, dragging you before kings and governors for My name's sake: and it shall happen unto you for a testimony. Lay it up therefore in your hearts, not to meditate before how you shall answer. For I will give you a mouth and wisdom, which all your adversaries shall not be able to resist and gainsay. And on the one hand indeed, by reproaches and tribulations, were made a gazing-stock; and on the other, became companions of them that were used in such sort. For you both had compassion on them that were in bands, and took with joy the being stripped of your own goods, knowing that you have a better and a lasting substance. Do not therefore lose your confidence, which hath a great reward. For patience is necessary for you; that, doing the will of God, you may receive the promise. Tract: Psalm cxxv. 5-7.

They that sow in tears shall reap in joy. ℣. Going, they went and wept, casting their seeds. ℣. But coming, they shall come with joyfulness, carrying their sheaves.

Qui séminant in lácrimis, in gaúdio metent. ℣. Eúntes ibant, et flebant, mitténtes sémina sua. ℣. Veniéntes autem vénient cum exsultatióne, portántes manípulos suos.

Gospel: Luke xii. 1-8.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: Beware ye of the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy. For there is nothing covered that shall not be revealed: nor hidden that shall not be known. For whatsoever things you have spoken in darkness shall be published in the light: and that which you have spoken in the ear in the chambers shall be preached on the housetops. And I say to you, My friends: Be not afraid of them who kill the body and after that have no more that they can do. But I will show you whom you shall fear: Fear ye him who, after he hath killed, hath power to cast into hell. Yea, I say to you: Fear him. Are not five sparrows sold for two farthings, and not one of them is forgotten before God? Yea, the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear not therefore: you are of more value than many sparrows. And I say to you: Whosoever shall confess Me before men, him shall the Son of man also confess before the Angels of God.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Atténdite a ferménto pharisaeórum, quod est hypócrisis. Nihil autem opértum est, quod non revelétur: neque abscónditum, quod non sciátur. Quóniam, quae in ténebris dixístis, in lúmine dicéntur: et quod in aurem locúti estis in cubículis, praedicábitur in tectis. Dico autem vobis amícis meis: Ne terreámini ab his, qui occídunt corpus, et post haec non habent ámplius quid fáciant. Osténdam autem vobis quem timeátis: timéte eum qui, postquam occíderit, habet potestátem míttere in gehénnam. Ita dico vobis: hunc timéte. Nonne quinque pásseres véneunt dipóndio, et unus ex illis non est in oblivióne coram Deo? Sed et capílli cápitis vestri omnes numeráti sunt. Nolíte ergo timére: multis passéribus pluris estis vos. Dico autem vobis: Omnis quicúmque conféssus fúerit me coram homínibus, et Fílius hóminis confitébitur illum coram Angelis Dei.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. —At that time, as Jesus was sitting on mount Olivet, the disciples came to Him privately, saying: Tell us when shall these things be? And what shall be the sign of Thy coming and of the consummation of the world? And Jesus answering, said to them: Take heed that no man seduce you. For many will come in My name, saying: I am Christ: and they will seduce many. For you shall hear of wars and rumours of wars. See that ye be not troubled. For these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there shall be pestilences, and famines, and earthquakes in places. Now all these are the beginnings of sorrows. Then shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall put you to death: and you shall be hated by all nations for My Name's sake. And then shall many be scandalised, and shall betray one another, and shall hate one another. And many false prophets shall rise, and shall seduce many. And because iniquity hath abounded, the charity of many shall grow cold. But he that shall persevere to the end, he shall be saved.

His fitting station. (Amen.)

If it is not the day of the Saint's death, read the last two lines thus :—

Merits that we should tell his deeds of glory
With exultation.

Hac die laetus méruit suprémos

So may the holy prayer he alway raises
Be our protection.

Therefore by an oath the Lord made him to increase among his people.—(Isaac) He gave him the blessing of all nations, and confirmed His covenant upon his head. He acknowledged him in His blessings; He preserved for him His mercy; and he found grace before the eyes of the Lord.—(Moses) He glorified him in the sight of kings, and gave him a crown of glory.—(Aaron) He made an everlasting covenant with him, and gave him a great priesthood: and made him blessed in glory. To execute the office of the priesthood, and to have praise in His name, and to offer him a worthy incense for an odour of sweetness.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time, Jesus spoke this parable to His disciples: A man going into a far country called his servants, and delivered to them his goods. And to one he gave five talents, and to another two, and to another one, to every one according to his proper ability: and immediately he took his journey. And he that had received the five talents went his way, and traded with the same, and gained other five. And in like manner he that had received the two gained other two. But he that had received the one, going his way, digged into the earth and hid his lord's money. But after a long time the lord of those servants came and reckoned with them. And he that had received the five talents coming, brought other five talents, saying: Lord, thou didst deliver to me five talents, behold I have gained other five over and above. His lord said to him: Well done, good and faithful servant, because thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will place thee over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord. And he also that had received the two talents came and said: Lord, thou deliveredst two talents to me, behold I have gained other two. His lord said to him: Well done, good and faithful servant, because thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will place thee over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to Timothy.—DEARLY beloved, I charge thee, before God and Jesus Christ, Who shall judge the living and the dead, by His coming and His kingdom: preach the word: be instant in season, out of season: reprove, entreat, rebuke in all patience and doctrine. For there shall be a time when they will not endure sound doctrine, but according to their own desires they will heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears, and will indeed turn away their hearing from the truth, but will be turned unto fables. But be thou vigilant, labour in all things, do the work of an evangelist, fulfil thy ministry. Be sober. For I am even now ready to be sacrificed, and the time of my dissolution is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. As to the rest, there is laid up for me a crown of justice, which the Lord, the just Judge, will render to me in that day: and not only to me, but to them also that love His coming.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: You are the salt of the earth. But if the salt lose its savour, wherewith shall it be salted? It is good for nothing any more but to be cast out, and to be trodden on by men. You are the light of the world. A city seated on a mountain cannot be hid. Neither do men light a candle and put it under a bushel, but upon a candlestick, that it may shine to all that are in the house. So let your light shine before men that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father, Who is in heaven. Do not think that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil. For amen I say unto you, till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall not pass of the law, till all be fulfilled. He therefore that shall break one of these least commandments, and shall so teach men, shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven: but he that shall do and teach, he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.—Creed.

Lesson from the Book of Wisdom.—THE just will give his heart to resort early to the Lord that made him, and he will pray in the sight of the Most High. He will open his mouth in prayer, and will make supplication for his sins. For if it shall please the great Lord, He wiil fill him with the spirit of understanding : and he will pour forth the words of his wisdom as showers, and in his prayer he will confess to the Lord : and He shall direct his counsel, and his knowledge, and in his secrets shall he meditate. He shall show forth the discipline he hath learned, and shall glory in the law of the covenant of the Lord. Many shall praise his wisdom, and it shall never be forgotten. The memory of him shall not depart away, and his name shall be in request from generation to generation. Nations shall declare his wisdom, and the Church shall show forth his praise.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: Let your loins be girt and lamps burning in your hands, and you yourselves like to men who wait for their lord, when he shall return from the wedding: that when he cometh and knocketh, they may open to him immediately. Blessed are those servants whom the lord, when he cometh, shall find watching: amen I say to you that he will gird himself and make them sit down to meat, and passing will minister unto them. And if he shall come in the second watch, or come in the third watch, and find them so, blessed are those servants. But this know ye, that if the householder did know at what hour the thief would come, he would surely watch, and would not suffer his house to be broken open. Be you then also ready, for at what hour you think not the Son of Man will come.

Corinthians.—BRETHREN, we are made a spectacle to the world, and to Angels, and to men. We are fools for Christ's sake, but you are wise in Christ: we are weak, but you are strong: you are honourable, but we without honour. Even unto this hour we both hunger and thirst, and are naked, and are buffeted and have no fixed abode, and we labour, working with our own hands: we are reviled, and we bless: we are persecuted, and we suffer it: we are blasphemed, and we entreat: we are made as the refuse of this world, the offscouring of all even until now. I write not these things to confound you, but I admonish you as my dearest children: in Christ Jesus our Lord.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time, Peter said to Jesus: Behold we have left all things and have followed Thee: what therefore shall we have? And Jesus said to them: Amen I say to you, that you, who have followed Me, in the regeneration when the Son of man shall sit on the seat of His majesty, you also shall sit on twelve seats, judging the twelve tribes of Israel. And every one that hath left house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for My Name's sake, shall receive an hundredfold and shall possess life everlasting.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Petrus ad Jesum: Ecce nos relíquimus ómnia, et secúti sumus te: quid ergo erit nobis? ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. —At that time, Jesus spoke to His disciples this parable: The kingdom of heaven shall be like to ten virgins, who taking their lamps went out to meet the bridegroom and the bride. And five of them were foolish, and five wise; but the five foolish, having taken their lamps, did not take oil with them: but the wise took oil in their vessels with the lamps. And the bridegroom tarrying, they all slumbered and slept. And at midnight there was a cry made: Behold the bridegroom cometh, go ye forth to meet him. Then all those virgins arose and trimmed their lamps. And the foolish said to the wise: Give us of your oil, for our lamps are gone out. The

Who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went his way, and sold all that he had, and bought it. Again the kingdom of heaven is like to a net cast into the sea, and gathering together of all kind of fishes. Which, when it was filled, they drew out, and sitting by the shore, they chose out the good into vessels, but the bad they cast forth. So shall it be at the end of the world: the angels shall go out, and shall separate the wicked from among the just, and shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. Have ye understood all these things? They say to him: Yes. He said unto them: Therefore every scribe instructed in the kingdom of heaven is like to a man that is a householder, who bringeth forth out of his treasure new things and old.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time the Pharisees came to Jesus tempting Him and saying: Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause? Who answering, said to them: Have ye not read that He who made man from the beginning made them male and female? and He said: For this cause shall a man leave father, and mother, and shall cleave to his wife, and they two shall be in one flesh. Therefore now they are not two, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let no man put asunder. They say to Him: Why then did Moses command to give a bill of divorce, and to put away? He saith to them: Because Moses by reason of the hardness of your heart permitted you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so. And I say to you, that whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and he that shall marry her that is put away committeth adultery. His disciples say unto Him: If the case of a man with his wife be so, it is not expedient to marry. Who said to them: All men take not this word, but they to whom it is given. For there are eunuchs who were born so from their mother's womb: and there are eunuchs who were made so by men: and there are eunuchs who have made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of Heaven. He that can take, let him take it.

Corinthians.—BRETHREN, he that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord. For not he who commendeth himself is approved: but he whom God commendeth. For I have espoused you to one husband, that I may present you as a chaste virgin to Christ.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. —At that time, Jesus spoke to His disciples this parable: The kingdom of heaven shall be like to ten virgins, who taking their lamps went out to meet the bridegroom and the bride. And five of them were foolish, and five wise: but the five foolish, having taken their lamps, did not take oil with them: but the wise took oil in their vessels with the lamps. And the bridegroom tarrying, they all slumbered and slept. And at midnight there was a cry made: Behold the bridegroom cometh, go ye forth to meet him. Then all those virgins arose and trimmed their lamps. And the foolish said to the wise: Give us of your oil, for our lamps are gone out. The wise answered, saying: Lest perhaps there be not enough for us and for you, go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves. Now whilst they went to buy, the bridegroom came; and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage, and the door was shut. But at last came also the other virgins, saying: Lord, Lord, open to us.

But he answering, said: Amen I say to you, I know you not. Watch ye therefore, because you know not the day nor the hour.

réliquae vírgines, dicéntes: Dómine, Dómine, áperi nobis. At ille respóndens, ait: Amen dico vobis, néscio vos. Vigiláte ítaque, quia nescítis diem, neque horam.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians.—BRETHREN, concerning virgins I have no commandment of the Lord: but I give counsel, as having obtained mercy of the Lord, to be faithful. I think therefore that this is good for the present necessity, that it is good for a man so to be. Art thou bound to a wife? seek not to be loosed. Art thou loosed from a wife? seek not a wife. But if thou take a wife, thou hast not sinned. And if a virgin marry, she hath not sinned: nevertheless such shall have tribulation of the flesh. But I spare you. This therefore I say, brethren: The time is short: it remaineth, that they also who have wives be as if they had none: and they that weep as though they wept not: and they that rejoice as if they rejoiced not: and they that buy as though they possessed not: and they that use this world as if they used it not:

for the fashion of this world passeth away. But I would have you to be without solicitude. He that is without a wife is solicitous for the things that belong to the Lord, how he may please God. But he that is with a wife is solicitous for the things of the world, how he may please his wife, and he is divided. And the unmarried woman and the virgin thinketh on the things of the Lord, that she may be holy both in body and in spirit: in Christ Jesus our Lord.

autem vos sine sollicitúdine esse. Qui sine uxóre est, sollícitus est, quae Dómini sunt, quómodo pláceat Deo. Qui autem cum uxóre est, sollícitus est, quae sunt mundi, quómodo pláceat uxóri, et divísus est. Et múlier innúpta, et virgo, cógitat quae Dómini sunt, ut sit sancta córpore et spíritu: in Christo Jesu Dómino nostro.

Epistle: Proverbs xxxi. 10-31.

All the necessary duties and virtues of women are set forth in this Epistle: The valiant woman loves her husband and merits his trust: she is a good housewife, is prudent and industrious, manages cleverly, handles the spindle, the needle and scissors; she possesses wisdom, is charitable in her actions and in her words, and fears God: also she has bestowed upon her the praises of her children and of her husband.

Lesson from the Book of Wisdom.—WHO shall find a valiant woman? Far and from the uttermost coasts is the price of her. The heart of her husband trusteth in her, and he shall have no need of spoils. She will render him good, and not evil, all the days of her life. She hath sought wool and flax, and hath wrought by the counsel of her hands. She is like the merchant's ship, she bringeth her bread from afar. And she hath risen in the night, and given a prey to her household, and victuals to her maidens. She hath considered a field, and bought it: with

She hath tasted and seen that her traffic is good: her lamp shall not be put out in the night. She hath put out her hand to strong things, and her fingers have taken hold of the spindle. She hath opened her hand to the needy, and stretched out her hands to the poor. She shall not fear for her house in the cold of snow: for all her domestics are clothed with double garments. She hath made for herself clothing of tapestry: fine linen, and purple is her covering. Her husband is honourable in the gates, when he sitteth among the senators of the land. She made fine linen and sold it, and delivered a girdle to the Chananite. Strength and beauty are her clothing, and she shall laugh in the latter day. She hath opened her mouth to wisdom, and the law of clemency is on her tongue. She hath looked well to the paths of her house, and hath not eaten her bread idle. Her children rose up, and called her blessed: her husband, and he praised her. Many daughters have gathered together riches: thou hast surpassed them all. Favour is deceitful, and beauty is vain: the woman that feareth the Lord, she shall be praised. Give her of the fruit of her hands: and let her works praise her in the gates.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to Timothy.—Dearly Beloved: Honour widows that are widows indeed. But if any widow have children, or grandchildren, let her learn first to govern her own house, and to make a return of duty to her parents: for this is acceptable before God. But she that is a widow indeed, and desolate, let her trust in God and continue in supplications and prayers night and day. For she that liveth in pleasures is dead while she is living. And this give in charge, that they may be blameless. But if any man have not care of his own, and especially of those of his house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel. Let a widow be chosen of no less than threescore years of age, who hath been the wife of one husband,

And they shall be His people, and God Himself with them shall be their God: and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes: and death shall be no more, nor mourning, nor crying, nor sorrow shall be any more, for the former things are passed away. And He that sat on the throne said: Behold, I make all things new.

And when Jesus was come to the place, looking up He saw him, and said to him: Zacheus, make haste and come down: for this day I must abide in thy house. And he made haste and came down, and received Him with joy. And when all saw it, they murmured, saying, that He was gone to be a guest with a man that was a sinner. But Zacheus standing, said to the Lord: Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have wronged any man of any thing, I restore him fourfold. The Common Preface, even in Lent.

Communion: Matthew xxi. 13.

Domus mea, domus oratiónis vocábitur, dicit Dóminus: in ea omnis, qui petit, áccipit: et qui quaerit, ínvenit, et pulsánti aperiétur. (T.P. Allelúia.)

My house shall be called the house of prayer, saith the Lord: in it every one that asketh receiveth: and he that seeketh findeth, and to him that knocketh it shall be opened. (P.T. Alleluia.)

Postcommunion.

Deus, qui de vivis et eléctis lapídibus aetérnum majestáti tuae praeparas habitáculum: auxiliáre pópulo tuo supplicánti; ut, quod Ecclésiae tuae corporálibus próficit spátiis, spirituálibus amplificétur augméntis. Per Dóminum.

O God, Who from living and chosen stones dost prepare an eternal habitation for Thy Majesty, assist Thy suppliant people: that Thy Church, whilst benefiting by material enlargement, may also expand by spiritual increase. Through our Lord.

During the Octave of the Dedication of a Church, and on the Octave day, the Mass is said as above; during the Octave only, the second Collect is that of the Votive Mass of the Blessed Virgin of the season, p. 153 ff., and the third Collect, Against the Persecutors of the Church, p. 154, or For the Pope, p. 155.

On the actual day of Dedication, the Collects are said as under, with, under one conclusion, the Collect of the Mystery or of the Saint in whose honour the Church is dedicated.

Collect.

Deus, qui invisibíliter ómnia cóntines, et tamen pro salúte géneris humáni signa tuae poténtiae visibíliter osténdis: templum hoc poténtia tuae inhabitatiónis illústra, et concéde; ut omnes, qui huc deprecatúri convéniunt, ex quacúmque tribulatióne ad te

O God, Who invisibly upholdest all things, and yet for the salvation of mankind dost visibly show the signs of Thy power: glorify this temple with the might of Thy indwelling, and grant that all who shall assemble hither to entreat Thy mercy, from the midst of whatsoever tribulation they may call upon Thee, may obtain the benefit of Thy heavenly consolation. Through our Lord.

clamáverint, consolatiónis tuae benefícia consequántur. Per Dóminum.

Secret.

O God, Who art the Author of these gifts which we are about to consecrate to Thee, pour forth Thy blessing on this house of prayer: that all who here shall invoke Thy name may experience the help of Thy protection. Through our Lord.

Deus, qui sacrandórum tibi auctor es múnerum, effúnde super hanc oratiónis domum benedictiónem tuam: ut ab ómnibus in ea invocántibus nomen tuum, defensiónis tuae auxílium sentiátur. Per Dóminum.

Postcommunion.

We beseech Thee, Almighty God, that in this place, which we, though unworthy, have dedicated unto Thy name, Thou wouldst open the ears of Thy loving-kindness unto all that call upon Thee. Through our Lord.

Quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut in hoc loco, quem nómini tuo indígni dedicávimus, cunctis peténtibus aures tuae pietátis accómmodes Per Dóminum.

SECOND VESPERS.

As at First Vespers, p. 309, except:—

℟. Unto length of days. (P.T. Alleluia.)

℣. Domum tuam, Dómine, decet sanctitúdo. (T.P. Allelúia.)
℟. In longitúdinem diérum. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Antiphon at the Magnificat: Genesis xxviii. 17.

Oh, how terrible is this place: truly this is no other but the House of God, and the Gate of Heaven. (P.T. Alleluia.)

O quam metuéndus est * locus iste: vere non est hic áliud, nisi domus Dei, et porta coeli. (T.P. Allelúia.)

Collect as at Mass.

LITANY OF THE SAINTS.

At Processions of both the Greater and Lesser Litanies the following Antiphon is sung standing, followed by the Litany of the Saints:—

Antiphon: Psalm xliii. 26.

Exsúrge, Dómine, ádjuva nos, et líbera nos propter nomen tuum. (Allelúia.) Ps. Deus áuribus nostris audívimus: patres nostri annuntiavérunt nobis. Glória Pátri.—Exsúrge.

Arise, O Lord, help us and redeem us for Thy name's sake. (Alleluia.) Ps. xliii. 2. We have heard, O God, with our ears: our fathers have declared to us. Glory be to the Father.—Arise.

Here all kneel, and two Cantors begin the Litany of the Saints, the Choir responding. Every invocation must be repeated, except when it is impossible to hold the Procession. At the invocation Sancta Maria all rise and the Procession starts, the Clergy following the Processional Cross in order according to their rank; then come the Celebrant and Deacon.

In Thy clemency, O Lord, show unto us Thine unspeakable mercy: that Thou mayest both loose us from all our sins, and deliver us from the punishments which we deserve for them.

O God, Who by sin art offended and by penance pacified, mercifully regard the prayers of Thy people making supplication to Thee, and turn away the scourges of Thine anger, which we deserve for our sins.

In conjunction with the Pope, with the one thousand six hundred and fifty Bishops and three hundred thousand Priests throughout the world, let us offer up each day by their hands at the altar the Blood of Jesus, in particular for the conversion of the heathen, for the faithful within the Church, for all miserable sinners, for the dying, and for the souls in Purgatory.

FIRST PART OF THE ECCLESIASTICAL YEAR.

THE MYSTERY OF THE INCARNATION.

Christmas Cycle

- (1) Season of Advent (First Sunday of Advent to December 24).
- (2) Christmastide (December 25 to January 14).
- (3) After the Epiphany (January 24 to Septuagesima Sunday).

The Church, commissioned by God to sanctify us, has established in her Liturgical Cycle a method of holiness which has for its aim the assimilation of our souls to Jesus, for, says St. Paul, the Father has predestined us " to be made conformable to the image of His Son " (Rom. viii. 29).

Each year therefore the Liturgy celebrates the different anniversaries of the principal events in the life of the Saviour (see page iii) in order to show us the virtues practised by the Divine Master, and to enable us always to receive in increasing measure their beneficial effects. Each liturgical season, therefore, represents a phase of the life of Jesus, and assures us of special graces. It is important, therefore, to be impregnated with the spirit of each season, and always to maintain our souls in the requisite disposition, so that it may derive the full benefit attached to the Time.

If we do this each day of the year, the Church herself, our Mother, will guide us and lead us on our way to heaven.

1. Season of Advent.

(From the First Sunday of Advent to December 24.)

1. Advent from a Doctrinal Point of View.

The reading of the liturgical texts which the Church uses during the four weeks of the Season of Advent puts before us clearly her intention to place us in the mental atmosphere which surrounded the Chosen People of God under the Old Law.

Primarily, one feels the absence of Jesus. The Collects of the Sundays of Advent, for example, do not end like those of the rest of the year with "through our Lord Jesus Christ." We are still deprived of this Mediator, Whom we await. Besides, they are addressed to the Father or to the Word, in order that our souls may be prepared through them for the coming of the God-Man.

The antiphons, hymns and psalms are filled with the remembrance of the downfall of the first man, and of the miserable state in which humanity found itself before the Redemption. It was indeed the will of God that man, after his downfall, should feel through long centuries the full depth of his misfortune, in order that, turning towards the promised Saviour, he should put all his hopes in Him alone.

On going over the different parts of the Masses and of the Office of Advent, one cannot fail to be impressed by the repeated and urgent appeals to the Messiah: "Come, delay no longer." This Veni is repeated on every page of the Liturgy during these four weeks and always takes us back to the time when Christ was not yet born.

The Greek Church celebrates in Advent the ancestors of the Lord and especially Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. On the Fourth Sunday she venerates all the Patriarchs of the Old Testament from Adam to St. Joseph, and the Prophets of whom St. Matthew speaks in the genealogy of Jesus Christ.

The Latin Church, though not honouring them in any particular way, often mentions them nevertheless during this period in the Breviary, in connection with the promises made to them relating to the Messiah. It is this magnificent procession which preceded Jesus in the course of the centuries that we see thus passing before our eyes each year—Abraham, Jacob, Judah, Moses, David, Micheas, Jeremiah, Ezechiel, Daniel, but especially Isaias,* St. John the Baptist,† and Mary with Joseph—all longing for the Saviour and calling for Him with all the ardour of their desires.

God hears their prayers, and yielding above all to the attractive beauty of the soul of the Virgin, of whom we celebrate the Immaculate Conception during the course of Advent, He sends the Angel Gabriel‡ to ask her consent to the great Mystery of the Incarnation. All the hopes of those who looked for the Messiah are centred in Mary, for on her fiat depends the salvation of the world. She accepts. The idea of Advent is that we may prepare ourselves for this coming of Jesus

* All the lessons of the First Nocturn of Matins are from Isaias; so also the Introit of the Second Sunday, the Communion of the Third Sunday; the Introit, Epistle, Offertory, and Communion of the Wednesday in Ember Week, the Epistle of Friday, the four Lessons of Saturday and the Communion of the Vigil of Christmas.

† Of the four Gospels in Advent, three relate to him.

at each feast of Christmas: and that is the reason why the very appeals of the Patriarchs and Prophets, which God was unable to resist, are put in our mouths at this season.

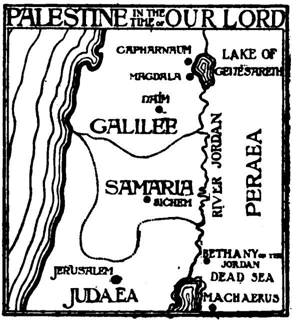
Thus prepared for the coming of mercy, our souls shall likewise be prepared for the coming of justice, so that "receiving with joy the Son of God when He comes as our Redeemer, we may also receive Him without fear when He comes as our Judge" (Collect for the Vigil of Christmas).

And it is because the first coming of Jesus is only intended to prepare us for the second coming of the Son of Man at the end of the world that the Liturgy of Advent describes to us, especially on the First Sunday of Advent, the scene of the Last Judgment. It will be terrible for the wicked, but full of consolation for the just.

The season of Advent therefore shows us that Jesus is the centre of the whole of the history of the world. It is with the expectation of His coming with grace that it begins, and with the realisation of His coming with glory that it ends. And the aim of the Liturgy is that every generation of Christians shall play its part in the Divine scheme. Let us yearn therefore at this season of the year, sincerely, lovingly, even impatiently, for the twofold coming of Jesus, and from afar yet let us adore Him with the Church as our King: "Come, let us adore the King, Who is about to come." * This attitude of love, faith and hope which we sinners bear towards our Redeemer sums up the whole spirit of the Season of Advent.

2. Advent from a Historical Point of View.

The oracles of the Prophets were accomplished: the heritage of the Chosen People of God had passed into the hands of the Romans, the sceptre had been taken away from the House of Judah. The Messiah was to come. The world and especially the Jews awaited Him.



John the Baptist, obedient to the voice of God, left the desert where he had spent his youth: he comes to the neighbourhood of the Jordan, to Bethany (see map) and he gives a baptism of penance to prepare souls for the coming of Christ (Gospel of the Fourth Sunday of Advent). His virtues are so great that one might almost take him to be the Messiah. So the Pharisees sent to him from Jerusalem a deputation of priests and levites to question him. And he replies that he is the one of whom Isaias prophesied, "I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness: Prepare ye the way of the Lord" (Gospel of the Third Sunday of Advent). Jesus then comes to Jordan to be baptised by John, who declares upon seeing Him that He is the Lamb of God, Whose blood shall wash away the sins of men.

Later John is thrown into prison in the fortress of Machaerus, to the east of the Dead Sea in Peraea. He learns of the numerous miracles of Jesus, and probably of the resurrection of the son of the widow of Naim (see map) that He had wrought in Galilee during the course of the second year of His public ministry. John then sent to Him from his prison two disciples, in order that Christ might publicly make manifest to all His mission. "Art Thou He that art to come?" (Gospel of the Second Sunday of Advent). And Jesus replied by quoting the Prophet Isaias, who said of the Messiah: "God Himself will come and will save you. Then shall the eyes of the blind be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped. Then shall the lame man leap as a hart, and the tongue of the dumb shall be free" (Isa. xxxv. 4-6). The Son of Mary wrought these miracles: He therefore is the Messiah. And as for John, continues the Master, it is of him that Malachias also wrote: "Behold I send my Angel, and he shall prepare the way before My face" (Mal. iii. 1). He is the precursor of Jesus, "he comes to bear witness to the light." This testimony He gives to the Jews and each day He gives it to us in the Gospels, above all in the Gospels which are read during Advent. As He said to the Jews, John says to us: "Do penance: for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand."

The Gospel of the First Sunday of Advent brings home to us another prophecy which Jesus made on the Tuesday preceding His death. Leaving the Temple, He repairs with His disciples to the Mount of Olives, and on seeing the town spread out before His eyes, He announced that Jerusalem would be destroyed because she had not received Him. He there and then spoke of His second coming at the end of the world. Then the elements shall be upset, and the Son of Man will come in great power and glory. "As for you, lift up your heads then, because your redemption is at hand . . . when you shall see these things, know that the Kingdom of God is at hand." Heaven and earth shall pass away, but the words of the Master will not pass away: they therefore shall be realised.

3. Advent from a Liturgical Point of View.

The date of the commencement of the Liturgical Year was, in the fifth century, the Feast of the Annunciation.* At first celebrated in March, this solemnity was transferred to December. "Following what is usual elsewhere," says the Council of Toledo in 605, "the Feast of the Annunciation will be celebrated on December 18 throughout Spain, as it often falls in Lent or at the Solemn Feast of Easter." In the tenth century the year began on the First Sunday of Advent, that is to say some weeks before Christmas. As early as 380 a Council of Saragossa prescribed a preparation of eight days for the Feast of Christmas. At the Council of Tours in 563 mention is made of Advent as a Liturgical Season possessing its proper rites and formulas. In the Nestorian Liturgy (sixth century) Advent had a spell of four Sundays, called Sundays of the Annunciation, and in the Ambrosian and Mozarabic Liturgies there were six. In the Roman Liturgy Advent lasted at first five weeks, and now comprises four. The First Sunday of Advent is that which is nearest to the Feast of St. Andrew, celebrated on November 30.

* Letter of Pope Gelasius I. (492-496).

The joy of soon possessing the Saviour was exclusively in former times, and is still in a large measure, the prevailing note of the Season of Advent: the Alleluia is still sung and a joyful ringing of bells marks the singing of the great Antiphons. On the Third Sunday of Advent the altar is decorated with flowers, the vestments may be rose in colour, and the organ is played. From the seventh century this season also assumed a character of penance. During the Middle Ages Advent was called "the Lent of Christmas" : they fasted every day, and even the statues were veiled as during Passion Time. This spirit of penance expressed itself by the suppression of the Gloria and the Te Deum, by the use of purple vestments, by the fact that the Ministers refrained from putting on the dalmatic and tunicle, which are vestments of joy, by the substitution of the Benedicamus Domino for the Ita Missa est, and by numerous liturgical texts. During Advent the anthem Alma Redemptoris is sung with its verse Angelus Domini, and the Second Collect of the Mass is De Beata, on account of the part which Mary played in the Mystery of the Incarnation, which fills the mind of the Church at this season.

" Joannes praedicavit Agnum esse venturum."

"See the fig tree and all the trees: when they now shoot forth their fruit, you know that summer is nigh; so you also, when you shall see these things come to pass, know that the Kingdom of God is at hand." (Luke xxi. 29-31.)

STATION AT ST. MARY MAJOR.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Privileged Sunday of the First Class. Semi-double.

Purple vestments.

The ecclesiastical year opens under the auspices of the Blessed Virgin. So it was at the Basilica of St. Mary Major that the people of Rome formerly made a station on this day to assist at the solemn Mass celebrated by the Pope assisted by his clergy. At the moment that he approached the altar, the song of entry or Introit was heard in which the Prophet says that he puts his trust in God.

With the Church, at the very opening of the liturgical cycle, let us also put all our confidence in Jesus, Who at Christmas and at the end of the world will reward those who yearn for Him and await Him. "Those who trust in Him shall not be confounded" (Introit).

The whole of the Mass this day prepares us for the double coming (adventus) of mercy and justice. That is why St. Paul tells us, in the Epistle, to cast off sin in order that, being ready for the coming of Christ as our Saviour, we may also be ready for His coming as our Judge, of which we learn in the Gospel.

Let us prepare ourselves, by pious aspirations and by the reformation of our life, for this double coming.

Privileged Sunday of the Second Class. Semi-double.

Purple vestments.

It was at the Church of the Holy Cross in Jerusalem, built in former times by St. Helena for the reception of the relics of the Passion, that this Station was held. It is there that the Roman people assisted at the Solemn Mass on the Second Sunday in Advent. The allusions made in the liturgy of this day to Jerusalem and her people are numerous : " People of Sion, behold the Lord shall come " (Introit). " Out of Sion is the loveliness of His beauty, God shall come manifestly " (Gradual). In addition to this the Prophets always assign Mount Sion as an abode to the Messiah, from whence Jerusalem towers.

In view of this coming, the Collect asks God to " stir up our hearts to prepare the ways for His only begotten Son." The Epistle in its turn reminds us that " a root of Jesse shall rise up " for the salvation of Jews and Gentiles.

Then in the Gospel we read that John the Baptist, sent " to prepare the way for the Messiah," has the question put to Jesus " Art thou He that art to come? " In answer Christ wrought many miracles and pointed to them as His reply to the Precursor. And so was realised the prophecy of Isaias, who foretold that by these signs the Messiah would be recognised. They testify therefore to the Divine Mission of Jesus and show what will be the effect of His grace on our souls during the Feast of Christmas.

Let us be filled with sentiments of hope and of joy, for the coming of Jesus is nigh.

Third Sunday of Advent.

STATION AT ST. PETER'S.*

(Indulgence of 15 years and 15 quarantines.)

Privileged Sunday of the Second Class. Semi-double.

Rose or purple vestments.

Constantine had erected a Basilica on the hill of the Vatican, on the very spot where St. Peter was martyred and where his body rests. It is there that the Mass of the Third Sunday of Advent was always celebrated in Rome.

This Sunday is called "Gaudete" (Rejoice) from the first word of the Introit. The whole of this Mass is filled with the sentiments of joy with which the Church wishes our souls to be filled at the approach of the Saviour.

"The Lord is nigh," says St. Paul in the Epistle, "rejoice in the Lord; again I say, rejoice." "Behold our God shall come," adds the Communion, and "He will save us." "Lord come, that Thou mayest save us," sings the Alleluia; and in the Gospel we see John the Forerunner who announces the coming of the Messiah, who tells of His greatness and effaces himself before Him, for "he is not the Light, but he gives testimony of the true Light, who is Jesus." May our faith and hope in Christ always increase.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

Gospel : John i. 19-28.‡

The Chiefs among the Priests seek to know who John the Baptist is, to whom the crowds are flocking to be baptised. Could he be the Christ? or Elias who was to come at the end of the world? or the Great Prophet foretold by Moses? And John humbly gives testimony to Jesus of Whom he is only the Precursor.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.--AT that time the Jews sent from Jerusalem Priests and Levites to John, to ask him: Who art thou? And he confessed, and did not deny; and he confessed: I am not the Christ. And they asked him: What then? Art thou Elias? And he said: I am not. Art thou the Prophet? And he answered: No. They said therefore unto him: Who art thou, that we may give an answer to them that sent us? What sayest thou of thyself? He said: I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the Lord, as said the Prophet Isaias. And they that were sent were of the Pharisees. § And they asked him, and said to him: Why then dost thou bap-

Et conféssus est, et non negávit: et conféssus est: Quia non sum ego Christus. Et interrogavérunt eum: Quid ergo? Elías es tu? Et dixit: Non sum. Prophéta es tu? Et respóndit: Non. Dixérunt ergo ei: Quis es, ut respónsum demus his, qui misérunt nos? quid dicis de teípso? Ait: Ego vox clamántis in desérto: Dirigite viam Dómini, sicut dixit Isaías prophéta. Et qui missi fúerant, erant ex Pharisaeis. Et interrogavérunt eum, et dixérunt ei: Quid ergo baptízas, si tu non es Christus, neque Elías, neque Prophéta?

§ The Pharisees, holding strictly to the letter of the law, were astonished to see St. John baptising, and asked him the reason. It is to prepare mankind by penance to accept Jesus as the Messiah, Whom it is his mission to make known to them.

Respóndit eis Joánnes, dicens: Ego baptízo in aqua: médius autem vestrum stetit, quem vos nescítis. Ipse est, quí post me ventúrus est, qui ante me factus est: cujus ego non sum dignus ut solvam ejus corrígiam calceaménti. These things were done in Bethania,* beyond the Jordan, where John was baptising.—Creed.

GREATER ANTIPHONS.

(December 17 to December 23.)

The great desire for the coming of Christ which is characteristic of the whole of Advent, as Christmas approaches expresses itself in the liturgy with ever greater intensity.

" The Lord comes from afar," said the office of the First Sunday.—" The Lord will come," added the Introit of the Second Sunday.—" The Lord is near," we sing on the Third Sunday. This gradual approach to a climax becomes more and more marked. Thus, commencing with December 17, the seven Greater Antiphons, called the O Antiphons from their initial letter, are a fervid appeal to the Messiah, Whose glorious titles and prerogatives they proclaim to us. These antiphons, says Dom Guéranger, " contain all the quintessence of the Liturgy of Advent." Honorius of Autun connects them with the seven gifts of the Holy Ghost, with which Christ was filled.

The Antiphon of December 21, "O Dawn of the East!" is the development of a poetic image to which the Church often reverts at this season. Advent may be likened unto the dawn with its delicate tints ever growing in brilliance and intensity, a sea of colour out of which will arise the morning star, " the splendour of the eternal light " which " is to enlighten the world " (John i. 9). We shall assist at Christmas at the wonderful spectacle of the rising of the Divine Sun, " sol justitiae Christus Deus noster," Whose course is destined to divide the year into the several liturgical seasons and suffuse our souls with the warmth of life.

Wednesday in Ember Week of Advent.

STATION AT ST. MARY MAJOR.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Mass, so called, of Missus.—Purple vestments.

The four seasons of the year begin with the liturgical periods known as Ember Weeks. Their importance was very great in the early days of the Church. The Ember Days are three fast days, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, intended to consecrate to God the various seasons in Nature, and to prepare by penance those who are about to be ordained.

On the Wednesday of Ember Week the Station was always at St. Mary Major, so called because it is the largest of the churches in Rome consecrated to the Blessed Virgin. The Gospel is that of the Annunciation, of which the first word "Missus" serves among Christians to designate the Mass for that day, which travellers especially make a point of attending. The Mystery of the Incarnation is also recalled by Isaias in the Communion.

References in the liturgy connecting the Annunciation with Advent date back to very early times. Many Churches celebrated this feast on December 18 in preference to March 25, the latter date so often falling in Lent.

This first joyful mystery of the Blessed Virgin, besides, is in keeping with the spirit of joy which is so characteristic of the second half of the season of Advent, when "the Lord Who is nigh" is eagerly awaited (Gradual).

Let us, with the Church, say to Jesus: "Hasten, O Lord, do not tarry" (Collect).

Introit: Isaias xlv. 8.

Lesson : Isaias ii. 2-5.

Lesson from the Prophet Isaias.—In those days, the Prophet Isaias said : In the last days the mountain of the house of the Lord shall be prepared on the top of mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills, and all nations shall flow unto it. And many people shall go, and say : Come and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob, and He will teach us His ways, and we will walk in His paths : for the law shall come forth from Sion, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem. And He shall judge the Gentiles and rebuke many people : and they shall turn their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into sickles. Nation shall not lift up sword against nation : neither shall they be exercised any more to war. O house of Jacob, come ye, and let us walk in the light of the Lord our God.

Léctio Isaïae Prophétae.—In diébus illis : Dixit Isaías prophéta : Erit in novíssimis diébus praeparátus mons domus Dómini in vértice móntium, et elevábitur super colles, et fluent ad eum omnes gentes. Et ibunt pópuli multi, et dicent : Veníte et ascendámus ad montem Dómini, et ad domum Dei Jacob, et docébit nos vias suas, et ambulábimus in sémitis ejus : quia de Sion exíbit lex, et verbum Dómini de Jerúsalem. Et judicábit gentes, et árguet pópulos multos : et conflábunt gládios suos in vómeres, et lánceas suas in falces. Non levábit gens contra gentem gládium : nec exercebúntur ultra ad praelium. Domus Jacob veníte, et ambulémus in lúmine Dómini Dei nostri.

Et dixit Achaz: Non petam, et non tentábo Dóminum. Et dixit: Audíte ergo domus David: Numquid parum vobis est, moléstos esse homínibus, quia molésti estis et Deo meo? Propter hoc dabit Dóminus ipse vobis signum. Ecce Virgo concipiet, et páriet filium, et vocábitur nomen ejus Emmánuel. Butyrum et mel cómedet, ut sciat reprobáre malum, et elígere bonum.

Lesson from the Prophet Isaias.—IN those days the Lord spoke to Achaz, saying: Ask thee a sign of the Lord thy God, either unto the depth of hell, or unto the height above. And Achaz said: I will not ask, and I will not tempt the Lord. And He said: Hear ye therefore, O house of David: Is it a small thing for you to be grievous to men, that you are grievous to my God also? Therefore the Lord Himself shall give you a sign. Behold a Virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and His name shall be called Emmanuel. He shall eat butter and honey, that He may know to refuse the evil, and to choose the good.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—AT that time the Angel Gabriel was sent from God into a city of Galilee, called Nazareth, to a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David, and the virgin's name was Mary. And the Angel being come in, said unto her: Hail, full of grace: the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women. Who having heard, was troubled at his saying: and thought with herself what manner of salutation this should be. And the Angel said to her: Fear not, Mary, for thou hast found grace with God: behold thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and shalt bring forth a son, and thou shalt call His name Jesus. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Most High, and the Lord God shall give unto Him the throne of David His father: and He shall reign in the house of Jacob for ever, and of His kingdom there shall be no end. And Mary said to the Angel: How shall this be done, because I know not man? And the Angel answering, said to her: The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Most High shall overshadow thee. And therefore also the Holy which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God. And behold thy cousin Elizabeth, she also hath conceived a son in her old age: and this is the sixth month with her that is called barren: because no word shall be impossible with God. And Mary said: Behold the handmaid of the Lord, be it done to me according to thy word.

ad eam, dixit: Ave grátia plena: Dóminus tecum: benedícta tu in muliéribus. Quae cum audísset, turbáta est in sermóne ejus: et cogitábat, qualis esset ista salutátio. Et ait Angelus ei: Ne tímeas, María, invenísti enim grátiam apud Deum: ecce concípies in útero, et páries filium, et vocábis nomen ejus Jesum. Hic erit magnus, et Filius Altíssimi vocábitur, et dabit illi Dóminus Deus sedem David patris ejus: et regnábit in domo Jacob in aetérnum, et regni ejus non erit finis. Dixit autem María ad Angelum: Quómodo fiet istud, quóniam virum non cognósco? Et respóndens Angelus, dixit ei: Spíritus sanctus supervéniet in te, et virtus Altíssimi obumbrábit tibi. Ideóque et quod nascétur ex te Sanctum, vocábitur Filius Dei. Et ecce Elísabeth cognáta tua, et ipsa concépit fílium in senectúte sua: et hic mensis sextus est illi, quae vocátur stérilis: quia non erit impossíbile apud Deum omne verbum. Dixit autem María: Ecce ancilla Dómini, fiat mihi secúndum verbum tuum.

Friday in Ember Week of Advent.

STATION AT THE CHURCH OF THE TWELVE APOSTLES.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Friday in Ember Week was always celebrated in Rome in the Basilica erected by Julius I. in honour of the Twelve Apostles.

The Mass of to-day sums up perfectly the whole spirit of Advent, which is, so to speak, the first act of the great drama of the Incarnation. It might be called "The Expectation of Christ" and pictured in a triptych (see vignette, p. 327): On the left the Prophets, and in particular Isaias, who search the horizon and announce to us the coming of Christ (Epistle), the Sun of Justice; on the right St. John the Forerunner, who from the womb of his mother salutes Jesus (Gospel), and, as the friend of the Bridegroom, presents Him as the Messiah to His bride the Church; in the centre panel the Virgin in her first joyful mystery, the Annunciation, which brings us back to the Gospel of the Wednesday of Ember Week.

In expectation of the coming of Jesus, let us join in the sentiments of penitence and joy of the Prophets and their king, St. John the Baptist; and intone with Mary the Magnificat (Gospel of the Friday of Ember Week), for she will soon bring into the world the Infant God.

PROPE es tu, Dómine, omnes viae tuae véritas: inítio cognóvi de testimóniis tuis, quia in aetérnum tu es. Ps. Beáti immaculáti in via: qui ámbulant in lege Dómini. ℣. Glória Patri.

Epistle: Isaias xi. 1-5.

Lesson from the Prophet Isaias.—THUS saith the Lord God: There shall come forth a rod out of the root of Jesse, and a flower shall rise up out of his root. And the spirit of the Lord shall rest upon Him: the spirit of wisdom and of understanding, the spirit of counsel and of fortitude, the spirit of knowledge and of godliness, and He shall be filled with the spirit of the fear of the Lord. He shall not judge according to the sight of the eyes, nor reprove according to the hearing of the ears: but He shall judge the poor with justice, and shall reprove with equity for the meek of the earth: and He shall strike the earth with the rod of His mouth, and with the breath of His lips He shall slay the wicked. And justice shall be the girdle of His loins: and faith the girdle of His reins.

Léctio Isaïae Prophétae.—HAEC dicit Dóminus Deus: Egrediétur virga de radíce Jesse, et flos de radíce ejus ascéndet. Et requiéscet super eum spíritus Dómini: spíritus sapiéntiae, et intelléctus, spíritus consílii, et fortitúdinis, spíritus sciéntiae, et pietátis, et replébit eum spíritus timóris Dómini. Non secúndum visiónem oculórum judicábit: neque secúndum audítum áurium árguet: sed judicábit in justítia páuperes, et árguet in aequitáte pro mansuétis terrae: et percútiet terram virga oris sui, et spíritu labiórum suórum interfíciet ímpium. Et erit justítia cíngulum lumbórum ejus: et fides cinctórium renum ejus.

Gradual: Psalm lxxxiv. 8, 2.

Osténde nobis, Dómine, misericórdiam tuam: et salutáre tuum da nobis. ℣. Benedixísti, Dómine, terram tuam: avertísti captivitátem Jacob.

Show us, O Lord, Thy mercy, and grant us Thy salvation. ℣. Lord, Thou hast blessed Thy land: Thou hast turned away the captivity of Jacob. *

Gospel: Luke i. 39-47.

Mary greets Elizabeth and Jesus greets John: Mary sanctifies Elizabeth and Jesus sanctifies John.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Exsúrgens María ábiit in montána cum festinatióne in civitátem Juda: et intrávit in domum Zacharíae, et salutávit Elísabeth. Et factum est, ut audívit salutatiónem Maríae Elísabeth, exsultávit infáns in útero ejus: et repléta est Spíritu Sancto Elísabeth: et exclamávit voce magna, et dixit: Benedicta tu inter mulieres, et benedictus fructus ventris tui. Et unde hoc mihi, ut véniat mater Dómini mei ad me? Ecce enim, ut facta est vox salutatiónis tuae in áuribus meis, exsultávit in gáudio infans in útero meo. Et beáta, quae credidísti, quóniam perficiéntur ea, quae dicta sunt tibi a Dómino. Et ait María: Magníficat ánima mea Dóminum: et exsultávit spíritus meus in Deo salutári meo.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time Mary rising up went into the hill country with haste into a city of Juda: and she entered into the house of Zachary, and saluted Elizabeth. And it came to pass, that when Elizabeth heard the salutation of Mary, the infant leaped in her womb: and Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Ghost: and she cried out with a loud voice, and said: Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb. And whence is this to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me? For behold as soon as the voice of thy salutation sounded in my ears, the infant in my womb leaped for joy. And blessed art thou that hast believed, because those things shall be accomplished that were spoken to thee by the Lord. And Mary said: My soul doth magnify the Lord: and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour.

Saturday in Ember Week of Advent.

STATION AT ST. PETER'S.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

Saturday was the most solemn of the Ember Days, because that was the day on which the Church ordained her Priests in the great Basilica of St. Peter. This ordination in the tenth month of the year (called for that reason December) was the only one formerly known in Rome. Hence it was an important date.

Everything in the Mass, moreover, bears the character of a very ancient liturgy. It calls to mind, with its numerous lessons, intermingled with responses and prayers, the earliest form of the Introductory part of the Mass.

The soul that is penetrated with it finds itself filled with a holy impatience, and with the Church it aspires to the new birth of the only begotten Son of God, Who comes to deliver us from the yoke of sin (Second Collect).

The Gospel brings before us the image of St. John the Baptist, who prepares our souls each year for the coming of the Saviour. The same Gospel is again found in the Mass of the following day, because formerly the ordination, taking place in the evening, lasted well into the night and thus encroaching on the Sunday provided it with its liturgy.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, AB c 33.

Let us prepare our souls alike for the near approach of our Saviour and for the coming of our Judge spoken of in the Epistle.

Introit: Psalm lxxix. 4, 2.

COME, O Lord, and show us Thy face, Thou that sittest upon the Cherubims: and we shall be saved. Give ear, O Thou that rulest Israel: Thou that leadest Joseph like a sheep. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Lesson from the Prophet Daniel.—IN those days the Angel of the Lord went down with Azarias and his companions into the furnace: and he drove the flame of the fire out of the furnace, and made the midst of the furnace like the blowing of a wind bringing dew. And the flame mounted up above the furnace nine and forty cubits: and it broke forth, and burnt such of the Chaldeans as it found near the furnace, the king's servants that heated it. And the fire touched them not at all, nor troubled them, nor did them any harm. Then these three as with one mouth praised and glorified and blessed God in the furnace, saying:—

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Thessalonicénses. —FRATRES: Rogámus vos per advéntum Dómini nostri Jesu

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Thessalonians.—BRETHREN, We beseech you by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and of our gathering together unto Him: that you be not easily moved from your sense, nor be terrified, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by epistle as sent from us, as if the day of the Lord were at hand. Let no man deceive you by any means: for unless there come a revolt first, and the man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition who opposeth and is lifted up above all that is called God or that is worshipped, so that he sitteth in the temple of God showing himself as if he were God. Remember you not that, when I was yet with you, I told you these things? And now you know what withholdeth, that he may be revealed in his time. For the mystery of iniquity already worketh: only that he who now holdeth do hold, until he be taken out of the way. And then that wicked one shall be revealed, whom the Lord Jesus shall kill with the spirit of His mouth, and shall destroy with the brightness of His coming.

Fourth Sunday of Advent.

STATION AT THE CHURCH OF THE TWELVE APOSTLES.*

(Indulgence of 15 years and 15 quarantines.)

Privileged Sunday of the Second Class. Semi-double.

Purple vestments.

Whereas the Church during the whole year offers her prayers to God the Father in union with Jesus Christ "per D.N.J.C.," during Advent she addresses herself directly to the Word, and not to the Word Incarnate, as is shown by to-day's Collect. Only on the Second Sunday does she entreat God the Father to prepare our hearts for the coming of His Son ; but she asks this of God without laying stress on the mediation of Jesus. The Liturgy reminds us, indeed, during these four weeks of the time during which the world was without Jesus. This Mediator we now await, and since we can only go to God through Him, we implore Him to hasten His coming (Collect). "Come, O Lord, and tarry not" (Alleluia). "The Lord is nigh" (Gradual), and it is Mary who is about to give Him to us. The Offertory and the Communion are consecrated to His praises. In the Offertory especially we find the AVE MARIA, in which the Church in a single salutation combines the words of the Angel and those of St. Elizabeth, which were given us in the Gospels of the preceding Wednesday and Friday.

As the Mass of the Saturday in Ember Week was celebrated during the night, the Church later composed the Mass for the Sunday, with its Scriptural passages borrowed from the Masses of the preceding days. Hence its Gospel is the same as that of its eve (the Saturday in Ember Week), and in the Epistle the ordinations are alluded to. It speaks of the ministers of Christ, and addressing those who judge their pastors it reminds them, with St. Paul, that He alone Who shall come one day as Judge has the right to do this.

In the liturgy of this day allusion is made in the Gospel to the coming of mercy proclaimed by St. John the Baptist, and in the Epistle to the coming of justice at the end of time.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

The outstanding event in the history of the world is about to take place. Jesus, introduced by St. John, is about to commence His public ministry. It is important to determine definitely the exact date of this event.

And he came into all the country about the Jordan, preaching the baptism of penance for the remission of sins, as it was written in the book of the sayings of Isaias the prophet: A voice of one crying in the wilderness: Prepare ye the way of the Lord: make straight His paths: every valley shall be filled: and every mountain and hill shall be brought low, and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough ways plain: and all flesh shall see the salvation of God.—Creed.

THE MYSTERY OF THE INCARNATION.

Christmas Cycle
- (1) Season of Advent (First Sunday of Advent to December 24).
- (2) Christmastide (December 25 to January 14).
- (3) After the Epiphany (January 24 to Septuagesima Sunday).

2. Christmastide.

(From the Vigil of Christmas to January 14.)

1. Christmastide from a Doctrinal Point of View.

The Season of Advent had made us long for the coming of the Word. The Season of Christmas helps us to assist at His coming into this world. " When the sun shall have risen in the heavens, ye shall see the King of kings, Who proceedeth from the Father, as a bridegroom coming out of his bride chamber." * " And the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us," says St. John.†

The Church at this period of the year deals exclusively with the mysteries of the Infancy of Christ. She reminds us of the manifestation to the Jewish race (the Nativity: December 25) and to the heathen world (the Epiphany : January 6) of the great Mystery of the Incarnation, which consists of the union in Jesus of the Word " begotten of the substance of the Father before all the ages " with the humanity " engendered of the substance of His mother in the world." ‡ And this mystery is made complete by the union of our souls with Christ, Who causes us to be born to the Divine life : " As many as received Him, He gave them power to become the sons of God." § The declaration of the triple birth of the Word, Who from all eternity derives His Divine nature from the Father, Who " takes up humanity unto Himself " given to Him in time by the Virgin,* and Who unites our souls to Him in the course of the centuries, forms the subject of the liturgy during the season of Christmas.

A.—The Eternal Birth of the Word.

"God," says St. Paul, "inhabiteth light inaccessible." † And Jesus came down on earth to teach us to know His Father. " No one knoweth the Father but the Son, and he to whom it shall please the Son to reveal Him." ‡ The Word made flesh is therefore for us the manifestation of God, it is God made man, revealing to us the Father. The importance the Church attaches to this manifestation of the Divinity of Jesus Christ, in the liturgy of Christmas, is therefore not surprising. One might even say that this time of the year is mostly concerned with showing us in the Messiah the Son of God, reserving the opportunity of showing Him to us as the Man of Sorrows until Lent and Passion Time.

Under the attractive features of this newly born child the Church lets us distinguish, as though through a transparency, the Divinity, become, we might almost say, visible and palpable. " He that seeth Me seeth the Father," § said Jesus. " By the mystery of the Word made flesh," adds the Preface of Christmas, " we visibly know God; " and in order to emphasise the fact that it is the contemplation of the Word that is the foundation of the spirit of this season, it is chiefly from the writings of the two Apostles St. John and St. Paul, who are preeminently the heralds of the Divinity of Christ, that are borrowed the passages in which they treat of it with the greatest knowledge and profundity.

The liturgy of Christmas brings us likewise to our knees with Mary and Joseph before God clothed with our humanity : " Christ is born for us: come, let us adore Him ; " ‖ " with all the heavenly hosts " it causes us to sing " Glory to God ; " ¶ with the humble procession of shepherds who wend their way to the manger it " makes us come with haste to glorify and praise God ; "  it mingles us with the sumptuous caravan of the Magi Kings, that with them we may " fall down before the Child and adore Him." ††

B.—The Temporal Birth of the Humanity of Jesus.

This God Whom we adore is the Divinity united to humanity in what is most lovely and weak in it, in order that we may not be dazzled by His light and that we may approach Him without fear. To know the mysteries of the infancy of the Saviour and to enter into the spirit of them is the A B C of the spiritual life. So we contemplate Christ during the few following weeks at Bethlehem, in Egypt, and at Nazareth.

Mary brought forth her Divine Son, wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger. Joseph surrounded the child with every paternal care. He is its father, not only because, as the spouse of the Virgin, he has rights over the fruit of her womb, but also, as Bossuet says, because whilst " others adopt children, Jesus adopted a father."

§ John xiv.9.
‖ Invitatory of Christmas.
¶ Gospel of the Midnight Mass.
 Gospel of the Mass at Dawn.
†† Gospel of the Epiphany.

The three blessed names of Jesus, Mary and Joseph are consequently like precious pearls enshrined in the Scriptural passages in the liturgy of Christmas: "Mary, the mother of Jesus, was espoused to Joseph." * "They found Mary and Joseph, and the Infant," † "Joseph and Mary the mother of Jesus." ‡ "Joseph, take the Child and His Mother." § "My Son, Thy father and I have sought Thee sorrowing." ||

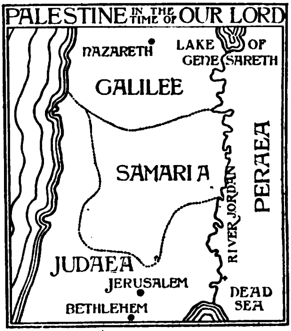
C.—The Spiritual Birth of the Mystical Body of Jesus.

But, says St. Thomas, "It was not for His own sake that the Son of God became Man, but that He might make us to be Gods through grace." ¶

The assimilation of the human nature with God corresponds to the assimilation of the Divine nature with man. "The whole Christ," says St. Augustine, "is Jesus Christ and all Christians. He is the head, we are the members." With Jesus we are for ever being born more and more to the supernatural life, for "the birth of the head involves that of the body." **

It is fitting, therefore, that during the festival of Christmas we "abound in good works," †† thus showing that we are "born of God and become His children;" ‡‡ "that we, who are filled with the new light of the Incarnate Word, may show forth in our works what by faith shines out in our minds." §§ This is then the special grace of the Season of Christmas, which has for its object the widening of the Paternity of God, so that the Father may take the words which He spoke of His Word Incarnate and apply them to each of us: "Thou art My Son this day have I begotten Thee." ||||

In this holy season of Christmas, kneeling on both knees, let us repeat with holy reverence these words of the Creed: "I believe in Jesus Christ (1) Who was born of the Father before all ages: God of God, consubstantial with the Father; (2) Who came down from Heaven, was Incarnate in the womb of the Virgin Mary, and was made Man. (3) I believe in the Holy Church.



2. Christmastide from a Historical Point of View.

Between the years 747 and 749 of Rome, the general enrolling or census ordered by Caesar Augustus obliged Joseph and Mary to return from Nazareth to Bethlehem in Judea. Now, whilst they were in this locality, says St. Luke, the Virgin brought forth her first-born Son (Gospel of the Midnight Mass). In allusion to a fourth century tradition that placed the cradle of Jesus between two animals, the Liturgy mentions two texts from the prophets, that of Isaias: "The ox knoweth his owner and the ass his master's crib" (i. 3), and that of Habacuc: "Lord, Thou wilt manifest Thyself between two animals" (iii. 2 according to the Greek Bible of the Septuagint).

§§ Collect of the Mass at Dawn. |||| Introit of the Midnight Mass.

There were some shepherds in the neighbourhood who watched by night over their flocks. Apprised by an angel, they went with haste to Bethlehem (Gospel of the Mass at Dawn). The first antiphon at Lauds of Christmas addresses itself to them : " What have ye seen, shepherds? Tell us, who is appeared in the earth?" And they replied: " We saw the new-born Child, and angels singing praise to the Lord, Alleluia, alleluia."

Eight days later, the Divine Child was circumcised by Joseph (Circumcision: January 1) and received the name of Jesus (Feast of the Holy Name of Jesus : January 2) which the Angel had made known to Joseph and Mary. And forty days after Mary had brought her Son into the world, she went to the Temple to offer the sacrifice ordered by the Law (Presentation: February 2). It was then that Simeon prophesied that Jesus would save His people and that a sword of sorrow should pierce His mother's heart (Gospel of the Sunday within the Octave of Christmas).

The procession of shepherds was soon followed by another, that of the Magi. They came from the East to Jerusalem, guided by a star, and, acting on the advice of the high-priests, they went to Bethlehem, for it was there, according to the Prophet Micah, that the Messiah was to be born. They found the Child there with Mary His mother, and, prostrating themselves, they adored Him. Then, warned in a dream, they returned home without passing by Jerusalem (Gospel of the Epiphany).

Herod, who had asked them to inform him where the Child was to be found, seeing that the Magi had made a laughing-stock of him, became greatly enraged, and ordered all children of two years old and under at Bethlehem and in the neighbourhood to be killed, thus hoping to rid himself of the King of the Jews, in Whom he feared to find a rival (Gospel of the Holy Innocents). An Angel then appeared to Joseph in his sleep, and told him to flee to Egypt with Mary and her Child. There they remained till the death of Herod. The Angel of the Lord again appeared to Joseph in a dream, and told him to return to the land of Israel. But on learning that Archelaus reigned in Judea in the place of Herod his father, and that he also was a persecutor, Joseph, fearing for the life of the Child, withdrew to the town of Nazareth in Galilee (Gospel of the Vigil of the Epiphany).

At the age of twelve, the parents of Jesus, having lost Him at Jerusalem, at the time of the feast of the Passover, found Him after a three days' search in the midst of the Doctors in the Temple. Returning to Nazareth, He " advanced in wisdom, and age, and grace with God and man " (Gospel of the Sunday within the Octave of the Epiphany).

From there, at the age of thirty, Jesus went to the Jordan to be baptised by St. John, who, upon seeing Him, declared to the Jews that He was the Messiah (Gospel of the Octave of the Epiphany).

3. Christmastide from a Liturgical Point of View.

The Season of Christmas begins with the Vigil of this feast and ends for the Temporal Cycle on the Octave of the Epiphany (January 13), and for the Sanctoral Cycle on the Feast of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin (February 2).

Its chief characteristic is the great happiness which the world feels in possessing at last its Saviour. It is a season, therefore, of "great joy to all people." * With the Angels, with the shepherds, but with the Magi especially, these first-fruits of the Gentiles, let us therefore "rejoice with exceeding great joy,"† and with the Church, who robes her priests in white vestments and again introduces the organ in full play, let us joyfully sing "Gloria in excelsis."

It was in the midst of darkness, symbolical of that which darkens the soul, that Jesus was born (see illustration above). "While all things were in quiet silence, and the night was in the midst of her course," says the Introit of the Vigil of the Epiphany, "Thine Almighty Word, O Lord, came down from heaven, from Thy royal throne." Also, by special privilege, on the Feast of Christmas a Mass is celebrated at midnight, followed by another at dawn and a third in the morning. As the Fathers remark, it is at the moment when the sun has reached the lowest point of its course, and is, so to speak, re-born each year, that the "Sun of Justice" is born again each year at Christmas. The sun of nature and the Sun of souls, of which it is the likeness, appear together. "Christ is born unto us," says St. Augustine, "at the time when the days begin to lengthen."‡ The Feast of Christmas on December 25, which date corresponds to that of March 25, coincides with the Pagan feast celebrated at the winter solstice in honour of the birth of the sun, which they deified. The Church therefore Christianised this pagan rite.

* Gospel of the Midnight Mass. † Gospel of the Epiphany ‡ Sermon on the Nativity of our Lord.

The midnight Mass at Rome was celebrated in the Basilica of St. Mary Major, which represents Bethlehem, because some small portions of the crib of the Saviour are venerated there. This has been replaced by a silver crib in the grotto where Jesus was born.

As early as the middle of the second century this grotto was the bourn of large numbers of pilgrims. The Empress Helena had a basilica erected on this spot, and because Jesus was born in poverty it was kept very simple in character. Part of the rock was left visible, and later on, somewhere about the eighth century, when the silver crib disappeared, an altar was erected on the spot where it was conjectured that the Saviour was born.

It was in this Basilica of the Nativity that Baldwin, brother of Godfrey of Bouillon, was consecrated on the Feast of Christmas 1101, in that same city where David of old received the royal unction at the hands of the Prophet Samuel.

In the twelfth century the cradle of the Prince of Peace was very richly adorned with precious mosaics. "While the Prophets bore witness on their scrolls to the Divinity of the Messiah, and the long line of His ancestors testified to His humanity, the Church, in her solemn Councils proclaimed at the same time the complete humanity and the perfect divinity of Him Who was born at Bethlehem and Who was praised by Angels and adored by the Magi." *

The Altar, where Jesus is specially born for us on Christmas Day, will be our crib, as on this feast the words of the Mass all refer to the sole mystery of the birth of the Saviour. And, on returning to our homes, let our liturgical feelings show themselves in preserving the touching customs of the great periods of faith, when the feasts of the Church were gladly continued in the intimacy of the family life.

Every Christian household should have its little crib, around which should be recited during these days morning and evening prayers. The children would be made to understand in this way (at this time of joy devoted to childhood) that they should associate themselves with these little shepherds and wise men in adoring Jesus lying on the straw, and honour His Mother and Foster Father who on their knees contemplate Him.

The joyful Christmas carols which recall to us the simple happiness of the shepherds on this holy night, the Christmas-tree, where the needy, who represent Christ born in poverty in the crib, may benefit by a gener ous distribution of useful articles, the Twelfth Night cake of which he also has his share—the portion of the good God—and where the Twelfth Night king honours by his temporary royalty that of the Magi, or tha still greater royalty of the Infant-God, all these Christian customs should be preserved.

Echoes within the home of the religious solemnities in which we have taken part, they show how deeply the life of the Church, which is that of Jesus, penetrates and sanctifies our own lives.

Vigil of the Nativity of our Lord.

STATION AT ST. MARY MAJOR.*

(Indulgence of 15 years and 15 quarantines.)

Double from Lauds onwards. Privilege of the First Class.

Purple vestments.

The Vigil of Christmas is impregnated with holy cheerfulness, and if it were not for the vestments of penance and fasting one would almost believe that the feast had commenced. The explanation, of course, is that " the Lord is about to come, and in the morning ye shall see His glory " (Introit). " The King of glory shall enter in " (Offertory). " The glory of the Lord shall be revealed " (Communion).

This Christ, St. Paul tells us, is " of the seed of David according to the flesh, and the Son of God, according to the spirit of sanctification " (Epistle), And in the Gospel the Angel announces to " Joseph, son of David, that Mary his wife shall bring forth a Son, conceived of the Holy Ghost."

So the joy of the Church becomes exultant and she asks " that we may breathe fresh life from the celebration of the birth of the Son of God " (Postcommunion), in order that, as " we joyfully receive our Redeemer, Whom we yearly expect with gladness, so we may await also with confidence His coming as our Judge " (Collect).

Jesu María Joseph, ántequam convenírent, invénta est in útero habens de Spíritu sancto. Joseph autem vir ejus, cum esset justus, et nollet eam tradúcere, vóluit occúlte dimíttere eam. Haec autem eo cogitánte, ecce Angelus Dómini appáruit in somnis ei, dicens: Joseph, fili David, noli timére accípere Maríam cónjugem tuam: quod enim in ea natum est, de Spíritu sancto est. Pariet autem fílium, et vocábis nomen ejus Jesum: ipse enim salvum fáciet pópulum suum a peccátis eórum.

was espoused to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Holy Ghost. Whereupon Joseph her husband, being a just man and not willing publicly to expose her, was minded to put her away privately. But while he thought on these things, behold the Angel of the Lord appeared to him in his sleep, saying: Joseph, son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost. And she shall bring forth a Son, and thou shalt call His name Jesus: for He shall save His people from their sins.

FIRST MASS: AT MIDNIGHT.

STATION AT ST. MARY MAJOR,* AT THE ALTAR OF THE CRIB.
(Indulgence of 15 years and 15 quarantines.)

In the early centuries of the Church the faithful prepared themselves for solemn festivals by the recitation of the " Vigils " or the present Matins, the triple division of which corresponded to the nocturnal vigils (vigiliae) of the Romans. The " most holy night of Christmas " (Collect) is all that remains of this practice.

The Midnight Mass specially recalls the temporal birth of Jesus in His coming of grace: " Mary brings forth her first-born Son " (Gospel).

It reminds us also of the eternal birth of the Word " begotten before the dawn of ages " (Gradual and Communion), Who shall manifest Himself to all the elect when, at the end of the world, shall take place " the glorious apparition of the great God " (Epistle).

Finally it recalls the spiritual birth of Jesus in our souls, which shows itself by the exercise of virtues: " Let us be pursuers of good works " (Epistle), " that we may be found like unto Jesus, in Whom the human nature is united to the Divine " (Secret).

Let us be born to the divine life on earth by participating " in the holy mysteries of the birth of our Lord, so that we may enjoy eternal life in heaven " (Collect and Postcommunion).

Introit: Psalm ii. 7.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that the whole world should be enrolled. This enrolling was first made by Cyrinus, the governor of Syria. And all went to be enrolled, every one into his own city. And Joseph also went up from Galilee out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem: because he was of the house and family of David, to be enrolled with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child. And it came to pass, that when they were there, her days were accomplished that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped Him up in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger: because there was no room for them in the inn. And there were in the same country shepherds watching and keeping the night watches over their flock. And behold an Angel of the Lord stood by them, and the brightness of God shone round about them, and they feared with a great fear. And the Angel said to them: Fear not; for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, that shall be to all the people: for this day is born to you a Saviour, Who is Christ the Lord, in the city of David. And this shall be a sign unto you: you shall find the Infant wrapped in swaddling clothes, and laid in a manger. And suddenly there was with the Angel a multitude of the heavenly army, praising God, and saying: Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men of good will.—Creed.

THE SECOND MASS, AT DAWN.

(Indulgence of 15 years and 15 quarantines.)

The Mass at Dawn was celebrated at Rome in the old Church of St. Anastasia, the only parish situated in the centre of ancient Rome in the district inhabited by the wealthy classes. It was situated at the foot of the Palatine where the Caesars resided, and was consequently the church of the high officials of the Court. It was therefore chosen for the celebration of the second Christmas Mass. The name of this Saint is mentioned in the Canon of the Mass (second list, p. 65).

St. Anastasia, a holy widow, was burnt alive during the Diocletian persecution on this very day, December 25.

The Liturgy of the Mass makes us hail "with joy the holy King Who cometh" (Communion), "the Lord Who is born to us" (Introit), "the Infant lying in the manger" (Gospel).

*See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, E f 1, and "The Time after Whitsuntide from a Historical Point of View."

It tells us that "He Who was born Man this day shone forth also as God" (Secret), for He is "the Word made flesh" (Collect), "He shall be called God" (Introit) and "is from everlasting" (Offertory).

But it specially reminds us that this double manifestation of the Christ-Man in His coming of grace and of the Christ-God in His coming of glory should reproduce itself within us. "The goodness and kindness of God our Saviour appeared, that, being justified by the grace of Jesus Christ, we may be heirs of life everlasting" (Epistle), "that the oldness of our human nature may be overcome" (Postcommunion), that we may be "renovated of the Holy Ghost" (Epistle), and "that, bestowing upon us that which is divine" (Secret), "the light of faith which shineth in our minds, may show itself in all the splendour of our actions" (Collect).

With the shepherds, to whom the Lord manifested the Incarnation of His Son, "let us go with haste" (Gospel) and adore in the crib, which is the Altar, the Word, born in eternity of His heavenly Father, born on earth of Mary, and Who should be born increasingly in our souls by grace.

Introit: Isaias ix. 2, 6.

A LIGHT shall shine upon us this day: for the Lord is born to us: and He shall be called Wonderful, God, the Prince of Peace, the Father of the world to come: of Whose reign there shall be no end. Ps. xcii. 1. The Lord hath reigned, He is clothed with beauty: the Lord is clothed with strength, and hath girded Himself. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

LUX fulgébit hódie super nos: quia natus est nobis Dóminus: et vocábitur Admirábilis, Deus, Princeps pacis, Pater futúri saeculi: cujus regni non erit finis. Ps. Dóminus regnávit, decórem indútus est: indútus est Dóminus fortitúdinem, et praecínxit se. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

Grant, we beseech Thee, Almighty God, that we, who are bathed in the new light of Thy Word made flesh, may show forth in our actions that which by faith shineth in our minds. Through the same Lord.

THIRD MASS, DURING THE DAYTIME OF THE NATIVITY OF OUR SAVIOUR.

(Plenary Indulgence.)

Like Midnight Mass, the Mass of the day is celebrated in the great Basilica of St. Mary Major, which represents Bethlehem at Rome, and where portions of the crib of our Saviour are venerated.

The Gospel of this Mass sums up all the liturgy of the Christmas Season, which manifests to us the triple filiation of Jesus. With regard to the Father as God, His birth is eternal : " In the beginning the Word was with God." As Man it is temporal : " The Word was made flesh." As living in the Church, which is His Mystical Body, it is spiritual : " As many as received Him, to them He gave power to be made the sons of God, to be born of God."

The Mass of the day dwells, however, more especially on the generation of the Word. " All things were made by Him " (Gospel), " it was by Him that God made the world " (Epistle), " the world and the fulness thereof Thou hast founded " (Offertory). Also it invites " the nations to come and adore the Lord " (Alleluia), and shows us " the Angels who adore Him " (Epistle), " the Kings who adore Him " (Last Gospel), whilst at the Creed the Priests kneel before " the only-begotten Son of God made Man."

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, G d 26.

Let us rejoice with the Church because " all the earth has seen His Salvation " (Gradual). Let us be born here below with Jesus to a life ever more " cleansed from the stain of sin and divine " (Secret, Postcommunion), so that in heaven we may be able to " partake of the immortality of Him Who, being God, lives and reigns with the Father, in the unity of the Holy Ghost, for ever and ever. Amen " (Postcommunion).

If this feast falls on a Sunday, every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

Introit : Isaias ix. 6.

A CHILD is born to us, and a Son is given to us: whose government is upon His shoulder: and His name shall be called, the Angel of great counsel. Ps. xcvii. 1. Sing ye to the Lord a new canticle: because He hath done wonderful things. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Hebrews.—GOD, Who at sundry times and in divers manners spoke in times past to the fathers by the prophets, last of all in these days hath spoken to us by His Son, Whom He hath appointed heir of all things, by Whom also He made the world : * Who being the brightness of His glory and the figure of His substance, and upholding all things by the word of His power, making purgation of sins, sitteth

And to the angels indeed He saith: He that maketh His angels spirits, and His ministers a flame of fire. STATION AT ST. STEPHEN'S ON THE COELIAN HILL.†

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Double of the Second Class with simple Octave.

Red vestments.

The Church was still in her infancy when Stephen, renowned for his virtues, received from the Apostles the mission to organise the meals where the poor were fed in common. He worked such "great wonders and signs among the people" that the Jews from five different synagogues became alarmed and summoned him before the Sanhedrim (Epistle).

Jesus had upbraided the Jews "for having killed and stoned the Prophets" (Gospel); Stephen in his turn, addressing his judges, declared that in crucifying Christ they had shown themselves worthy of their fathers who put to death the messengers of God. The holy deacon then lifting his eyes to heaven said that "he saw the Son of Man standing on the right hand of God" (Epistle). What a splendid testimony to the Divinity of this Child Whom we venerate in the crib!

On hearing these words, the Jews, fulfilling once more the words of the Master (Gospel), "with one accord ran violently upon Stephen and stoned him," who, falling on his knees, commended his soul to Jesus (Epistle) and asked pardon for his executioners.

Stephen is the first of the witnesses of Christ, it is therefore only right that he should appear first in the glorious procession of Saints who surround the cradle of the Saviour. It is a tendency noticeable in a Greek martyrology of the fourth century to connect the greatest of the New Testament Saints with the Feast of the Nativity. His name is inscribed in the Canon of the Mass (second list, p. 65).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

Now there arose some, of that, which is called the synagogue of the Libertines and of the Cyrenians and of the Alexandrians and of them that were of Cilicia and Asia, disputing with Stephen: and they were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit that spoke. Now hearing these things, they were cut to the heart, and they gnashed with their teeth at him. But Stephen being full of the Holy Ghost, looking up

St. John, Apostle and Evangelist.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Double of the Second Class with Simple Octave.—White vestments.

The Station was held at St. Mary Major, † in honour of her to whom Jesus on the Cross entrusted St. John: "Woman, behold thy son."

It is God Whom we adore at Bethlehem during Christmas Time. It was natural, therefore, that St. John, who was the chief evangelist of the Divinity of Christ, should be found beside the crib, to disclose the greatness of the Infant Who reposes therein.

It is to him that Jesus will entrust His mother when Joseph shall have passed away. The liturgy, therefore, loves to show together, beside the Child and His Mother, him whom the Gospel calls the Just Man,‡ and whom the Church to-day honours with the same title (Offertory).

The Infant God in the crib gathers around Him pure souls: Mary is the Blessed Virgin, Joseph the chaste spouse, St. Stephen the first martyr who washes his robe in the blood of the Lamb. Now behold St. John, the virgin apostle. Crowned with the halo of those who knew how to conquer their flesh, for this reason he became "the disciple whom Jesus loved, and who also leaned on His breast at supper" (Gospel). Thanks to his angelic purity, he imbibed that wholesome wisdom of which the Epistle speaks and which has won for him the halo of Doctors. The Introit of his Mass is the one the Church uses in the "Common of Doctors."—It is to St. John, who wrote a Gospel, three Epistles and the Apocalypse, that we owe the most beautiful pages on the Divinity of the Word made flesh; and it is for this reason that he is symbolised by the eagle which soars in the heights.—Finally he received the halo of the martyr, since he only escaped a violent death by that special protection of which the Gospel speaks and which made many believe that the beloved disciple would not die. Actually he did not depart this life until all the other Apostles had passed away. His name is mentioned with theirs in the Canon of the Mass (first list, p. 59).

The desire to connect the great Saints with the Feast of the Nativity was the cause of celebrating on this day, except at Rome, the feast of St. James, brother of St. John, and on the 28th that of St. Peter and St. Paul.

" On this day, wine offered by the faithful is blessed in remembrance and in honour of St. John, who, without any ill effects, drank a cup of poisoned wine " (Roman Ritual).

DECEMBER 28.

The Holy Innocents, Martyrs.*

STATION AT ST. PAUL-WITHOUT-THE-WALLS.†

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines).

Double of the Second Class with Simple Octave.—Purple vestments.

The Feast of the Holy Innocents dates back to about the fifth century. The massacre of these infants manifests the royal character of Jesus. It is because Herod believed the words of the Magi and those of the High Priests whom he consulted that he sees a rival in the Infant of Bethlehem and jealously pursues " He that is born King of the Jews."‡ But as the Church sings " O cruel Herod, why thus fear, Thy King and God who comes below? No earthly crown comes He to take, Who heavenly kingdoms doth bestow." §

It is this God-King that " the Innocents by dying confess " (Collect). " Their passion is the exaltation of Christ."|| And the praise that they render to God is a subject of confusion to the enemies of Jesus (Introit), for, far from attaining their object, they only served to fulfil the saying of the Prophet " out of Egypt have I called My Son " (Gospel), and that at Bethlehem would be heard the lamentations of the mothers mourning for their children. To picture to us their desolation in more vivid colours, Jeremias recalls Rachel whose lamentations are heard in Rama,¶ bewailing her children because they are not. Like a compassionate mother, the Church robes her Priests to-day in vestments of mourning, and suppresses the Gloria and Alleluia.

This feast was celebrated at St. Paul-without-the-Walls, because the bodies of several of these holy martyrs are venerated there.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

Lesson from the book of the Apocalypse of the blessed Apostle John.—In those days I beheld a Lamb stood upon Mount Sion, and with Him an hundred forty-four thousand, having His name and the name of His Father written on their foreheads. And I heard a voice from heaven, as the noise of many waters and as the voice of great thunder: and the voice which I heard was as the voice of harpers, harping on their harps. And they sung as it were a new canticle before the throne, and before the four living creatures and the ancients: and no man could say the canticle, but those hundred forty-four thousand who were purchased from the earth. These are they who were not defiled with women: for they are virgins. These follow the Lamb whithersoever He goeth. These were purchased from among men, the firstfruits to God and to the Lamb: and in their mouth there was found no lie: for they are without spot before the throne of God.

Sunday within the Octave of the Nativity of our Lord

Semi-double.—White vestments.

The Mass tells us that " the Word come down from heaven during the night " of Christmas (Introit) is " the Son of God Who has come that we might participate of His heritage and receive the adoption of sons" (Epistle). Before Him man was as " a child who during his minority differeth nothing from a servant " (Epistle). Now, on the contrary, that the New Law has emancipated him from the tutorship of the Old Law " he is no longer a servant, but a son " (Epistle).

In revealing to us this supernatural filiation of Christ, which affects our souls more especially at this Season of Christmas, the liturgy makes the Divinity under the aspect of Paternity resplendent in our eyes. Also, the worship of the sons of God is summed up in that word spoken with Jesus, from the lips and by a holy life, " Father ! " (Epistle).

The Gospel also discloses to us the glorious mission which the future has in store for this Child, the manifestation of which commences to-day in the Temple.

" It is the King " (Gradual), " whose reign " (Alleluia) " will reach the very depths of the heart " (Gospel). For all it will be a touchstone, a stumbling block for those who will persecute Him (Communion), a corner-stone " for many in Israel " (Gospel).

The Introit alludes to the night when the Angel of God struck down the first-born of the Egyptians * and thus prepared the deliverance of Israel, a symbol of the most holy night when Holy Mary brought the Saviour into the world, † Who had come to deliver mankind.

And Simeon blessed them, and said to Mary His mother: Behold, this child is set for the fall, and for the resurrection of many in Israel: and for a sign which shall be contradicted: and thy own soul a sword shall pierce, that out of many hearts thoughts may be revealed. And there was one Anna a prophetess, the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Aser: she was far advanced in years, and had lived with her husband seven years from her virginity. And she was a widow until fourscore and four years: who departed not from the temple, by fastings and prayers serving night and day. Now she, at the same hour, coming in, confessed to the Lord: and spoke of Him to all that looked for the redemption of Israel. And after they had performed all things according to the law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee, to their city Nazareth. And the Child grew and waxed strong, full of wisdom : and the grace of God was in Him.—Creed.

St. Thomas of Canterbury, Bishop and Martyr.*

Double.—Red vestments.

The Season of Christmas, by manifesting to us the Divine filiation of the Child in the crib, shows us, as the Epistle of the day reminds us, that He is a Priest. His priesthood consists in making the life of God to penetrate our souls, and to defend, even at the cost of His life, the Divine rights of this beloved Spouse.

The Feast of St. Thomas à Becket shows us how, in participating in the dignity of the Christ-Priest as Archbishop of Canterbury, he knew how to prove himself, like Christ, the shepherd who defends his flock against the ravages of the wolf (Gospel).

Henry II., King of England, wished him to sanction customs contrary to the liberties of the Church. St. Thomas knew that to make this Divine society subservient to the secular power would be to violate her very constitution, and so he declared that " as a Priest of Jesus Christ he would willingly suffer death in defence of the Church of God." He was slain in his cathedral by the king's soldiers on December 29, 1170.

Against those who seek to enslave the Church, let us neither employ the craft of politics nor the weapons of warfare, but, after the example " of the glorious Thomas who fell by the swords of the wicked in the defence of the Church " (Collect), let us know how to withstand resolutely with all the moral force that the defence of the rights of God inspires.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Hebrews.—BRETHREN : Every high priest taken from among men is ordained for men in the things that appertain to God : that he may offer up gifts, and sacrifices for sins : who can have compassion on them that are ignorant and that err : because he himself also is compassed with infirmity : and therefore he ought, as for the people so also for himself, to offer for sins. Neither doth any man take the honour to himself, but he that is called by God, as Aaron was. So Christ also did not glorify Himself that He might be made a high priest ; but He that said unto Him : Thou art My Son, this day have I begotten Thee. As He saith also in another place : Thou art a priest for ever, according to the order of Melchisedech.

Gospel: John x. 11-16.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus said to the Pharisees: I am the Good Shepherd. The Good Shepherd giveth His life for His sheep. But the hireling, and he that is not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and flieth: and the wolf catcheth and scattereth the sheep: and the hireling flieth, because he is a hireling and he hath no care for the sheep. I am the Good Shepherd: and I know Mine, and Mine know Me. As the Father knoweth Me, and I know the Father: and I lay down My life for My sheep. And other sheep I have that are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear My voice, and there shall be one fold and one shepherd.—Credo, on account of the Octave.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus Pharisaeis: Ego sum pastor bonus. Bonus pastor ánimam suam dat pro óvibus suis. Mercenárius autem, et qui non est pastor, cujus non sunt oves própriae, videt lupum veniéntem, et dimíttit oves, et fugit: et lupus rapit, et dispérgit oves: mercenárius autem fugit, quia mercenárius est, et non pértinet ad eum de óvibus. Ego sum pastor bonus: et cognósco meas, et cognóscunt me meae. Sicut novit me Pater, et ego agnósco Patrem: et ánimam meam pono pro óvibus meis. Et álias oves hábeo, quae non sunt ex hoc ovíli: et illas opórtet me addúcere, et vocem meam áudient, et fiet unum ovíle, et unus pastor.—Credo.

DECEMBER 30.

Mass for the Octave of the Nativity of our Lord.

Semi-double.—White vestments.

If December 30 falls on a Sunday, the Mass and Office above, p. 414, are said; otherwise the following Mass is said.

The Feast of Christmas, always celebrated on December 25, sanctifies in turn each day of the week; but, the birth of Jesus having taken place on a Sunday, the Church has appointed a Mass for the Sunday which falls within the Octave of Christmas. When this Sunday coincides with Christmas Day, or with either of the Feasts of St. Stephen, St. John, or the Holy Innocents, who in the liturgy form the retinue of the Infant God, the Mass of the Sunday within the Octave of Christmas is transferred to the first free day, which is December 30.

When the Sunday falls on the 31st, the day of the Feast of St. Silvester, a commemoration at least is made, so that each year the faithful, by connecting with the Church the mystery of Christmas with the Sunday, can picture it more vividly and celebrate it with greater devotion.

When the sixth day within the Octave falls on a Saturday, the Mass said is "of the Octave of the Nativity of our Lord," which, with the exception of the Epistle and Gospel which are those of the Mass at Dawn, is that of the Third Mass of Christmas (see p. 393).

St. Silvester I., Pope and Confessor.*

Double.—White vestments.

The Church, we know, reproduces in her liturgy all the phases of the life of her Divine Founder.

Scarcely born, the Infant God is persecuted by Herod: the Church still in her cradle sends to heaven her first martyr in the person of the Deacon Stephen, and her first twenty-five Popes die martyrs.

Returned from Egypt, Jesus grows in age and wisdom at Nazareth, where the years pass in quietness: under the pontificate of Silvester I. (314-335) the Church, after three hundred years of persecution, begins to enjoy liberty, which is her greatest boon. She spreads in the Roman Empire, and the Council of Nicaea (325) establishes triumphantly as against Arius the doctrine of the Divinity of the Saviour, of which the liturgy of the Season of Christmas is full.

Circumcision of our Lord and Octave of the Nativity.

Station at St. Mary's across the Tiber.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Double. Privilege of the First Class.—White vestments.

The liturgy to-day celebrates three feasts :—

1. The first is that which the old sacramentaries indicate under the title of " Within the Octave of the Lord." Jesus has been born eight days, and the Mass borrows many things from the Masses of Christmas Day.

2. The second feast reminds us that, after God, it is to Mary that we are indebted for Jesus. Formerly for this reason a second Mass was celebrated on this day in honour of the Mother of God in the Basilica of St. Mary Major. A trace of this old custom is found in the Collect, the Secret, and the Postcommunion, which are taken from the Votive Mass of the Blessed Virgin.

3. The third feast is that of the Circumcision (sixth century). Moses imposed this purificatory rite, a symbol of baptism, on all young Israelites the eighth day after their birth (Gospel).

And as this is the first Divine blood that the Saviour shed for the cleansing of our souls, the Church dwells on the necessity of our casting out all that is evil in us. " Jesus Christ gave Himself for us, that we might be redeemed from all iniquity and cleansed " (Epistle). " Vouchsafe, O Lord, to cleanse us by these heavenly mysteries " (Secret). " May this communion, O Lord, cleanse us from our guilt " (Postcommunion). It is the Christian circumcision.

Feast of the Holy Name of Jesus.*

Double of the Second Class.—White vestments.

After having made known to us the Incarnation of the Son, the Church reveals to us the greatness of His name.

It was on the occasion of the rite of Circumcision that a name was given to children among Jews. So the Church uses the same Gospel as that of the Feast of the Circumcision, and dwells on the second part which tells us that " the Child was called Jesus " (Gospel), " as God had bid that He should be called " (Collect). † This name means Saviour, for " there is no other name given to men whereby we must be saved " (Epistle).

The origin of this feast is traced to the sixteenth century, when it was celebrated by the Franciscan Order. In 1721 the Church, under the rule of Innocent XIII., made the keeping of this solemnity universal.

If we wish " to rejoice at seeing that our names are written in heaven under that of Jesus " (Postcommunion), let it be often on our lips on earth. Twenty days' indulgence are granted to those who reverently bow their heads on pronouncing or on hearing pronounced the names of Jesus and Mary, and Pius X. granted three hundred days' indulgence to those who invoke them piously with their lips or even in their heart.

If this feast falls on a Sunday every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

† The Angel Gabriel was sent by God to Mary and said to her: The Holy Spirit shall come down upon thee, " thou shalt bring forth a Son, and thou shalt call His name Jesus " (Luke i. 31).—" The Angel of the Lord appeared to him in his sleep, saying: Joseph, that which is conceived in Mary thy wife is of the Holy Ghost. ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time when Herod was dead, behold an Angel of the Lord appeared in sleep to Joseph in Egypt, saying: Arise, and take the Child and His mother, and go into the land of Israel: for they are dead that sought the life of the Child. Who arose and took the Child and His mother, and came into the land of Israel. But hearing that Archelaus reigned in Judea in the room of Herod his father, he was afraid to go thither: and being warned in sleep, retired into the quarters of Galilee. And coming he dwelt in a city called Nazareth: that it might be fulfilled which was said by the prophets: † That He shall be called a Nazarene.

The Epiphany of our Lord.

STATION AT ST. PETER'S.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Double of the First Class.—Privileged Octave.

White vestments.

This feast was celebrated in the East as early as the third century and it spread to the West towards the end of the fourth century.

The word "Epiphany" means "manifestation." As at Christmas it is the mystery of a God Who makes Himself visible, but it is no longer only to the Jews that He shows Himself: "it is to the Gentiles on this day that God reveals His Son" (Collect).

And Isaias in a grand vision perceives the Church under the figure of Jerusalem, where "the kings and the nations abound, the multitude who inhabit the borders of the sea and the strength of the Gentiles. They come from afar with their numerous caravans, singing the praises of the Lord and bringing Him gold and frankincense" (Epistle). "The kings of the earth shall adore God, and all nations shall serve Him" (Offertory). The Gospel shows the fulfilment of this prophecy.

As Christmas was designed to celebrate the union of the divinity with the humanity of Christ, so the Epiphany celebrates the mystic union of the souls of men with Jesus.

The liturgy of this day commemorates a triple manifestation of the glory of Christ. To the worshipping Magi He appears as King of our hearts; in the waters of the Jordan He is declared the Son of God, and at Cana He demonstrates His power over the elements. "To-day the Church is united to her heavenly Spouse, for Christ has washed away her sins in the Jordan, the Magi hasten with their gifts to the royal nuptials, and the guests drink with joy the water changed into wine. Alleluia."†

Lesson from Isaias the Prophet.—ARISE, be enlightened, O Jerusalem: for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee. For behold darkness shall cover the earth, and a mist the people: but the Lord shall arise upon thee, and His glory shall be seen upon thee. And the Gentiles shall walk in thy light, and kings in the brightness of thy rising. Lift up thy eyes round about and see: all these are gathered together: they are come to thee: thy sons shall come from afar, and thy daughters shall rise up at thy side. Then shalt thou see and abound, and thy heart shall wonder and be enlarged, when the multitude of the sea shall be converted to thee, the strength of Gospel: Matthew ii. 1-12.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. —When Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Juda in the days of King Herod, behold there came wise men from the East to Jerusalem, saying: Where is He that is born King of the Jews? For we have seen His star in the East, and are come to adore Him. And king Herod hearing this was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. And assembling together all the chief priests and the scribes of the people, he inquired of them where Christ should be born. But they said to him: In Bethlehem of Juda. For so it is written by the Prophet: And thou Bethlehem, the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda: for out of thee shall come forth the Captain that shall rule My people Israel. Then Herod, privately FEAST OF THE HOLY FAMILY.

Greater Double.—White vestments.

" Is it not right," says Leo XIII., " that we should celebrate the royal birth of the Son of the Sovereign Father, the House of David, and the glorious names of that ancient lineage? It is more pleasing to us, however, to recall the little House of Nazareth and the humble existence which they led there; it is more pleasing to celebrate the obscure life of Jesus.

" There the Divine Child serves His apprenticeship to the humble trade of Joseph, there in the seclusion of the home He grows in age and shows Himself happy to share in the work of the carpenter.

" His tender mother keeps with Him, the devoted wife with her husband; she is happy to be able to soothe their troubles and their labours with loving care " (Hymn for Matins).

In this humble house of Nazareth, Jesus, Mary and Joseph sanctified their family life by the exercise of the domestic virtues (Collect). There they practised, as the Epistle and the Gospel tell us, charity, mutual help, respect and obedience (Gospel). There they always found joy and peace in meditation and prayer in common. May we, after leading a life like theirs on earth, deserve to share their holy company in heaven (Collect).

Benedict XV., wishing to assure to the souls of the faithful the benefit to be derived from meditation on and imitation of the virtues of the Holy Family, extended the Feast to the whole Church.

When the Epiphany and its Octave fall on a Sunday, the Mass of the Holy Family is said in anticipation on Saturday, January 12.

Epistle: Colossians iii. 12-17.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Colossians.—BRETHREN: Put ye on therefore, as the elect of God, holy, and beloved, the bowels of mercy, benignity, humility, modesty, patience: bearing with one another and forgiving one another if any have a complaint against another. Even as the Lord hath forgiven you, so do you also. But above all these things have charity, which is the bond of perfection. And let the peace of Christ rejoice in your hearts, wherein also you are called in one body: and be ye thankful. Let the word of Christ dwell in you abundantly, in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in psalms, hymns, and spiritual canticles, singing in grace in your hearts to God. Mass of the Sunday within the Octave of the Epiphany.

Semi-double.—White vestments.

Since his Holiness Benedict XV. has extended the Feast of the Holy Family to the whole Church, and has ordered its celebration always to take place on the Sunday within the Octave of the Epiphany, the Mass of that Sunday is celebrated on another day of the week in accordance with the following rules :—

If the Feast of the Holy Family falls on any date from January 7 to 11, the Mass of the Sunday is celebrated on the following day, Monday (Jan. 8 to 17).

If the Feast of the Holy Family falls on January 12, the Mass of the Sunday is not celebrated at all, for want of a free day.

If the Epiphany (January 6) and its Octave day (January 13) fall on a Sunday, the Mass of the Holy Family (with the commemorations of the Sunday and Octave) is said in anticipation on Saturday, January 12, and the Mass of the Sunday is transferred to Saturday, January 19, the only free day. In this case it is said with the Gloria but without the Credo, with the Preface but without the Communicantes of the Epiphany, and with the Gospel " Pastores " of the Masses of the Blessed Virgin (p. 197) as last Gospel.

" This Man sitting upon a high throne, Whom a multitude of Angels adore " (Introit), is the same Divine Child that the Gospel to-day shows us " sitting in the midst of the doctors, who are astonished at His wisdom and His answers." For the first time He makes known to the Jews that God is " His Father " (Gospel).

The Church, " forming but one body in Christ " (Epistle), should be filled with this same wisdom which " far from conforming to the maxims of this world," " reforms " and regulates the human life according to " the Will of God " (Epistle). " Must I not be about My Father's business? " asked Jesus.

This supernatural wisdom, which adds its laws to those of the natural order, is beyond us. Subduing our bodies by the mortification which it imposes (Epistle), even sacrificing at times the most legitimate affections in pursuance of a divine calling which separates children from their parents, God's designs, which we must accept without fully understanding them, must necessarily be obscure to us: "They understood not the word that He spoke unto them" (Gospel).

In imitating Mary, who "kept all these words in her heart" (Gospel), let us meditate on the greatness of Jesus in the Temple, and like this Child, Whose whole life at Nazareth is summed up in the one word "submission" (Gospel), let us increase in wisdom, so that we may always "perceive what we ought to do," and in grace, so that "we may have strength to fulfil the same" (Collect).

MASS: IN EXCELSO.

Introit: Apocalypse iv. 2, v. 11.

JANUARY 13.

Octave Day of the Epiphany.

Greater Double.—Privileged day of the First Class.
White vestments.

Of the old Office, which celebrated on this day the Baptism of Jesus and the glorious manifestation that the Heavenly Father gave of His divinity, we have only preserved the Collects and Gospel. The rest is taken from the Mass of the Epiphany, so that we continue to keep in touch with the Infant of Bethlehem. The whole world was awaiting the Messiah, and now that "the Sovereign Lord has come, Who holds in His hand the kingdom, and power and dominion" over all hearts (Introit), it is time that John appeared, "that man sent from God" (Last Gospel), "that Jesus may be made manifest in Israel" (Gospel). The holiness of the Forerunner is recognised by all the Jews and Gentiles, who come in crowds (Epistle) to receive his baptism of penance. He has all the influence over them necessary for the fulfilment of his mission, which is to present officially the Bridegroom to the Bride, Christ to the souls of men.

The Gospel tells us that John saw the Holy Ghost come down upon Jesus, and that he gave "testimony that He was the Son of God" Who "appeared on earth in the substance of our flesh" (Collect).

The waters are from henceforth sanctified by their contact with the Man-God. It is by Baptism, in fact, that "all nations shall be made to serve Jesus" (Offertory).

Mass as on the Feast, p. 441, except the following:—

O God, Whose only-begotten Son appeared in the substance of our flesh, grant, we beseech Thee, that we may be inwardly reformed by Him, Whom we recognise to have been outwardly like unto ourselves: Who with Thee.

Gospel: John i. 29-34.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—AT that time John saw Jesus coming to him, and he saith: Behold the Lamb of God, behold Him Who taketh away the sin of the world. This is He of Whom I said: After me there cometh a man, Who is preferred before me: because He was before me. And I knew Him not, but that He may be made manifest in Israel, therefore am I come baptising with water. And John gave testimony, saying: I saw the Spirit coming down as a dove from heaven, and He remained upon Him. And I knew Him not: but He Who sent me to baptise with water said to me: He upon Whom thou shalt see the Spirit descending and remaining upon Him, He it is that baptiseth with the Holy Ghost. And I saw: and I gave testimony that this is the Son of God.—Creed.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—IN illo témpore: Vidit Joánnes Jesum veniéntem ad se, et ait: Ecce Agnus Dei, ecce qui tollit peccátum mundi. Hic est, de quo dixi: Post me venit vir, qui ante me factus est: quia prior me erat. Et ego nesciébam eum, sed ut manifestétur in Israel, proptérea veni ego in aqua baptizans. Et testimónium perhíbuit Joánnes, dicens: Quia vidi Spíritum descendéntem quasi colúmbam de coelo, et mansit super eum. Et ego nesciébam eum: sed qui misit me baptizáre in aqua, ille mihi dixit: Super quem víderis Spíritum descendéntem, et manéntem super eum, hic est, qui baptízat in Spíritu sancto. Et ego vidi: et testimónium perhíbui quia hic est Filius Dei.—Credo.

Places where, according to the Gospels of the Sundays after the Epiphany, Jesus gave proofs of His Divinity.

3. Time after the Epiphany.

(From January 14 to Septuagesima Sunday.)

1. Time after the Epiphany from a Doctrinal Point of View.

The Cycle of Christmas is like a grand drama in three acts, the motive of which is to make known in three distinct ways the Incarnation of the Word or the making Divine His humanity.

The first act of the Cycle of Christmas unfolds itself during the four weeks of Advent. It reveals to us by prophetic symbols and words the great dogma of God made Man, and prepares us to welcome Him on December 25.

The second act, which embraces, with the Season of Christmas, all the mysteries of the childhood of Jesus, makes us " see with our eyes and handle with our hands the Word of life Which was in the bosom of the Father and hath appeared to us, so that we may be able to enter into fellowship with the Father and with His Son Jesus Christ, that our joy may be full." *

The third act, which unfolds itself during the Time after the Epiphany, is the extension of the Season of Christmas. The divinity of Jesus continues to assert itself. It is no longer the Angels of the Gloria in excelsis, nor the Star of the Magi, nor even the voice of God the Father or the appearance of the Holy Spirit, as at the baptism of our Lord, but it is Christ Himself Who acts and speaks as God. He will require, as we shall see during the Easter Cycle, the submission of our minds and our hearts to His teaching and to the rule of life which He lays down for us ; it was necessary, therefore, that His words and His acts should first of all reveal the divine Word. And so the Gospels of the second, third and fourth Sundays after the Epiphany set forth some of His miracles, while those of the fifth and sixth Sundays sum up His divine doctrine in a few parables.

The spoken words of Christ are the direct and obvious expression of the thoughts of God. "The things that I speak, even as the Father said unto Me, so do I speak." * And as the Holy Elements are the object of our adoration because they contain the Divinity, so the doctrine of Jesus calls for our faith and respect, as forming a small portion of the eternal truth. "Those who receive carelessly the holy word are no less guilty than those who let fall to the ground the body of the Son of God." † What St. Paul said of the Holy Eucharist: "He that eateth the Body of the Lord unworthily, eateth judgment to himself," ‡ Jesus said of His sacred word: "He that receiveth not My words, the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day," § for to reject them is to reject the Divine Word Who makes Himself known to us under this form.

Christ, however, has not only "spoken the truth," ‖ but, to quote His own forcible expression, He has "done truth." ¶ Sharing in fact the nature of the Father, not only is His doctrine His, but likewise His omnipotence. "The Son cannot do any thing of Himself, but what He seeth the Father doing; for what things soever the Father doth, these the Son also doth in like manner."  Hence His miracles, like His words, are a manifestation of His divinity. "The works that I do in the name of My Father, they give testimony of Me." ††

A man would not be able to speak and act like Jesus if he were not God; also He proclaims consecutively: "If I had not come and spoken to them, they would not have sin: but now they have no excuse for their sin." "If I had not done among them the works that no other man hath done, they would not have sin: but now they have no excuse for their sin." ‡‡

These two sentences sum up all the Time after the Epiphany.

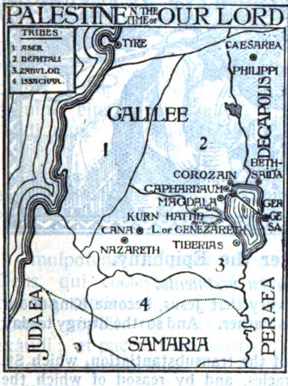
2. Time after the Epiphany from a Historical Point of View. §§

At the time of our Lord Palestine was divided into four provinces. To the east of the Jordan was Peraea; to the south-west, Judaea; in the centre, Samaria; in the north, Galilee. It was in this last region, occupied in times gone by by the tribes of Aser, Nephtali, Zabulon and Issachar, that the events took place which are recorded in the Gospels of the Sundays after the Epiphany.



It was at Cana that Jesus performed His first miracle (Second Sunday after the Epiphany). Then it was in the synagogue of Nazareth that, after His return from Judaea, He made known His sublime doctrine, when "all wondered at the things they heard" (Communion of the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Sundays after the Epiphany). It was in Galilee again that Jesus healed the leper (Gospel of the Third Sunday after the Epiphany). But it was at Capharnaum especially, within a day's walk of Nazareth, by a road which descends through the hills of Zabulon, that Jesus preached His doctrine and performed His miracles.

After the Sermon on the Mount, which tradition associates with Kurn

Hattin, to the north-west of Tiberias, Christ came down to Capharnaum, where He healed the Centurion's servant (Gospel of the Fourth Sunday after the Epiphany).

It was from a boat on the shores of the lake which owes its name Genesareth, or Valley of Flowers, to the flowery plain which borders its shores, that Jesus preached His parable of the Sower (Gospel of the Fifth Sunday after the Epiphany). The fertile hills which extend from Capharnaum to Corozain suggested the background for His allegorical representation. As for the parables of which the Gospel of the Sixth Sunday after the Epiphany speaks, they were uttered shortly after.

It was after this course of preaching that the Saviour, seeing no prospect of rest, resolved one evening to cross to the other side of the lake, to Gergesa, a town of the Tetrarchy of Iturea and Trachonitis.* The Sea of Tiberias, formed by the waters of the Jordan, is subject to sudden and terrible storms. It was there that Jesus miraculously stilled the tempest, and once more showed the Apostles that He was God.

3. Time after the Epiphany from a Liturgical Point of View.

The Time after the Epiphany begins the day after the Octave of this feast; for the Temporal Cycle it continues until Septuagesima, and for the Sanctoral Cycle till February 2, the Feast of the Purification.

Whereas the feasts of the Nativity and the Epiphany, which always fall on December 25 and January 6, give the Cycle of Christmas a fixed character, the Cycle of Easter, which is absolutely dependent on the Paschal moon, is necessarily moveable. Therefore when the Feast of the Resurrection, which can fall on any day from March 22 to April 25, is early, the ninth Sunday which precedes it, i.e. Septuagesima Sunday, encroaches on the Time after the Epiphany, which, though normally containing six Sundays, at times only has one or two (see p. 486).

Green, symbolical of hope, is the colour used for the Time after the Epiphany, as it also is for the Time after Whitsunday. Green is, in fact, the colour which predominates in nature. St. Paul said that he who ploughs the furrow should do it in the hope of reaping fruits. In like manner, during this Time after the Epiphany, the field of the Church, sown by the doctrine and the works of Jesus, is clothed with green vegetation giving the promise of a rich harvest. As an echo of Christmastide this season therefore has the characteristic note of holy joy: the joy of possessing in the person of Christ a God "mighty in work and word" (Luke xxiv. 19).

Second Sunday after the Epiphany.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

It is by shedding His blood on Calvary that Jesus, become King of our hearts, has reconciled them with His Father. And so the liturgy to-day speaks to us of peace (Collect).

In the Gospel it gives us a figure of the transubstantiation, which St. Thomas calls the greatest of all miracles, and by reason of which the Eucharistic wine becomes the blood of the testament.* And as it is the Eucharist which enables Jesus to consummate, as Bossuet has it, His mystical marriage with our souls,† the Fathers have seen in the wedding feast of Cana a symbol of the union of the Word with the Church.

Mary, full of the charity of which the Epistle speaks, asks of Jesus His first miracle on behalf of the bridegroom and bride who are in trouble because "they have no wine" for their guests (Gospel). Her power as Mother of God is so great that, at her request, Jesus anticipates the hour appointed for the "manifestation of His divinity" to His disciples so that He also places His power at the service of His love.

Six water-pots, which were used for the cleansing of hands during meals,‡ are filled to the brim; § and, after the miracle, the chief steward who was in charge of the arrangements for the feast, with all the knowledge that was his, declared the new wine to be exceptionally good. Confronted by this proof of the divinity of Jesus, "His disciples believed in Him" (Gospel). By the Mass which washes away our sins (Secret) and the communion which enables the almighty power of Jesus to transform our souls (Postcommunion), let us realise within us the mystery of the water that the priest mixes with the wine by becoming participators of the divinity of Him Who has put on our humanity.‖

* Words of the Consecration.

† "The unity of the mystical body is produced by the true Body sacramentally received" (St Thomas).

‡ "The Jews eat not without often washing their hands" (Mark vii. 3).

§ The measure would hold about 8 gallons 2 quarts; each amphora contained two or three measures, viz. from about 17 gallons to 25 gallons 2 quarts; and the six water-pots from 102 to 153 gallons ‖ Deus qui humanae (Offertory of the Mass)

Third Sunday after the Epiphany.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

The Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Sundays after the Epiphany have the same Introit, Gradual, Offertory and Communion, showing that Jesus is God, that He works wonders, and that we should adore Him.

A word from Jesus will cleanse the leper, whose cure will be officially verified by the priests " to serve for a testimony to them " of the divinity of Christ (Gospel).

As for the centurion,* he testifies with humility and confidence, and in words which the Church daily puts in our mouths at Mass, that Christ is God. He proves it also by his argument, drawn from the nature of his own position of authority, where he declares that Jesus has only to give the order and the sickness would depart. And his faith obtained for him the great miracle he besought.

Jews and Gentiles will be obliged to recognise the royal divinity of Jesus. The leper, in fact, belongs to the Chosen People of God, and has to submit to the law of Moses. The centurion, on the contrary, is not of the race of Israel, according to the Saviour. All the nations, therefore, will take part in the heavenly banquet where the divinity will be the food of their souls. And as in a banquet room all is warmth and light, the torments of hell, the punishment in store for those who deny the divinity of Christ, are well pictured by the cold and the night that prevail outside, by that " exterior darkness " which is in contrast with the dazzling splendour of the banquet room.

Let us make acts of faith in the divinity of Jesus ; and, that we may enter His kingdom, let us, by our charity, heap coals of fire on the heads of those who hate us (Epistle), that is to say such feelings of confusion as our magnanimity will provoke, which will give them no rest until they have expiated their faults.

The Gospel relates a new miracle. Jesus makes manifest His divinity by commanding such powerful and ungovernable forces in Nature as the fury of the sea and the violence of the winds. And the Evangelist emphasises the greatness of the miracle by contrasting "the great agitation of the waves" and "the great calm that came after" (Gospel). But it is in the Church that the divine sovereignty of Jesus is made manifest; also the Fathers have seen in the winds of the storm an image of the demons who in their pride raise up persecutions against the Saints, and in the turbulent seas an image of the passions and wickedness of man, causes of the breaking of the commandments and of the discords among brethren.

The law and love are, in fact, but one, as the Epistle tells us, for if the first three Commandments of the Decalogue enjoin the love of God, the seven others oblige us, as a logical consequence, to love our neighbour, for God is in him, since, by grace, we are in some measure an increase of the humanity of Jesus Christ.

"This boat" says St. Augustine, "represents the Church," who throughout the centuries makes manifest the divinity of Christ. "Notwithstanding her frailty" (Collect and Secret), she has not been engulfed "in the midst of the many dangers that beset her" (Collect).

Fifth Sunday after the Epiphany.

Semi-double.—Green vestments.

In the narratives of the Evangelists on the preceding Sundays, the divinity of Jesus was manifested in His miracles: to-day it is established by His doctrine, at which the Jews of Nazareth " wondered " (Communion).

The Holy Ghost said : " Consider all the works of the Most High, they are found in couples, one the opposite of the other." So the Gospel shows us Christ, with the devil as His opposite ; the righteous, with the sinner ; heaven, with hell as its opposite ; reward, with punishment.

The devil, the bad sower, sows in the dark cockle, which is a violent poison.

The servants of the father of the household, who represent the angels, wished to separate the good from the bad ; but as the roots of the wheat and the cockle had become entangled and impossible to separate until the time of harvest, so it is that only at the last judgment will divine justice make the necessary separation.

This parable shows that hell and its agents, intent on evil doing, try the righteous, whose merits increase in proportion to the persecutions they undergo.

Epistle: Colossians iii. 12-17.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Colossians.—BRETHREN: Put ye on therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, the bowels of mercy, benignity, humility, modesty, patience: bearing with one another and forgiving one another, if any have a complaint against another: even as the Lord hath forgiven you, so do you also. But above all these things have charity, which is the bond of perfection: and let the peace of Christ rejoice in your hearts, wherein also you are called in one body: and be ye thankful. Let the word of Christ dwell in you abundantly, in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in psalms, hymns and spiritual canticles, singing in grace in your hearts to God. All whatsoever you do in word or in work, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, giving thanks to God and the Father by Jesus Christ our Lord.

The Gospel of the day, like the whole of the liturgy of the Cycle of Christmas, to which it logically belongs, stresses the divinity of Jesus. Jesus is God, for He reveals to us " things hidden from the foundation of the world " (Gospel). His word, which He likens to a small seed cast on the field of the world, and to a little leaven put in the meal, is divine, for it stills our passions and produces in our hearts the wonders of faith, hope and charity of which the Epistle tells us.

The Church, then, stimulated by the word of Christ, is admirably represented by these three measures of meal* that the energy of fermentation has " wholly leavened " (Gospel) and by the mustard plant, the greatest of its species, where the birds of heaven are glad to find shelter.

Let us ever dwell in thought on the doctrine of Jesus (Collect), so that like the leaven it may penetrate and transform our souls, and like the mustard plant make its fruits of holiness shine in the souls of our neighbours.

SECOND PART OF THE ECCLESIASTICAL YEAR.

THE MYSTERY OF THE REDEMPTION.

Easter Cycle

1. Season of Septuagesima (Septuagesima Sunday to Ash Wednesday).
   Season of Lent (Ash Wednesday to Passion Sunday).
   Passion Time (Passion Sunday to Easter).
2. Eastertide (Easter Sunday to Trinity Sunday).
3. Timeafter Whitsuntide (Trinity Sunday to Advent).

With the Season of Septuagesima commences the Cycle which has for its centre the solemnity of solemnities, the Feast of Easter.

The Cycle of Christmas is essentially dependent on the Cycle of Easter, for if God has come down to us, it is so that we may be raised up to Him. To the Cycle of the Incarnation, where the liturgy shows us a God clothing Himself in our poor humanity, the Cycle of the Redemption corresponds, where it shows us, in the mystery of the Resurrection, Jesus clothing us with His glorious divinity.

It is "the great work that the Father gave the Son to do." * Also, the Church, which has made known to us the divinity of Christ during the first part of the ecclesiastical year, shows us now in the second part what Jesus has done to merit it for us and to impart it to us. *

Between Him and Satan there will be a great struggle, which will become more and more intensified during the three successive periods known as Septuagesima, Lent, and Passion Time.

Christ is God: His victory then is assured. And so we enter upon Eastertide, when the triumph of the Saviour over the devil, the flesh and the world is made manifest in His Resurrection, in His Ascension and in the foundation of the Church, on whom He sends down the Holy Spirit.

And in the Time after Whitsuntide Jesus continues to send down this life-giving Spirit, which enables the infant Church to expand in the course of the centuries until it attains unto " the fulness of Christ." †

In former times the Church devoted (1) to public penance by sinful Christians and to the initiation of catechumens the weeks which preceded this great feast; (2) to their entry into the Church by way of the Sacrament of reconciliation or of Baptism the solemnities of the Resurrection of Christ; (3) to their preservation and increase in the spiritual and divine life Whitsunday and following Sundays.

1. Septuagesima from a Doctrinal Point of View.

After the enthusiastic reception given to Christ on account of " the divine glory which shines in His face," ‡ the Church suddenly confronts us with the profound darkness of fallen humanity. As at the Cycle of Christmas, she again takes up the study of the Old Testament; no longer now, however, to contemplate our greatness, but the depth of our misery.

The assertion of the dogma of original sin and the picture of its lamentable consequences bring into prominence the glorious title of Saviour which belongs to Jesus. We see here the fall of Adam—original sin—and its fatal consequences (Septuagesima), the wickedness of man—actual sin—and its punishment, the deluge (Sexagesima), and finally Abraham, whose race alone will remain faithful to God, and who in sacrificing his son, like Melchisedech § in offering bread and wine (Quinquagesima), foreshadows the sacrifice that God required of His own Son for the expiation of the sins of the whole human race.

The Gospel of the workers in the vineyard reminds us that the Redemption applies to all ages, || that of the Sower that it affects all souls, ¶ while that which relates the cure of the blind man of Jericho, following on the announcement of the Passion, shows the beneficial effects it produces in us. The Epistles of St. Paul on these three Sundays are timely reminders that the Church at this season is called upon to perfect the work of the Saviour by submitting herself courageously to the purifying discipline of penance.

* The word Jesus means Saviour, while the word Christ reminds us that He was the anointed of the Divinity. The name of Jesus Christ, or of the Man-God, perfectly sums up therefore the Cycle of Easter, which in particular analyses the role of Jesus as Saviour in His human capacity, and that of Christmas, which describes the role of Christ in His Divine capacity.

† Ephesians iv. 13. ‡ 2 Corinthians iv. 6.

§ It was at Sichem (see map opposite), where Abraham erected his first altar to Jehovah, that Christ declared Himself for the first time to the Samaritan woman as the Saviour of men, and it is Jerusalem, of which Melchisedech was king, that He will choose to be the capital of His kingdom: it is there that He will establish the glorious throne of His Cross.

2. Septuagesima from a Historical Point of View.

The Season of Septuagesima represents to us a part of the public life of our Saviour.

The Gospel of Sexagesima Sunday refers to the second year of His Ministry. It gives us the parable of the Sower, related on the banks of the Lake of Genesareth at Capharnaum and inspired by the green-clad hills which adjoin it.

The Gospel of Septuagesima Sunday places before our minds the parable of the workers in the vineyard, related by Jesus in Peraea in the third year of His ministry.

The Feast of Easter, when the Saviour is to be sacrificed, approaches and He announces to His Apostles that the predictions of the Prophets regarding His Passion and Death are about to be accomplished. To return to Jerusalem He crosses the Jordan, and it is at Jericho that He heals the blind man of whom the Gospel of Quinquagesima tells us.

3. Septuagesima from a Liturgical Point of View.

The Season of Septuagesima commences always the ninth week before Easter and contains three Sundays called Septuagesima (seventieth), Sexagesima (sixtieth), and Quinquagesima (fiftieth). These names, taken from the numerical system in use, mark the series of decades counting back from Quadragesima (fortieth), whence the French word for Lent, "Careme," is derived.*

The Feast of Easter is movable and can fall, according to the year, on any date from March 22 to April 25. When it is early, the Season of Septuagesima encroaches on the Time after the Epiphany, the various Sundays of which are then kept on the twenty-third Sunday after Pentecost.†

This liturgical period is a prelude to the Season of Lent and a distant preparation for the Feast of Easter. It serves as a transition period for the soul, from the joys of the Cycle of Christmas to the penitential austerity of Holy Lent. If fasting is not yet compulsory, the colour of the vestments is purple, the Gloria is suspended, and the martyrology introduces the day to us as "The Sunday of Septuagesima, when the Canticle of the Lord, which is the Alleluia, is put aside." "How could we possibly sing the Canticle of the Lord in a strange land?" asked the people of Israel. So we, too, give up this song of joy during this period, the spirit and the name of which (Septuagesima or seventieth) recall to mind the seventy years of the captivity of Babylon.

This Season ends for the Temporal Cycle on Ash Wednesday; as regards the Sanctoral Cycle, when the Feast of Easter falls on April 25 the Season extends at the very utmost to March 10.

Semi-double.—Privilege of the Second Class.

Man, victim of the sin of Adam † and of his own sins, " is justly afflicted " (Collect), " groans and sorrows encompass him " (Introit). Hence St. Paul compares life to an arena where we must fight and mortify ourselves if we wish to obtain the victory (Epistle).

The Gospel in turn shows us that we must all work to obtain the recompense, which is eternal life. The master of the vineyard goes out in fact at all hours. After having warned us at our birth (first hour), He comes to us in our youth (third hour), in the prime of our life (sixth hour), at middle age (ninth hour), and in our old age (eleventh hour).

In the same way He has called unto mankind from the creation. " The morning," says St. Gregory, " is the period that elapsed from the time of Adam to Noah, the third hour from Noah to Abraham, the sixth hour from Abraham to Moses, the ninth hour from Moses to the coming of the Lord, and at the eleventh hour the Gentiles are called."

Israel has not answered to the call. Out of the 600,000 men who passed through the Red Sea, only two succeeded in entering the Promised Land (Epistle). Jesus scarcely found the Jews in His day more faithful: invited to enter into the " Kingdom of Heaven " which is the Church, for the greater part they stubbornly persisted in their blindness, and the Gentiles, the labourers of the last hour, received the higher places (Gospel). Many Jews were called, Jesus will say, but few were chosen.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time Jesus spoke to His disciples this parable : The kingdom of heaven is like to an householder who went out early in the morning to hire labourers into his vineyard. And having agreed with the labourers for a penny a day, he sent them into his vineyard. And going out about the third hour, he saw others standing in the market place idle, and he said to them : Go you also into my vineyard, and I will give you what shall be just. And they went their way. And again he went out about the sixth and the ninth hour : and did in like manner. But about the eleventh hour he went out and found others standing, and he saith to them : Why stand you here all the day idle ? They say to him : Because no man hath hired us. He saith to them : Go you also into my vineyard. And when evening was come, the lord of the vineyard saith to his steward : Call the labourers and pay them their hire, beginning from the last even to the first. When therefore they were come that came about the eleventh hour, they received every man a penny. But when

EXPLANATION OF THE DESIGN ON THE PREVIOUS PAGE.

The day like the night with the Romans was divided into four parts of three hours each. They called them Stations and Watches because they were the times when the soldiers changed guard. These hours were longer or shorter according to the different seasons, for the official day began with the rising and finished with the setting of the sun. The sixth hour of the day and of the night always corresponded with our noon and midnight.

the first also came, they thought that they should receive more: and they also received every man a penny. And receiving it they murmured against the master of the house, saying: These last have worked but one hour, and thou hast made them equal to us that have borne the burden of the day and the heats. But he answering said to one of them: Friend, I do thee no wrong: didst thou not agree with me for a penny? Take what is thine and go thy way: I will also give to this last even as to thee. Or, is it not lawful for me to do what I will? Is thy eye evil, because I am good? So shall the last be first, and the first last. For many are called, but few chosen.—Creed.

et ipsi singulos denários. Et accipiéntes murmurábant advérsus patremfamílias, dicéntes: Hi novíssimi una hora fecérunt, et pares illos nobis fecísti, qui portávimus pondus diéi, et aestus. At ille respóndens uni éorum, dixit: Amíce, non fácio tibi injúriam: nonne ex denário convenísti mecum? Tolle quod tuum est, et vade: volo autem et huic novíssimo dare sicut et tibi. Aut non licet mihi, quod volo, fácere? an óculus tuus nequam est, quia ego bonus sum? Sic erunt novíssimi primi, et primi novíssimi. Multi enim sunt vocáti, pauci vero elécti. —Credo.

STATION AT ST. PAUL-WITHOUT-THE-WALLS.*

Semi-double.—Privilege of the Second Class.

Purple vestments.

To-day's liturgy may be represented in a triptych.

In the centre, Jesus, in His boat, on the shores of the Lake of Galilee, preaches the Parable of the Sower (Gospel). It is the Redeemer Who by His saving doctrine gives life to souls (Collect). Let us hearken to His word.

On the left, Noah's ark floats on the waters of the flood (Matins). It contains the family which is to repopulate the world with believing souls.†

On the right, St. Paul faces shipwreck and "the perils in the sea" (Epistle) in order that all nations (Collect) may hear the life-giving word of Christ. So the Station is at St. Paul-without-the-Walls, and in the Mass his memory occupies a large place.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

† St. Matthew (xiii. 18) and St. Mark (iv. 13) not only give to the seed three bad chances according as it falls upon stony ground (souls eaten up with pride), upon sterile land (souls withered by self-interest) or on ground full of thorns (souls given over to sensuality), but also three good results, for they say that in good soil each grain yields thirty, sixty or a hundred-fold. Noah's ark contained three floors, says St. Augustine, because in the Parable of the Sower there are three different kinds of harvest.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians.—BRETHREN: You gladly suffer the foolish: whereas yourselves are wise. For you suffer if a man bring you into bondage, if a man devour you, if a man take from you, if a man be lifted up, if a man strike you on the face. I speak according to dishonour, as if we had been weak in this part. Wherein if any man dare (I speak foolishly), I dare also. They are Hebrews, so am I. They are Israelites, so am I. They are the seed of Abraham, so am I. They are the Ministers of Christ (I speak as one less wise), I am more: in many more labours, in prisons more frequently, in stripes above measure, in deaths often. Of the Jews five times did I receive forty stripes save one. Thrice was I beaten with rods, once I was stoned, thrice I suffered shipwreck, a night and a day I was in the depth of the sea: in journeying often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in perils from my own nation, in perils from the Gentiles, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils from false brethren: in labour and painfulness, in much watching, in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness; besides those things which are without, my daily instance, the solicitude for all the Churches. Who is weak, and I am not weak? who is scandalised, and I am not on fire? If I must needs glory, I will glory of the things that concern my infirmity. The God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, Who is blessed for ever, knoweth that I lie not. At Damascus the governor of the nation under Aretas the king guarded the city of the Damascenes, to apprehend me: and through a window in a basket was I let down by the wall, and so escaped his hands. If I must glory (it is not expedient indeed) but I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord. I know a man in Christ about fourteen years ago, whether in the body I know not, or out of the body I know not, God knoweth, such a one caught up to the third heaven. And I know such a man, whether in the body or out of the body I know not, God knoweth: that he was caught up into paradise, and heard secret words which it is not granted to man to utter. For such an one I will glory: but for myself I will glory nothing but in my infirmities. For, though I should have a mind

Quis infirmatur, et ego non infírmor? quis scandalizátur, et ego non uror? Si gloriári opórtet: quae infirmitátis meae sunt, gloriábor. Deus et Pater Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, qui est benedíctus in saecula, scit quod non méntior. Damásci praepósitus gentis Arétae regis, custodiébat civitátem Damascenórum, ut me comprehénderet: et per fenéstram in sporta dimíssus sum per murum, et sic effúgi manus ejus. Et scio hujúsmodi hóminem, sive in córpore, sive extra corpus néscio, Deus scit: quóniam raptus est in paradísum, et audívit arcána verba, quae non licet hómini loqui. Pro hujúsmodi gloriábor: pro me autem nihil gloriábor, nisi in infirmitátibus meis. Nam, et si voluéro gloriári, non ero insípiens: veritátem enim dicam: parco autem, ne quis me exístimet supra id quod videt in me, aut áliquid to glory, I shall not be foolish: for I will say the truth: but I forbear, lest any man should think of me above that which he seeth in me, or anything he heareth from me. And lest the greatness of the revelations should exalt me, there was given me a sting of my flesh, an angel of Satan, to buffet me. For which thing, thrice I besought the Lord that it might depart from me. And He said to me: My grace is sufficient for thee: for power is made perfect in infirmity. Gladly therefore will I glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may dwell in me.

Propter quod ter Dóminum rogávi, ut discéderet a me: et dixit mihi: Súfficit tibi grátia mea: nam virtús in infirmitáte perfícitur. Libénter ígitur gloriábor in infirmitátibus meis, ut inhábítet in me virtus Christi.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.— At that time, when a very great multitude was gathered together and hastened out of the cities unto Jesus, He spoke by a similitude: The sower went out to sow his seed: and as he sowed, some fell by the way side, and it was trodden down, and the fowls of the air devoured it. And other some fell upon a rock:

and as soon as it was sprung up, it withered away, because it had no moisture. And other some fell among thorns, and the thorns growing up with it choked it. And other some fell upon good ground: and being sprung up yielded fruit a hundredfold. Saying these things, He cried out: He that hath ears to hear, let him hear. And His disciples asked Him what this parable might be. To whom He said: To you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God, but to the rest in parables: that seeing they may not see, and hearing may not understand. Now the parable is this: The seed is the word of God. And they by the way side are they that hear: then the devil cometh and taketh the word out of their heart, lest believing they should be saved. Now they upon the rock are they who, when they hear, receive the word with joy; and these have no roots: for they believe for a while, and in time of temptation they fall away. And that which fell among thorns are they who have heard and, going their way, are choked with the cares and riches and pleasures of this life, and yield no fruit. But that on the good ground are they who in a good and perfect heart, hearing the word, keep it, and bring forth fruit in patience.—Creed.

STATION AT ST. PETER'S.*

Semi-double.—Privilege of the Second Class.—Purple vestments.

The office of Quinquagesima tells us of Abraham.

It was in the basilica dedicated to St. Peter that the Station was held to-day. Peter, the first of the Apostles, is he not to a greater degree even than the first of the Patriarchs, Abraham, the "father of true believers"? Both were charged to keep intact among the chosen people of God the divine truths which everywhere else tend to disappear.

"The man born blind, of whom the Gospel tells," says St. Gregory, "is surely the human race. Ever since man has been turned out of Paradise in the person of our first father, he has not known the light of heaven and therefore has suffered through being plunged in the darkness of condemnation" (Eighth Lesson at Matins).

It is Jesus Who, by the merits of His Passion, is to open the eyes of man as He did those of the blind man of Jericho, and deliver him alike from the bondage of sin and of error. The faith of which St. Paul speaks is as naught without charity: "If I should have faith capable of removing mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing" (Epistle). The merits of our works, as well as the light which illumines our souls, are in proportion to our charity.

If it is of liturgical origin to grant our souls some relaxation before undertaking the Lenten penance which is imposed on all, let us not forget that the Church condemns all excesses; and for the expiation of such as are committed, let us join in the Forty Hours prayers which Pope Clement XIII. (1765) has endowed with many indulgences.

Et si distribúero in cibos páuperum omnes facultátes meas, et si tradídero corpus meum, ita ut árdeam, caritátem autem non habúero, nihil mihi prodest. Cáritas pátiens est, benígna est: Cáritas non aemulátur, non agit pérperam, non inflátur, non est ambitiósa, non quaerit quae sua sunt, non irritátur, non cógitat malum, non gaudet super iniquitáte, congáudet autem veritáti: ómnia suffert,

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians.—Brethren: If I speak with the tongues of men and of Angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal. And if I should have prophecy, and should know all mysteries and all knowledge: and if I should have all faith so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing. And if I should distribute all my goods to feed the poor, and if I should deliver my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing. Charity is patient, is kind: Charity envieth not, dealeth not perversely, is not puffed up, is not ambitious, seeketh not her own, is not provoked to anger, thinketh no evil, rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth with the truth: beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. Charity never falleth away: whether prophecies shall be made void, or tongues shall cease, or knowledge shall be destroyed. For we know in part, and we prophesy in part. But when that which is perfect is come, that which is in part shall be done away. When I was a child, I spoke as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child. But when I became a man, I put away the things of a child. We see now through a glass in a dark manner: but then face to face. Now I know in part: but then I shall know even as I am known. And now there remain faith, hope and charity, these three: but the greatest of these is charity.

ómnia credit, ómnia sperat, ómnia sústinet. Cáritas nunquam éxcidit: sive prophetíae evacuabúntur, sive linguae cessábunt, sive sciéntia destruétur. Ex parte enim cognóscimus, et ex parte prophetámus. Cum autem vénerit quod perféctum est, evacuábitur quod ex parte est. Cum essem párvulus, loquébar ut párvulus, sapiébam ut párvulus, cogitábam ut párvulus. Quando autem factus sum vir, evacuávi quae erant párvuli. Vidémus nunc per spéculum in aenígmate: tunc autem fácie ad fáciem. Nunc cognósco ex parte: tunc autem cognóscam sicut et cógnitus sum. Nunc autem manent, fides, spes, cáritas, tria haec: major autem horum est cáritas.

For He shall be delivered to the Gentiles, and shall be mocked and scourged and spit upon: and after they have scourged Him, they will put Him to death, and the third day He shall rise again. And they understood none of these things, and this word was hid from them, and they understood not the things that were said. Now it came to pass, when He drew nigh to Jericho, that a certain blind man sat by the way side, begging. And when he heard the multitude passing by, he asked what this meant. And they told him that Jesus of Nazareth was passing by. And he cried out, saying: Jesus, son of David, have mercy on me. And they that went before rebuked him, that he should hold his peace. But he cried out much more: Son of David, have mercy on me. And Jesus standing, commanded him to be brought unto him. And when he was come near, He asked him, saying: What wilt thou that I do to thee? But he said: Lord, that I may see. And Jesus said to him: Receive thy sight, thy faith hath made thee whole. And immediately he saw and followed Him, glorifying God. And all the people, when they saw it, gave praise to God.—Creed.

5. Season of Lent.

1. Lent from a Doctrinal Point of View.

The Season of Septuagesima served to remind us of the necessity for fallen man to associate himself, in a spirit of penance, with the work of redemption of the Messiah. The Season of Lent, by fasting and the practice of penance, allows us to associate ourselves still more closely with it. Our souls, in revolt against God, have become in fact slaves of the devil, the flesh, and the world. And during this holy Season the Church shows us Jesus in the desert (First Sunday of Lent) and in His public life, striving to deliver us from the threefold bondage of pride, luxury and greed which ties us to creature things. And, when by His teaching and His sufferings He will have rescued us from our bondage and restored us to the liberty of children of God, He will return to us at the Feast of Easter the divine life which we had lost. Besides, the liturgy of the Forty Days, overflowing with the teaching of the Master and the spirit of penance of the Redeemer, helped in former times to instruct the Catechumens and to penetrate with sorrow for their sins the public penitents who longed to rise again with Jesus through the sacraments of Baptism and Penance respectively on Holy Saturday.*

* The spirit and even the ceremonies of these two sacraments of the dead are found in the liturgy of the Season of Lent, of which they are the goal; they even sum up this period of cleansing asceticism during which we die to sin with Jesus.

These are the two thoughts which the Church will unfold during the whole course of Lent, by showing us, in the unfaithful Jews, the sinners who can only come back to God by associating themselves with the fasts of Jesus (Gospel of the First Sunday), and, in the Gentiles called to fill their place, the effects of the Sacrament of regeneration (Gospel of the Second and Third Sunday) and of the Eucharist in our souls (Gospel of the Fourth Sunday).

The divine office continues to give us lessons from the Old Testament. These show us in the person of Esau (second week) the Jews who forfeit to us their birthright; in Joseph (third week) Jesus rejected by His own and bringing salvation to the Gentiles, just as this patriarch sold by his brethren saved Egypt; finally, in the person of Moses who delivers Israel from captivity (fourth week) Christ our Redeemer. The liturgy of Lent exhorts us also by the mouth of Isaias, of Jeremias and of the Prophets, and, in the New Testament, by that of St. Paul, whose Epistles on these four Sundays echo the Gospels of the Master.

This period therefore is like a great retreat made by the whole Christian world in preparation for the solemnity of the Resurrection, closing with the Easter confession and communion. As Jesus, on His withdrawal from the world, prayed and fasted for forty days, and later taught us through His ministry how to die to ourselves, so the Church during these Forty Days of Lent preaches the death of the man of sin within us. This death will show itself in our souls by our struggle against pride and self-love, by the spirit of prayer and a more diligent meditation of the word of God. It will show itself in our bodies by fasting, abstinence and the mortification of the senses. Finally it will manifest itself in the whole of our life by greater detachment from the pleasures and good things of the world, which will prompt us to give alms in more generous abundance,* and to abstain from indulgence in worldly festivities. The Forty Days' fast, indeed, can only be an expression of the feelings of penitence with which our souls are penetrated, which dwell all the more freely on the things that are of God the more they abstain from sensual pleasures. Moreover, as all generous hearts must realise, this pre-eminently "acceptable time" † is a source of holy joy, as evidenced by every page of the liturgy of Lent.

This work of purification proceeds under the direction of the Church, which unites our sufferings to those of Christ. Henceforth the faint-hearted enter the lists courageously, borne up by the grace of Jesus which never fails them, ‡ neither do the strong pride themselves on their constancy, because they know that it is only Christ's Passion that saves them and that it is only "by participating in it by their forbearance that they reap the fruits." §

"The observance of Lent," says Pope Benedict XIV., "is the bond of the Church militant; it is by it that we distinguish ourselves from the

* "Those who cannot fast should give more abundantly to the poor, so that by almsgiving they may atone for such sins as they cannot cure themselves of by fasting" (Lenten Sermon by St. Caesarius of Arles, d. 542).

† Epistle of the First Sunday of Lent.

‡ "Grant us, O Lord, to begin with holy fasting the exercises of our Christian warfare that, as we do battle with the spirits of evil, we may be protected by the help of self-denial, through Jesus Christ our Lord" (Prayer at the imposition of the ashes on Ash Wednesday).

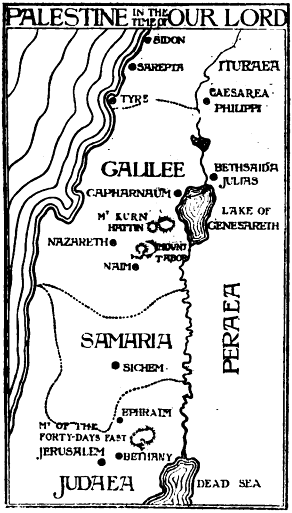
enemies of the Cross of Christ; by it that we ward off the scourges of Divine anger; by it that, protected by the help of heaven during the day, we strengthen ourselves against the princes of darkness. If this observance is ever relaxed it is to the detriment of the glory of God, to the dishonour of the Catholic religion, to the peril of Christian souls, and it is not to be doubted that negligence in this respect becomes a source of calamity to nations, of disaster to public affairs, and of misfortune to individuals." *

2. Lent from a Historical Point of View. †

The liturgy of Lent takes us in the footsteps of Jesus in the course of His apostolic ministry.



First year.—To begin with, He passed forty days in the desert on the Mount of the Forty Days between Jericho and Bethany. ‡ Then He gathered His first disciples to Him and went into Galilee. He came back to Jerusalem to celebrate the first feast of Easter and drove the sellers out of the Temple § After having preached the gospel in Judaea for several months, He went to Sichem, where He converted the woman of Samaria,|| then to Nazareth, where He preached in the Synagogue.¶ From there He went to Capharnaum and all over Galilee.

Second year.—Jesus then returned to Jerusalem for the second Passover, and there He cured the paralytic at the pool of Bethsaida.†† Returning to Galilee, He preached the Sermon on the Mount (Kurn Hattin). ‡‡ Going back to Capharnaum, He there cured the servant of the centurion, §§ and then raised from the dead the son of a widow of Naim.|||| He then once more preached in Galilee and from there went to Bethsaida Julias in the Tetrarchy of Philip. It was in the vicinity of this town that He multiplied the loaves ¶¶ and walked on the waters of the lake on His way back to Capharnaum.

Third year.—Jesus then went over the districts of Tyre and Sidon, where His enemies followed Him; ††† He granted the prayer of the woman of Canaan when passing near Sarepta, ‡‡‡ and, returning by wayof Caesarea Philippi, He came back to Galilee, where the Transfiguration took place on Mount Tabor. §§§ Arrived at Capharnaum, He preached on forgiveness to His Apostles,* then went to Jerusalem for the Feast of Tabernacles. There He confounded the Jews who accused Him of breaking the Sabbath,† pardoned the woman taken in adultery,‡ taught in the Temple § and cured the man blind from his birth.|| After having once more visited Galilee, Jesus returned to Peraea, where he restored speech to a dumb man ¶ and where He showed in Jonas an image of the Resurrection. He next went to Jerusalem for the Feast of the Dedication, and then came back to Peraea, where He preached the Parable of the Prodigal Son †† and that of the Rich Man and Lazarus.‡‡ He was then called to Bethany, where He raised Lazarus from the dead.§§ After going up to Ephraim, He proceeded towards Jerusalem, foretelling that He was to be put to death.|||| In the Temple, He turned out the sellers for the second time,¶¶ delivered the parable of the rebellious workers in the vineyard  and denounced the hypocrisy of the Pharisees.††† Then He climbed the Mount of Olives and looking at Jerusalem, where He was put to death three days later, He spoke of the Judgment which will separate for ever the good from the bad. ‡‡‡

3. Lent from a Liturgical Point of View.

The Season of Lent is divided into two parts, the first of which commences on Ash Wednesday, called in the liturgy "The beginning of the most holy forty days," and ends on Passion Sunday; the second comprises the "great fortnight" which bears the name of Passion Time. After deducting the four Sundays of Lent and Passion and Palm Sundays, we have thirty-six days of fasting, to which were added the four preceding days in order to obtain the full complement of forty, "that Law and Prophet taught and Jesus Christ restored." §§§

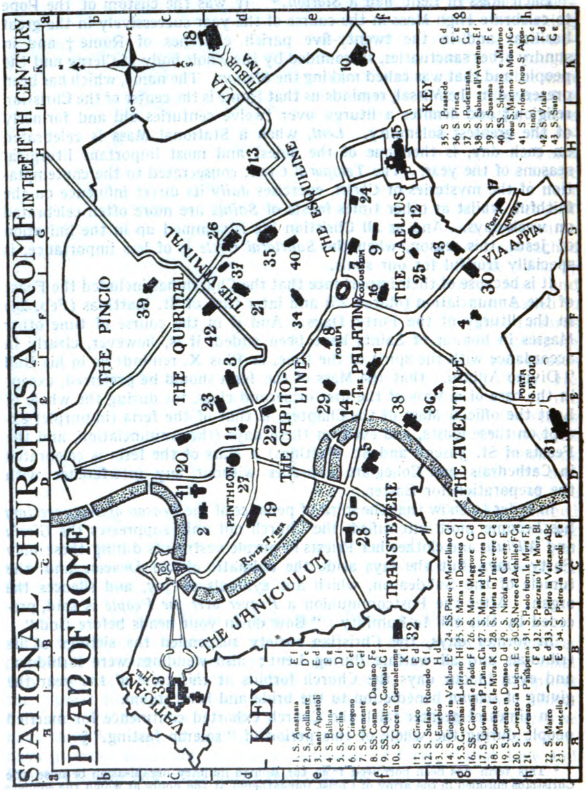
§§§ Hymn at Matins. Moses, who represents the Law, and Elias, who represents the Prophets, only went nigh to God on Sinai and Horeb after having purified themselves by a fast of forty days (Exodus xxiv. 18; 3 Kings xix. 8).

Each Mass in Lent had a *Station. It was the custom of the Pope to celebrate High Mass in the course of the year successively in the great basilicas and in the twenty-five parish churches of Rome † and in sundry other sanctuaries, surrounded by the whole body of Clergy and the people, and that was called making the Station. The name, which has been preserved in the Missal, reminds us that Rome is the centre of the Christian religion ‡ and denotes a liturgy over twelve centuries old and formerly of the greatest solemnity. Lent, when a Stational Mass is celebrated on each day, is then one of the oldest and most important liturgical seasons of the year. The Temporal Cycle, consecrated to the contemplation of the mysteries of Christ, exercises daily its direct influence on the faithful, whilst at other times feasts of Saints are more often celebrated on week-days. And as all Christian life is summed up in the imitation of Jesus, this season, when the Sanctoral Cycle is of less importance, is specially fruitful for our souls.

It is because of their importance that the Church has included the Feast of the Annunciation (March 25) and later that of St. Matthias (Feb. 24) in the liturgy of the Forty Days. And if in the course of time other Masses in honour of Saints have been added, it is, however, clearly in accordance with the spirit of the time, as Pius X. reminds us in his Bull " Divino Afflatu," that the Mass of the feria should be preferred, except in the case of a Mass of the first or second class, for during the whole of Lent the official Mass of the Chapters is that of the feria (in purple) except on these feasts, and even on these days (the Annunciation, and the Feasts of St. Joseph and St. Matthias) a Mass of the feria is celebrated in Cathedrals and Collegiate churches without any interference with the preparation for Easter.

In order to show that the spirit of penance of the Season of Septuagesima has become more intensified, the Church not only suppresses the Gloria and Alleluia and clothes her Priests in purple vestments during these holy Forty Days, but she lays aside the dalmatic of the Deacon and the tunicle of the Subdeacon, which are symbols of joy, and silences the organ. After the Postcommunion a Prayer over the People is said, preceded by this call to humility : " Bow down your heads before God."

In former days, the Christian society suspended the sittings of its tribunals and all warfare during Lent; also weddings were forbidden, and even in our days the Church forbids at this time of the year the giving of solemn benediction to the bride and bridegroom.



In times of greater faith the Church exhorted continence for married people during the whole of this period of " solemn fasting." §

* This term has been borrowed from the Roman military organisation because the Christians enrolled in the army of Christ foregathered at the hours at which the soldiers changed guard. Hence the names of Terce, Sext and None given to the offices which were said at the third, sixth and ninth hours (see diagram, p. 490). It was after None, recited about three o'clock, that Mass was said in Lent. This was followed by the singing of Vespers, after which the fast was broken. Hence the actual custom, in churches where the office is sung, of reciting Vespers before dinner in Lent.

† These parishes, which were in existence as early as the fifth century, were called " titles " (tituli), and the Parish Priests of Rome who officiated in them took the name of Cardinals (incardinati), which means " attached to these churches." It is for this reason that nowadays still every Cardinal is titular of one of these sanctuaries.

‡ The official prayer of the Church, like the Church herself, is one, holy, Catholic, Apostolic and Roman.

Ash Wednesday.

Station at St. Sabina's.*

(Indulgence of 15 years and 15 quarantines.)

Privileged.—Purple vestments.

The Station at Rome was at St. Sabina's on the Aventine, in a sanctuary erected in the year 425 on the site of the house of this holy martyr. Converted to the faith by her servant, she was beheaded and secretly buried there. It was to this church that formerly the Pope went barefooted "to begin the exercises of Christian warfare with the holy fasts of Lent, wherein we fight against the spirits of evil with the weapon of abstinence." † It was one of the twenty-five Roman parishes in the fifth century.

Following the example of the Ninivites, who did penance in sackcloth and ashes, the Church, for the humiliation of our pride and to remind us of the sentence of death which we should suffer as the result of sin,† to-day puts ashes on our heads saying: "Remember, man, that thou art dust, and into dust thou shalt return." ‡

It is the remains of an old ceremony of which the Roman Pontifical tells us. Christians who had committed grave faults were obliged to do public penance. On Ash Wednesday the Bishop blessed the haircloth shirts which they were to wear during the Forty Days and sprinkled over them ashes made from the palms which had been used in the procession on Palm Sunday of the previous year. Then, whilst the faithful chanted the Seven Penitential Psalms, "the penitents were turned out of the holy place because of their sins, as Adam, the first man, was turned out of paradise on account of his disobedience." § They did not discard their penitential clothing or enter the church again until Maundy Thursday, after having won reconciliation by the toil of a forty days' penance, by confession and sacramental absolution. "God, indeed, pardons the sins of men for the sake of their repentance" (Introit). "He is rich in mercy to those who are converted to Him with all their heart, in fasting, in weeping, and in mourning" (Epistle). It is not our garments that we should rend as a sign of sorrow, as the Pharisees did, but rather our hearts (Epistle), for "it is not to men that we should appear to fast, but to our Father Who sees into the secret of our souls, and Who will repay us" (Gospel), said Jesus in His Sermon on the Mount.*

"Seek in the Eucharist the remedy that is necessary to us" (Postcommunion), in order that, "celebrating to-day the solemn opening of the holy fast" (Secret), "we may carry it through with tranquil devotion" (Collect).

BLESSING OF THE ASHES.

Before the Mass, the ashes made from the branches of olive and other trees blessed the preceding year are blessed.

At the end of None, the Priest, vested in a purple cope or without chasuble, accompanied by his Ministers in vestments of the same colour, proceeds to the blessing of the ashes, placed in a vase on the altar. The choir commences by singing:—

Antiphon: Psalm lxviii. 17.

HEAR us, O Lord, for Thy mercy is kind: look upon us, O Lord, according to the multitude of Thy tender mercies. Ps. lxviii. 2. Save me, O God: for the waters are come in even unto my soul. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

EXAUDI nos, Dómine, quóniam benígna est misericórdia tua: secúndum multitúdinem miseratiónum tuárum réspice nos, Dómine. Ps. Salvum me fac, Deus: quóniam intravérunt aquae usque ad ánimam meam. ℣. Glória Patri.

Repeat Exaudi nos.

Afterwards the Priest, standing on the Epistle side, without turning towards the people, and with hands joined (as for prayers in all Blessings), says:—

℣. The Lord be with you.

Prayer.

Almighty and eternal God, Who didst grant the remedy of Thy pardon to the Ninivites doing penance in ashes and sackcloth, mercifully grant that we may so imitate them in our attitude as to follow them in obtaining forgiveness. Through our Lord.
℟. Amen.

Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, qui Ninivítis in cínere et cilício poeniténtibus, indulgéntiae tuae remédia praestitísti: concéde propítius; ut sic eos imitémur hábitu, quátenus véniae prosequámur obténtu. Per Dóminum.
℟. Amen.

After that, the Celebrant, having placed incense in the thurible, sprinkles the Ashes thrice with holy water, saying the antiphon Asperges me; he then incenses them thrice. Following this, the highest in dignity of the Clergy, approaching the altar, places Ashes on the Celebrant, who does not bend the knee. If there is not another Priest present, the Celebrant kneels before the altar and places ashes on his own head, saying nothing, and immediately the Choir sing:—

Antiphon: Joel ii. 13.

Let us change our garments for ashes and sackcloth: let us fast and lament before the Lord: for plenteous in mercy is our God to forgive our sins.

Immutémur hábitu, in cínere et cilício: jejunémus, et plorémus ante Dóminum: quia multum miséricors est dimíttere peccáta nostra Deus noster.

Another Antiphon: Joel ii. 17.

Between the porch and the altar, the priests the Lord's ministers shall weep and shall say: Spare, O Lord, spare Thy people: and close not the mouths of them that sing to Thee, O Lord.

Inter vestibúlum et altáre plorábunt sacerdótes minístri Dómini, et dicent: Parce, Dómine, parce pópulo tuo: et ne claudas ora canéntium te, Dómine.

The following is then said:—

Response: Esther xiii.; Joel ii.

During the singing of these Antiphons and Responses, the Priest, head uncovered, places Ashes, first on the Priest highest in dignity, from whom he himself has received them, then on the Assistant Priests in their vestments and kneeling before the altar, saying:—

Meménto, homo, quia pulvis es, et in púlverem revertéris.

Genesis iii. 19. Remember, man, that thou art dust, and into dust thou shalt return.

The others follow—first the Clergy, each according to his rank, and then the people: and each receives the Ashes, kneeling before the altar, from the hand of the Priest, in the same way as the Assistant Priests. When all have received the Ashes, the Priest says:—

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

Prayer.

Concéde nobis, Dómine, praesídia militiae christiánae sanctis inchoáre jejúniis: ut contra spiritáles nequítias pugnatúri, continéntiae muniámur auxíliis. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum.
℟. Amen.

Grant us, O Lord, to begin with holy fasts the exercises of our Christian warfare: that, as we do battle with the spirits of evil, we may be protected by the help of self-denial. Through Christ our Lord.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.

—AT that time Jesus said to His disciples: When you fast, be not as the hypocrites, sad. For they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to fast. Amen I say to you, they have received their reward. But thou, when thou fastest, anoint thy head and wash thy face, that thou appear not to men to fast, but to thy Father Who is in secret: and thy Father Who seeth in secret will repay thee. Lay not up to yourselves treasures on earth: where the rust and moth consume, and where thieves break through and steal. But lay up to yourselves treasures in heaven: where neither the rust nor moth doth consume, and where thieves do not break through nor steal. For where thy treasure is, there is thy heart also.

IN illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Cum jejunátis, nolíte fieri sicut hypócritae, tristes. Extérminant enim fácies suas, ut appáreant homínibus jejunántes. Amen dico vobis, quia recepérunt mercédem suam. Tu autem, cum jejúnas, unge caput tuum, et fáciem tuam lava, ne videáris homínibus jejúnans, sed Patri tuo, qui est in abscóndito: et Pater tuus, qui videt in abscóndito, reddet tibi. Nolíte thesaurizáre vobis thesáuros in terra: ubi aerúgo, et tínea demolítur; et ubi fures effódiunt, et furántur. Thesaurizáte autem vobis thesáuros in coelo: ubi neque aerúgo, neque tínea demolítur; et ubi fures non effódiunt, nec furántur. Ubi enim est thesáurus tuus, ibi est et cor tuum.

STATION AT ST. GEORGE'S.

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station is at St. George's in Velabro,* one of the twenty-five parishes of Rome in the fifth century, where under the high altar is kept the head of this Christian warrior, a victim of the persecution of the Emperor Diocletian, and called by the Greeks "the great martyr."

The liturgy of to-day inculcates in us the spirit of prayer, which forms part of the Forty Days' penance. It was by prayer that Ezechias obtained a prolongation of his life (Epistle) and the centurion the healing of his servant (Gospel),† and it is by prayer that we shall obtain from God the strength to mortify ourselves in order that we may gain the pardon of our sins, and with it the healing for our souls and life eternal.

The Gospel in former times reminded the Catechumens that through baptism they were about to enter the Kingdom of Heaven in place of the infidel Jews.

* This church is in the district formerly called the Velabrum (marsh). See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, E e 14.

† It was after the Sermon on the Mount, when He had returned to Capharnaum, that Jesus worked this miracle. See p. 507 and note §§, and the map on p. 508.

Remember that if sin offends God and draws down upon us the scourge of His righteous anger, penance, on the contrary, appeases Him and procures for us the effects of His mercy (Collects).

Introit: Psalm liv. 17, 19, 20, 23.

WHEN I cried to the Lord, He heard my voice from them that draw near to me: and He humbled them, Who is before all ages, and remains for ever: cast thy care upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee. Ps. liv. 2, 3. Hear, O God, my prayer and despise not my supplication: be attentive to me and hear me. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

DUM clamárem ad Dóminum, exaudívit vocem meam ab his, qui appropinquant mihi: et humiliávit eos, qui est ante saecula, et manet in aetérnum: jacta cogitátum tuum in Dómino, et ipse te enútriet. Ps. Exáudi, Deus, oratiónem meam, et ne despéxeris deprecatiónem meam: inténde mihi, et exáudi me. ℣. Glória Patri.

Collect.

O God, Who art offended by sin and appeased by penance, mercifully regard the prayers of Thy suppliant people, and turn away the scourges of Thy anger, which we deserve for our sins. Through our Lord.

Epistle: Isaias xxxviii. 1-6.

Lesson from the Prophet Isaias.—IN those days Ezechias was sick even to death, and Isaias the son of Amos the prophet came unto him, and said to him: Thus saith the Lord: Take order with thy house, for thou shalt die, and not live. And Ezechias turned his face toward the wall and prayed to the Lord, and said: I beseech Thee, O Lord, remember how I have walked before Thee in truth, and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in Thy sight. And Ezechias wept with great weeping.

Léctio Isaíae prophétae.—IN diébus illis: Aegrotávit Ezechías usque ad mortem: et introívit ad eum Isaías fílius Amos Prophéta, et dixit ei: Haec dicit Dóminus: Dispóne dómui tuae, quia moriéris tu, et non vives. Et convértit Ezechías fáciem suam ad paríetem, et orávit ad Dóminum, et dixit: Obsécro, Dómine, meménto quaeso, quómodo ambuláverim coram te in veritáte, et in corde perfécto, et quod bonum est in óculis tuis fécerim. Et flevit Ezechías fletu magno. Et factum est verbum Dómini ad Isaíam dicens: Vade, et dic Ezechíae: Haec dicit Dóminus Deus David patris tui: Audivi oratiónem tuam, et vidi lácrymas tuas: ecce ego adjíciam super dies tuos quíndecim annos: et de manu regis Assyriórum éruam te, et civitátem istam, et prótegam eam, ait Dóminus omnípotens.

And the word of the Lord came to Isaias, saying: Go and say to Ezechias: Thus saith the Lord the God of David thy father: I have heard thy prayer, and I have seen thy tears: behold I will add to thy days fifteen years: and I will deliver thee and this city out of the hand of the king of the Assyrians, and I will protect it, saith the Lord Almighty.

Gradual: Psalm liv. 23, 17-19.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Cum introísset Jesus Caphárnaum, accéssit ad eum centúrio, rogans eum et dicens: Dómine, puer meus jacet in domo paralyticus, et male torquétur. Et ait illi Jesus: Ego véniam, et curábo eum. Et respóndens centúrio, ait: Dómine, non sum dignus, ut intres sub tectum meum: sed tantum dic verbo, et sanábitur puer meus. Nam et ego homo sum sub potestáte constitútus, habens sub me mílites, et dico huic: Vade, et vadit; et álii: Veni, et venit; et servo meo: Fac hoc, et facit. Audiens autem Jesus, mirátus est, et sequéntibus se dixit: Amen dico vobis, non invéni tantam fidem in Israel. Dico autem vobis, quod multi ab Oriénte et Occidénte vénient, et recúmbent

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time, when Jesus had entered in Capharnaum, there came to Him a centurion, beseeching Him, and saying: Lord, my servant lieth at home sick of the palsy and is grievously tormented. And Jesus saith to him: I will come and heal him. And the centurion making answer, said: Lord, I am not worthy that Thou shouldst enter under my roof: but only say the word and my servant shall be healed. For I also am a man subject to authority, having under me soldiers, and I say to this: Go, and he goeth: and to another: Come, and he cometh; and to my servant: Do this, and he doeth it. And Jesus hearing this, marvelled, and said to them that followed Him: Amen I say to you, I have not found so great faith in Israel. And I say to you that many shall come from the east and the west, and shall sit down with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven : but the children of the kingdom shall be cast out into the exterior darkness : there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. And Jesus said to the centurion : Go, and as thou hast believed, so be it done to thee. And the servant was healed at the same hour.

Offertory : Psalm xxiv. 1-3.

STATION AT THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY MARTYRS JOHN AND PAUL. *

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station at Rome was on Mount Coelius, in the residence that the Christian senator Pammachius in the fifth century transformed into a parish church, which bears the title of SS. John and Paul. Six frescoes of that period represent the captivity and death of these two Romans, "who in the same faith and the same martyrdom were truly united as brethren." †

The Epistle and Gospel ‡ declare that the external works of penance such as prayer, fasting, and almsgiving, which should be practised during Lent, have no value in the sight of God unless they are accompanied by the spirit of internal sacrifice. This spirit shows itself in works of mercy done out of consideration for our neighbour, without distinction of friend or enemy and with the sole intention of pleasing God. Let us ask for the spirit of sacrifice and mercy.

Epistle : Isaias lviii. 1-9.

Lesson from the Prophet Isaias.—THUS saith the Lord God : Cry, cease not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and show My people their wicked doings and the house of Jacob their sins. For they seek Me from day to day and desire to know My ways, as a nation that hath done justice and hath not forsaken the judgment of their God : they ask of Me the judgments of justice : they are willing to approach to God. Why have we fasted, and Thou hast not regarded : have we humbled our souls, and Thou hast not taken notice? Behold in the day of your fast your own will is found, and you exact of all your debtors. Behold you fast for debates and strife, and strike with the fist wickedly. Do not fast as you have done until this day, to make your cry to be heard on high. Is this such a fast as I have chosen, for a man to afflict his soul for a day? is this it, to wind his head about like a circle, and to spread sackcloth and ashes? wilt thou call this a fast and a day acceptable to the Lord? Is not this rather the fast that I have chosen? loose the bands of wickedness, undo the bundles that oppress, let them that are broken go free, Léctio Isaíae Prophétae.—HAEC dicit Dóminus Deus : Clama, ne cesses, quasi tuba exálta vocem tuam, et annúntia pópulo meo scélera eórum, et dómui Jacob peccáta eórum. ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At this time Jesus said to His disciples: You have heard that it hath been said: Thou shalt love thy neighbour and hate thy enemy. But I say to you: Love your enemies, do good to them that hate you: and pray for them that persecute and calumniate you: that you may be the children of your Father Who is in heaven, Who maketh His sun to rise upon the good and bad, and raineth upon the just and the unjust. For if you love them that love you, what reward shall you have?

Do not even the publicans this? And if you salute your brethren only, what do you more? Do not also the heathens this? Be you therefore perfect, as also your heavenly Father is perfect. Take heed that you do not your justice before men, to be seen by them: otherwise you shall not have reward of your Father Who is in heaven. Therefore when thou dost an alms-deed, sound not a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may be honoured by men. Amen I say to you, they have received their reward. And when thou dost alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doth: that thy alms may be in secret, and thy Father, Who seeth in secret, will repay thee.

Atténdite ne justítiam vestram faciátis coram homínibus, ut videámini ab eis: alióquin mercédem non habébitis apud Patrem vestrum, qui in coelis est. *Cum ergo facis eleemósynam, noli tuba cánere ante te, sicut hypócritae fáciunt in synagógis, et in vicis, ut honorificéntur ab homínibus. Amen dico vobis, recepérunt mercédem suam. Purple vestments.

The Station at Rome was at St. Tryphon's, who died a martyr in the East. This church having been destroyed, the Station was removed to a neighbouring church, that of St. Augustine.†

Saturday is the day of rest, which symbolises the eternal Sabbath (Epistle). To reach it we must, during Lent, struggle by "solemn fast" (Collect) and by works of charity (Epistle) against our passions, of which the rough sea and the contrary winds spoken of in the Gospel are a figure.‡ In this hard struggle Jesus will come to our aid (Postcommunion), as He did to the Apostles', and "heal our bodies and our souls by fasting" (Collect), as He healed all the sick in the country of Genesareth.

The storm making it impossible to sail, they were compelled to row laboriously. At the fourth hour of the night or the fourth watch, which would be between three and six o'clock in the morning (see p. 490), Jesus came to their assistance. But they, seeing Him walking upon the sea, thought it was an apparition, and they cried out. For they all saw Him, and were troubled. And immediately He spoke with them, and said to them: Have a good heart, it is I, fear ye not. And He went up to them into the ship, and the wind ceased. First Sunday in Lent.

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Semi-double.—Privilege of the First Class.

Purple vestments.

Directly after His baptism, Jesus prepared Himself for His public life by a fast of forty days in the hilly desert which extends from Jericho to the mountains of Judaea.† It was there that Satan, wishing to know if the son of Mary was really the Son of God, tempted Him (Gospel).

As in the case of Adam, he first of all addressed himself to the senses. The Saviour was hungry and the tempter suggested to Him that He should turn the stones into bread. In the same way he tries to make us give up our fastings and mortifications during these forty days of Lent. This is the lustful desire of the flesh.

The devil had promised our first father that he would become like unto God: he sets Jesus upon a pinnacle of the temple and invites Him to cast Himself down so that He might be borne up by the Angels and so acclaimed by the multitude. He tempts us also by pride, which is opposed to the spirit of prayer and to meditation on the word of God. This is the pride of life.

Finally, as he had promised to Adam a knowledge which should equal that of God and make him to know all things, Satan assures Jesus that he will give Him dominion over all things if He will fall down at his feet and worship him.‡ The devil in the same way seeks to bind us to the good † Jesus sought shelter, according to tradition, in the grotto which is on the highest peak, known as Mount of the Forty Days: see p. 507 and note ‡, and the map on p. 508.

‡ Lucifer, the most beautiful of the angels, believed he had a right, theologians tell us, to the hypostatic union which would have raised him to the dignity of Son of God. He seeks therefore to get Jesus to adore him as such, like the antichrist, who will set himself to be adored in the Temple of God (2 Thess. ii. 4).

things of this earth, when by alms-giving and works of charity we should be helping our neighbours. This is the lustful desire of the eyes, or avarice.

The Station is in one of the most ancient Roman basilicas, built by the Empress Eudocia, and where the chains worn by the Prince of the Apostles, to whom Jesus confided His flock, are kept. In the fifth century it was one of the twenty-five parishes of Rome.

The Epistle, alluding to the penitents about to be reconciled at Easter, and to the catechumens preparing for baptism, says that the Lord is the Shepherd Who comes to seek His lost sheep. And the Gospel tells of the separation that this Shepherd will make for ever between the sheep at the foot of the Palatine, it is consecrated to St. Anastasia, a holy Roman widow put to death under Diocletian.

Lent is the time when "God is near to us and eager to forgive us if we put aside our evil thoughts and forsake the way of sin" (Epistle). To do so we must cast sin out from our hearts, as Jesus cast out the sellers from the Temple (Gospel), and receive the teaching of Christ with the simplicity of children of God.* Then He will be able to cure our souls as He healed the lame and the blind who came nigh unto Him.

Casting out the vainglorious wisdom of the world, let us profit by the holy Season of Lent, so that, "chastening our bodies by mortification, our souls may be filled with holy desires" (Collect).

Introit: Psalm lxxxix. 1, 2.

Wednesday of Ember Week in Lent.

STATION AT ST. MARY MAJOR.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The spring Ember Week coincides with the first week of Lent. It was instituted for the purpose of consecrating to God the new season, and by fasting and prayer to draw down heavenly graces on those who on Saturday are to receive the Sacrament of Holy Orders.

The Station on the Wednesday in Ember Week was always held at St. Mary Major, the greatest and most illustrious of the Roman churches consecrated to the Blessed Virgin.

The two lessons which take the place of the Epistle tell of Moses and Elias, who before seeing the glory of the Lord fasted forty days and forty nights. Called to take the place of the rebellious Jews, let us make ourselves worthy of the fruits of penance as did the men of Ninive, who listened to the voice of Jonas and the Queen of Saba, who came from her distant country to learn the wisdom of Solomon (Gospel). We shall participate then in the resurrection of the Saviour, symbolised by the Prophet who, after remaining three days in the whale's belly, was vomited out alive.†

Let us pray to God that we may be strengthened in mind by the fruit of good works, while we mortify our bodies by abstinence (Collect).

Introit: Psalm xxiv. 6, 3, 22.

REMINISCERE miseratiónum tuárum, Dómine, et misericórdiae tuae, quae a saeculo sunt: ne unquam dominéntur nobis inimíci nostri: líbera nos, Deus Israel, ex ómnibus angústiis nostris. Ps. Ad te, Dómine, levávi ánimam meam: Deus meus, in te confído, non erubéscam. ℣. Glória Patri.

REMEMBER, O Lord, Thy bowels of compassion, and Thy mercies, that are from the beginning of the world: lest at any time our enemies rule over us: deliver us, O God of Israel, from all our necessities. Ps. xxiv. 1, 2. To Thee, O Lord, have I lifted up my soul: in Thee, O my God, I put my trust; let me not be ashamed. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

First Lesson: Exodus xxiv. 12-18.

Lesson from the Book of Exodus.—In those days the Lord said to Moses: Come up to Me into the mount, and be there: and I will give thee tables of stone, and the law, and the commandments which I have written: that thou mayest teach the children of Israel. Moses rose up, and his minister Josue: and Moses going up into the mount of God, said to the ancients: Wait ye here till we return to you. You have Aaron and Hur with you: if any question shall arise, you shall refer it to them. And when Moses was gone up, a cloud covered the mount, and the glory of the Lord dwelt upon Sinai, covering it with a cloud six days: and the seventh day He called him out of the midst of the cloud. And the sight of the glory of the Lord was like a burning fire upon the top of the mount, in the eyes of the children of Israel. And Moses, entering into the midst of the cloud, went up into the mountain: and he was there forty days and forty nights.

Léctio libri Exódi.—In diébus illis: Dixit Dóminus ad Móysen: Ascénde ad me in montem, et esto ibi: dabóque tibi tábulas lapídeas, et legem ac mandáta quae scripsi: ut doceas fílios Israel. Surrexérunt Móyses et Jósue miníster ejus: ascendénsque Móyses in montem Dei, senióribus ait: Exspectáte hic donec revertámur ad vos. Habétis Aaron et Hur vobíscum: si quid natum fuérit quaestiónis, referétis ad eos. Cumque ascendísset Móyses, opéruit nubes montem, et habitávit glória Dómini super Sínai, tegens illum nube sex diébus: séptimo autem die vocávit eum de médio calíginis. Erat autem spécies glóriae Dómini, quasi ignis ardens super vérticem montis, in conspéctu filiórum Israel. Ingressúsque Móyses médium nébulae, ascéndit in montem: et fuit ibi quadraginta diébus, et quadraginta nóctibus.

Second Lesson: 3 Kings xix. 3-8.

Léctio libri Regum.—In diébus illis: Venit Elias in Bersabée Juda, et dimísit ibi púerum suum, et perréxit in desértum, viam uníus diéi. Cumque venísset, et sedéret subter unam juníperum, petívit ánimae suae ut morerétur, et ait: Súfficit mihi, Dómine, tolle ánimam meam: neque enim mélior sum, quam patres mei. Projecítque se, et obdormívit in umbra juníperi: et ecce Angelus Dómini tétigit eum, et dixit illi: Surge et cómede. Respéxit, et ecce ad caput suum subcinerícius panis, et vas aquae: comédit ergo et bibit, et rursum obdormívit. Reversúsque est Angélus Dómini secúndo, et tétigit eum, dixítque illi: Surge, cómede: grandis enim tibi restat via. Qui cum surrexísset, comédit, et bibit, et ambulávit in fortitúdine cibi illius quadraginta diébus et quadraginta nóctibus, usque ad montem Dei Horeb.

Lesson from the Book of Kings.—In those days Elias came to Bersabee of Juda, and left his servant there, and he went forward, one day's journey into the desert. And when he was there, and sat under a juniper tree, he requested for his soul that he might die, and said: It is enough for me, Lord, take away my soul: for I am no better than my fathers. And he cast himself down, and slept in the shadow of the juniper tree: and behold an Angel of the Lord touched him, and said to him: Arise and eat. He looked, and behold there was at his head a hearth cake, and a vessel of water: and he ate and drank, and he fell asleep again. And the Angel of the Lord came again the second time, and touched him, and said to him: Arise, eat: for thou hast yet a great way to go. And he arose, and ate, and drank, and walked in the strength of that food forty days and forty nights, unto the mount of God, Horeb.

De necessitátibus meis éripe me, Dómine: vide humilitátem meam, et labórem meum: et dimítte ómnia peccáta mea. ℣. Ad te, Dómine, levávi ánimam meam: Deus meus, in te confído, non erubéscam: neque irrídeant me inimíci mei. ℣. Etenim univérsi qui te exspéctant, non confundéntur: confundántur omnes faciéntes vana.

And coming he findeth it empty, swept and garnished. Then he goeth, and taketh with him seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in and dwell there: and the last state of that man is made worse than the first. So shall it be also to this wicked generation. As He was yet speaking to the multitudes, behold His mother and His brethren * stood without, seeking to speak to Him. And one said unto Him: Behold Thy mother and Thy brethren stand without, seeking Thee. But He answering him that told Him, said: Who is My mother and who are My brethren? And stretching forth His hand towards His disciples, He said: Behold My mother and My brethren. For whosoever shall do the will of My Father that is in heaven, he is My brother, and sister, and mother.

Purple vestments.

The Station at Rome was in the old Church of St. Lawrence in Panisperna, erected to the glory of the heroic deacon on the very spot where he suffered martyrdom.

The Church reminds the Catechumens that since the coming of Jesus it is no longer the race of Israel alone that has the promise, but that all can enter the Church by baptism and partake of the Eucharistic bread of the children of God. If the heathen will solemnly deny the evil deeds of his fathers and practise the Christian law of penance and charity (Epistle), his prayer will be granted as was that of the woman who belonged to the cursed race of Canaan,† but whose faith was great (Gospel).

Let us seek in the Eucharist the strength required to observe Lent, for it is our fasting, in conjunction with the sacrifice of Jesus, that will obtain for us salvation (Secret, Communion, Postcommunion).

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, F d 21.

† In the beginning of the third year of His ministry, Jesus preached the gospel in the Phoenician province of Syria, and it was near Tyre that He performed the miracle on the daughter of the woman of Canaan, who lived, according to tradition, at Sarepta. See p. 507 and note ‡‡‡, and the map on p. 508.

Friday of Ember Week in Lent.

STATION AT THE TWELVE APOSTLES.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

On the Friday in Ember Week the Station was always made in the Church of the Twelve Apostles, situated at the foot of the Quirinal, for the examination of candidates for ordination. This basilica, one of the oldest in Rome, was built shortly after the time of Constantine by Julius I., on the occasion of the translation of the bodies of the Apostles Philip and James the Less, which rested there.

Addressing herself to the public penitents in the first centuries of Christianity, the Church told them by the mouth of Ezechiel that God was ready to forgive them because they repented (Epistle). Like the sick who assembled in the porches of the pond situated on the north of the Temple in Jerusalem, they waited at the doors of the church, and on the great day of the Sabbath, which is the Feast of Easter, Jesus cured them, as He healed the paralytic spoken of in the Gospel.†

Our souls, washed in the waters of baptism, but since fallen back into sin, must atone for their faults, and Jesus, through the instrumentality of His Priests, will pardon them in the holy tribunal of Penance.

Introit: Psalm xxiv. 17, 18.

DELIVER me, O Lord, from my necessities: see my abjection and my labour, and forgive me all my sins. Ps. xxiv. 1, 2. To Thee, O Lord, have I lifted up my soul: in Thee, O my God, I put my trust; let me not be ashamed. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

But if the just man turn himself away from his justice, and do iniquity according to all the abominations which the wicked man useth to work, shall he live? All his justices which he hath done shall not be remembered: in the prevarication by which he hath prevaricated, and in his sin which he hath committed, in them he shall die. And you have said: The way of the Lord is not right. Hear ye, therefore, O house of Israel: Is it My way that is not right, and are not rather your ways perverse? For when the just turneth himself away from his justice and committeth iniquity, he shall die therein: in the injustice that he hath wrought he shall die. Gospel: John v. 1-15.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time there was a festival day of the Jews, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. Now there is at Jerusalem a pond called Probatica, which in Hebrew is named Bethsaida, having five porches. In these lay a great multitude of sick, of blind, of lame, of withered, waiting for the moving of the water. And an angel of the Lord descended at certain times into the pond, and the water was moved. And he that went down first into the pond after the motion of the water was made whole of whatsoever infirmity he lay under. And there was a certain man there that had been eight and thirty years under his infirmity. Him when Jesus had seen lying, and knew that he had been now a long time, He saith to him: Wilt thou be made whole? The infirm man answered Him: Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pond: for whilst I am coming, another goeth down before me. Jesus saith to him: Arise, take

The Jews therefore said to him that was healed: It is the sabbath, it is not lawful for thee to take up thy bed. He answered them: He that made me whole, He said to me: Take up thy bed and walk. They asked him therefore: Who is that man who said to thee, Take up thy bed and walk? But he who was healed knew not who it was. For Jesus went aside from the multitude standing in the place. Afterwards Jesus findeth him in the temple, and saith to him: Behold thou art made whole: sin no more, lest some worse thing happen to thee. The man went his way, and told the Jews that it was Jesus Who had made him whole.

STATION AT ST. PETER'S.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station for the Saturday of Ember Week is always at the great basilica erected by Constantine and rebuilt by the Popes in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries on the hill of the Vatican on the spot where St. Peter died on the cross and where his body rests. It is there that ordinations take place.

Like the Apostles selected to be present on Mount Tabor † at the manifestation of the divine life of Jesus (Gospel), the new Priests will ascend the steps of the altar to enter into communication with God. It is they who in His name will exhort us to prayer, to patience and to charity. If we abstain during Lent from even the appearance of evil, our souls and our bodies will be preserved unstained for the day of the eternal Pasch, when Christ (Epistle) will allow us to participate in the glory of His Transfiguration for all eternity.

Let us pray to God to fortify us with His blessing so that, during this Lent, we may never depart from His holy will (Prayer over the People).

Introit: Psalm lxxxvii. 3.

LET my prayer come in before Thee: incline Thy ear to my petition, O Lord. Ps. lxxxvii. 2. O Lord, the God of my salvation: I have cried in the day and in the night before Thee. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

† After the confession that Peter made in the neighbourhood of Caesarea of the divinity of the Saviour, Jesus went on to Mount Tabor, where the Transfiguration took place; see p. 507 and note §§§, and the map on p. 508. This happened in the beginning of the third year of the public life of Christ.

After the Kyrie eleison the following is said:—

Lesson from the Book of Deuteronomy.—In those days Moses spoke to the people, saying: When thou hast made an end of tithing all thy fruits, thou shalt speak thus in the sight of the Lord thy God: I have taken that which was sanctified out of my house, and I have given it to the Levite, and to the stranger, and to the fatherless, and to the widow, as Thou hast commanded me: I have not transgressed Thy commandments nor forgotten Thy precepts. I have obeyed the voice of the Lord my God, and have done all things as Thou hast commanded me. Look from Thy sanctuary, and Thy high habitation of heaven, and bless Thy people Israel, and the land which Thou hast given us, as Thou didst swear to our fathers, a land flowing with milk and honey. This day the Lord thy God hath commanded thee to do these commandments and judgments: and to keep and fulfil them with all thy heart, and with all thy soul. Thou hast chosen the Lord this day to be thy God, and to walk in His ways and keep His ceremonies, and precepts, and judg-

And the Lord hath chosen thee this day, to be His peculiar people, as He hath spoken to thee, and to keep all His commandments: and to make thee higher than all nations which He hath created to His own praise, and name, and glory: that thou mayest be a holy people of the Lord thy God, as He hath spoken.

Second Lesson: Deuteronomy xi. 22-25.

Lesson from the Book of Deuteronomy.—In those days Moses said to the children of Israel: If you keep the commandments which I command you, and do them, to love the Lord your God, and walk in all His ways, cleaving unto Him, the Lord will destroy all these nations before your face, and you shall possess them, which are greater and stronger than you. Third Lesson: 2 Machabees i. 23-27.

Léctio libri Machabaeórum.—In diébus illis: Oratiónem faciébant omnes sacerdótes, dum consummarétur sacrifícium, Jónatha inchoánte, céteris autem respondéntibus. Et Nehemiae erat orátio hunc habens modum: Dómine Deus, ómnium creátor, terríbilis et fortis, justus et misericors, qui solus es bonus rex, solus praestans, solus justus, et omnípotens, et aetérnus, qui líberas Israel de omni malo, qui fecísti patres eléctos, et sanctificásti eos: áccipe sacrifícium pro univérso pópulo tuo Israél, et custódi partem tuam, et sanctífica: ut sciant gentes, quia tu es Deus noster.

Lesson from the Book of Machabees.—In those days all the priests made prayer, while the sacrifice was consuming, Jonathan beginning and the rest answering. And the prayer of Nehemias was after this manner: O Lord God, Creator of all things, dreadful and strong, just and merciful, Who alone art the good king, Who alone art gracious, Who alone art just and almighty and eternal, Who deliverest Israel from all evil, Who didst choose the fathers and didst sanctify them: receive the sacrifice for all Thy people Israel, and preserve Thy own portion, and sanctify it; that the Gentiles may know that Thou art our God.

Gradual: Psalm lxxxix. 13, 1.

Be turned somewhat, O Lord, and be entreated in favour of Thy servants. ℣. Lord, Thou hast been our refuge from generation to generation.

Preces pópuli tui, quaesumus, Dómine, cleménter exáudi: ut, qui juste pro peccátis nostris affligimur, pro tui nóminis glória misericórditer liberémur. Per Dominum.

Fourth Lesson: Ecclesiasticus xxxvi. 1-10.

Lesson from the Book of Wisdom.—HAVE mercy upon us, O God of all, and behold us, and show us the light of Thy mercies: and send Thy fear upon the nations that have not sought after Thee, that they may know that there is no God beside Thee, and that they may show forth Thy wonders. Lift up Thy hand over the strange nations, that they may see Thy power. For as Thou hast been sanctified in us in their sight, so Thou shalt be magnified among them in our presence, that they may know Thee, as we also have known Thee, that there is no God beside Thee, O Lord. Renew Thy signs and work new miracles. Glorify Thy hand and Thy right arm. Raise up indignation and pour out wrath. Take away the adversary and crush the enemy. Hasten the time and remember the end, that they may declare Thy wonderful works, O Lord, our God.

Léctio libri Sapiéntiae.—MISERERE nostri, Deus ómnium, et réspice nos, et osténde nobis lucem miseratiónum tuárum: et immítte timórem tuum super gentes, quae non exquisiérunt te, ut cognóscant, quia non est Deus nisi tu, et enárrent magnália tua. Alleva manum tuam super gentes aliénas, ut vídeant poténtiam tuam. Sicut enim in conspéctu eórum sanctificátus es in nobis, sic in conspéctu nostro magnificáberis in eis, ut cognóscant te, sicut et nos cognóvimus, quóniam non est Deus praeter te, Dómine. Innova signa et immúta mirabília. Glorífica manum, et bráchium dextrum. Excita furórem, et effúnde iram. Tolle adversárium, et afflíge inimícum. STATION AT ST. MARY'S IN DOMNICA.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Semi-double.—Privilege of the First Class.

Purple vestments.

The Station at Rome is at the Church of St. Mary in Domnica, so called because formerly the Christians gathered together there on Sunday, in the house of the Lord (Dominicum). It was one of the Roman parishes in the fifth century.

The ordinations of the Saturday in Ember Week began in olden days in the evening, and finished on Sunday morning. That is the reason why we have the same Gospel on both days.† It shows us the Transfiguration of Jesus. It is a model of what the forty days' penance, kept after the example of Christ, of Moses and of Elias, ‡ should produce in our souls at the Feast of Easter, when the Church will celebrate the triumph " of the Son of Man risen from the dead " (Gospel).

May the sight of the grandeur of Jesus transfigured prepare us for the contemplation shortly of the humiliations of His Passion.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

Introit: Psalm xxiv. 6, 3, 22.

REMINISCERE miseratiónum tuárum, Dómine, et misericórdiae tuae, quae a saeculo sunt: ne unquam domiméntur nobis inimíci nostri: líbera nos, Deus Israel, ex ómnibus angústiis nostris. Ps. Ad te, Dómine, levávi ánimam meam, Deus meus, in te confído, non erubéscam. ℣. Glória Patri.

REMEMBER, O Lord, Thy bowels of compassion, and Thy mercies that are from the beginning of the world, lest at any time our enemies rule over us: deliver us, O God of Israel, from all our tribulations. Ps. xxiv. 1, 2. To Thee, O Lord, have I lifted up my soul: in Thee, O my God, I put my trust; let me not be ashamed. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Epistle: 1 Thessalonians iv. 1-7.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Thessalonians. — BRETHREN: We pray and beseech you in the Lord Jesus that, as you have received from us, how you ought to walk and to please God, so also you would walk, that you may abound the more. For you know what precepts I have given to you by the Lord Jesus. For this is the will of God, your sanctification: that you should abstain from fornication, that every one of you should know how to possess his vessel in sanctification and honour; not in the passion of lust, like the Gentiles that know not God: and that no man overreach nor circumvent his brother in business: because the Lord is the avenger of all these things, as we have told you before and have testified. For God hath not called us unto uncleanness, but unto sanctification: in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Thessalonicénses. —FRATRES: Rogámus vos, et obsecrámus in Dómino Jesu, ut, quemádmodum accepístis a nobis, quómodo opórteat vos ambuláre et placére Deo, sic et ambulétis, ut abundétis magis. Scitis enim quae praecépta déderim vobis per Dóminum Jesum. Haec est enim volúntas Dei, sanctificátio vestra: ut abstineátis vos a fornicatióne, ut sciat unusquísque vestrum vas suum possidére in sanctificatióne, et honóre; non in passióne desidérii, sicut et Gentes, quae ignórant Deum: et ne quis supergrediátur, neque circumvéniat in negótio fratrem suum: quóniam vindex est Dóminus de his ómnibus, sicut praedíximus vobis, et testificáti sumus. Non enim vocávit nos Deus in immundítiam, sed in sanctificatiónem: in Christo Jesu Dómino nostro.

Et ecce apparuérunt illis Móyses et Elías cum eo loquéntes. Respóndens autem Petrus, dixit ad Jesum: Dómine, bonum est nos hic esse: si vis, faciámus hic tria tabernácula, tibi unum, Móysi unum, et Eliae unum. Adhuc eo loquénte, ecce nubes lúcida obumbrávit eos. Et ecce vox de nube, dicens: Hic est Filius meus diléctus, in quo mihi bene complácui: ipsum audíte. Et audiéntes discípuli, cecidérunt in fáciem suam, et timuérunt valde. Et accéssit Jesus, et tétigit eos, dixítque eis: Súrgite, et nolíte timére.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. —At that time Jesus took Peter and James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into a high mountain apart: and He was transfigured before them. And His face did shine as the sun: and His garments became white as snow. And behold there appeared to them Moses and Elias talking with Him. And Peter answering, said to Jesus: Lord, it is good for us to be here: if Thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles, one for Thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias. And as he was yet speaking, behold a bright cloud overshadowed them. And lo, a voice out of the cloud, saying: This is My beloved Son, in Whom I am well pleased: hear ye Him. And the disciples hearing, fell upon their face and were very much afraid. And Jesus came and touched them, and said to them: Arise, and fear not. And they lifting up their eyes saw no one, but only Jesus. And as they came down from the mountain, Jesus charged them, saying: Tell the vision to no man till the Son of Man be risen from the dead.—Creed.

Levántes autem óculos suos, néminem vidérunt, nisi solum Jesum. Et descendéntibus illis de monte, praecépit eis Jesus, dicens: Némini dixéritis visiónem, donec Filius hóminis a mórtuis resúrgat.—Credo.

STATION AT ST. CLEMENT'S.†

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station is at the very old Church of St. Clement, one of the first successors of St. Peter and whose name is found in the Canon of the Mass. This sanctuary, a parish of Rome in the fifth century, is the only faithful representation that has come down to us of the old Roman basilica. There are found, under the altar, the remains of the holy martyr.

Our Lord foretells in the Gospel ‡ that the Jews will lift Him up on the cross, and thrice He asserts that they will die in their sin, because they have not believed in Him and done His works.

The wrath of God, which fell a first time on Jerusalem at the time of the captivity of Babylon (Epistle), was renewed against Israel at the burning of the Temple. Like guilty Christians, they would only be able to return to the Lord by penance, while the heathen are called instead to believe in Jesus, to become part of His people by baptism.

"Let us mortify our flesh by abstinence from food and let us fast from sin by following justice" (Collect).

Introit : Psalm xxv. 11, 12.

REDIME me, Dómine, et miserére mei: pes enim meus stetit in via recta: in ecclésiis benedícam Dóminum. Ps. Júdica me, Dómine, quóniam ego in innocéntia mea ingréssus sum: et in Dómino sperans, non infirmábor. ℣. Glória Patri.

REDEEM me, O Lord, and have mercy on me: for my foot hath stood in the direct way: in the churches I will bless the Lord. Ps. xxv. 1. Judge me, O Lord, for I have walked in my innocence: and I have put my trust in the Lord, and shall not be weakened. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

‡ Shortly after the Transfiguration, Jesus went to Jerusalem for the Feast of Tabernacles; see p. 508 and note §, and the map on p. 508. It was on this occasion that, entering the courtyard of the Temple, where there were two sconces fifty cubits high, which were lighted on the occasion of these festivities to illuminate the town. He proclaimed Himself "the Light of the world," and then spoke the words of to-day's Gospel This Light will soon be lifted up on the ross to enlighten the whole world .

Lesson from the Prophet Daniel.—In those days Daniel prayed to the Lord, saying: O Lord our God, Who hast brought forth Thy people out of the land of Egypt with a strong hand, and hast made Thee a name as at this day: we have sinned, we have committed iniquity, O Lord, against all Thy justice: let Thy wrath and Thy indignation be turned away, I beseech Thee, from Thy city Jerusalem and from Thy holy mountain. For by reason of our sins and the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and Thy people are a reproach to all that are round about us. Now therefore, O our God, hear the supplication of Thy servant and his prayers: and show Thy face upon Thy sanctuary which is desolate, for Thy own sake. Incline, O my God, Thy ear and hear: open Thy eyes and see our desolation and the city upon which Thy name is called: for it is not for our justifications that we present our prayers before Thy face, but for the multitude of Thy tender mercies. O Lord, hear: O Lord, be appeased: hearken and do: delay not for Thy own sake, O my God: because Thy ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus said to the multitudes of the Jews: I go and you shall seek Me, and you shall die in your sin. Whither I go, you cannot come. The Jews therefore said: Will He kill Himself, because He said: Whither I go, you cannot come? And He said to them: You are from beneath, I am from above. You are of this world, I am not of this world. Therefore I said to you that you shall die in your sins: for if you believe not that I am He, you shall die in your sin. They said therefore to Him: Who art thou? Jesus said to them: The beginning, Who also speak unto you. Many things I have to speak and to judge of you. But He that sent Me is true: and the things I have heard of Him, these same I speak in the world. And they understood not that He called God His Father. Jesus therefore said to them: When you shall have lifted up the Son of Man, then shall you know that I am He, and that I do nothing

STATION AT ST. BALBINA'S.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station is at the sanctuary of St. Balbina, a Roman virgin who lived in the second century and whose remains rest under the altar with those of her father, the martyr St. Quirinus. This church, which stands on a slope of the Aventine, was in the fifth century one of the twenty-five parish churches of Rome.

Jesus declares in the Gospel that the Jews who taught the law of Moses did not observe it. On the other hand, the Kingdom of God is open to the heathen, who by baptism become disciples of Christ and do His works.†

The Epistle tells of Elias' going to a heathen widow woman of Sarepta to ask for nourishment when a drought had fallen on impenitent Israel. The widow took two pieces of wood, typical of the cross of Jesus, and prepared a hearth cake for the prophet and one for herself. Her compassion was rewarded, for never after did she want for bread. Whereas the Jews suffered from the scarcity, the Gentiles, as a reward for their fidelity, receive daily the Eucharistic bread, which applies to them the merits gained for them by the Saviour on the Cross.

Let us pray that God may grant us the grace of perseverance in the observance of the fast, of which He has set us an example (Collect).

Introit: Psalm xxvi. 8, 9.

TIBI dixit cor meum, quaesívi vultum tuum, vultum tuum, Dómine, requíram: ne avértas fáciem tuam a me. Ps. Dóminus illuminátio mea, et salus mea: quem timébo? ℣. Glória Patri.

MY heart hath said to Thee: I have sought Thy face. Thy face, O Lord, will I still seek: turn not away Thy face from me. Ps. xxvi. 1. The Lord is my light and my salvation: whom shall I fear? ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Pérfice, quaesumus, Dómine, benignus in nobis observántiae sanctae subsidium: ut, quae te auctóre faciénda cognóvimus, te operánte impleámus. Per Dóminum.

Perfect, we beseech Thee, O Lord, in Thy mercy, the help of this holy observance within us: that, what by Thy instruction we know we are to do, by Thy grace we may be enabled to accomplish. Through our Lord.

of the Lord came to Elias the Thesbite, saying: Arise, and go to Sarephta of the Sidonians, and dwell there: for I have commanded a widow-woman there to feed thee. He arose, and went to Sarephta. And when he was come to the gate of the city, he saw the widow-woman gathering sticks, and he called her, and said to her: Give me a little water in a vessel, that I may drink. And when she was going to fetch it, he called after her, saying: Bring me also, I beseech thee, a morsel of bread in thy hand. And she answered: As the Lord thy God liveth, I have no bread, but only a handful of meal in a pot, and a little oil in a cruse: behold I am gathering two sticks, that I may go in and dress it, for me and my son, that we may eat it, and die. And Elias said to her: Fear not, but go and do as thou hast said: but first make for me of the same meal a little hearth-cake, and bring it to me: and after make for thyself and thy son For thus saith the Lord the God of Israel: The pot of meal shall not waste, nor the cruse of oil be diminished, until the day wherein the Lord will give rain upon the face of the earth. She went, and did according to the word of Elias: and he ate, and she, and her house: and from that day the pot of meal wasted not, and the cruse of oil was not diminished, according to the word of the Lord, which He spoke in the hand of Elias.

Cumque venísset ad portam civitátis, appáruit ei múlier vídua cólligens ligna, et vocávit eam, dixítque ei: Da mihi páululum aquae in vase, ut bibam. Cumque illa pérgeret, ut afférret, clamávit post tergum ejus, dicens: Affer mihi, óbsecro, et buccéllam panis in manu tua. Quae respóndit: Vivit Dóminus Deus tuus, quia non hábeo panem, nisi quantum pugíllus cápere potest farínae in hýdria, et páululum ólei in lécytho: en cólligo duo ligna, ut ingrédiar, et fáciam illum mihi, et fílio meo, ut comedámus, et moriámur Ad quam Elías ait: Noli timére, sed vade, et fac sicut dixísti: verúmtamen mihi primum fac de ipsa farínula subcinerícium panem párvulum, et affer ad me: tibi autem et fílio tuo fácies póstea. Haec autem dicit Dóminus Deus Israel: Hydria farínae non defíciet, nec lécythus ólei minuétur, usque ad diem, in qua Dóminus datúrus est plúviam super fáciem terrae. Quae ábiit, et fecit juxta verbum Elíae: et comédit ipse, et illa, et domus ejus: et ex illa die hýdria farínae non defécit, et lécythus ólei non est imminútus, juxta verbum Dómini, quod locútus fúerat in manu Elíae.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Locútus est Jesus ad turbas, et ad discípulos suos, dicens: Super cáthedram Móysi sedérunt Scribae et Pharísaei. Omnia ergo quaecúmque dixerint vobis, serváte, et fácite: secúndum ópera vero eórum nolíte fácere: dicunt enim, et non fáciunt. Alligant enim ónera grávia et importabília, et impónunt in húmeros hóminum: dígito autem suo nolunt ea movére. Omnia vero ópera sua fáciunt, ut videántur ab homínibus: dilátant enim phylactéria sua, et magníficant fímbrias. Amant autem primos recúbitus in coenis, et primas cáthedras in synagógis, et salutatiónes in foro, et vocári ab homínibus Rabbi. Vos autem nolíte vocári Rabbi: unus est enim Magíster vester, omnes autem vos fratres estis. Et patrem nolíte vocáre vobis super terram: unus est enim Pater vester, qui in coelis est. Nec vocémini magístri: quia Magíster vester unus est, Christus. Qui major est vestrum, erit minister vester. Qui autem se exaltáverit, humiliábitur: et qui se humiliáverit, exaltábitur.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time Jesus spoke to the multitudes and to His disciples, saying: The Scribes and the Pharisees have sitten on the chair of Moses. All things therefore whatsoever they shall say to you, observe and do; but according to their works do ye not; for they say and do not. For they bind heavy and insupportable burdens, and lay them on men's shoulders; but with a finger of their own they will not move them. And all their works they do for to be seen of men; for they make their phylacteries broad, and enlarge their fringes. And they love the first places at feasts, and the first chairs in the synagogues, and salutations in the market-place, and to be called by men Rabbi. But be not you called Rabbi: for one is your master, and all you are brethren. And call none your father upon earth; for one is your father, Who is in heaven. Neither be ye called masters: for one is your master, Christ. He that is the greatest among you shall be your servant. And whosoever shall exalt himself shall be humbled; and he that shall humble himself shall be exalted.

STATION AT ST. CECILIA'S.

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)—Purple vestments.

The Station is at the sanctuary where lies the body of the illustrious Roman virgin St. Cecilia. It was there she lived and died a martyr.

In the fifth century this church was mentioned as one of the most celebrated parochial or titular churches of Rome. It is situated in the Trastevere.*

We read at the Epistle the prayer of Mardochai in favour of the Jewish people whom the impious Aman had determined to destroy. He implored the Lord to turn their sadness into joy. The Christian people in the same way are mourning in their Lenten penance and are looking forward to the holy Paschal joys. But to deserve them, as the Gospel † tells us, we must first drink the chalice of the One Who came to shed His blood to redeem us and Who will make us participants in His resurrection, if we die to our sins.

Let us abstain from the food which sustains our bodies, and from the vices which poison our souls (Collect).

Introit : Psalm xxxvii. 22, 23.

NE derelínquas me, Dómine, Deus meus, ne discédas a me : inténde in adjutórium meum, Dómine, virtus salútis meae. Ps. Dómine, ne in furóre tuo árguas me : neque in ira tua corrípias me. ℣. Glória Patri.

FORSAKE me not, O Lord my God, do not Thou depart from me : attend unto my help, O Lord, the power of my salvation. Ps. xxxvii. 2. Rebuke me not, O Lord, in Thy indignation ; nor chastise me in Thy wrath. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Gospel : Matthew xx. 17-28.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. —At that time, Jesus going up to Jerusalem, took the twelve disciples apart, and said to them: Behold we go up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man shall be betrayed to the chief priests and the scribes, and they shall condemn Him to death, and shall deliver Him to the Gentiles to be mocked, and scourged, and crucified, and the third day He shall rise again. Then came to Him the mother of the sons of Zebedee with her sons, adoring and asking something of Him. Who said to her: illi: Dic ut sédeant hi duo fílii mei, unus ad déxteram tuam, et unus ad sinístram, in regno tuo. Respóndens autem Jesus, dixit: Nescítis quid petátis. Potéstis bíbere cálicem, quem ego bibitúrus sum? Dicunt ei: Póssumus. Ait illis: Cálicem quidem meum bibétis: sedére autem ad déxteram meam vel sinístram, non est meum dare vobis, sed quibus parátum est a Patre meo. Et audiéntes decem, indignáti sunt de duóbus frátribus. Jesus autem vocávit eos ad se, et ait: Scitis quia príncipes géntium domi-nántur eórum: et qui majóres sunt, potestátem exércent in eos. Non ita erit inter vos: sed quicúmque volúerit inter vos major fíeri, sit vester minister: et qui volúerit inter vos primus esse, erit vester servus. Sicut Fílius hóminis non venit ministrári, sed ministráre, et dare ánimam suam, redemptiónem pro multis.

What wilt thou? She saith to Him: Say that these my two sons may sit, the one on Thy right hand, and the other on Thy left, in Thy kingdom. And Jesus answering, said: You know not what you ask. Can you drink the chalice that I shall drink? They say to Him: We can. He saith to them: My chalice indeed you shall drink: but to sit on My right or left hand is not Mine to give to you, but to them for whom it is prepared by My Father. And the ten, hearing it, were moved with indignation against the two brethren. But Jesus called them to Him, and said: You know that the princes of the Gentiles lord it over them: and they that are the greater, exercise power upon them. It shall not be so among you: but whosoever will be the greater among you, let him be your minister: and he that will be first among you shall be your servant. Even as the Son of Man is not come to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give His life a redemption for many.

Offertory : Psalm xxiv. 1-3.

STATION AT ST. MARY BEYOND THE TIBER.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

To-day's Station takes place in a basilica erected shortly after the peace of Constantine by Julius I. and is one of the first churches of Rome dedicated to the Mother of God. Mary is there represented seated among the wise Virgins holding their lamps as an allusion to the spring of oil which gushed out at this spot shortly before the birth of Him Whom she had the happiness of carrying in her arms and Who is called Christ or the Anointed of the Lord. This was one of the twenty-five parishes of Rome in the fifth century.

Jeremias speaks to us in the Epistle of two men, one of whom put his trust in himself and the other in God. The first dries up like the heather in the desert, and the second bears the abundant fruits of his good works.

In like manner, says the parable of the Gospel, † there were two men, one of whom enjoyed life instead of doing penance and the other suffered. The first went to hell, whilst the second was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, C e 28.

† Jesus addressed this parable to the Pharisees in the course of the third year of His ministry, during His second mission in Peraea. See p. 508, note ‡‡, and the map.

This is a symbol of Israel who rejected Christ and is cast out, whilst the Gentiles, through baptism and penance, enter into the Kingdom of God.

Let us implore the Lord to grant us by His grace perseverance in prayer and fasting, in order that we may be delivered from the enemies both of soul and body (Collect).

Introit : Psalm lxix. 2, 3.

DEUS, in adjutórium meum inténde. Dómine, ad adjuvándum me festína : confundántur et revereántur inimíci mei, qui quaerunt ánimam meam. Ps. Avertántur retrórsum, et erubéscant : qui cógitant mihi mala. ℣. Glória Patri.

O GOD, come to my assistance. O Lord, make haste to help me : let my enemies be confounded and ashamed that seek my soul. Ps. lxix. 4. Let them be turned backward, and blush for shame : that desire evils to me. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Lesson from Jeremias the Prophet.—THUS saith the Lord God : Cursed be the man that trusteth in man and maketh flesh his arm, and whose heart departeth from the Lord. For he shall be like tamaric in the desert, and he shall not see when good shall come : but he shall dwell in dryness in the desert, in a salt land, and not inhabited. Blessed be the man that trusteth in the Lord, and the Lord shall be his confidence. And he shall be as a tree that is planted by the waters, that spreadeth out its roots towards moisture : and it shall not fear when the heat cometh. And the leaf thereof shall be green, and in the time of drought it shall not be solicitous, neither shall it cease at any time to bring forth fruit. The heart is perverse above all things, and unsearchable: who can know it? I am the Lord Who search the heart, and prove the reins: Who give to every one according to his way, and according to the fruit of his devices: saith the Lord Almighty.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time Jesus said to the Pharisees: There was a certain rich man who was clothed in purple and fine linen, and feasted sumptuously every day. And there was a certain beggar, named Lazarus, who lay at his gate, full of sores, desiring to be filled with the crumbs that fell from the rich man's table, and no one did give him: moreover the dogs came and licked his sores. And it came to pass that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom. And the rich man also died, and he was buried in hell. And lifting up his eyes when he was in torments, he saw Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom, and he cried and said: Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus that he may dip the tip of his finger in ut refrigeret linguam meam, quia crúcior in hac flamma. Et dixit illi Abraham: Fili, recordáre quia recepísti bona in vita tua, et Lázarus simíliter mala: nunc autem hic consolátur, tu vero cruciáris. Et in his ómnibus inter nos et vos chaos magnum firmátum est: ut hi, qui volunt hinc transíre ad vos, non possint, neque inde huc transmeáre. Et ait: Rogo ergo te, pater, ut mittas eum in domum patris mei. Hábeo enim quinque fratres, ut testétur illis, ne et ipsi véniant in hunc locum tormentórum. Et ait illi Abraham: Habent Móysen et prophétas: áudiant illos. At ille dixit: Non, pater Abraham: sed si quis ex mórtuis íerit ad eos, poeniténtiam agent. Ait autem illi: Si Móysen, et prophétas non áudiunt, neque si quis ex mórtuis resurréxerit credent.

water to cool my tongue, for I am tormented in this flame. And Abraham said to him: Son, remember that thou didst receive good things in thy lifetime, and likewise Lazarus evil things: but now he is comforted, and thou art tormented. And besides all this, between us and you there is fixed a great chaos: so that they who would pass from hence to you cannot, nor from thence come hither. And he said: Then, father, I beseech thee that thou wouldst send him to my father's house, for I have five brethren, that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torments. And Abraham said to him: They have Moses and the prophets: let them hear them. But he said: No, father Abraham: but if one went to them from the dead, they will do penance. And he said to him: If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they believe if one rise again from the dead.

Precátus est Móyses in conspéctu Dómini Dei sui, et dixit: Quare, Dómine, irásceris in pópulo tuo? parce irae ánimae tuae: meménto Abraham, Isaac, et Jacob, quibus jurásti dare terram fluéntem lac et mel. Et placátus est Dóminus de malignitáte, quam dixit fácere pópulo suo.

Moses prayed in the sight o the Lord his God, and said: Why, O Lord, art Thou angry with Thy people? let the anger of Thy soul be appeased: remember Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, to whom Thou sworest that Thou wouldst give the land flowing with milk and honey. And the Lord was appeased from the evil, which He had threatened to do to His people.

This Station is made in the basilica, one of the twenty-five Roman parishes, which was dedicated in the fifth century to St. Vitalis by Innocent I. This Saint shed his blood at Ravenna. He was the father of the glorious Milanese martyrs SS. Gervasius and Protasius.

mens saw in Joseph, Christ denied by His own people transferring to the Church, formed henceforth by all peoples, the abundance of His blessings. They likewise saw in the parable of the rebellious workers in the vineyard the reprobation of the Jews and the election of the Gentiles. The brothers of Joseph and the unfaithful workers of the vineyard uttered the same death cries : "Come, let us kill him." But, whilst the first repented and obtained the clemency of their victim, the second persisted in rejecting Christ as the corner stone and were crushed by it (Gospel).*

Let us purify ourselves by the salutary fast of Lent, in order that we may prepare ourselves to celebrate in a holy way the coming Easter festivals (Collect).

Lesson from the Book of Genesis.—In those days Joseph said to his brethren: Hear my dream which I dreamed: I thought we were binding sheaves in the field: and my sheaf arose as it were, and stood, and your sheaves standing about, bowed down before my sheaf. His brethren answered: Shalt thou be our king? or shall we be subject to thy dominion? Therefore this matter of his dreams and words ministered nourishment to their envy and hatred. He dreamed also another dream, which he told his brethren, saying: I saw in a dream, as it were the sun, and the moon, and eleven stars worshipping me. And when he had told this to his father and brethren, his father rebuked him, and said: What meaneth this dream that thou hast dreamed? shall I and thy mother and thy brethren worship thee upon the earth? His brethren therefore envied him: but his father considered the thing with himself. And when his brethren abode in Sichem feeding their father's flocks, Israel said to him: Thy brethren feed the sheep in Sichem: come, I will send thee to them. And when he answered: I am ready, he said to him: Go, and see if all things be well with thy brethren, and the cattle: and bring me word again what is doing. So being sent from the vale of Hebron, he came to Sichem: and a man found him there wandering in the field, and asked what he sought. But he answered: I seek my brethren: tell me where they feed the flocks. And the man said to him: They are departed from this place; for I heard them say: Let us go to Dothain. And Joseph went forward after his brethren, and found them in Dothain. And when they saw him afar off, before he came nigh them, they thought to kill him, and said one to another: Behold the dreamer cometh: come, let us kill him, and cast him into some old pit, and we will say: Some evil

Quod cum patri suo et frátribus retulísset, increpávit eum pater suus, et dixit: Quid sibi vult hoc sómnium, quod vidísti? num ego et mater tua et fratres tui adorábimus te super terram? Invidébant ei igítur fratres sui: pater vero rem tácitus considerábat. Cumque fratres illíus in pascéndis grégibus patris moraréntur in Sichem, dixit ad eum Israel: Fratres tui pascunt oves in Síchimis: veni, mittam te ad eos. Quo respondénte: Praesto sum, ait ei: Vade, et vide si cuncta próspera sint erga fratres tuos, et pécora: et renúntia mihi quid agátur. Missus de valle Hebron, venit in Sichem: invenítque eum vir errántem in agro, et interrogávit quid quaereret: At ille respóndit: Fratres meos quaero: índica mihi ubi pascant greges. Dixítque ei vir: Recessérunt de loco isto: audívi autem eos dicéntes: Eámus in Dóthain. Perréxit ergo Joseph post fratres suos, et invénit eos in Dóthain. Qui cum vidíssent eum procul, ántequam accéderet ad eos, cogitavérunt illum occídere, et mútuo loquebántur: Ecce somniátor venit: veníte, occidámus eum, et mittámus in cistérnam véterem, dicemúsque: Fera péssima devorávit eum: et tunc apparébit quid illi prosint sómnia sua. And Ruben hearing this, endeavoured to deliver him out of their hands, and said: Do not take away his life, nor shed his blood: but cast him into this pit, that is in the wilderness, and keep your hands harmless: now he said this, being desirous to deliver him out of their hands, and to restore him to his father.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus turbis Judaeórum, et princípibus sacerdótum parábolam hanc: Homo erat paterfamílias, qui plantávit víneam, et sepem circúmdedit ei, et fodit in ea tórcular, et aedificávit turrim, et locávit eam agrícolis, et péregre proféctus est. Cum autem tempus frúctuum appropinquásset, misit servos suos ad agrícolas, ut accíperent fructus ejus. Et agrícolae, apprehénsis servis ejus, álium cecidérunt, álium occidérunt, álium vero lapidavérunt. Iterum misit álios servos plures prióribus, et fecérunt illis simíliter. Novíssime autem misit ad eos fílium suum, dicens: Verebúntur fílium meum. Agricolae autem vidéntes filium, dixérunt intra se: Hic est heres, men seeing the son, said among themselves: This is the heir, come, let us kill him, and we shall have his inheritance. And taking him, they cast him forth out of the vineyard, and killed him. When therefore the lord of the vineyard shall come, what will he do to those husbandmen? They say to him: He will bring those evil men to an evil end: and will let out his vineyard to other husbandmen, that shall render him the fruit in due season. Jesus saith to them: Have you never read in the Scriptures: The stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner? By the Lord this has been done, and it is wonderful in our eyes: therefore I say to you, that the kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and shall be given to a nation yielding the fruits thereof. And whosoever shall fall on this stone shall be broken: but on whomsoever it shall fall, it shall grind him to powder. And when the chief priests and Pharisees had heard His parables, they knew that He spoke of them. And seeking to lay hands on Him, they feared the multitudes: because they held Him as a prophet.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time Jesus spoke this parable to the multitude of the Jews and the chief priests: There was a man an householder who planted a vineyard, and made a hedge round about it, and dug in it a press, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a strange country. And when the time of the fruits drew nigh, he sent his servants to the husbandmen, that they might receive the fruits thereof. And the husbandmen laying hands on his servants, beat one, and killed another, and stoned another. Again he sent other servants, more than the former, and they did to them in like manner. And last of all he sent to them his son, saying: They will reverence my son. But the husband-

venite occidámus eum, et habébimus hereditátem ejus. Et apprehénsum eum ejecérunt extra víneam, et occidérunt. Cum ergo vénerit dóminus víneae, quid fáciet agrícolis illis? Aiunt illi: Malos male perdet: et víneam suam locábit áliis agrícolis, qui reddant ei fructum tempóribus suis. Dicit illis Jesus: Nunquam legístis in Scriptúris: Lápidem, quem reprobavérunt aedificántes, hic factus est in caput ánguli? A Dómino factum est istud, et est mirábile in óculis nostris: ideo dico vobis, quia auferétur a vobis regnum Dei, et dábitur genti faciénti fructus ejus. Et qui cecíderit super lápidem istum, confringétur: super quem vero cecíderit, cónteret eum. Et cum audíssent príncipes sacerdótum, et Pharisaei parábolas ejus, cognovérunt quod de ipsis díceret. Et quaeréntes eum tenére, timuérunt turbas: quóniam sicut prophétam eum habébant.

The Station is in the basilica founded by St. Helen on the Via Lavicana, where were buried the bodies of St. Marcellinus, priest, and St. Peter, exorcist, martyred at Rome during the Diocletian persecution. Their names are mentioned in the Canon of the Mass. This church was one of the twenty-five Roman parish churches in the fifth century.

As yesterday, the Epistle and the Gospel † repeat in figure and in parable to the catechumens and public penitents that they are to take the place of the Jews in the Kingdom of God.

Isaac has two sons. Esau represents the people of God who sell their birthright to gratify their carnal appetite. Jacob represents the Gentiles who check their passions and are blessed by Heaven.

Jesus in the same way said: A man has two sons: the elder is the Jewish element of the primitive Church which is scandalised at the vocation of the Gentiles and is loath to associate with them; the prodigal is the pagan element. After having wasted all the gifts of God, these unhappy people mourn their sins and atone for them ; they come to Jesus, Who opens His arms to them, presses them to His Heart, and satisfies their hunger with His sacred Body and Precious Blood in the eucharistic feast.

Lesson from the Book of Genesis.—IN those days Rebecca said to her son Jacob : I heard thy father talking with Esau thy brother, and saying to him : Bring me of thy hunting, and make me meats that I may eat, and bless thee in the sight of the Lord before I die. Now, therefore, my son, follow my counsel : and go thy way to the flock, bring me two kids of the best, that I may make of them meat for thy father, such as he gladly eateth : which when thou hast brought in, and he hath eaten, he may bless thee before he die. And he answered her : Thou knowest that Esau my brother

Nunc ergo, fili mi, acquiésce consíliis meis : et pergens ad gregem, affer mihi duos hoedos óptimos, ut fáciam ex eis escas patri tuo, quibus libénter véscitur : quas cum intúleris, et coméderit, benedícat tibi priúsquam moriátur. me pater meus, et sénserit, timeo ne putet me sibi voluísse illúdere, et indúcam super me maledictiónem pro benedictióne. Ad quem mater : In me sit, ait, ista maledíctio, fili mi : tantum audi vocem meam, et pergens affer quae dixi. Abiit, et áttulit, dedítque matri. Parávit illa cibos, sicut velle nóverat patrem illíus. Et véstibus Esau valde bonis, quas apud se habébat domi, índuit eum : pelliculásque hoedórum circúmdedit mánibus, et colli nuda protéxit. Dedítque pulméntum, et panes, quos cóxerat, trádidit. Quibus illátis, dixit : Pater mi ? At ille respóndit : Audio. Quis es tu, fili mi ? Dixitque Jacob : Ego sum primogénitus tuus Esau : feci sicut praecepísti mihi : surge, sede, et cómede de venatióne mea, ut benedícat mihi ánima tua. Rursúmque Isaac ad fílium suum : Quómodo, inquit, tam cito invenire potuísti, fili mi ? Qui respóndit : Volúntas Dei fuit, ut cito occúrreret mihi quod volébam. Dixítque Isaac : Accéde huc, ut tangam te, fili mi, et probem utrum tu sis fílius meus Esau, an non. Accéssit ille ad patrem, et palpáto eo, dixit Isaac : Vox quidem, vox Jacob est : sed manus, manus sunt Esau. Et non cognóvit eum, quia pilósae manus similitúdinem majóris expresserant. Benedícens ergo illi, ait : Tu es fílius meus Esau ? Respóndit : Ego sum. At ille : Affer mihi, inquit, cibos de venatióne tua, is a hairy man, and I am smooth : if my father shall feel me, and perceive it, I fear lest he will think I would have mocked him, and I shall bring upon me a curse instead of a blessing. And his mother said to him : Upon me be this curse, my son : only hear thou my voice, and go, fetch me the things which I have said. He went, and brought, and gave them to his mother. She dressed meats, such as she knew his father liked. And she put on him very good garments of Esau, which she had at home with her : and the little skins of the kids she put about his hands, and covered the bare of his neck. And she gave him the savoury meat, and delivered him bread that she had baked. Which when he had carried in, he said, My father? But he answered : I hear. Who art thou, my son? And Jacob said : I am Esau, thy firstborn : I have done as thou didst command me : arise, sit, and eat of my venison, that thy soul may bless me. And Isaac said to his son : How couldst thou find it so quickly, my son ? He answered : It was the will of God that what I sought came quickly in my way. And Isaac said : Come hither, that I may feel thee, my son, and may prove whether thou be my son Esau or not. He came near to his father, and when he had felt him, Isaac said : The voice indeed is the voice of Jacob ; but the hands are the hands of Esau. And he knew him not, because his hairy hands made him like to the elder. Then blessing him, he said: Art thou my son Esau? He answered: I am. Then he said: Bring me the meats of thy hunting, my son, that my soul may bless thee. And when they were brought, and he had eaten, he offered him wine also. Which after he had drunk, he said to him: Come near me, and give me a kiss, my son. He came near and kissed him. And immediately as he smelled the fragrant smell of his garments, blessing him, he said: Behold the smell of my son is as the smell of a plentiful field, which the Lord hath blessed. God give thee the dew of heaven, and of the fatness of the earth, abundance of corn and wine. And let peoples serve thee, and tribes worship thee: be thou lord of thy brethren, and let thy mother's children bow down before thee. Cursed be he that curseth thee: and let him that blesseth thee be filled with blessings. Isaac had scarce ended his words, when Jacob being now gone out abroad, Esau came, and brought in to his father meats made of what he had taken in hunting, saying: Arise, my father, and eat of thy son's venison, that thy soul may bless me. And Isaac said to him: Why, who art thou? He answered: I am thy firstborn son Esau. Isaac was struck with fear and astonished exceedingly, and wondering beyond what can be believed, said:

fíli mi, ut benedícat tibi ánima mea. Quos cum oblátos comedísset, óbtulit ei étiam vinum. Quo hausto, dixit ad eum: Accéde ad me, et da mihi ósculum, fili mi. Accéssit et osculátus est eum. Statímque ut sensit vestimentórum illíus fragrántiam, benedícens illi, ait: Ecce odor fílii mei sicut odor agri pleni, cui benedíxit Dóminus. Det tibi Deus de rore coeli, et de pinguédine terrae abundántiam fruménti et vini. Et sérviant tibi pópuli, et adórent te tribus: esto dóminus fratrum tuórum, et incurvéntur ante te fílii matris tuae. Qui maledíxerit tibi, sit ille maledictus: et qui benedíxerit tibi, benedictiónibus repleátur. Vix Isaac sermónem impléverat, et egrésso Jacob foras, venit Esau, coctósque de venatióne cibos íntulit patri, dicens: Surge, pater mi, et cómede de venatióne fílii tui, ut benedícat mihi ánima tua. Dixítque illi Isaac: Quis enim es tu? Qui respóndit: Ego sum fílius tuus primogénitus Esau. Expávit Isaac stupóre veheménti, et ultra quam credi potest, admírans, ait: Quis ígitur ille est, qui dudum captam venatiónem áttulit mihi, et comédi ex ómnibus priúsquam tu veníres? Benedixíque ei et erit benedíctus. Audítis Esau sermónibus patris, irrúgiit clamóre magno, et consternátus, ait: Benedic étiam et mihi, pater mi. Qui ait: Venit germánus tuus fraudulénter, et accépit benedictiónem tuam. At ille subjúnxit: Juste vocátum est nomen ejus Jacob: supplantávit enim me in áltera vice: primogénita mea ante tulit, et nunc secúndo surrípuit benedictiónem meam. Rursúmque ad patrem: Numquid non reservásti, ait, et mihi benedictiónem? Respóndit Isaac: Dóminum tuum illum constítui, et omnes fratres ejus servitúti illíus subjugávi: fruménto et vino stabilívi eum, et tibi post haec, fili mi, ultra quid fáciam? Cui Esau: Num unam, inquit, tantum benedictiónem habes pater? mihi quoque óbsecro ut benedícas. Cumque ejulátu magno fleret, motus Isaac, dixit ad eum: In pinguédine terrae, et in rore coeli désuper erit benedíctio tua.

Who is he then that even now brought me venison that he had taken, and I ate of all before thou camest? And I have blessed him and he shall be blessed. Esau having heard his father's words, roared out with a great cry, and being in a great consternation, said: Bless me also, my father. And he said: Thy brother came deceitfully, and got thy blessing. But he said again: Rightly is his name called Jacob; for he hath supplanted me, lo, this second time: my first birthright he took away before, and now this second time he hath stolen away my blessing. And again he said to his father: Hast thou not reserved me also a blessing? Isaac answered: I have appointed him thy lord, and have made all his brethren his servants: I have established him with corn and wine, and after this, what shall I do more for thee, my son? And Esau said to him: Hast thou only one blessing, father? I beseech thee, bless me also. And when he wept with a loud cry, Isaac being moved said to him: In the fat of the earth, and in the dew of heaven from above shall thy blessing be.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Dixit Jesus Pharisaeis, et scribis parábolam istam: Homo quidam hábuit duos fílios: et dixit adolescéntior ex illis patri: Pater, da mihi portiónem substántiae, ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time Jesus spoke to the Pharisees and Scribes this parable: A certain man had two sons: and the younger of them said to his father: Father, give me the portion of substance that falleth to me. And he divided unto them his substance. And not many days after, the younger son, gathering all together, went abroad into a far country, and there wasted his substance, living riotously. And after he had spent all, there came a mighty famine in that country, and he began to be in want. And he went and cleaved to one of the citizens of that country. And he sent him into his farm to feed swine. And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks the swine did eat: and no man gave unto him. And returning to himself, he said: How many hired servants in my father's house abound with bread, and I here perish with hunger? I will arise, and will go to my father, and say to him: Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee: I am not worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants. And rising up, he came to his father. And when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and was moved with compassion, and running to him fell upon his neck and kissed him. And the son said to him: Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee, I am not now worthy to be called thy son. And the father said to his servants: Bring forth quickly the first robe, and put it on him, and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet: and bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it, and let us eat and make merry, because this my son was dead, and

Et non post multos dies, congregátis ómnibus, adolescéntior fílius péregre proféctus est in regiónem longínquam, et ibi dissipávit substántiam suam vivéndo luxurióse. Et postquam ómnia consummásset, facta est fames válida in regióne illa, et ipse coepit egére. Et ábiit, et adhaesit uni cívium regiónis illíus. Et misit illum in villam suam, ut pásceret porcos. Et cupiébat implére ventrem suum de síliquis, quas porci manducábant: et nemo illi dabat. In se autem revérsus, dixit: Quanti mercenárii in domo patris mei abúndant pánibus, ego autem hic fame péreo? Surgam, et ibo ad patrem meum, et dicam ei: Pater, peccávi in coelum, et coram te: jam non sum dignus vocári filius tuus: fac me sicut unum de mercenáriis tuis. Now his elder son was in the field: and when he came, and drew nigh to the house, he heard music and dancing: and he called one of the servants, and asked what these things meant. And he said to him: Thy brother is come, and thy father hath killed the fatted calf, because he hath received him safe. And he was angry, and would not go in. His father therefore coming out began to entreat him. And he answering, said to his father: Behold, for so many years do I serve thee, and I have never transgressed thy commandment, and yet thou hast never given me a kid to make merry with my friends: but as soon as this thy son is come, who hath devoured his substance with harlots, thou hast killed for him the fatted calf. This sanctuary, built by Constantine on the Tiburtine Way, contains the tomb of the celebrated deacon, the great martyr of Rome. Enlarged and enriched in the course of the ages, it has always been much visited by the faithful. The high Altar is reserved for the sole use of the Pope; it is one of the five patriarchal basilicas of Rome.

To-day we see Jesus in open conflict with Satan. He throws him to the ground, disarms him and expels him from the body of one possessed.† As He Himself explains in a parable (Gospel), Satan believed himself secure in his empire, like the strong and well-armed man who defends the entrance of his house, but the Son of God, stronger than the fallen angel, came and took from him his unjust conquest, and we become His. Also we should during Lent, which is a time when the struggle against the old man is more intense, "live as children of the light, performing actions good, just and true" (Epistle).

Monday of the Third Week in Lent.†

STATION AT ST. MARK'S.‡

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)—Purple vestments.

The Station is at St. Mark's, an ancient parish church of Rome, built in the fourth century by Pope St. Mark in honour of his patron, the evangelist. Under the altar lie the remains of this Pope with the bodies of the holy martyrs Abdon and Sennen.

The Epistle and the Gospel § speak to us of Naaman, the valiant general of the King of Syria's army. He was cured by bathing in the Jordan, although he did not belong to the race of Israel. Later on Jesus was to plunge Himself into the same river and to communicate a sanctifying virtue to its waters. Naaman, therefore, is a figure of the heathen whom the Church by baptism cures of the leprosy of sin. Indeed the liturgy of the day is specially intended for the catechumens.

Let us renew ourselves in the spirit of our baptism by purifying our hearts in the salutary bath of penitence. This will cure them of the leprosy of the soul called sin.

Introit : Psalm lv. 5.

IN God I will praise the word, in the Lord I will praise his speech: in God I will trust: I will not fear what man can do against me. Ps. lv. 2. Have mercy on me, O God, for man hath trodden me under foot: all the day long he hath afflicted me, fighting against me. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

IN Deo laudábo verbum, in Dómino laudábo sermónem: in Deo sperábo; non timébo quid fáciat mihi homo. Ps. Miserére mei, Deus, quóniam conculcávit me homo: tota die bellans tribulávit me. ℣. Glória Patri.

† After the liturgy of to-day the faithful were called upon to assist at the first examination or ballot of the catechumens on the following Wednesday. These ballots were seven in number, of which the first (Wednesday of the Third Week in Lent), the third (Wednesday of the Fourth Week), and the seventh (Holy Saturday) were the most important.

Lesson from the Book of Kings.—In those days Naaman, general of the army of the king of Syria, was a great man with his master, and honourable : for by him the Lord gave deliverance to Syria : and he was a valiant man and rich, but a leper. Now there had gone out robbers from Syria, and had led away captive out of the land of Israel a little maid, and she waited upon Naaman's wife, and she said to her mistress : I wish my master had been with the prophet that is in Samaria : he would certainly have healed him of the leprosy which he hath. Then Naaman went in to his lord, and told him, saying :Thus and thus said the girl from the land of Israel. And the king of Syria said to him : Go, and I will send a letter to the king of Israel. And he departed, and took with him ten talents of silver, and six thousand pieces of gold, and ten changes of raiment, and brought the letter to the king of Israel, in these words : When thou shalt receive this letter, know that I have sent to thee Naaman my servant, that thou mayest heal him of his leprosy.

And when the king of Israel had read the letter, he rent his garments, and said: Am I God, to be able to kill and give life, that this man hath sent to me, to heal a man of his leprosy? mark, and see how he seeketh occasions against me. And when Eliseus the man of God had heard this, to wit, that the king of Israel had rent his garments, he sent to him, saying: Why hast thou rent thy garments? let him come to me, and let him know that there is a prophet in Israel. So Naaman came with his horses and chariots, and stood at the door of the house of Eliseus: and Eliseus sent a messenger to him, saying: Go, and wash seven times in the Jordan, and thy flesh shall recover health, and thou shalt be clean. Naaman was angry and went away, saying: I thought he would have come out to me, and standing would have invoked the name of the Lord his God, and touched with his hand the place of the leprosy, and healed me. Are not the Abana, and the Pharphar, rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel, that I may wash in them, and be made clean? So as he turned, and was going away with indignation, his servants came to him, and said to him: Father, if the prophet had bid thee do some great thing, surely thou shouldst have done it: how much rather what he now hath said to thee: Wash, and thou shalt be clean? Then he went down, and washed in the Jordan seven times, ac-

Quod cum audísset Eliséus vir Dei, scidísse vidélicet regem Israel vestiménta sua, misit ad eum dicens: Quare scidísti vestiménta tua? véniat ad me, et sciat esse prophétam in Israel. Venit ergo Náaman cum equis, et cúrribus, et stetit ad óstium domus Eliséi: misítque ad eum Eliséus núntium, dicens: Vade, et laváre sépties in Jordáne, et recípiet sanitátem caro tua, atque mundáberis. Irátus Náaman recedébat, dicens: Putábam quod egrederétur ad me, et stans invocáret nomen Dómini Dei sui, et tángeret manu sua locum leprae, et curáret me. Tuesday of the Third Week in Lent.

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)—Purple vestments.

The Station is at the very ancient sanctuary of St. Pudentiana erected on the site of the house of her grandfather, the senator Pudens, mentioned by St. Paul in his epistles. St. Pudentiana lived here with her sister St. Praxedes. Here St. Peter received hospitality and the first Christians often assembled there. For such reasons it became one of the twenty-five parish churches of Rome in the fifth century.

The clemency of the Jews was content to forgive three times: Jesus in the Gospel † says we are to forgive seventy times seven times, that is to say always. Mercy with the sacrifices which accompany it forms part of the Lenten penance. Wherefore the Epistle shows us in the miraculous increase of a small quantity of oil at the word of Eliseus, by the sale of which a poor widow was enabled to pay a pitiless creditor, a figure of the mercy of the Saviour, Whose infinite merits supply the ransom for our sins. In order to participate in the effects of this charity of Christ, we should in our turn exercise the same virtue. Then will the Church, in the name of Jesus, make use in our favour of the power of remission which she holds from her Head.

Let us atone for our sins and forgive our neighbour his sins against us. And then let us implore the God of mercy to grant us by His almighty power the pardon for our sins (Postcommunion).

Introit : Psalm xvi. 6, 8.

Epistle : 4 Kings iv. 1-7.

Lesson from the Book of Kings.—In those days a certain woman cried to the prophet Eliseus, saying: Thy servant my husband is dead, and thou knowest that thy servant was one that feared God: and behold the creditor is come to take away my two sons to serve him. And Eliseus said to her: What wilt thou have me to do for thee? Tell me, what hast thou in thy house? And she answered: I thy handmaid have nothing in my house but a little oil, to anoint me. And he said to her: Go, borrow of all thy neighbours empty vessels not a few. And go in, and shut thy door, when thou art within, and thy sons: and pour out thereof into all those vessels: and when they are full take them away. So the woman went, and shut the door upon her, and upon her sons: they brought her the vessels, and she poured in. And when the vessels were full, she said to her son: Bring me yet a vessel. And he answered: I have no more. And the oil stood. And she came, and told the man of God. And he said: Go, sell the oil, and pay thy creditor: and thou and thy sons live of the rest.

Léctio libri Regum.—In diébus illis: Múlier quaedam clamábat ad Eliséum prophétam, dicens: Servus tuus vir meus mórtuus est, et tu nosti, quia servus tuus fuit timens Dóminum: et ecce créditor venit, ut tollat duos fílios meos ad serviéndum sibi. Cui dixit Eliséus: Quid vis ut fáciam tibi? Dic mihi, quid habes in domo tua? At illa respóndit: Non hábeo ancílla tua quidquam in domo mea, nisi parum ólei, quo ungar. Cui ait: Vade, pete mútuo ab ómnibus vicínis tuis vasa vácua non páuca. Et ingrédere, et claude óstium tuum, cum intrínsecus fúeris tu, et fílii tui: et mitte inde in ómnia vasa haec: et cum plena fúerint, tolles. Ivit itaque múlier, et clausit óstium super se, et super fílios suos: illi offerébant vasa, et illa infundébat. Cumque plena fuissent vasa, dixit ad fílium suum: Affer mihi adhuc vas. Et ille respóndit: non hábeo. Stetitque óleum. Venit autem illa, et indicávit hómini Dei. Et ille: Vade, inquit, vende óleum, et redde creditóri tuo: tu autem, et filii tui vívite de réliquo.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—IN illo témpore: Dixit Jesus discípulis suis: Si peccáverit in te frater tuus, vade, et corrípe eum inter te, et ipsum solum. Si te audíerit, lucrátus eris fratrem tuum. Si autem te non audíerit, ádhibe tecum adhuc unum, vel duos, ut in ore duórum, vel trium téstium stet omne verbum. Quod si non audíerit eos: dic ecclésiae. Si autem ecclésiam non audíerit: sit tibi sicut éthnicus, et publicánus. Amen dico vobis, quaecumque alligavéritis super terram, erunt ligáta et in coelo: et quaecúmque solvéritis super terram, erunt solúta et in coelo. Iterum dico vobis, quia si duo ex vobis consénserint super terram, de omni re quamcúmque petíerint, fiet illis a Patre meo, qui in coelis est. Ubi enim sunt duo vel tres congregáti in nómine meo, ibi sum in médio eórum. Tunc accédens Petrus ad eum, dixit: Dómine, quóties peccábit in Me frater meus, et dimittam ei? usque sépties? Dicit illi Jesus: Non dico tibi usque sépties sed usque septuágies sépties.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—AT that time Jesus said to His disciples: If thy brother shall offend against thee, go, and rebuke him between thee and him alone. If he shall hear thee, thou shalt gain thy brother. And if he will not hear thee, take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may stand. And if he will not hear them: tell the church. And if he will not hear the church: let him be to thee as the heathen and publican. Amen I say to you, whatsoever you shall bind upon earth shall be bound also in heaven: and whatsoever you shall loose upon earth shall be loosed also in heaven. Again I say to you, that if two of you shall consent upon earth concerning any thing whatsoever they shall ask, it shall be done to them by My Father Who is in heaven. For where there are two or three gathered together in My name, there am I in the midst of them. Then came Peter unto Him and said: Lord, how often shall my brother offend against me, and I forgive him? till seven times? Jesus saith to him: I say not to thee till seven times, but till seventy times seven times.

Wednesday of the Third Week in Lent.

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)—Purple vestments.

The Station is at St. Xystus on the Appian Way, a parish church of Rome in the fifth century. It was of this holy Pontiff, and according to

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, G g 43. The candidates from among the heathen after a period of waiting became catechumens at the Station this day. Their sponsors presented them by testifying to their purity of intention and conduct. Their names were written on tablets of ivory covered in leather, which were read at the Commemoration of the Living. After the Collect and before the Lessons they proceeded several authors in this very place, that St. Lawrence begged to be permitted to accompany him as his minister in the sacrifice of himself which he was about to make.

God on Sinai had commanded men, the Epistle and Gospel * tell us, to honour their parents and to love their neighbour. The Pharisees added to these commandments human traditions which consisted of formalities wholly exterior and to which they attached more importance than they did to the law of Moses.

The Church, therefore, seeks to put us on our guard against the observance of exterior practices of worship or fasts which are not united to acts of charity. For in order to obtain the approval of heaven our penitence must come from a heart overflowing with love of God and our neighbour, for it is from the heart that the holiness and malice of man proceeds.

To bodily mortifications let us take great care to add the practice of virtues: sincerity, justice, patience, charity, or, as the Collect expresses it, let us impose upon ourselves fasting of soul and body.

Introit : Psalm xxx. 7, 8.

EGO autem in Dómino sperábo: exsultábo, et laetábor in tua misericórdia: quia respexísti humilitátem meam. Ps. In te, Dómine, sperávi, non confúndar in aetérnum: in justítia tua líbera me, et éripe me. ℣. Glória Patri.

BUT I will hope in the Lord: I will be glad and rejoice in Thy mercy: for Thou hast regarded my humility. Ps. xxx. 2. In Thee, O Lord, have I hoped, let me never be confounded: deliver me in Thy justice and rescue me. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

And Moses said to the people: Fear not: for God is come to prove you, and that the dread of Him might be in you, and you should not sin. And the people stood afar off. But Moses went to the dark cloud wherein God was. And the Lord said to Moses: Thus shalt thou say to the children of Israel: You have seen that I have spoken to you from heaven. ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew.—At that time the scribes and Pharisees came to Jesus from Jerusalem, saying: Why do Thy disciples transgress the tradition of the ancients? For they wash not their hands when they eat bread. But He answering, said to them: Why do you also transgress the commandment of God for your tradition? For God said: Honour thy father and mother. And: He that shall curse father or mother, let him die the death. But you say: Whosoever shall say to father or mother: The gift, whatsoever proceedeth from me, shall profit thee: and he shall not honour his father or his mother: * and you have made void the commandment of God for your tradition. Hypocrites, well hath Isaias prophesied of you, saying: This people honoureth Me with their lips: but their heart is far from Me. And in vain do they worship Me, teaching doctrines and commandments of men. And having called together the multitudes unto Him, He said to them: Hear ye and understand. And if the blind lead the blind, both fall into the pit. And Peter answering, said to Him: Expound to us this parable. But He said: Are you also yet without understanding? Do you not understand that whatsoever entereth into the mouth goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the privy? *But the things which proceed out of the mouth come forth from the heart, and those things defile a man: for from the heart come forth evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false testimonies, blasphemies. STATION AT THE HOLY MARTYRS COSMAS AND DAMIAN.†

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)—Purple vestments.

It is in the ancient temple of Romulus transformed into a church, where rest the bodies of the holy martyrs Cosmas and Damian, who were put to death during the Diocletian persecution, that this Station is made. The sick came in crowds to visit the tomb of these two brothers, doctors by profession, imploring them to restore their health.

The Jews, who possessed the magnificent Temple of Jerusalem, began to believe that respect for the house of God sufficed to sanctify them, and they considered themselves dispensed from observing the spirit of the law. Wherefore the Church warns us that our Lent should not only consist of prayers and fasts, but should be accompanied by exercises of charity and justice towards our neighbour.

We must imitate the example of Jesus, and during the whole of Lent follow Him with the holy liturgy in His ministry of redemption, preaching the Kingdom of God, healing the sick, and casting out devils (Gospel).‡ Let us love to listen to the word of God: it will cure our souls and banish from them the devil who seeks to reign therein.

The catechumens who were preparing for baptism listened specially at this season of the year to the word of God. They also received the

The feast of Easter approaches, and we must courageously continue the Lenten fast already half completed.

Through the intercession of the holy doctors Cosmas and Damian in whose church to-day's solemnities are celebrated, let us ask the Divine Physician that the severe abstinence of the Lenten fast may cool the fever of our passions and assure our salvation (Collect, Epistle, Postcommunion).

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)—Purple vestments.

This is one of the numerous sanctuaries built at Rome in honour of the martyred deacon. Part of the gridiron on which he was tortured is kept there. This church, one of the twenty-five titular or parish churches of the Christian capital in the fifth century, is still to-day that from which the first of the Cardinal Priests derives his title.

It was during the forty years passed in the desert that Moses and Aaron asked God to bring forth from the rock—a figure of Christ—"a spring of living water," so that all the people could quench their thirst (Epistle). During these forty days of Lent the Church asks Christ to give us the living water about which He spoke to the woman of Samaria near Jacob's well, the water which quenches our thirst for ever (Gospel).† This water is our faith in Jesus, it is grace, it is the blood which flows from the wounds of the Saviour, and which through baptism, penance and the other sacraments purifies our souls, and gushes forth into eternal life, of which it assures us a share.

Introit: Psalm lxxxv. 17.

SHOW me, O Lord, a token for good: that they who hate me may see, and be confounded: because Thou, O Lord, hast helped me, and hast comforted me. Ps. lxxxv. 1. Incline Thy ear, O Lord, and hear me: for I am needy and poor. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Epistle : Numbers xx. 1, 3 and 5-13.

Lesson from the Book of Numbers.—In those days the children of Israel came together against Moses and Aaron: and making a sedition, they said: Give us water that we may drink. And Moses and Aaron leaving the multitude, went into the tabernacle of the covenant, and fell flat upon the ground, and cried to the Lord, and said: O Lord God, hear the cry of this people, and open to them Thy treasure, a fountain of living water, that being satisfied, they may cease to murmur. And the glory of the Lord appeared over them. And the Lord spoke to Moses, saying: Take the rod, and assemble the people together, thou and Aaron thy brother, and speak to the rock before them, and it shall yield waters. And when thou hast brought forth water out of the rock, all the multitude and their cattle shall drink. Moses therefore took the rod, which was before the Lord, as He had commanded him, and having gathered together the multitude before the rock, he said to them: Hear, ye rebellious and incredulous: Can we bring you forth water out of this rock? And when Moses had lifted up his hand, and struck the rock twice with the rod, there came forth water in great abundance, so that the people and their cattle drank. And the Lord said to Moses and Aaron: Because you have not believed Me, to sanctify Me before the children of Israel, you shall not Gospel : John iv. 5-42.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Venit Jesus in civitátem Samaríae, quae dícitur Sichar: juxta praedium, quod dedit Jacob Joseph fílio suo. Erat autem ibi fons Jacob. Jesus ergo fatigátus ex itínere, sedébat sic supra fontem. Hora erat quasi sexta. Venit múlier de Samaría hauríre aquam. Dicit ei Jesus: Da mihi bíbere. (Discípuli enim ejus abíerant in civitátem, ut cibos émerent.) Dicit ergo ei múlier illa Samaritána: Quómodo tu, Judaeus cum sis, bíbere a me poscis, quae sum múlier Samaritána? non enim coutúntur Judaei Samaritánis. Respóndit Jesus, et dixit ei: Si scires donum Dei, et quis est, qui dicit tibi: Da mihi bíbere: tu fórsitan petísses ab eo, et dedísset tibi aquam vivam. Dicit ei múlier: Dómine, neque in quo háurias habes, et púteus altus est: unde ergo habes aquam vivam?

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus came to a city of Samaria which is called Sichar: near the land which Jacob gave to his son Joseph. Now Jacob's well was there. Jesus therefore, being wearied with His journey, sat thus on the well. It was about the sixth hour. There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water. Jesus saith to her: Give Me to drink. (For His disciples were gone into the city to buy meats.) Then that Samaritan woman saith to Him: How dost Thou, being a Jew, ask of me to drink, who am a Samaritan woman? for the Jews do not communicate with the Samaritans. Jesus answered and said to her: If thou didst know the gift of God, and Who He is that saith to thee: Give Me to drink: thou perhaps wouldst have asked of Him, and He would have given thee living water. The woman saith to Him: Sir, Thou hast nothing wherein to draw, and the well is deep: from whence then hast Thou living water? Art Thou greater than our father Jacob, who gave us the well, and drank thereof, himself and his children and his cattle? Jesus answered and said to her: Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again: but he that shall drink of the water that I will give him shall not thirst for ever: but the water that I will give him shall become in him a fountain of water, springing up into life everlasting. The woman saith to Him: Sir, give me this water, that I may not thirst, nor come hither to draw. Jesus saith to her: Go, call thy husband, and come hither. The woman answered and said: I have no husband. Jesus said to her: Thou hast said well, I have no husband: for thou hast had five husbands, and he whom thou now hast is not thy husband: this thou hast said truly. The woman saith to Him: Sir, I perceive that Thou art a prophet. Our fathers adored on this mountain, and You say that at Jerusalem is the place where men must adore. Jesus saith to her: Woman, believe Me that the hour cometh, when you shall neither on this mountain nor in Jerusalem adore the Father. You adore that which you know not: we adore that which we know, for salvation is of the Jews. But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true adorers shall adore the Father in spirit and in truth. For the Father also seeketh such to adore Him. God is a spirit: and they that adore Him must adore

Numquid tu major es patre nostro Jacob, qui dedit nobis púteum, et ipse ex eo bibit, et filii ejus, et pécora ejus? Respóndit Jesus, et dixit ei: Omnis, qui bibit ex aqua hac, sítiet íterum: qui autem biberit ex aqua, quam ego dabo ei, non sitiet in aetérnum: sed aqua, quam ego dabo ei, fiet in eo fons aquae saliéntis in vitam aetérnam. Dicit ad eum múlier: Dómine, da mihi hanc aquam ut non sitiam: neque véniam huc hauríre. Dicit ei Jesus: Vade, voca virum tuum, et veni huc. Respóndit múlier, et dixit: Non hábeo virum. Dicit ei Jesus: Bene dixísti, quia non hábeo virum: quinque enim viros habuísti, et nunc, quem habes, non est tuus vir: hoc vere dixísti. Dicit ei múlier: Dómine, vídeo, quia prophéta es tu. Patres nostri in monte hoc adoravérunt, et vos dícitis, quia Jerosólymis est locus, ubi adoráre opórtet. Dicit ei Jesus: Múlier crede mihi, quia venit hora, quando neque in monte hoc, neque in Jerosólymis adorábitis Patrem. Vos adorátis quod nescítis: nos adorámus quod scimus, quia salus ex Judaeis est. Sed venit hora, et nunc est, quando veri adoratóres adorábunt Patrem in spíritu et veritáte. Nam et Pater tales quaerit, qui adórent eum. Spíritus est Deus: et eos, qui adórant eum, in spíritu et veritáte opórtet adoráre. Dicit ei múlier: Scio, quia Messías venit (qui dicitur Christus). Cum ergo vénerit ille, nobis annuntiábit ómnia. Dicit ei Jesus: Ego sum, qui loquor tecum. Et contínuo venérunt discípuli ejus: et mirabántur, quia cum muliére loquebátur. Nemo tamen dixit: Quid quaeris, aut quid lóqueris cum ea? Relíquit ergo hýdriam suam múlier, et ábiit in civitátem, et dicit illis homínibus: Veníte, et vidéte hóminem, qui dixit mihi ómnia quaecúmque feci: numquid ipse est Christus? Exiérunt ergo de civitáte, et veniébant ad eum. Intérea rogábant eum discipúli, dicéntes: Rabbi, mandúca. Ille autem dicit eis: Ego cibum hábeo manducáre, quem vos nescítis. Dicébant ergo discípuli ad ínvicem: Numquid áliquis áttulit ei manducáre? Dicit eis Jesus: Meus cibus est, ut fáciam voluntátem ejus, qui misit me, ut perfíciam opus ejus. Nonne vos dícitis, quod adhuc quátuor menses sunt, et messis venit? Ecce dico vobis: Leváte óculos vestros, et vidéte regiónes, quia albae sunt jam ad messem. Et qui metit, mercédem áccipit, et cóngregat fructum in vitam aetérnam: ut, et qui séminat, simul gáudeat, et qui metit. In hoc enim est verbum verum: quia álius est qui séminat, et álius est qui metit. Ego misi vos métere quod vos non laborástis: álii laboravérunt, et vos in labóres eórum introístis. Ex civitáte autem illa multi credidérunt in eum Samaritanórum, propter verbum mulíeris testimónium perhibéntis:

Him in spirit and in truth. The woman saith to Him: I know that the Messias cometh (Who is called Christ). Therefore when He is come, He will tell us all things. Jesus saith to her: I am He, Who am speaking with thee. And immediately His disciples came: and they wondered that He talked with the woman. Yet no man said: What seekest Thou? or, Why talkest Thou with her? The woman therefore left her waterpot and went her way into the city, and saith to the men there: Come, and see a man who has told me all things whatsoever I have done: is not he the Christ? They went therefore out of the city, and came unto Him. In the mean time, the disciples prayed Him, saying: Rabbi, eat. But He said to them: I have meat to eat which you know not. The disciples therefore said one to another: Hath any man brought Him to eat? Jesus saith to them: My meat is to do the will of Him that sent Me, that I may perfect His work. Do not you say: There are yet four months, and then the harvest cometh? Behold I say to you: Lift up your eyes, and see the countries, for they are white already to harvest. And he that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto life everlasting: that both he that soweth, and he that reapeth, may rejoice together. For in this is the saying true: that it is one man that soweth, and it is another that reapeth. I have sent you to reap that in which you did not labour: others have laboured, and you have entered into their labours. Now of that city many of the Samaritans believed in Him, for the word of the woman giving testimony: He told me all things whatsoever I have done. So when the Samaritans were come to Him, they desired that He wouldtarry there. And He abode there two days. And many more believed in Him because of His own word. And they said to the woman : We now believe, not for thy saying : for we ourselves have heard Him, and know that this is indeed the Saviour of the world.

Quia dixit mihi ómnia quaecúmque feci. Cum veníssent ergo ad illum Samaritáni, rogavérunt eum, ut ibi manéret. Et mansit ibi duos dies. Et multo plures credidérunt in eum propter sermónem ejus. Et mulíeri dicébant : Quia jam non propter tuam loquélam crédimus : ipsi enim audívimus, et scimus, quia hic est vere Salvátor mundi.

STATION AT ST. SUSANNA'S.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station is at the Church of St. Susanna, a Roman virgin who was martyred under the Emperor Diocletian. This sanctuary was one of the twenty-five parish churches of Rome in the fifth century. The saint recalls to us Susanna, daughter of Helcias, mentioned in the Mass.

As is often seen in the Lenten liturgy, both Epistle and Gospel † illustrate the same thought.

To-day both recall an accusation of adultery which recoils against its authors. The Epistle speaks to us of the chaste Susanna who is innocent, and the Gospel of a woman who is guilty. God avenges the rights of justice with regard to the first by rewarding her virtue, whilst He opens the treasures of His mercy towards the second by pardoning her because of her repentance.

For the acceptance of the trials that God imposes on the just the eternal reward will be granted, and the remission of their sins to the guilty for self-inflicted penance.

Epistle : Daniel xiii. 1-9, 15-17, 19-30, 33-62.

Lesson from the Prophet Daniel.—In those days there was a man that dwelt in Babylon, and his name was Joakim : and he took a wife whose name was Susanna, the daughter of Helcias, a very beautiful woman, and one that feared God : for her parents being just, had instructed their daughter according to the law of Moses. Now Joakim was very rich, and had an orchard near his house : and the Jews resorted to him, because he was the most honourable of them all. And there were two of the ancients of the people appointed judges that year : of whom the Lord said : Iniquity came out from Babylon from the ancient judges that seemed to govern the people. These men frequented the house of Joakim, and all that had any matters of judgment came to them. And when the people departed away at noon, Susanna went in and walked in her husband's orchard. And the old men saw her going in every day, and walking : and they were inflamed with lust towards her : and they perverted their own mind, and turned away their eyes that they might not look unto heaven, nor remember just judgments. And it fell out, as they watched a fit day, she went in on a time, as yesterday and the day before, with two maids only, and was desirous to wash herself in the orchard : for it was hot weather, and there was nobody there, but the two old men that had hid Léctio Daniélis Prophétae.—In diébus illis : Erat vir hábitans in Babylóne, et nomen ejus Jóakim : et accépit uxórem nómine Susánnam, fíliam Helcíae, pulchram nimis, et timéntem Deum : paréntes enim illíus, cum essent justi, erudiérunt fíliam suam secúndum legem Móysi. Erat autem Jóakim dives valde, et erat ei pomárium vicínum dómui suae : et ad ipsum confluébant Judaei, eo quod esset honorabílior ómnium. Et constitúti sunt de pópulo duo senes júdices in illo anno : de quibus locútus est Dóminus : Quia egréssa est iníquitas de Babylóne a senióribus judícibus, qui videbánturrégere pópulum. Isti frequentábant domum Jóakim, et veniébant ad eos omnes, qui habébant judícia. Cum autem pópulus revertísset per merídiem, ingrediebátur Susánna, et deambulábat in pomário viri sui. Et vidébant eam senes quotídie ingrediéntem, et deambulántem : et exarsérunt in concupiscéntiam ejus : et evertérunt sensum suum, et declinavérunt óculos suos, ut non vidérent coelum, neque recordaréntur judiciórum justórum. Factum est autem, cum observárent diem aptum, ingréssa est aliquándo sicut heri et nudiustértius, cum duábus solis puéllis, voluítque lavári inpomário: aestus quippe erat, et non erat ibi quisquam, praeter duos senes abscónditos, et contemplántes eam. Dixit ergo puéllis: Afférte mihi óleum et smígmata, et óstia pomárii cláudite, ut laver. Cum autem egréssae essent puéllae, surrexérunt duo senes, et accurrérunt ad eam, et dixérunt: Ecce óstia pomárii clausa sunt, et nemo nos videt, et nos in concupiscéntia tui sumus: quam ob rem assentíre nobis, et commiscére nobíscum. Quod si nolúeris, dicémus contra te testimónium, quod fúerit tecum júvenis, et ob hanc causam emíseris puéllas a te. Ingémuit Susánna, et ait: Angústiae sunt mihi úndique: si enim hoc égero, mors mihi est: si autem non égero, non effúgiam manus vestras. Sed mélius est mihi absque ópere incídere in manus vestras, quam peccáre in conspéctu Dómini. Et exclamávit voce magna Susánna: exclamavérunt autem et senes advérsus eam. Et cucúrrit unus ad óstia pomárii, et apéruit. Cum ergo audíssent clamórem fámuli domus in pomário, irruérunt per postícum, ut vidérent quidnam esset. Postquam autem senes locúti sunt, erubuérunt servi veheménter: quia nunquam dictus fúerat sermo hujuscémodi de Susánna. Et facta est dies crástina. Cumque venísset pópulus ad Jóakim virum ejus, venérunt et duo senióres pleni iníqua cogitatióne advérsus Susánnam, ut interfícerent eam. Et dixérunt coram pópulo: Míttite ad Susánnam fíliam Helcíae, uxórem Jóthemselves and were beholding her. So she said to the maids: Bring me oil and washing balls, and shut the doors of the orchard, that I may wash me. Now when the maids were gone forth, the two elders arose and ran to her, and said: Behold the doors of the orchard are shut, and nobody seeth us, and we are in love with thee: wherefore consent to us and lie with us. But if thou wilt not, we will bear witness against thee, that a young man was with thee, and therefore thou didst send away thy maids from thee. Susanna sighed, and said: I am straitened on every side: for if I do this thing, it is death to me: and if I do it not, I shall not escape your hands. But it is better for me to fall into your hands without doing it, than to sin in the sight of the Lord. With that Susanna cried out with a loud voice: and the elders also cried out against her. And one of them ran to the door of the orchard and opened it. So when the servants of the house heard the cry in the orchard, they rushed in by the back door to see what was the matter. But after the old men had spoken, the servants were greatly ashamed: for never had there been any such word said of Susanna. And on the next day, when the people were come to Joakim her husband, the two elders also came full of wicked device against Susanna, to put her to death. And they said before the people: Send to Susanna, daughter of Helcias, the wife of Joakim. And presently they sent.

And she came with her parents and children and all her kindred. Therefore her friends and all her acquaintance wept. But the two elders rising up in the midst of the people laid their hands upon her head. And she weeping looked up to heaven: for her heart had confidence in the Lord. And the elders said: As we walked in the orchard alone, this woman came in with two maids: and shut the doors of the orchard, and sent away the maids from her. Then a young man that was there hid came to her, and lay with her. But we, that were in a corner of the orchard, seeing this wickedness, ran up to them, and we saw them lie together. And him indeed we could not take, because he was stronger than us, and opening the doors he leaped out: but having taken this woman, we asked who the young man was, but she would not tell us: of this thing we are witnesses. The multitude believed them as being the elders and the judges of the people, and they condemned her to death. Then Susanna cried out with a loud voice, and said: O eternal God, Who knowest hidden things, Who knowest all things before they come to pass, Thou knowest that they have borne false witness against me: and behold I must die, whereas I have done none of these things which these men have maliciously forged against me. And the Lord heard her voice. And when she was led to be put to death, the Lord raised up the holy spirit of a young boy, whose name was Consurgéntes autem duo senióres in médio pópuli, posuérunt manus suas super caput ejus. Quae flens suspéxit ad coelum: erat enim cor ejus fidúciam hábens in Dómino. Et dixérunt senióres: Cum deambularémus in pomário soli, ingréssa est haec cum duábus puéllis: et clausit óstia pomárii, et dimísit a se puéllas. Venítque ad eam adoléscens, qui erat abscónditus, et concúbuit cum ea. Porro nos, cum essémus in ángulo pomárii, vidéntes iniquitátem, cucúrrimus ad eos, et vídimus eos páriter commiscéri. Et illum quidem non quivímus comprehéndere, quia fórtior nobis erat, et apértis óstiis exsilívit: hanc autem cum apprehendissémus, interrogávimus, quisnam esset adoléscens, et nóluit indicáre nobis: hujus rei testes sumus. Crédidit eis multitúdo quasi sénibus, et judícibus pópuli, et condemnavérunt eam ad mortem. Exclamávit autem voce magna Susánna, et dixit: *Deus aetérne, qui absconditórum es cógnitor, qui nosti ómnia ántequam fiant, tu scis quóniam falsum testimónium tulérunt contra me: et ecce mórior, cum nihil horum fécerim, quae isti malitióse composuérunt advérsum me. vit Dóminus spíritum sanctum púeri junióris, cujus nomen Dániel. Et exclamávit voce magna: Mundus ego sum a sánguine hujus. Et convérsus omnis pópulus ad eum, dixit: Quis est iste sermo, quem tu locútus es? Qui cum staret in médio eórum, ait: Sic fátui, fílii Israel, non judicántes, neque quod verum est cognoscéntes, condemnástis fíliam Israel? Revertímini ad judícium, quia falsum testimónium locúti sunt advérsus eam. Revérsus est ergo pópulus cum festinatióne. Et dixit ad eos Dániel: Separáte illos ab ínvicem procul, et dijudicábo eos. Cum ergo divísi essent alter ab áltero, vocávit unum de eis, et dixit ad eum: Inveteráte diérum malórum, nunc venérunt peccáta tua, quae operabáris prius: júdicans judícia injústa, innocéntes ópprimens, et dimíttens nóxios, dicénte Dómino: Innocéntem et justum non interfícies. Nunc ergo si vidísti eam, dic sub qua árbore víderis eos colloquéntes sibi. Qui ait: Sub schino. Dixit autem Dániel: Recte mentítus es in caput tuum. Ecce enim Angelus Dei, accépta senténtia ab eo, scindet te médium. Et, amóto eo, jussit veníre álium, et dixit ei: Semen Chánaan, et non Juda, spécies decépit te, et concupiscéntia subvértit cor tuum: sic faciebátis filiábus Israel, et illae timéntes loquebántur vobis: sed fília Juda non sustínuit iniquitátem

Daniel. And he cried out with a loud voice: I am clear from the blood of this woman. Then all the people, turning themselves towards him, said: What meaneth this word that thou hast spoken? But he standing in the midst of them, said: Are ye so foolish, ye children of Israel, that without examination or knowledge of the truth, you have condemned a daughter of Israel? Return to judgment, for they have borne false witness against her. So all the people turned again in haste. And Daniel said to them: Separate these two far from one another, and I will examine them. So when they were put asunder one from the other, he called one of them, and said to him: O thou that art grown old in evil days, now are thy sins come out, which thou hast committed before: in judging unjust judgments, oppressing the innocent, and letting the guilty to go free, whereas the Lord saith: The innocent and the just thou shalt not kill. Now then, if thou sawest her, tell me under what tree thou sawest them conversing together. He said: Under a mastic tree. And Daniel said: Well hast thou lied against thine own head. For behold the angel of God, having received the sentence of Him, shall cut thee in two. And having put him aside, he commanded that the other should come, and he said to him: O thou seed of Chanaan and not of Juda, beauty hath deceived thee, and lust hath perverted thy heart: thus did you do to the daughters of Israel, and they for fear conversed with you: but a daughter of Juda would not abide your wickedness. Now therefore tell me, under what tree didst thou take them conversing together? And he answered: Under a holm tree. And Daniel said to him: Well hast thou also lied against thy own head: for the angel of the Lord waiteth with a sword to cut thee in two, and to destroy you. With that all the assembly cried out with a loud voice, and they blessed God, Who saveth them that trust in Him. And they rose up against the two elders (for Daniel had convicted them of false witness by their own mouth) and they did to them as they had maliciously dealt against their neighbour: and they put them to death, and innocent blood was saved in that day.

Dixit autem ei Dániel: Recte mentítus es et tu in caput tuum: manet enim Angelus Dómini, gládium habens, ut secet te médium, et interficiat vos. Exclamávit itaque omnis coetus voce magna, et benedixérunt Deum, qui salvat sperántes in se. Et consurrexérunt advérsus duos senióres (convícerat enim eos Dániel ex ore suo falsum dixísse testimónium), fecerúntque eis sicut male egerant advérsus próximum: et interfecérunt eos, et salvátus est sanguis innóxius in die illa.

Gospel : John viii. 1-11.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus went to Mount Olivet: and early in the morning He came again into the temple and all the people came to Him, and sitting down He taught them. And the scribes and Pharisees bring unto Him a woman taken in adultery: and they set her in the midst, and said to Him: Master, this woman was even now taken in adultery.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Perréxit Jesus in montem Olivéti: et dilúculo íterum venit in templum et omnis pópulus venit ad eum, et sedens docébat eos. Addúcunt autem scribae et pharisaei mulíerem in adultério deprehénsam: et statuérunt eam in médio, et dixérunt ei: Magíster, haec múlier modo deprehénsa est in adul-tério. In lege autem Móyses mandávit nobis hujúsmodi lapidáre. Tu ergo quid dicis? Hoc autem dicébant tentántes eum, ut possent accusáre eum. Jesus autem ínclinans se deórsum, dígito scribébat in terra. Cum ergo perseverárent interrogántes eum, eréxit se, et dixit eis: Qui sine peccáto est vestrum, primus in illam lápidem mittat. Et íterum se ínclinans, scribébat in terra. Audiéntes autem unus post unum exíbant, incipiéntes a senióribus: et remánsit solus Jesus, et múlier in médio stans. Erigens autem se Jesus, dixit ei: Múlier, ubi sunt, qui te accusábant? nemo te condemnávit? Quae dixit: Nemo, Dómine. Dixit autem Jesus: Nec ego te condemnábo: Vade, et jam ámplius noli peccáre.

Now Moses in the law commanded us to stone such a one. But what sayest Thou? And this they said tempting Him, that they might accuse Him. But Jesus bowing Himself down, wrote with His finger on the ground. When therefore they continued asking Him, He lifted up Himself, and said to them: He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her. And again stooping down, He wrote on the ground. But they hearing this, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest; and Jesus alone remained, and the woman standing in the midst. Then Jesus lifting up Himself, said to her: Woman, where are they that accused thee? hath no man condemned thee? Who said: No man, Lord. And Jesus said: Neither will I condemn thee: Go, and now sin no more.

Fourth Sunday in Lent.

STATION AT THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY CROSS IN JERUSALEM.*

(Indulgence of 15 years and 15 quarantines.)

Semi-double.—Privilege of the First Class.

Purple or rose vestments.

St. Helena, mother of Constantine, lived on Mount Coelius in a palace known as the house of Sessions. She transformed it, in order to keep therein important relics of the true Cross, into a sanctuary which became the Basilica of the Holy Cross of Jerusalem. Hence the Introit, Communion and Tract speak of Jerusalem, which St. Paul in the Epistle compares to Mount Sinai.

Just as the Sunday of Gaudete or " Rejoice " comes in the middle of Advent to excite us with holy joy courageously to continue our diligent preparation for the Feast of Christmas, so the Sunday of Laetare or " Be glad " offers us a rest in the middle of the Lenten observance.†

" Rejoice, be thrilled with joy," says the Introit, for, dead to sin with Jesus during Lent, we are soon to rise again with Him through confession and Paschal communion. Wherefore the Gospel ‡ tells us of the miracle of the multiplication of loaves and fishes, symbols of the Eucharist §

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, K f 10.

† As on the Third Sunday of Advent, the Church to-day allows the use of rose vestments. The deacon puts on his dalmatic and the subdeacon his tunicle, vestments of joy. The organ is played and the altar decorated with flowers.

‡ It was in the vast solitudes which are found round the town of Bethsaida Julias that the Saviour multiplied the loaves in the second year of His ministry. See p. 507 and note ¶¶, and the map on p. 508.

§ Christ was symbolised in the Catacombs by a fish because this word in Greek is composed of the first letters of five words which signify Jesus Christ, Son of God, Saviour (I-ch-th-u-s : Jesous Christos THeou Uios Soter). The Fathers of the Church also see in the fish a figure of Christians, because they are born in the baptismal pool (piscis) and have drawn from the water the beginning of their spiritual life. St. Paul reminds us also that at Easter, being delivered from the old leaven of sin, we are the unleavened bread, under the species of which we receive the Eucharist.

which we shall receive in our Easter Communion, and the Epistle of our deliverance through the sacrament of Baptism, which the catechumens received at Easter, or through the sacrament of Penance when we make our Easter confession, by which we are restored to Christian liberty.

The two sons of Abraham (Epistle) symbolise the two Testaments: Ishmael, son of Agar, represents the Jews as slaves to the Mosaic law, whilst Isaac, son of Sarah, represents the Gentiles whose faith makes them heirs to the promise.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

Epistle : Galatians iv. 22-31.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Galatians.—BRETHREN: It is written that Abraham had two sons: the one by a bondwoman and the other by a free woman. But he who was of the bondwoman was born according to the flesh: but he of the free woman was by promise: which things are said by an allegory. For these are the two testaments.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Galátas.–FRATRES: Scriptum est: Quóniam Abraham duos fílios hábuit: unum de ancílla, et unum de líbera. Sed qui de ancílla, secúndum carnem natus est: qui autem de líbera, per repromissiónem: quae sunt per allegoríam dicta. Haec enim sunt duo testaménta. Unum quidem in monte Sina, in servitútem génerans:

quae est Agar: Sina enim mons est in Arábia, qui conjúnctus est ei, quae nunc est Jerúsalem, et servit cum fíliis suis. Illa autem, quae sursum est Jerúsalem, líbera est, quae est mater nostra. Scriptum est enim: Laetáre, stérilis, quae non paris: erúmpe, et clama, quae non párturis: quia multi fílii desértae, magis quam ejus, quae habet virum. Nos autem, fratres, secúndum Isaac promissiónis fílii sumus. Sed quómodo tunc is, qui secúndum carnem, natus fúerat, persequebátur eum, qui secúndum spíritum: ita et nunc. Sed quid dicit Scriptúra? Ejíce ancíllam, et fílium ejus: non enim heres erit fílius ancíllae cum fílio líberae. Itaque, fratres, non sumus ancíllae fílii, sed líberae: qua libertáte Christus nos liberávit.

The one from Mount Sina, engendering unto bondage: which is Agar: for Sina is a mountain in Arabia, which hath affinity to that Jerusalem which now is, and is in bondage with her children.* But that Jerusalem which is above is free, which is our mother. For it is written: Rejoice, thou barren that bearest not: break forth and cry, thou that travailest not: for many are the children of the desolate, more than of her that hath a husband. Now we, brethren, as Isaac was, are the children of promise. But as then he that was born according to the flesh persecuted him that was after the spirit: so also it is now. But what saith the scripture? Cast out the bondwoman and her son: for the son of the bondwoman shall not be heir with the son of the free woman. So then, brethren, we are not the children of the bondwoman, but of the free: by the freedom wherewith Christ has made us free.

Gradual: Psalm cxxi. 1, 7.

Laetátus sum in his, quae dicta sunt mihi: in domum Dómini íbimus. ℣. Fiat pax in virtúte tua: et abundántia in túrribus tuis.

I rejoiced at the things that were said to me: we shall go into the house of the Lord. ℣. Let peace be in Thy strength : and abundance in Thy towers.

Tract : Psalm cxxiv. 1, 2.

Qui confídunt in Dómino, sicut mons Sion: non commovébitur in aetérnum, qui hábitat in Jerúsalem. ℣. Montes in circúitu ejus: et Dóminus in circúitu pópuli sui, ex hoc nunc et usque in saeculum.

They that trust in the Lord shall be as Mount Sion: he shall not be moved for ever that dwelleth in Jerusalem. ℣. Mountains are round about it : so the Lord is round about His people, from henceforth now and for ever.

* It is because Agar, through her son Ismael, was the founder of the Arabian race, that St. Paul sees in her a type of the old Covenant made by God with His people on Mount Sinai, in Arabia Petraea. Agar was a slave, as were also the Jews subject to the Mosaic law.

Gospel : John vi. 1-15.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—AT that time Jesus went over the sea of Galilee, which is that of Tiberias : and a great multitude followed Him, because they saw the miracles which He did on them that were diseased. Jesus therefore went up into a mountain : and there He sat with His disciples. Now the pasch, the festival day of the Jews, was near at hand. When Jesus therefore had lifted up His eyes, and seen that a very great multitude cometh to Him, He said to Philip: Whence shall we buy bread that these may eat? And this He said to try him : for He Himself knew what He would do. Philip answered Him: Two hundred pennyworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one may take a little. One of His disciples, Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter, saith to Him: There is a boy here that hath five barley loaves and two fishes: but what are these among so many? Then Jesus said : Make the men sit down. Now there was much grass in the place. The men therefore sat down, in number about five thousand. And Jesus took the loaves, and when He had given thanks, He distributed to them that were set down: in like manner also of the fishes, as much as they would. And when they were filled, He said to His disciples : Gather up the fragments that remain, lest they be lost. They gathered up therefore, and filled twelve baskets

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—IN illo témpore : Abiit Jesus trans mare Galilaeae, quod est Tiberíadis : et sequebátur eum multitúdo magna, quia vidébant signa, quae faciébat super his, qui infirmabántur. Súbiit ergo in montem Jesus : et ibi sedébat cum discípulis suis. Erat autem próximum Pascha dies festus Judaeórum. Cum sublevásset ergo óculos Jesus, et vidísset quia multitúdo máxima venit ad eum, dixit ad Philíppum : Unde emémus panes, ut mandúcent hi? Hoc autem dicébat tentans eum: ipse enim sciébat quid esset factúrus. Respóndit ei Philíppus : Ducentórum denariórum panes non suffíciunt eis, ut unusquísque módicum quid accípiat. Dicit ei unus ex discípulis ejus. Andréas frater Simónis Petri : Est puer unus hic, qui habet quinque panes hordeáceos et duos pisces : sed haec quid sunt inter tantos? Dixit ergo Jesus : Fácite hómines discúmbere. Erat autem foenum multum in loco. Discubuérunt ergo viri, número quasi quinque míllia. Accépit ergo Jesus panes, et cum grátias egisset, distríbuit discumbéntibus : similiter et ex piscibus quantum volébant. Ut autem impléti sunt, dixit discípulis suis : Collígite quae superavérunt fragménta, ne péreant. Collegérunt ergo, et implevérunt duódecim cóphinos fragmentórum ex quinque pánibus hordeáceis, quae superfuérunt his, qui manducáverant. Illi ergo hómines cum vidíssent quod Jesus fécerat signum, dicébant: Quia hic est vere Prophéta, qui ventúrus est in mundum. Jesus ergo cum cognovísset, quia ventúri essent ut ráperent eum, et fácerent eum regem, fugit íterum in montem ipse solus.—Credo.

with the fragments of the five barley loaves which remained over and above to them that had eaten. Now those men, when they had seen what a miracle Jesus had done, said: This is of a truth the prophet that is to come into the world. Jesus therefore when He knew that they would come to take Him by force and make Him king, fled again into the mountain, Himself alone.—Creed.

Monday of the Fourth Week in Lent.

STATION AT THE FOUR HOLY CROWNED MARTYRS.†

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)—Purple vestments.

The Station is on Mount Coelius, in a church erected in the seventh century in honour of four officers of the Roman army who, having refused to adore a statue of Aesculapius, received the crown of martyrdom. These were the "four Crowned ones" whose relics are venerated in this sanctuary, together with the head of the martyr St. Sebastian, an officer of the army of Diocletian. It was one of the twenty-five parish churches of Rome in the fifth century.

The Epistle relates to us the famous judgment of Solomon. One of the two women who appealed to his justice, having suffocated her child whilst asleep, was jealous of her rival whose son was living. She represents the Synagogue, whose rulers, by their indifference, had stifled religious life in Israel and who were jealous of the Gentiles, to whom the Church had given life through baptism and penance. Penitents and catechumens prepared themselves for baptism and penance during Lent. Let us also prepare ourselves for our Easter confession.

The wisdom of Solomon, admired by the whole world, is a figure of the wisdom of the true Solomon, Whose doctrine comes to regenerate the world. The Gospel of to-day establishes another superiority of Jesus over His royal ancestor : Solomon had built a temple rich beyond compare ; Jesus speaking of His own Body throws this challenge to His enemies : " Destroy this Temple, and in three days I will raise It up." He rises indeed the third day after His death. From the Church, His mystical Body, He drives out the unworthy, as He had driven out the sellers from the Temple,* and receives into it all those who believe in Him.

Let us make ourselves pleasing to God in body and in soul by the religious observance of the holy practices of Lent.

Lesson from the Book of Kings.—IN those days there came two women that were harlots, to King Solomon, and stood before him, and one of them said: I beseech thee, my lord: I and this woman dwelt in one house, and I was delivered of a child with her in the chamber. And the third day after that I was delivered, she also was delivered: and we were together, and no other person with us in the house, only we two. And this woman's child died in the night: for in her sleep she overlaid him. And rising in the dead time of the night, she took my child from my side, while I thy handmaid was asleep, and laid it in her bosom : and laid her dead child in my bosom. And when I rose in the morning to give my child suck, behold it was dead: but considering him more diligently when it was clear day, I found that it was not mine which I bore. And the other woman answered : It is not so as thou sayest, but thy child is dead and mine is alive. On the contrary she said: Thou liest: for my child liveth and thy child is dead. And in this manner they strove before the king. Then said the king : The one saith, My child is alive, and thy child is dead. And the other answereth : Nay, but thy child is dead, and mine liveth. The king therefore said : Bring me a sword. And when they had brought a sword before the king : Divide, said he, the living child in two, and give half to the one, and half to the other. But the woman whose child was alive said to the king (for her bowels were moved upon her child): I beseech thee, my lord, give her the child alive, and do not kill it. But the other said : Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it. The king answered and said: Give the living child to this woman, and let it not be killed: for she is the mother thereof. And all Israel heard the judgment which the king had judged, and they feared the king, seeing that the wisdom of God was in him to do judgment.

Atque in hunc modum contendébant coram rege. Tunc rex ait : Haec dicit : Fílius meus vivit, et fílius tuus mórtuus est. Et ista respóndit : Non, sed fílius tuus mórtuus est, meus autem vivit. Dixit ergo rex : Afférte mihi gládium. Cumque attulíssent gládium coram rege : Divídite, inquit, infántem vivum in duas partes, et date dimídiam partem uni, et dimídiam partem álteri. Dixit autem múlier, cujus fílius erat vivus ad regem (commóta sunt quippe víscera ejus super fílio suo) : Obsécro, Dómine, date illi infántem vivum, et nolíte interfícere eum. E contrário illa dicébat : Nec mihi nec tibi sit, sed dividátur. *Respóndit rex, et ait : Date huic infántem vivum, et non occidátur : haec est enim mater ejus. ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo tímpore: Prope erat Pascha Judaeórum et ascéndit Jesus Jerosólymam: et invénit in templo vendéntes boves, et oves, et colúmbas, et nummulários sedéntes. Et cum fecísset quasi flagéllum de funículis, omnes ejécit de templo, oves quóque, et boves, et nummulariórum effúdit aes, et mensas subvértit. Et his, qui colúmbas vendébant, dixit: Auférte ísta hinc, et nolíte fácere domum Patris mei, domum negotiatiónis. Recordáti sunt vero discípuli ejus, quia scriptum est: Zelus domus tuae comédit me. Respondérunt ergo Judaei, et dixérunt ei: Quod signum osténdis nobis, quia haec facis? Respóndit Jesus, et dixit eis: Sólvite templum hoc, et in tribus diébus excitábo illud. Dixérunt ergo Judaei: Quadragínta et sex annis aedificátum est templum hoc, et tu in tribus diébus excitábis illud? Ille autem dicébat de templo córporis sui. Cum ergo resurrexísset a mórtuis, recordáti sunt discípuli ejus, quia hoc dicébat, et credidérunt scriptúrae, et sermóni, quem dixit Jesus. Cum autem esset Jerosólymis in Pascha in die festo, multi credidérunt in nómine ejus, vidéntes signa ejus, ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time the pasch of the Jews was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem: and He found in the temple them that sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the changers of money sitting. And when He had made as it were a scourge of little cords, He drove them all out of the temple, the sheep also and the oxen, and the money of the changers He poured out, and the tables He overthrew. And to them that sold doves He said: Take these things hence, and make not the house of My Father a house of traffic. And His disciples remembered that it was written: The zeal of Thy house hath eaten me up. The Jews therefore answered and said to Him: What sign dost Thou show unto us, seeing Thou dost these things? Jesus answered and said to them: Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up. The Jews then said: Six and forty years was this temple in building, and wilt Thou raise it up in three days? But He spoke of the temple of His Body. When therefore He was risen again from the dead, His disciples remembered that He had said this, and they believed the scripture, and the word that Jesus had said. Now when He was at Jerusalem at the pasch upon the festival day, many believed in His name, seeing His signs which He did. But Jesus did not trust Himself unto them, for that He knew all men, and because He needed not that any should give testimony of man: for He knew what was in man.

Tuesday of the Fourth Week in Lent.

STATION AT ST. LAWRENCE IN DAMASO.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station is at the church built in the fourth century by Pope St. Damasus in honour of the celebrated deacon, the martyr St. Lawrence. This sanctuary in the fifth century was one of the twenty-five parish churches of Rome. It contains the tomb of St. Damasus.

The Epistle carries us to Sinai. God had seen with indignation His people prostrated at the foot of the golden calf : He announced to Moses His intention to destroy this ungrateful race. Moses prayed and his prayer appeased the Divine anger. He descended from the mountain, chastised the idolaters and brought the Israelites to repentance. Let us do penance and God will hear our prayers, since we are henceforth part of the people of God.

The Gospel † introduces us into the Temple where Jesus is indicted by His perfidious enemies. He confounds them by appealing to the authority of Moses, but fails to change their hearts. Rejected by Jerusalem, He will found a new people, the Church, which spreads over the whole world and will soon have the joy of seeing increased numbers of her children at the Paschal festivities. Let us rejoice that we are members of this Church.

Let us persevere with a generous spirit in fasting and in humble submission to the Gospel; these will assure us of God's continual help and will favour our progress in perfection (Collect).

Introit : Psalm liv. 2, 3.

EXAUDI, Deus, oratiónem meam et ne despéxeris deprecatiónem meam : inténde in me, et exáudi me. Ps. Contristátus sum in exercitatióne mea : et conturbátus sum a voce inimíci, et a tribulatióne peccatóris. ℣. Glória Patri.

HEAR, O God, my prayer, and despise not my supplication: be attentive to me, and hear me. Ps. liv. 3, 4. I am grieved in my exercise; and am troubled at the voice of the enemy, and at the tribulation of the sinner. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Epistle : Exodus xxxii. 7-14.

Lesson from the Book of Exodus.—IN those days the Lord spoke to Moses, saying: Go down from the mountain; thy people, which thou hast brought out of the land of Egypt, hath sinned. They have quickly strayed from the way which thou didst show them: and they have made to themselves a molten calf, and have adored it, and sacrificing victims to it, have said: These are thy gods, O Israel, that have brought thee out of the land of Egypt. And again the Lord said to Moses: I see that this people is stiffnecked: let Me alone, that My wrath may be kindled against them, and that I may destroy them, and I will make of thee a great nation. But Moses besought the Lord his God, saying: Why, O Lord, is Thy indignation enkindled against Thy people, whom Thou hast brought out of the land of Egypt, with great power and with a mighty hand? Let not the Egyptians say, I beseech Thee: He craftily brought them out, that He might kill them in the mountains and destroy them from the earth: let Thy anger cease, and be appeased upon the wickedness of Thy people: remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, Thy servants, to whom Thou sworest by Thy own self, saying: I will multiply your seed as the stars of heaven; and this whole land that I have spoken of I will give to your seed, and you shall possess it for ever. And the Lord was appeased from doing the evil which He had spoken against His people.

Léctio libri Exódi.—IN diébus illis: Locútus est Dóminus ad Móysen, dicens: Descénde de monte: peccávit pópulus tuus, quem eduxísti de terra Aegypti. Recessérunt cito de via, quam ostendísti eis: fecerúntque sibi vítulum conflátilem, et adoravérunt, atque immolántes ei hóstias, dixérunt: Isti sunt dii tui Israel, qui te eduxérunt de terra Aegypti. Rursúmque ait Dóminus ad Móysen: Cerno quod pópulus iste durae cervícis sit: dimítte me, ut irascátur furor meus contra eos, et déleam eos, faciámque te in gentem magnam. Móyses autem orábat Dóminum Deum suum, dicens: Cur, Dómine, iráscitur furor tuus contra pópulum tuum, quem eduxísti de terra in fortitúdine magna, et in manu robústa? Ne quaeso dicant Aegyptii: Cállide edúxit eos, ut interfíceret in móntibus, et deléret e terra: quiéscat ira tua, et esto placábilis super nequítia pópuli tui. Recordáre Abraham, Isaac, et Israel servórum tuórum, quibus jurásti per temetípsum, dicens: Multiplicábo semen vestrum sicut stellas coeli; et univérsam terram hanc, de qua locútus sum, dabo sémini vestro, et possidébitis eam semper. Placatúsque est Dóminus, ne fáceret malum, quod locútus fúerat advérsus pópulum suum.

Si quis volúerit voluntátem ejus fácere: cognóscet de doctrína, utrum ex Deo sit, an ego a meípso loquar. Qui a semetípso lóquitur, glóriam própriam quaerit. Qui autem quaerit glóriam ejus, qui misit eum, hic verax est, et injustítia in illo non est. Nonne Móyses dedit vobis legem: et nemo ex vobis facit legem? Quid me quaerítis interfícere? Respóndit turba et dixit: Daemónium habes: quis te quaerit interfícere? Respóndit Jesus, et dixit eis: Unum opus feci, et omnes mirámini. ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time, about the midst of the feast, Jesus went up into the temple and taught. And the Jews wondered, saying: How doth this man know letters, having never learned? Jesus answered them and said: My doctrine is not Mine, but His that sent Me. If any man will do the will of Him, he shall know of the doctrine whether it be of God, or whether I speak of Myself. He that speaketh of himself seeketh his own glory. But He that seeketh the glory of Him that sent Him, He is true, and there is no injustice in Him. Did not Moses give you the law: and yet none of you keepeth the law? Why seek you to kill Me? The multitude answered and said: Thou hast a devil: who seeketh to kill Thee? Jesus answered and said to them: One work I have done, and you all wonder. Therefore Moses gave you circumcision (not because it is of Moses, but of the fathers): and on the sabbath day you circumcise a man. If a man receive circumcision on the sabbath day, that the law of Moses may not be broken : you are angry at me, because I have healed the whole man on the sabbath day? Judge not according to the appearance, but judge just judgment. Some therefore of Jerusalem said : Is not this He Whom they seek to kill? And behold He speaketh openly, and they say nothing to Him. Have the rulers known for a truth that this is the Christ? But we know this Man whence He is: but when the Christ cometh, no man knoweth whence He is. Jesus therefore cried out in the temple, teaching and saying : You both know Me, and you know whence I am : and I am not come of Myself, but He that sent Me is true, Whom you know not. I know Him, because I am from Him, and He hath sent Me. They sought therefore to apprehend Him : and no man laid hands on Him, because His hour was not yet come. But of the people many believed in Him.

solvátur lex Móysi : mihi, indignámini, quia totum hóminem sanum feci in sábbato? Nólite judicáre secúndum fáciem, sed justum judícium judicáte. Dicébant ergo quidam ex Jerosólymis: Nonne hic est, quem quaerunt interfícere? Et ecce palam lóquitur, et nihil ei dicunt. Numquid vere cognovérunt príncipes, quia hic est Christus? Sed hunc scímus, unde sit: Christus autem, cum vénerit, nemo scit, unde sit. Clamábat ergo Jesus in templo docens, et dicens : Et me scitis, et unde sim, scitis, et a meipso non veni, sed est verus, qui misit me, quem vos nescítis. Ego scio eum, quia ab ipso sum, et ipse me misit. Quaerébant ergo eum apprehéndere : et nemo misit in illum manus, quia nondum vénerat hora ejus. De turba autem multi credidérunt in eum.

Wednesday of the Fourth Week in Lent.

STATION AT ST. PAUL'S WITHOUT THE WALLS.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station was made at Rome in the great Basilica of St. Paul on the Ostian Way. It was natural to assemble near the tomb of the Doctor of the Gentiles on this day, called the Feria of the Great Ballot, when they held the examination upon which depended the admission of catechumens to baptism.

After the singing of the Introit, which announces the baptism in which God " will pour on the souls the water which will cleanse them from all stain," the catechumens were exorcised anew, were marked with the sign of the cross and received the imposition of hands.† This water has already purified us.

After having read the Epistle or the Lessons from the prophets Ezechiel and Isaias, who speak of this same purification " when souls shall be made white as snow," the beginning of the four Gospels was read to them and the Apostles' Creed and Pater noster explained to them. Let us love to read the Gospels, let us often recite the Credo and the Pater noster.

The Gospel ‡ tells us of the healing of the man blind from birth,

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, E h 31.

† As we have already remarked (see p. 612, note *), the rites for the admission of the catechumens and those for their final preparation which proceeded during Lent are found in the ceremonies of baptism, particularly exorcism, the signing with the cross, the imposition of hands and the recitation of the Pater noster and Credo, which formerly took place at the Mass of the Catechumens for this day.

‡ It was on the occasion of the Feast of Tabernacles which Jesus celebrated at Jerusalem during the third year of His ministry that He cured the man blind from birth. See p. 508, note ||, and the map.

who was sent to wash himself in the pool of Siloe. This is another symbol of baptism and of the instructions preceding it, which conveyed to the Gentiles the supernatural light of which they were deprived, and gave them faith in the divinity of Jesus Christ. Let us purify ourselves by penance from the defilements which have unfortunately stained our baptismal innocence, and God will make our souls white as snow.

Aware that fasting is for the just a means of increasing his merits, and for the guilty of obtaining forgiveness for his sins (Collect), let us with courage mortify our bodies so that we may enjoy more readily the things that are of heaven.

Introit : Ezechiel xxxvi. 23-28.

WHEN I shall be sanctified in you, I will gather you from every land: and I will pour upon you clean water, and you shall be cleansed from all your filthiness: and I will give you a new spirit. Ps. xxxiii. 2. I will bless the Lord at all times: His praise shall be always in my mouth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

CUM sanctificátus fúero in vobis, congregábo vos de univérsis terris: et effundam super vos aquam mundam, et mundabímini ab ómnibus inquinaméntis vestris: et dabo vobis spíritum novum. Ps. Benedícam Dóminum in omni témpore: semper laus ejus in ore meo. ℣. Glória Patri.

After the Kyrie eleison is said:—

Let us pray. Let us kneel down. ℟. Arise.

O God, Who grantest to the just the reward of their merits, and to sinners pardon by means of fasting: have mercy on Thy supplicants: that the confession of our guilt may enable us to receive the forgiveness of our sins. Through our Lord.

Gospel : John ix. 1-38.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus, passing by, saw a man who was blind from his birth: and His disciples asked Him: Rabbi, who hath sinned, this man or his parents, that he should be born blind? Jesus answered: Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents; but that the works of God should be made manifest in him. I must work the works of Him that sent Me, whilst it is day : the night cometh, when no man can work.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Praetériens Jesus vidit hóminem caecum a nativitáte: et interrogavérunt eum discípuli ejus: Rabbi, quis peccávit, hic, aut paréntes ejus, ut caecus nascerétur? Respóndit Jesus: Neque hic peccávit, neque paréntes ejus: sed ut manifesténtur ópera Dei in illo. Me opórtet operári ópera ejus, qui misit me, donec dies est: venit nox, quando nemo potest operári. Quámdiu

Haec cum dixísset éxspuit in terram, et fecit lutum ex sputo, et linívit lutum super óculos ejus et dixit ei: Vade, lava in natatória Siloe (quod interpretátur Missus). Abiit ergo, et lavit, et venit videns. Itaque vicíni, et qui víderant eum prius, quia mendícus erat, dicébant: Nonne hic est, qui sedébat, et mendicábat? Alii dicébant: Quia hic est. Alii autem: Nequáquam, sed símilis est ei. Ille vero dicébat: Quia ego sum. Dicébant ergo ei: Quómodo apérti sunt tibi óculi? Respóndit: Ille homo, qui dícitur Jesus, lutum fecit, et unxit óculos meos, et dixit mihi: Vade ad natatória Síloe, et lava. Et ábii, lavi, et vídeo. Et dixérunt ei: Ubi est ille? Ait: Néscio. Addúcunt eum ad pharisaeos, qui caecus fúerat. Erat autem sábbatum quando lutum fecit Jesus, et apéruit óculos ejus. Iterum ergo interrogábant eum pharisaei quómodo vidísset. Ille autem dixit eis: Lutum mihi pósuit super óculos, et lavi, et vídeo. Dicébant ergo ex pharisaeis quidam: Non est hic homo a Deo, qui sábbatum non custódit. Alii autem dicébant: Quómodo potest homo peccátor haec signa fácere? Et schisma erat inter eos. Dicunt ergo caeco íterum: Tu quid dicis de illo, qui apéruit óculos tuos? Ille autem dixit: Quia prophéta est. Non credidérunt ergo Judaei de illo, quia caecus

As long as I am in the world I am the light of the world. When He had said these things, He spat on the ground and made clay of the spittle, and spread the clay upon his eyes, and said to him: Go, wash in the pool of Siloe (which is interpreted, Sent). He went therefore and washed, and he came seeing. The neighbours therefore, and they who had seen him before that he was a beggar, said: Is not this he that sat and begged? Some said: This is he. But others said: No, but he is like him. But he said: I am he. They said therefore to him: How were thy eyes opened? He answered: That man that is called Jesus made clay and anointed my eyes, and said to me: Go to the pool of Siloe, and wash. And I went, I washed, and I see. And they said to him: Where is He? He saith: I know not. They bring him that had been blind to the Pharisees. Now it was the Sabbath when Jesus made the clay and opened his eyes. Again therefore the Pharisees asked him how he had received his sight. But he said to them: He put clay upon my eyes, and I washed, and I see. Some therefore of the Pharisees said: This man is not of God, who keepeth not the Sabbath. But others said: How can a man that is a sinner do such miracles? And there was a division among them. They say therefore to the blind man again: What sayest thou of Him that hath opened thy eyes? And he said: He is a prophet. The Jews then did not believe concerning him, that he had been blind and had received his sight, until they called the parents of him that had received his sight, and asked them, saying: Is this your son, who you say was born blind? How then doth he now see? His parents answered them and said: We know that this is our son and that he was born blind: but how he now seeth we know not, or who hath opened his eyes we know not: ask himself, he is of age, let him speak for himself. These things his parents said, because they feared the Jews: for the Jews had already agreed among themselves, that if any man should confess him to be Christ, he should be put out of the synagogue. Therefore did his parents say: He is of age, ask himself. They therefore called the man again that had been blind, and said to him: Give glory to God. We know that this man is a sinner. He said therefore to them: If He be a sinner, I know not: one thing I know, that whereas I was blind, now I see. They said then to him: What did He to thee? How did He open thy eyes? He answered them: I have told you already, and you have heard: why would you hear it again? Will you also become His disciples? They reviled him therefore, and said: Be thou His disciple: but we are the disciples of Moses. We know that God spoke to Moses: but as to this man, we know not from whence he is. The man

Respónderunt eis paréntes ejus, et dixérunt: Scimus, quia hic est fílius noster, et quia caecus natus est: quómodo autem nunc vídeat, nescímus: aut quis ejus apéruit óculos, nos nescímus: ipsum interrogáte, aetátem habet, ipse de se loquátur. Haec dixérunt paréntes ejus, quóniam timébant Judaeos: jam enim conspiráverant Judaei, ut si quis eum confiterétur esse Christum, extra synagógam fíeret. Proptérea paréntes ejus dixérunt: Quia aetátem habet, ipsum interrogáte. Vocavérunt ergo rursum hóminem, qui fúerat caecus, et dixérunt ei: Da glóriam Deo. Nos scimus quia hic homo peccátor est. Dixit ergo eis ille: Si peccátor est, néscio: unum scio, quia caecus cum essem, modo vídeo. Dixérunt ergo illi: Quid fecit tibi? quómodo apéruit tibi óculos? Respóndit eis: Dixi vobis jam, et audístis: quid íterum vultis audíre? Numquid et vos vultis discípuli ejus fíeri? Maledixérunt ergo ei, et dixérunt: Tu discípulus illíus sis: nos autem Móysi discípuli sumus. Nos scimus quia Móysi locútus est Deus: hunc autem nescímus unde sit. Respóndit ille homo, et dixit eis: In hoc enim mirábile est, quia vos nescítis unde sit, et apéruit meos óculos: scimus autem quia peccatóres Deus non audit: sed, si quis Dei cultor est, et voluntátem ejus facit, hunc exáudit. A saeculo non est audítum, quia quis apéruit óculos caeci nati. Nisi esset hic a Deo, non póterat fácere quidquam. Respondérunt, et dixérunt ei: in peccátis natus es totus, et tu doces nos? Et ejecérunt eum foras. Audívit Jesus quia ejecérunt eum foras, et cum invenísset eum, dixit ei: Tu credis in Filium Dei? Respondit ille, et dixit: Quis est, Dómine, ut credam in eum? Et dixit ei Jesus: Et vidisti eum, ei qui lóquitur tecum, ipse est. At ille ait: Credo Dómine (here kneel). Et prócidens adorávit eum.

answered and said to them: Why, herein is a wonderful thing, that you know not from whence He is, and He hath opened my eyes: now we know that God doth not hear sinners: but if a man be a server of God and doth His will, him He heareth. From the beginning of the world it hath not been heard, that any man hath opened the eyes of one born blind. Unless this man were of God, He could not do any thing. They answered and said to him: Thou wast wholly born in sins, and dost thou teach us? And they cast him out. Jesus heard that they had cast him out, and when He had found him, He said to him: Dost thou believe in the Son of God? He answered and said: Who is He, Lord, that I may believe in Him? And Jesus said to him: Thou hast both seen Him, and it is He that talketh with thee. And he said: I believe, Lord (here kneel). And falling down, he adored Him.

STATION AT THE CHURCH OF SAINTS SYLVESTER AND MARTIN.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station is at a sanctuary situated on the Esquiline. A holy priest had given his house to Pope St. Sylvester to turn into a church. In the sixth century Pope St. Symmachus built a new one next to the first on a higher level, and dedicated them to St. Sylvester and St. Martin, the great miracle-worker of Gaul.† It was one of the twenty-five parish churches of Rome in the fifth century.

The Epistle and Gospel ‡ announce to us the great mystery of the resurrection of Jesus Christ which is drawing nigh, and in the celebration of † The first Christians for the honour of their martyrs built sanctuaries over their tombs and placed their bodies under the High Altar. From this the custom of placing relics in the altar stone is taken. From Rome the worship of these martyrs spread throughout the Church. St. Martin was one of the first Confessors to whom universal devotion was accorded in the West.

‡ In the second year of His ministry, after having cured the servant of the Centurion at Capharnaum, Jesus went nine leagues from there to Naim. It was on entering this town that He met the funeral procession and performed His miracle. See p. 507 and note III, and the map on p. 508.

which at Easter public penitents participated. The Sunamite woman and the widow of Naim had lost their sons. Eliseus, who is a figure of Jesus, raises the first to life and Christ gives back the second to his mother.

This is what God in His mercy will do in the holy Sacrament of Penance for souls which have died by sin. He restores them to the life of grace and gives them back to the Church, their mother. Let us prepare ourselves for our Easter confession, which will more abundantly fill our souls with supernatural life.

Let us moderate by fasting our earthly appetites in order that we may better enjoy heavenly things (Collect).

Lesson from the Book of Kings.—IN those days a Sunamite woman came to Eliseus to Mount Carmel: and when the man of God saw her coming towards, he said to Giezi his servant: Behold that Sunamitess. Go therefore to meet her, and say to her: Is it well with thee, and with thy husband, and with thy son? And she answered: Well. And when she came to the man of God to the mount, she caught hold on his feet: and Giezi came to Did I not say to thee: Do not deceive me? Then he said to Giezi: Gird up thy loins, and take my staff in thy hand and go. If any man meet thee, salute him not: and if any man salute thee, answer him not: and lay my staff upon the face of the child. But the mother of the child said: As the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. He arose therefore, and followed her. But Giezi was gone before them, and laid the staff upon the face of the child, and there was no voice nor sense: and he returned to meet him, and told him, saying: The child is not risen. Eliseus therefore went into the house, and behold the child lay dead on his bed: and going in he shut the door upon him, and upon the child: and prayed to the Lord. And he went up and lay upon the child: and he put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands, and he bowed himself upon him: and the child's flesh grew warm. Then he returned, and walked in the house, once to and fro: and he went up and lay upon him: and the child gaped seven times, and opened his eyes. And he called Giezi, and said to him: Call this Sunamitess. STATION AT ST. EUSEBIUS.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station is at the sanctuary erected on the site of the house where St. Eusebius, an ardent defender of the faith against Arius, died a martyr. In the fifth century it was one of the twenty-five parish churches of Rome.

As in the Mass of yesterday, the Epistle and Gospel† tell us of a double resurrection, an image of that which was to operate in the souls of catechumens and public penitents at the Easter festival, and in the souls of sinners during the Season of Lent. Both the widow of Sarepta who went to Eliseus and the mother who had recourse to Elias represent the Gentiles, as they were both of heathen race. Whilst the unfaithful Jews have been rejected, our souls have through the sacraments of Baptism and Penance shared in the resurrection of Him Who is "the life" (Gospel). In the same way the bodily death of the son of the widow of Naim and that of Lazarus represent the spiritual death of our souls caused by grievous sin. Penitence restores them to life and brings them under the supernatural influence of Him Who is "the resurrection" (Gospel).

By prayer and penance let us provide for our spiritual interests (Collect)

And he took him out of her bosom, and carried him into the upper chamber where he abode, and laid him upon his own bed, and he cried to the Lord, and said : O Lord my God, hast Thou afflicted also the widow, with whom I am after a sort maintained, so as to kill her son? *And he stretched, and measured himself upon the child three times, and cried to the Lord and said: O Lord my God, let the soul of this child, I beseech Thee, return into his body. ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time there was a certain man sick, named Lazarus, of Bethania, of the town of Mary and of Martha her sister. (And Mary was she that anointed the Lord with ointment, and wiped His feet with her hair: whose brother Lazarus was sick.) His sisters therefore sent to Him, saying: Lord, behold he whom Thou lovest is sick. And Jesus hearing it said to them: This sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God may be glorified by it. Now Jesus loved Martha and her sister Mary and Lazarus. When he had heard therefore that he was sick, He still remained in the same place two days. Then after that, He said to His disciples: Let us go into Judea again. The disciples say to Him: Rabbi, the Jews but now sought to stone Thee, and goest Thou thither again? Jesus answered: Are there not twelve hours of the day? If a man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of this world: but if he walk in the night, he stumbleth, because the light is not in him. These things He said, and after that He said to them: Lazarus our friend sleepeth: but I go that I may awake him out of sleep. His disciples therefore said: Lord, if he sleep he shall do well. But Jesus spoke of his death: and they thought that He spoke of the repose of sleep. Then therefore Jesus said to them plainly: Lazarus is dead: and I am glad for your sakes that I was not there, that you may believe: but let us go to him. Thomas therefore, who is called Didymus, said to his fellow disciples : Let us also go that we may die with Him. Jesus therefore came, and found that he had been four days already in the grave. (Now Bethania was near Jerusalem, about fifteen furlongs off.) And many of the Jews were come to Martha and Mary, to comfort them concerning their brother. Martha therefore, as soon as she heard that Jesus was come, went to meet Him : but Mary sat at home. Martha therefore said to Jesus : Lord, if Thou hadst been here, my brother had not died: but now also I know that whatsoever Thou wilt ask of God, God will give it Thee. Jesus saith to her : Thy brother shall rise again. Martha saith to Him: I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day. Jesus said to her : I am the resurrection and the life : he that believeth in Me, although he be dead, shall live : and every one that liveth and believeth in Me shall not die for ever. Believest thou this? She saith to Him : Yea, Lord, I have believed that Thou art Christ the Son of the living God, Who art come into this world. And when she had said these things, she went and called her sister Mary secretly, saying : The Master is come, and calleth for thee. She, as soon as ceret. Tunc ergo Jesus dixit eis maniféste: Lázarus mórtuus est: et gáudeo propter vos, ut credátis, quóniam non eram ibi: sed eámus ad eum. Dixit ergo Thomas, qui dícitur Dídymus, ad condiscípulos: Eámus et nos, ut moriámur cum eo. Venit ítaque Jesus, et invénit eum quátuor dies jam in monuménto habéntem. (Erat autem Bathánia juxta Jerosólymam quasi stádiis quíndecim.) Multi autem ex Judaeis vénerant ad Martham, et Maríam, ut consolaréntur eas de fratre suo. Martha ergo, ut audívit quia Jesus venit, occúrrit illi: María autem domi sedébat. Dixit ergo Martha ad Jesum: Dómine, si fuísses hic, frater meus non fuísset mórtuus: sed et nunc scio, quia quaecúmque popósceris a Deo, dabit tibi Deus. Dicit illi Jesus: Resúrget frater tuus. Dicit ei Martha: Scio quia resúrget in resurrectióne in novíssimo die. Dixit ei Jesus: Ego sum resurréctio, et vita: qui credit in me, étiam si mórtuus fúerit, vivet: et omnis, qui vivit, et credit in me, non moriétur in aetérnum. Credis hoc? Ait illi: Utique, Dómine, ego crédidi, quia tu es Christus Fílius Dei vivi, qui in hunc mundum venísti. Et cum haec dixísset, ábiit, et vocávit Maríam sorórem suam siléntio, dicens: Magíster adest, et vocat te. Illa ut audívit, surgit cito, et venit ad eum: nondum enim vénerat

Jesus in castéllum, sed erat adhuc in illo loco, ubi occúrrerat ei Martha. Judaei ergo, qui erant cum ea in domo, et consolabántur eam, cum vidíssent Maríam, quia cito surréxit, et éxiit, secúti sunt eam, dicéntes: Quia vadit ad monuméntum, ut ploret ibi. María ergo, cum venísset ubi erat Jesus, videns eum, cécidit ad pedes ejus, et dicit ei: Dómine, si fuísses hic, non esset mórtuus frater meus. Jesus ergo, ut vidit eam plorántem, et Judaeos, qui vénerant cum ea, plorántes, infrémuit spíritu, et turbávit seípsum, et dixit: Ubi posuístis eum? Dicunt ei: Dómine, veni, et vide. Et lacrimátus est Jesus. Dixérunt ergo Judaei: Ecce quómodo amábat eum. Quidam autem ex ipsis dixérunt: Non póterat hic, qui apéruit óculos caeci nati, fácere ut hic non morerétur? Jesus ergo rursum fremens in semetípso, venit ad monuméntum. Erat autem spelúnca et lapis superpósitus erat ei. Ait Jesus: Tóllite lápidem. Dicit ei Martha soror ejus, qui mórtuus fúerat: Dómine, jam foetet, quatriduánus est enim. Dicit ei Jesus: Nonne dixi tibi, quóniam si credíderis, vidébis glóriam Dei? Tulérunt ergo lápidem: Jesus autem, elevátis sursum óculis, dixit: Pater, grátias ago tibi quóniam audísti me. Ego autem sciébam, quia semper me audis, sed propter pópulum, qui circúmstat, dixi: ut credant, quia tu me misísti.

she heard this, riseth quickly, and cometh to Him: for Jesus was not yet come into the town, but He was still in that place where Martha had met Him. The Jews therefore, who were with her in the house and comforted her, when they saw Mary that she rose up speedily and went out, followed her, saying: She goeth to the grave to weep there. When Mary therefore was come where Jesus was, seeing Him, she fell down at His feet, and saith to Him: Lord, if Thou hadst been here, my brother had not died. Jesus therefore, when He saw her weeping, and the Jews that were come with her weeping, groaned in the spirit and troubled Himself, and said: Where have you laid him? They say to Him: Lord, come and see. And Jesus wept. The Jews therefore said: Behold how He loved him. But some of them said: Could not He that opened the eyes of the man born blind have caused that this man should not die? Jesus therefore, again groaning in Himself, cometh to the sepulchre. Now it was a cave, and a stone was laid over it. Jesus saith: Take away the stone. Martha, the sister of him that was dead, saith to Him: Lord, by this time he stinketh, for he is now of four days. Jesus saith to her: Did not I say to thee that if thou believe, thou shalt see the glory of God? They took therefore the stone away: and Jesus lifting up His eyes said: Father, I give Thee thanks that Thou hast heard Me. And I knew that Thou hearest Me always, but because of the people who stand about have I said it: that they may believe that Thou hast sent Me. When He had said these things, He cried with a loud voice: Lazarus, come forth. And presently he that had been dead came forth, bound feet and hands with winding bands, and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus said to them : Loose him and let him go. Many therefore of the Jews who were come to Mary and Martha, and had seen the things that Jesus did, believed in Him.

Haec cum dixisset, voce magna clamávit: Lázare, veni foras. Et statim pródiit, qui fúerat mórtuus, ligátus pedes et manus institis, fácies illius sudário erat ligáta. Dixit eis Jesus: Sólvite eum et sinite abire. Multi ergo ex Judaeis, qui vénerant ad Mariam, et Martham, et viderant quae fecit Jesus, crediderunt in eum.

STATION AT ST. NICHOLAS IN CARCERE.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station is at a church built on the ruins of three pagan temples and consecrated to St. Nicholas. It is called in carcere because in former times it had a dungeon.

Here are venerated the remains of the holy Martyrs Mark, Marcellinus, Faustinus, Simplicius, and Beatrice, contained in an ancient urn placed under the High Altar. The interior, in the form of a basilica, is very harmonious.

Isaias, from whom the Introit and the Epistle of the Mass are taken, sees hastening from all sides the catechumens and public penitents who are waiting with holy impatience for the Easter Feast, when at last their souls may quench their thirst in the springs of grace through the sacraments of Baptism and Penance.

They were in darkness and Jesus gives them light (Epistle), for He tells us in the Gospel that He is the light of the world and that he who follows Him walketh not in darkness, but in the light of life.† Let us also, by penance, cast out sin from our hearts, and let us ask Christ to fill them with the light of His grace. Let us implore Him to convert our rebellious wills (Secret) and to help us to merit by our tears His divine consolations (Collect over the People).

Lesson from the prophet Isaias.—THUS saith the Lord: In an acceptable time I have heard thee, and in the day of salvation I have helped thee: and I have preserved thee, and given thee to be a covenant of the people, that thou mightest raise up the earth, and possess the inheritances that were destroyed: that thou mightest say to them that are bound: Come forth: and to them that are in darkness: Show yourselves. They shall feed in the ways, and their pastures shall be in every plain. They shall not hunger, nor thirst, neither shall the heat nor the sun strike them: for He that is merciful to them shall be their shepherd, and at the fountains of waters He shall give them drink. And I will make all My mountains a way, and My paths shall be exalted. Behold these shall come from afar, and behold these from the north and from the sea, and these from the south country. Dixérunt ergo ei pharisaei: Tu de teípso testimónium pérhibes: testimónium tuum non est verum. Respóndit Jesus, et dixit eis: Et si ego testimónium perhíbeo de meípso, verum est testimónium meum: quia scio unde veni, et quo vado: vos autem nescítis unde vénio, aut quo vado. Vos secúndum carnem judicátis: ego non júdico quemquam: et si júdico ego, júdicium meum verum est, quia solus non sum: sed ego, et qui misit me, Pater. ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus spoke to the multitudes of the Jews, saying: I am the light of the world: he that followeth Me walketh not in darkness, but shall have the light of life. The Pharisees therefore said to Him: Thou givest testimony of Thyself: Thy testimony is not true. Jesus answered and said to them: Although I give testimony of Myself, My testimony is true: for I know whence I came and whither I go: but you know not whence I come or whither I go. You judge according to the flesh: I judge not any man: and if I do judge, My judgment is true, because I am not alone: but I and the Father that sent Me. And in your law it is written that the testimony of two men is true. I am one that give testimony of Myself: and the Father that sent Me giveth testimony of Me They said therefore to Him: Where is Thy Father? Jesus answered:

Neither Me do you know, nor My Father: if you did know Me, perhaps you would know My Father also. These words Jesus spoke in the treasury, teaching in the temple: and no man laid hands on Him, because His hour was not yet come.

Dicébant ergo ei: Ubi est Pater tuus? Respóndit Jesus: Neque me scitis, neque Patrem meum: si me sciretis, fórsitan et Patrem meum sciretis. Haec verba locútus est Jesus in gazophylácio, docens in templo: et nemo apprehéndit eum, quia necdum venerat hora ejus.

6. Passion Time.

1. Passion Time from a Doctrinal Point of View.

The Church, which since the commencement of the Easter Cycle has followed Jesus in His apostolic ministry, contemplates, in mourning, during the Passion Time the sorrowful events which occurred during the last year (Passion Week) and the last week (Holy Week) of His mortal life.

The hatred of the enemies of the Messiah was increasing day by day and was about to break out: Good Friday will remind us of the most dreadful of all crimes, the bloody drama of Golgotha foretold by the Prophets, and by Jesus Himself. Wherefore the Liturgy, comparing the Old and New Testaments, sets up a striking parallel between the words of St. Paul and the Evangelists on the subject of the Passion and the explicit prophecies of Jeremias, Isaias, David, Jonas and Daniel.

On the approach of the fatal dénouement, the Church's lamentations become more sorrowful, and soon we shall hear her bemoan the loss of her Spouse Who is no longer with her. "The sky of Holy Church becomes more and more darkened," writes Dom Guéranger.* As on stormy days, threatening clouds are gathering on the horizon, tempest-charged. The thunderbolt of Divine Justice is about to fall: it will strike the Saviour Who, for love of His Father and of us, has become Man. In virtue of the mysterious solidarity which unites all the members of the great human family, this God made flesh substitutes Himself for His guilty brethren. " He clothes Himself," says the Prophet, " in our sins, as with a cloak " and " for us He hath made Himself sin,"* in order that He may " bear it in His body upon the tree "† and destroy it by His death.

* "Liturgical Year": Season of the Passion, Ch. iii.

In the Garden of Gethsemane the sins of all time, of all souls, horrible, repugnant, flow in foul waves into the most pure soul of Jesus, which becomes " the receptacle of all human vileness, the sink of creation."‡

Wherefore His Father, in spite of the love that He has for Him, will treat Him as an accursed being, for it is written: " Cursed is every one that hangeth on a tree." § " The work of our salvation required indeed " ‖ that Jesus " should be attached to the wood of the cross, so that life should be given back to us by that which had given us death, and that He Who had triumphed by the tree should in His turn be conquered by the tree." ¶

Between the Prince of life and the prince of death there was a matchless strife, but " Christ triumphed by the sacrifice of Himself." †† Indeed, on Palm Sunday He proceeds as a conqueror, sure of Himself, acclaimed and already crowned with palms and laurels, " signs of the victory which was going to be won." ‡‡ " Rejoice, O daughter of Sion, for behold thy King cometh to thee," says Zacharias, and the crowd spread out, as was usual for kings, their garments under His feet, crying out: " Blessed is He Who comes as a king in the Name of the Lord." §§ Jesus enters Jerusalem, His capital, ascends the precious throne which His blood " adorns with royal purple " ‖‖ and above which the Jews and Romans in the three languages then spoken wrote His glorious title: " Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews." " The prophecy of David is accomplished: God reigns by the Tree," ¶¶ which from an object of ignominy becomes " the standard of the King "  and " our one hope in this Passion Time." ††† " Before the Cross let us prostrate ourselves, for it is through this wood that joy has come to the world." ‡‡‡ And to emphasise that it is from this point of view that the Church will henceforth consider Jesus on the cross,

¶ Preface for Masses of the Holy Cross.—Thus is shown the principle of opposition spoken of by the Holy Ghost: " Consider all the works of the Most High: they are, two and two, opposed the one to the other: good is set against evil, and life against death, so also is the sinner against a just man " (Ecclus. xxxiii. 15). " Since by a man came death," says St. Paul, " by a man also comes the resurrection of the dead; and as in Adam all die, so also in Christ all shall be made alive " (1 Cor. xv. 21, 22). And the liturgy points out that our first parents having been deceived by Satan, it was necessary " that a divine stratagem should frustrate the wiles of the serpent " (Hymn at Matins for Passion Sunday). St. Bernard explains this by saying that " Jesus having but the semblance of sin, it is this veil which hid from the devil the trap into which he fell." And St. Augustine: " By the just permission of God, Lucifer lost the right of death that he held over sinful man, on the day when he was so rash as to exercise it against the Just One."

‡‡‡ Adoration of the Cross on Good Friday.

Christian artists in former times used to change His crown of thorns into a heraldic and royal crown. The abasement of Christ had indeed been for His Father a glorification, for Satan a defeat, for Jesus a triumph, and for us an infinite atonement. And the Church, who in her liturgy of Eastertide emphasises the vivifying aspect of the death of Jesus, already fills her liturgy with it during Passion Time, for the death of Christ, the symbol of our death to sin, and His resurrection, the model of our resurrection to the life of grace, are only two aspects of the same redeeming mystery. For that reason the Feast of Easter is called by the Greeks the Easter of Jesus crucified and the Easter of Jesus risen.

Likewise during the night of Easter the catechumens were "buried with Jesus by baptism in His death and rose with Him in newness of life."*

It was indeed at the end of Lent, when the Church celebrated the memory of the death and triumph of Jesus, that the Councils ordered that the sacraments of Baptism, Confirmation and Holy Eucharist should be given to the catechumens and that public penitents should be reconciled by sacramental absolution. Wherefore Passion Time and Eastertide, in fixing for all Christians the anniversary of the reception of these benefits, remind them that the Passion and Resurrection of Christ were the efficient and exemplary causes of their own, and enabled them yearly to take in them a greater and more intimate share. These Feasts were not therefore a simple historical remembrance relating only to the person of Jesus: they became a reality for all His mystical body. The strife of Golgotha spread itself over the whole world, where, with Christ her head, the Church each year at the solemnity of Easter won a new victory over Satan.

It was with this thought that the initiation of the Catechumens came to an end, and that public penitents, who founded all the more fervently their hope on the "sacrifice of the Lamb"† as the time for that sacrifice drew near, were stimulated to repentance.

Passion Time by its intimate connection with Eastertide brings therefore before us the remembrance of our baptism, when our souls were washed in the Blood of Jesus, and of our first Communion, when the thirst of our souls was quenched with it.‡ And by Easter confession and communion, relics of the penitential and baptismal discipline of former days, this liturgical season makes us die and rise again with Christ.

2. Passion Time from a Historical Point of View.

Passion Time refers specially to the third year of the ministry of Jesus and to the events which marked the last days of His mortal life.

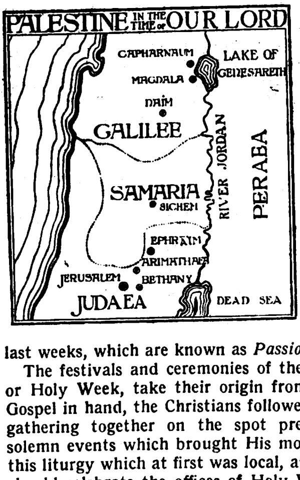
Second year: After having healed the son of the widow of Naim, Jesus absolved Mary Magdalen, the sinner who did not fear to come and fall at His feet whilst He was at table in the house of Simon the Pharisee.§

Third year: After the Transfiguration Jesus went to Capharnaum, and subsequently made a pilgrimage to Jerusalem for the Feast of Tabernacles.‖ He proclaimed that He was the fountain of living water which would quench the thirst of souls and announced His approaching death.¶

* Romans vi. 4.

† "Christ our Pasch is immolated" (Sequence for Easter Sunday).

‡ From His opened side "there came out blood and water" (John xix. 34), symbols of Baptism and the Eucharist, as the Fathers tell us.



§ Thursday in Passion Week.

‖ Tuesday in Passion Week.

¶ Monday in Passion Week.

The day after these feasts, He gave to the Jews proofs of His divinity. They therefore attempted to stone Him.* Having returned to Galilee, He again went to Jerusalem to celebrate, in the winter, the feast of the anniversary of the Dedication of the Temple. The Jews again wanted to stone Him: for was it not blasphemy that He should presume to be one with the heavenly Father? † Having gone to Peraea, Jesus was called to Bethany, where He raised Lazarus from the dead. This work of wonder gave Him such renown that the Jews, unable any longer to restrain their spiteful jealousy, definitely resolved on His death. So Jesus took refuge at Ephraim.‡ Six days before the Passover He returned to Bethany, where Mary Magdalen poured perfumed oil over His feet to anoint Him.§

The Great Week: The next day Jesus entered Jerusalem in triumph.|| He left the town the same evening to return the following day, which was Monday in Holy Week, when He had an interview with the Gentiles in the Temple.¶ On Tuesday in Holy Week He went towards evening to the Mount of Olives and announced to His apostles His coming Passion. He only returned to Jerusalem on the Thursday evening for the Last Supper, and the next day He was crucified at the gates of the town, on Calvary.†† On the same day He was buried in the sepulchre, from which He came forth gloriously on the following Sunday morning.‡‡

3. Passion Time from a Liturgical Point of View.

The Season of Septuagesima is a distant preparation for the Feast of Easter, while Lent is a near preparation, and the two last weeks, which are known as Passion Time, an immediate preparation.

The festivals and ceremonies of the last week, called the Great Week or Holy Week, take their origin from the Church in Jerusalem. With Gospel in hand, the Christians followed the Saviour step by step, piously gathering together on the spot precious recollections of those most solemn events which brought His mortal life to a close. Rome adopted this liturgy which at first was local, and even took care that her churches should celebrate the offices of Holy Week in the same way as was done at Jerusalem.

During this fortnight, to give her children a share in her sorrow, the Church suppresses the Psalm Judica me and in several places the Gloria Patri, because they were not to be found in the old liturgy and they evoked sentiments of joy.

She also covers with dark veils the images of Saints. Without doubt devotion to the Saints should efface itself before the great work of the Redemption, but if we observe that the Crucifix itself is veiled, we shall see in this custom a reference to the curtain which was formerly hung during Lent between the nave and the sanctuary. In former times, in fact, public penitents expelled from the church were only allowed to re-enter it on Maundy Thursday. After the suppression of this ceremony all Christians were more or less assimilated with the public penitents, and without pronouncing against them the penalty of exclusion, the sanctuary and all that it contains was hidden from them, in order to show them that they only deserved to take part in the Eucharistic worship by the Easter Communion after having performed suitable works of penance.

In stripping her altars and silencing her bells during the three holy days, the Church expresses the sadness that she feels at the recollection of the death of her Divine Spouse.

They took up stones therefore to cast at Him; but Jesus hid Himself and went out of the Temple. (Gospel of St. John.)

STATION AT ST. PETER'S.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Semi-double.—Privilege of the First Class.

Purple vestments.

The Station is at the Church of the Vatican, which is the largest in the world and hardly yields in importance to that of the Lateran. It is indeed here on the site of the Circus of Nero that is located the tomb of St. Peter, where according to ancient tradition, he suffered martyrdom.

To-day's Mass is full of the thought of the Passion of Jesus and of the infidelity of the Jews, whose place in the Kingdom of God was taken by those who were baptised, that is to say the catechumens and the Christians.

In the Introit, the Psalmist, exiled among hostile people, represents Christ "against Whom rose up an angry nation" (Gradual).

The Gospel shows us indeed the growing hatred of the Sanhedrim.† Abraham believed the divine promises which announced Christ to him, and in limbo his soul, which eternal death could not reach, rejoiced to see them realised. And the Jews, who ought to have recognised in Jesus the Son of God, greater than Abraham and the Prophets because He is eternal, disregarded the meaning of His words. They insulted the Messiah, Whom they declared to be possessed by a devil, a blasphemer whom they would stone to death.

St. Paul tells us that Jesus Christ is the Pontiff and the Mediator of the New Testament. In the same way as the High Priest once entered the Holy of Holies with the blood of the victims, so, in a far more excellent manner, Christ enters into heaven, the true Holy of Holies, after having shed His own blood which He offers to God His Father (Epistle). The blood of heifers gave to the Jews an outward and legal purity: that of Jesus purifies our hearts.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, AB c 33.

† After the Feast of Tabernacles which had taken place in the third year of His public ministry, Jesus spoke the parables of to-day's Gospel in the Temple. A part of the porch had been transformed into a stone-cutter's yard, as the reconstruction of the Temple had not been completed. The Jews collected there the stones for stoning Jesus, Who disappeared: His hour was not yet come. See p. 674, note *.

Epistle : Hebrews ix. 11-15.

Léctio Epístolae beáti Pauli Apóstoli ad Hebraeos.—FRATRES: Christus assístens póntifex futurórum bonórum, per ámplius et perféctius tabernáculum non manufáctum, id est, non hujus creatiónis: neque per sánguinem hircórum aut vitulórum, sed per próprium sánguinem introívit semel in Sancta, aetérna redemptióne invénta. Si enim sanguis hircórum et taurórum, et cinis vítulae aspérsus, inquinátos sanctíficat ad emundatiónem carnis; quanto magis sanguis Christi,

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Hebrews.—BRETHREN: Christ being come, an High Priest of the good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hand, that is, not of this creation: neither by the blood of goats or of calves, but by His own blood, entered once into the Holies, having obtained eternal redemption. For if the blood of goats and of oxen and the ashes of an heifer, being sprinkled, sanctify such as are defiled, to the cleansing of the flesh:

how much more shall the blood of Christ, Who, by the Holy Ghost, offered Himself unspotted unto God, cleanse our conscience from dead works, to serve the living God? And therefore He is the Mediator of the new testament: that by means of His death, for the redemption of those transgressions which were under the former testament, they that are called may receive the promise of eternal inheritance, in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Deo non estis. Respondérunt ergo Judaei, et dixérunt ei: Nonne bene dícimus nos, quia Samaritánus es tu, et daemónium habes? Respóndit Jesus: Ego daemónium non hábeo: sed honorífico Patrem meum, et vos inhonorástis me. Ego autem non quaero glóriam meam: est qui quaerat, et júdicet. Amen, amen dico vobis: si quis sermónem meum serváverit, mortem non vidébit in aetérnum. Dixérunt ergo Judaei: Nunc cognóvimus quia daemónium habes. Abraham mórtuus est, et prophétae: et tu dicis: Si quis sermónem meum serváverit, non gustábit mortem in aetérnum. Numquid tu major es patre nostro Abraham, qui mórtuus est? et prophétae mórtui sunt. Quem teípsum facis? Respóndit Jesus: Si ego glorífico meípsum, glória mea nihil est: est Pater meus, qui gloríficat me, quem vos dícitis quia Deus vester est, et non cognovístis eum: ego autem novi eum: et si díxero, quia non scio eum, ero símilis vobis, mendax. Sed scio eum, et sermónem ejus servo. Abraham pater vester exsultávit, ut vidéret diem meum: vidit, et gavísus est. Dixérunt ergo Judaei ad eum: Quinquagínta annos nondum habes, et Abraham vidísti? not, because you are not of God. The Jews therefore answered, and said to Him: Do not we say well, that Thou art a Samaritan, and hast a devil? Jesus answered: I have not a devil: but I honour My Father, and you have dishonoured Me. But I seek not My own glory: there is One that seeketh and judgeth. Amen, amen, I say to you: If any man keep My word, he shall not see death for ever. The Jews therefore said: Now we know that Thou hast a devil. Abraham is dead, and the prophets: and Thou sayest: If any man keep My word, he shall not taste death for ever. Art Thou greater than our father Abraham, who is dead? and the prophets are dead. Whom dost Thou make Thyself? Jesus answered: If I glorify Myself, My glory is nothing: it is My Father that glorifieth Me, of Whom you say that He is your God, and you have not known Him: but I know Him: And if I shall say that I know Him not, I shall be like to you, a liar. But I do know Him, and do keep His word. Abraham your father rejoiced that he might see My day: he saw it and was glad. The Jews therefore said to Him: Thou art not yet fifty years old, and hast Thou seen Abraham? Jesus said to them: Amen, amen, I say to you, before Abraham was made, I am. They took up stones therefore to cast at Him: but Jesus hid Himself, and went out of the temple.—Creed.

STATION AT ST. CHRYSOGONUS.†

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station is at St. Chrysogonus in the Trastevere. Under the High Altar of this church, one of the twenty-five parish churches of Rome in the fifth century, rests the body of this holy martyr, a victim of the Diocletian persecution. His name is mentioned in the Canon of the Mass. This was the titular church of the cardinal who became Sovereign Pontiff under the name of Leo XIII.

To encourage the public penitents, and ourselves likewise, to persevere in the austerities of Lent, the Church reminds us in the Epistle of the pardon granted to the Ninivites who, moved by the voice of Jonas, fasted and covered themselves with ashes for forty days.

With regard to the catechumens, how sweet must have been their hope on hearing in the Gospel * the promises of the Divine Master. Faith is about to draw from their souls streams of living waters, springing from the Holy Spirit Who entered their souls when they were baptised.

The Jews, on the contrary, far from listening to Him of Whom Jonas was only a figure, sought to lay hands on Jesus, Whom they are shortly to put to death. Jesus, in predicting it to them, announced to them His triumph and their reprobation : " Yet a little while and I go to My Father, and thither you cannot come."

Let us ask " God to sanctify our fasts and mercifully grant us the pardon of our sins " (Collect), so that we may always enjoy " health of soul and body " (Prayer over the People).

Introit : Psalm lv. 2.

Epistle : Jonas iii. 1-10.

Léctio Jonae Prophétae.—In diébus illis : Factum est verbum Dómini ad Jonam prophétam secúndo, dicens : Surge, et vade in Níniven civitátem magnam : et praedica in ea praedicatiónem, quam ego loquor ad te. Et surréxit Jonas, et ábiit in Níniven juxta verbum Dómini. Et Nínive erat cívitas magna

Lesson from the Prophet Jonas.—In those days the word of the Lord came to Jonas the second time, saying : Arise, and go to Ninive the great city : and preach in it the preaching that I bid thee. And Jonas arose and went to Ninive according to the word of the Lord. Now Ninive was a great city of three days' journey. And Jonas began to enter into the city one day's journey: and he cried, and said: Yet forty days, and Ninive shall be destroyed. And the men of Ninive believed in God: and they proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth from the greatest to the least. And the word came to the king of Ninive: and he rose up out of his throne, and cast away his robe from him, and was clothed with sackcloth, and sat in ashes. And he caused it to be proclaimed and published in Ninive from the mouth of the king and of his princes, saying: Let neither men nor beasts, oxen nor sheep, taste any thing: let them not feed nor drink water, and let men and beasts be covered with sackcloth, and cry to the Lord with all their strength, and let them turn every one from his evil way, and from the iniquity that is in their hands. Who can tell if God will turn and forgive: and will turn away from His fierce anger, and we shall not perish? And God saw their works, that they were turned from their evil way: and the Lord our God had mercy upon his people.

* After the Transfiguration Jesus went, in the third year of His ministry, to Jerusalem for the Feast of Tabernacles, which was celebrated in the autumn and lasted for seven days. The Jews not understanding His words believed that He was going to leave Palestine to preach the Gospel to their compatriots who were dispersed among the Gentiles, and who were called for this reason the dispersed Jews. Every morning of this week of feasts a priest went to draw water from the fountain of Siloe and brought it back solemnly to the Temple. It was probably on this occasion that Jesus explained to them the meaning of this sacred rite, applying it to Himself. See p. 673, note ¶.

Et coepit Jonas introíre in civitátem itínere diéi uníus: et clamávit, et dixit: Adhuc quadraginta dies, et Nínive subvertétur. Et credidérunt viri Ninivítae in Deum: et praedicavérunt jejúnium, et vestíti sunt saccis a majóre usque ad minórem. Et pervénit verbum ad regem Nínive: et surréxit de sólio suo, et adjécit vestiméntum suum a se, et indútus est sacco, et sedit in cínere. Et clamávit, et dixit in Nínive ex ore regis, et príncipum ejus, dicens: Hómines, et juménta, et boves, et pécora non gustent quidquam: nec pascántur, et aquam non bibant. Et operiántur saccis hómines, et juménta, et clament ad Dóminum in fortitúdine, et convertátur vir a via sua mala, et ab iniquitáte, quae est in mánibus eórum. Quis scit, si convertátur, et ignóscat Deus: et revertátur a furóre irae suae, et non períbimus? Et vidit Deus ópera eórum, quia convérsi sunt de via sua mala: et misértus est pópulo suo Dóminus Deus noster.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Misérunt príncipes et pharisaei minístros ut apprehénderent Jesum. Dixit ergo eis Jesus: Adhuc módicum tempus vobíscum sum: et vado ad eum qui me misit. Quaerétis me, et non inveniétis: et ubi ego sum, vos non potéstis veníre. Dixérunt ergo Judaei ad semetípsos: Quo hic itúrus est, quia non inveniémus eum? numquid in dispersiónem géntium itúrus est, et doctúrus gentes? Quis est hic sermo, quem dixit: Quaerétis me, et non inveniétis: et ubi sum ego, vos non potéstis veníre? In novissimo autem die magno festivitátis stabat Jesus, et clamábat, dicens: Si quis sitit, véniat ad me, et bibat. Qui credit in me, sicut dicit Scriptúra, flúmina de ventre ejus fluent aquae vivae. Hoc autem dixit de Spíritu, quem acceptúri erant credéntes in eum.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time the rulers and Pharisees sent ministers to apprehend Jesus. Jesus therefore said to them: Yet a little while I am with you: and then I go to Him that sent Me. You shall seek Me, and shall not find Me: and where I am, thither you cannot come. The Jews therefore said among themselves: Whither will He go, that we shall not find Him? will He go unto the dispersed among the Gentiles, and teach the Gentiles? What is this saying that He hath said: You shall seek Me, and shall not find Me: and where I am, you cannot come? And on the last and great day of the festivity, Jesus stood and cried, saying: If any man thirst, let him come to Me and drink. He that believeth in Me, as the Scripture saith, Out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water. Now this He said of the Spirit which they should receive who believed in Him.

STATION AT ST. CYRIACUS.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station was formerly at the Church of the holy deacon Cyriacus, martyred under Diocletian at the gates of Rome. This sanctuary, one of the twenty-five parish churches of Rome in the fifth century, having been destroyed, the body of the holy martyr was translated to beneath the High Altar of St. Mary in Via Lata, which became the place of assembly for this day.

The Epistle and Gospel tell us of the approaching Passion of the Messiah and of the rejection of Israel, who is replaced by the Gentiles in the Church.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, E d 11.

"Daniel who has destroyed Bel and slain the Dragon" (Epistle) is Jesus Who denounces the crimes and sins of the world (Gospel). The Babylonians sought to destroy the prophet by throwing him as food to the hungry lions. The Jews also "sought to kill Jesus" * and for this dark design "their hour is always at hand."

But, like Daniel, full of fortitude, He awaits the Lord (Introit), and God, "Who does not abandon those who love and seek Him" (Epistle, Offertory), "delivers Him from unjust men and from all the ills that threaten Him" (Gradual, Communion). "Those who had wished to destroy Daniel were themselves thrown to the lions and devoured instantly" (Epistle). In the same way the deicide nation suffered the penalty of its crime. Forty years later, a million Jews taken by surprise in Jerusalem were exterminated by the Roman legions, after five long months of famine.

Fearing the chastisements of Divine Justice, let us persevere in the expiatory practice of fasting in order that we may be made worthy of the eternal reward accorded to the just (Collect).

Introit : Psalm xxvi. 14.

EXSPECTA Dóminum, viríliter age: et confortétur cor tuum, et sústine Dóminum. Ps. Dóminus illuminátio mea, et salus mea: quem timébo?—Exspécta Dóminum.

EXPECT the Lord, do manfully: and let thy heart take courage, and wait thou for the Lord. Ps. xxvi. 1. The Lord is my light and my salvation: whom shall I fear?—Expect the Lord.

* Jesus in the third year of His public ministry evangelised Galilee, and after His Transfiguration returned to Jerusalem to celebrate the Feast of Tabernacles. See p. 673, note ‖, and the map on p. 674. He went to it in secret in order to avoid the plots of His enemies, for His hour was not yet come. thee and thy house. And the king saw that they pressed upon him violently: and, being constrained by necessity, he delivered Daniel to them. And they cast him into the den of lions, and he was there six days. And in the den there were seven lions, and they had given to them two carcases every day, and two sheep: but then they were not given unto them, that they might devour Daniel. Now there was in Judea a prophet called Habacuc, and he had boiled pottage, and had broken bread in a bowl: and was going into the field to carry it to the reapers. And the angel of the Lord said to Habacuc: Carry the dinner which thou hast into Babylon to Daniel, who is in the lions' den. And Habacuc said: Lord, I never saw Babylon, nor do I know the den. And the angel of the Lord took him by the top of his head, and carried him by the hair of his head, and set him in Babylon, over the den, in the force of his spirit. And Habacuc cried, saying: O Daniel, thou servant of God, take the dinner that God hath sent thee. And Daniel said: Thou hast remembered me, O God, and Thou hast not forsaken them that love Thee. And Daniel arose, and ate. And the angel of the Lord presently set Habacuc again in his own place. And upon the seventh day the king came to bewail Daniel: and he came to the den, and looked in, and behold Daniel was sitting in the midst of the lions. And the king cried out with a loud voice, say-

Et clamávit Hábacuc, dicens: Dániel serve Dei, tolle prándium, quod misit tibi Deus. Et ait Dániel: Recordátus es mei, Deus et non derelinquísti diligéntes te. Surgénsque Dániel comédit. Porro Angelus Dómini restítuit Hábacuc conféstim in loco suo. Venit ergo rex die séptimo, ut lugéret Daniélem: et venit ad lacum, et introspéxit, et ecce Dániel sedens in médio leónum. ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Ambulábat Jesus in Galilaeam, non enim volébat in Judaeam ambuláre, quia quaerébant eum Judaei interfícere. Erat autem in próximo dies festus Judaeórum, Scenopégia. Dixérunt autem ad eum fratres ejus: Transi hinc, et vade in Judaeam, ut et discípuli tui vídeant ópera tua, quae facis. Nemo quippe in occúlto quid facit, et quaerit ipse in palam esse: si haec facis, manifésta teípsum mundo. Neque enim fratres ejus credébant in eum. ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time Jesus walked in Galilee, for He would not walk in Judea, because the Jews sought to kill Him. Now the Jews' feast of Tabernacles was at hand. And His brethren said to Him: Pass from hence and go into Judea, that Thy disciples also may see Thy works which Thou dost. For there is no man that doth any thing in secret, and he himself seeketh to be known openly: if Thou do these things, manifest Thyself to the world. For neither did His brethren believe in Him. Then Jesus said to them: My time is not yet come: but your time is always ready. The world cannot hate you: but Me it hateth, because I give testimony of it, that the works thereof are evil. Go you up to this festivalday, but I go not up to this festival day: because My time is not accomplished. When He had said these things, He Himself stayed in Galilee. But after His brethren were gone up, then He also went up to the feast not openly, but as it were in secret. The Jews therefore sought Him on the festival day, and said: Where is He? And there was much murmuring among the multitude concerning Him. For some said: He is a good man. And others said: No, but He seduceth the people. Yet no man spoke openly of Him, for fear of the Jews.

Haec cum dixísset, ipse mansit in Galílaea. Ut autem ascendérunt fratres ejus, tunc et ipse ascéndit ad diem festum non maniféste, sed quasi in occúlto. Judaei ergo quaerébant eum in die festo, et dicébant: Ubi est ille? Et murmur multum erat in turba de eo. Quidam enim dicébant: Quia bonus est. Alii autem dicébant: Non, sed sedúcit turbas. Nemo tamen palam loquebátur de illo, propter metum Judaeórum.

STATION AT ST. MARCELLUS.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Church of St. Marcellus, where to-day's Station is made, was one of the twenty-five parish churches of Rome in the fifth century. Originally the house of the holy dame Lucina, where she received St. Marcellus, it was transformed by her into a sanctuary and dedicated to this holy Pope, whose body rests under the High Altar.

The Mass of to-day shows us the obstinacy of the Jews in rejecting Jesus, as they had already rejected His Father. The divine law given by Him Whom the Epistle calls six times "the Lord," "Whose word is stable," declared formally "that one may not shed his neighbour's blood, nor hate his father in his heart." The members of the Sanhedrim, on the contrary, hated Christ and sought to stone Him (Gospel). Unfaithful to God "Who orders His laws to be kept" (Epistle), they blamed Jesus "Whom the Father has sent" and Who is the Son of God. "The Father and I are one. The miracles that I have worked come from My Father."† "Rejecting the legitimate pastor of their souls, they are no longer His sheep," and will be replaced by the Gentiles, who, baptised or reconciled to God at the Easter Festival, are "the sheep who hear His voice and to whom He gives eternal life" (Gospel).

Let us be faithful to Jesus and pray God "to sanctify our fast and illumine our hearts" (Collect), in order that, delivered from the abyss into which our sins have made us fall (Gradual), we "may wash our hands among the innocent and proclaim the wondrous works of God" (Communion).

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, E d 23.

† Three feasts called the Jews to Jerusalem: in the spring it was the Feast of the Passover, instituted to commemorate the departure from Egypt; in the autumn that of Tabernacles, in commemoration of the sojourn of the Jews in tents in the desert; and in the winter (middle of December) that of the anniversary of the Dedication of the Temple, which the Machabees had purified after their victory (B.C. 164). It was on the occasion of this last feast that Jesus, in the third year of His ministry, spoke the words in to-day's Gospel. He was then under Solomon's Porch, which faces the ravine of Cedron. See p. 674, note † and map; also plan, p. 741.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time it was the Feast of the Dedication at Jerusalem : and it was winter. And Jesus walked in the temple, in Solomon's porch. The Jews therefore came round about Him, and said to Him : How long dost Thou hold our souls in suspense? If Thou be the Christ tell us plainly. Jesus answered them : I speak to you, and you believe not. The works that I do in the Name of My Father, they give testimony of Me: but you do not believe, because you are not of My sheep. My sheep hear My voice: and I know them, and they follow Me: and I give them life everlasting: and they shall not perish for ever, and no man shall pluck them out of My hand. That which My Father hath given Me is greater than all: and no one can snatch them out of the hand of My Father. I and the Father are one. The Jews then took up stones to stone Him. Jesus answered them: Many good works I have showed you from My Father, for which of those works do you stone me? The Jews answered Him: For a good work we stone Thee not, but for blasphemy: and because that Thou, being a Man, makest Thyself God. Jesus answered them: Is it not written in your law: I said, You are gods? If he called them gods to whom the word of God was spoken, and the scripture cannot be broken: do you say of Him Whom the Father hath sanctified and sent into the world: Thou blasphemest: because I said, I am the Son of God? If I do not the works of My Father, believe Me not. But if I do: though you will not believe Me, believe the works, that you may know and believe that the Father is in Me, and I in the Father.

fácio in nómine Patris mei, haec testimónium pérhibent de me: sed vos non créditis, quia non estis ex óvibus meis. Oves meae vocem meam áudiunt: et ego cognósco eas, et sequúntur me: et ego vitam aetérnam do eis: et non períbunt in aetérnum, et non rápiet eas quisquam de manu mea. Pater meus, quod dedit mihi, majus ómnibus est: et nemo potest rápere de manu Patris mei. Ego et Pater unum sumus. Sustulérunt ergo lápides Judaei, ut lapidárent eum. Respóndit eis Jesus: Multa bona ópera osténdi vobis ex Patre meo, propter quod eórum opus me lapidátis? Respondérunt ei Judaei: De bono ópere non lapidámus te, sed de blasphémia: et quia tu, homo cum sis, facis teípsum Deum. Respóndit eis Jesus: Nonne scriptum est in lege vestra: quia Ego dixi, dii estis? Si illos dixit deos, ad quos sermo Dei factus est, et non potest solvi Scriptúra: quem Pater sanctificávit, et misit in mundum, vos dícitis: Quia blasphémas: quia dixi, Fílius Dei sum? Si non fácio ópera Patris mei, nolíte crédere mihi. Si autem fácio: et si mihi non vultis crédere, opéribus crédite, ut cognoscátis, et credátis, quia Pater in me est, et ego in Patre.

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station is at the church built towards 780 by Pope Adrian I., on the ruins of an ancient temple, in honour of the holy martyr Apollinaris, the disciple of Peter and Archbishop of Ravenna.

Daniel recalls the humiliation of the people of Israel who were delivered to their enemies "on account of their sins" (Introit and Epistle).

The Church also mourns over the bad Christians and the heathen, slaves of Satan and of their passions.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, D c 2.

With Azarias, she asks the Lord "that all those who ill-treat His servants may be confounded, for it is with a contrite and humble heart that they return to God" (Epistle). She hopes that, faithful to His ancient and solemn oath, He will multiply His people like the stars in the firmament and the sand on the shore (Epistle). She already sees with joy the Paschal night when in the baptismal font numerous children are going to be born to her. She excites the penitents to true repentance and hope by relating the conversion of Magdalen the sinner,* who throws herself at the feet of Jesus shedding tears of repentance, whilst the Jews, represented by Simon the Pharisee, remain unmoved.

Forming part of the people of God through baptism, we should humbly, like Magdalen, weep for our sins and generously expiate them. Let us therefore purify our bodies and souls by mortification and penance, for it is "by abstinence that we must heal our wounds made by intemperance" (Collect).

Introit : Daniel iii. 31.

ALL that Thou hast done to us, O Lord, Thou hast done in true judgment: because we have sinned against Thee, and have not obeyed Thy commandments: but give glory to Thy Name, and deal with us according to the multitude of Thy mercy. Ps. cxviii. 1. Blessed are the undefiled in the way: who walk in the law of the Lord.—All.

OMNIA, quae fecísti nobis, Dómine, in vero judício fecísti: quia peccávimus tibi, et mandátis tuis non obedívimus: sed da glóriam nómini tuo, et fac nobíscum secúndum multitúdinem misericórdiae tuae. Ps. Beáti immaculáti in via: qui ámbulant in lege Dómini.—Omnia.

* This Gospel relates to the second year of the public ministry of Jesus, Who was received in Naim in the house of Simon the Pharisee. Et non est in témpore hoc princeps, et dux, et prophéta, neque holocáustum, neque sacrifícium, neque oblátio, neque incénsum, neque locus primitiárum coram te, ut possímus inveníre misericórdiam tuam: sed in ánimo contrito, et spíritu humilitátis suscipiámur. Sicut in holocáusto aríetum, et taurórum, et sicut in míllibus agnórum pínguium: sic fiat sacrifícium nostrum in conspéctu tuo hódie, ut pláceat tibi: quóniam non est confúsio confidéntibus in te. Neither is there at this time prince, or leader, or prophet, or holocaust, or sacrifice, or oblation, or incense, or place of firstfruits before Thee, that we may find Thy mercy: nevertheless in a contrite heart and humble spirit let us be accepted. As in holocausts of rams, and bullocks, and as in thousands of fat lambs: so let our sacrifice be made in Thy sight this day, that it may please Thee: for there is no confusion to them that trust in Thee. And now we follow Thee with all our heart, and we fear Thee, and seek Thy face. Put us not to confusion: but deal with us according to Thy meekness, and according to the multitude of Thy mercies. And deliver us according to Thy wonderful works, and give glory to Thy name, O Lord: and let all them be confounded that show evils to Thy servants, let them be confounded in all Thy might, and let their strength be broken: and let them know that Thou art the Lord the only God, and glorious Gospel : Luke vii. 36-50.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time one of the Pharisees desired Jesus to eat with Him. And He went into the house of the Pharisee, and sat down to meat. And behold a woman that was in the city, a sinner, when she knew that He sat at meat in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster box of ointment: and standing behind at His feet, she began to wash His feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head, and kissed His feet, and anointed them with the ointment. And the Pharisee, who had invited Him, seeing it, spoke within himself, saying: This man, if He were a prophet, would know surely who and what manner of woman this is that toucheth Him: that she is a sinner. And Jesus answering said to Him: Simon, I have somewhat to say to thee. But he said: Master, say it. A certain creditor had two debtors: the one owed five hundred pence, and the other fifty. And whereas they had not wherewith to pay, he forgave them both. Which Intrávi in domum tuam, aquam pédibus meis non dedísti: haec autem lácrymis rigávit pedes meos, et capíllis suis tersit. Osculum mihi non dedísti: haec autem, ex quo intrávit, non cessávit osculári pedes meos. Oleo caput meum non unxísti: haec autem unguénto unxit pedes meos. Propter quod dico tibi: Remittúntur ei peccáta multa, quóniam diléxit multum. Cui autem minus dimittitur, minus díligit. Dixit autem ad illam: Remittúntur tibi peccáta. Et coepérunt, qui simul accumbébant, dícere intra se: Quis est hic, qui étiam peccáta dimittit? Dixit autem ad mulierem: Fides tua te salvam fecit: vade in pace.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Lucam.—In illo témpore: Rogábat Jesum quidam de pharísaeis, ut manducáret cum illo. Et ingréssus domum pharísaei, discúbuit. Et ecce múlier, quae erat in civitáte peccátrix, ut cognóvit, quod accubuísset in domo pharisaei, áttulit alabástrum unguénti: et stans retro secus pedes ejus, lácrymis coepit rigáre pedes ejus, et capíllis cápitis sui tergébat, et osculabátur pedes ejus, et unguénto ungébat. Videns autem Pharisaeus, qui vocáverat eum, ait intra se, dicens: Hic si esset prophéta, sciret útique, quae et qualis est múlier, quae tangit eum: quia peccátrix est. Et respóndens Jesus, dixit ad illum: Simon, hábeo tibi áliquid dícere. At ille ait: Magíster, dic. Duo debitóres erant cuídam foeneratóri: unus debébat denários quingéntos, et álius quinquagínta. Non habéntibus illis unde rédderent, donávit utrísque. Quis ergo eum plus díligit? Respóndens Simon, dixit: Aestimo quia

therefore of the two loveth him most? Simon answering, said: I suppose that he to whom he forgave most. And He said to him: Thou hast judged rightly. And turning to the woman, He said unto Simon: Dost thou see this woman? I entered into thy house, thou gavest Me no water for My feet: but she with tears hath washed My feet, and with her hairs hath wiped them. Thou gavest Me no kiss: but she, since she came in, hath not ceased to kiss My feet. My head with oil thou didst not anoint: but she with ointment hath anointed My feet. Wherefore I say to thee: Many sins are forgiven her, because she hath loved much. But to whom less is forgiven, he loveth less. And He said to her: Thy sins are forgiven thee. And they that sat at meat with Him began to say within themselves: Who is this that forgiveth sins also? And He said to the woman: Thy faith hath made thee safe: go in peace.

The Seven Dolours of the Blessed Virgin Mary.*

Greater double.—White vestments.

The Christmas Cycle had celebrated the part taken by the Blessed Virgin in the Mystery of the Incarnation, glorifying both the Divinity of Jesus and the divine Maternity of Mary.

The Easter Cycle tells us how the mother of the Saviour co-operated in the Mystery of the Redemption. It shows her in this season of the Passion at the foot of the Cross where Christ is dying (Introit, Sequence, Gospel). " An ineffable union is established between the oblation of the Incarnate Word and that of Mary; the divine blood and the tears of the Mother flow together and are mixed for the redemption of the human race." †

" The prophecy of Simeon is realised: a sword of grief pierces the most gentle soul of the glorious Virgin Mary " (Collect), who by her unequalled love becomes the Queen of Martyrs (Communion). ‡

* See " Time after Whitsuntide from a Historical Point of View," p. 1017.
† " The Liturgical Year " by Dom Guéranger: Friday in Passion Week.
‡ St. Bernard: Sixth lesson in Matins.

As Judith had delivered Israel by killing Holofernes (Epistle), the Virgin is our deliverer with Jesus. Wherefore the Gospel shows us, at the foot of the tree of Passion, in a scene which recalls the tree of prevarication, the maternity of Mary with regard to the Church personified by St. John.

" Let us venerate the Transfixion of the glorious Virgin Mary at the foot of the cross, in order to gather the happy fruit of the Passion of her Son " (Collect).

MASS.

Introit: John xix. 25.

STABANT juxta crucem Jesu mater ejus, et soror matris ejus María Cléophae, et Salóme, et María Magdaléne. ℣. Múlier, ecce fílius tuus: dixit Jesus; ad discípulum autem: Ecce mater tua. ℣. Glória Patri.

THERE stood by the cross of Jesus His mother, and His mother's sister Mary of Cleophas, and Salome, and Mary Magdalen. ℣. John xix. 26, 27. Woman, behold thy son, said Jesus; and to the disciple, Behold thy mother. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Collect.

Deus, in cujus passióne, secúndum Simeónis prophetiam, dulcíssimam ánimam gloriósae Vírginis et Matris Mariae dolóris gládius pertransívit: concéde propítius; ut, qui transfixiónem ejus et passiónem venerándo recólimus, gloriósis méritis et précibus ómnium Sanctórum cruci fidéliter astántium intercedéntibus, passiónis tuae efféctum felícem consequámur: Qui vivis.

O God, in Whose passion, according to the prophecy of Simeon, a sword of sorrow pierced the most sweet soul of the glorious Mary, mother and virgin; grant in Thy mercy that we who call to mind with veneration her transfixion and suffering, by the glorious merits and prayers of all the saints faithfully standing by the cross interceding for us, may obtain the happy effect of Thy Passion. Who livest and reignest.

Commemoration of the Feria, p. 703.

The rest of the Mass is identical with that of the other Feast of the Seven Dolours of Our Lady, September 15, except the following:—

Gradual.

Dolorósa et lacrimábilis es, Virgo María, stans juxta crucem Dómini Jesu Fílii tui Redemptóris. ℣. Virgo Dei Génitrix, quem totus non capit orbis, Thou art sorrowful and worthy of tears, O Virgin Mary, standing near the cross of the Lord Jesus, thy Son, the Redeemer. ℣. O Virgin Mother of God, He Whom the whole world doth not contain beareth this punishment of the cross, the author of life made man.

hoc crucis fert supplícium, auctor vitae factus homo.

Tract: Lamentations I. 12.

Holy Mary, the Queen of heaven, and mistress of the world, stood by the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, full of sadness. ℣. O all ye that pass by the way, attend, and see if there be any sorrow like to my sorrow.

Stabat sancta María, coeli Regina, et mundi Dómina, juxta crucem Dómini nostri Jesu Christi dolorósa. ℣. O vos omnes, qui transítis per viam, atténdite, et vidéte, si est dolor sicut dolor meus.

No Alleluia is said after the Sequence.

STATION AT ST. STEPHEN ON MOUNT COELIUS.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

The Station was at the Church of St. Stephen on Mount Coelius, called St. Stephen the Round, on account of its circular form. It was dedicated in the fifth century to the first of the martyrs whose relics had just been brought to Rome.

The Gospel of to-day mentions the sitting of the Sanhedrim at which the death of Jesus was irrevocably decreed by the Jewish priests.†

The miracle of the resurrection of Lazarus, they say, will excite during the Paschal festivities, when crowds fill Jerusalem, such popular enthusiasm that the Romans, uneasy for their authority, will destroy our city and nation. It is therefore better, concludes Caiphas, that one man should disappear and that the nation should be saved.

Jeremias in the Epistle and the Psalmist in the Introit, the Gradual,

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, G f 12.

† Jesus having raised Lazarus from the dead at the time that the pilgrims were preparing to come in multitudes to Jerusalem for the Feast of the Passover, the Jewish authorities of the Sanhedrim assembled on the Mount of Evil Counsel, and under pretext that the Romans, who had conquered Judaea, would take umbrage at the influence of Christ and use repressive measures against the Jewish people, the High Priest declares that Jesus must die. See p. 674, note ‡ and map.

the Offertory and the Communion, express the sorrows and anguish of Jesus, Who feels Himself surrounded by such treacherous and relentless enemies.

Let us participate in the feelings of Christ, Who will soon atone for our sins by the sufferings of His Passion. And may the fear of eternal punishment make us accept the troubles of this life and the holy austerities of Lent (Collect).

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time the chief priests and the Pharisees gathered a council against Jesus, and said: What do we, for this man doth many miracles? If we let Him alone so, all will believe in Him: and the Romans will come, and take away our place and nation. But one of them, named Caiphas, being the high priest that year, said to them: You know nothing, neither do you consider that it is expedient for you that one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not. And this he spoke not of himself: but sed cum esset póntifex anni illius, prophetávit, quod Jesus moritúrus erat pro gente, et non tantum pro gente, sed ut filios Dei, qui erant dispérsi, congregáret in unum. Ab illo ergo die cogitavérunt, ut interficerent eum. Jesus ergo jam non in palam ambulábat apud Judaeos: sed ábiit in regiónem juxta desértum, in civitátem, quae dícitur Ephrem, et ibi morabátur cum discípulis suis.

being the high priest of that year, he prophesied that Jesus should die for the nation, and not only for the nation, but to gather together in one the children of God that were dispersed. From that day therefore they devised to put Him to death. Wherefore Jesus walked no more openly among the Jews: but He went into a country near the desert, unto a city that is called Ephrem,* and there He abode with His disciples.

Saturday in Passion Week.

STATION AT ST. JOHN BEFORE THE LATIN GATE.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Purple vestments.

Near the place where the Appian Way branches off, forming to the left the Latin Way, stands a church, built on the spot where St. John was, by order of Domitian, plunged into a cauldron of boiling oil. It is there that to-day's Station was made.

The Mass sums up all the great mysteries which are about to fill Holy Week.

The Gospel † shows us Jesus "the King of Israel" acclaimed by the Jews and some days later "raised from the earth" and crucified. The few Gentiles who expressed to Philip their desire to see Christ let us foresee the many recruits that the Church is to make among the heathen nations.

Jesus is going to die like the grain of wheat, that He may produce much fruit. For the moment "His soul is troubled," as it will be in the Garden of Gethsemane. But "it is for that that He has come," "to glorify His Father." And as a voice from Heaven tells us, this glorification will be complete, for "the prince of this world shall be cast out" and the Saviour raised upon a cross and reaching to heaven "will draw all things to Him."

The Saviour here reveals to us His whole heart, which wishes, at the price of such cruel sufferings, to ruin our enemy and secure our salvation.

Finally Jesus speaks of those who refuse to follow Him and who walk in darkness not knowing where they go, and by the mouth of Jeremias He anathematises "those who plot against the just. Their children will be delivered up to famine and their husbands put to death, for an unforeseen enemy will fall upon them and exterminate them" (Epistle). This prophecy was fulfilled. During the siege of Jerusalem the Jews who had not died of famine perished by the sword.

To avoid the effects of Divine Justice let us die to sin, and we shall produce much fruit unto eternal life.

† The day after Mary anointed her Master at Bethany, that is to say on Palm Sunday, Christ left this town and passed near to Bethage, which is situated between Bethany and Jerusalem. When He had reached the summit of the Mount of Olives the Holy City appeared before His eyes, and all the multitude then burst out into songs of triumph. See p. 674, note ‖ and map.

Lesson from Jeremias the Prophet.—In those days the wicked Jews said one to another : Come, and let us invent devices against the just, for the law shall not perish from the priest, nor counsel from the wise, nor the word from the prophet : come, and let us strike him with the tongue and let us give no heed to all his words. Give heed to me, O Lord, and hear the voice of my adversaries. ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Cogitavérunt príncipes sacerdótum ut et Lázarum interfícerent: quia multi propter illum abíbant ex Judaeis et credébant in Jesum. In crástinum autem turba multa, quae vénerat ad diem festum, cum audíssent quia venit Jesus Jerosólymam, accepérunt ramos palmárum, et processérunt óbviam ei, et clamábant: Hosánna, benedictus qui venit in nómine Dómini, Rex Israel. Et invénit Jesus aséllum, et sedit super eum, sicut scriptum est: Noli timére, filia Sion: ecce Rex tuus venit sedens super pullum ásinae. Haec non cognovérunt discípuli ejus primum: sed quando glorificátus est Jesus, tunc recordáti sunt quia haec erant scripta de eo: et haec fecérunt ei. Testimónium ergo perhibébat turba, quae erat cum eo, quando Lázarum vocávit de monuménto, et suscitávit eum a mórtuis. Proptérea et óbviam venit ei turba: quia audiérunt eum fecísse hoc signum. Pharisaei ergo dixérunt ad semetípsos: Vidétis quia nihil profícimus? ecce mundus totus post eum ábiit. Erant autem quidam gentíles ex his, qui ascénderant ut adorárent in die festo. Hi ergo accessérunt ad Philíppum, qui erat a Bethsáida Galilaeae, et rogábant eum, dicéntes: Dómine, vólumus Jesum vidére. Venit Philíppus, et dicit Andréae: Andréas rursum et Philíppus dixérunt Jesu. Jesus autem respóndit eis, dicens: Venit hora, ut clarificétur Filius hóminis. Amen, amen dico vobis, nisi granum fruménti cadens in terram, mórtuum fúerit, ipsum solum manet: si autem mórtuum fúerit, multum fructum affert. Qui amat ánimam suam, perdet eam: et qui odit ánimam suam in hoc mundo, in vitam aetérnam custódit eam. that cometh in the name of the Lord, the King of Israel. And Jesus found a young ass, and sat upon it, as it is written: Fear not, daughter of Sion: behold, thy King cometh sitting on an ass's colt. These things His disciples did not know at the first: but when Jesus was glorified, then they remembered that these things were written of Him: and that they had done these things to Him. The multitude therefore gave testimony which was with Him when He called Lazarus out of the grave, and raised him from the dead. For which reason also the people came to meet Him: because they heard that He had done this miracle. The Pharisees therefore said among themselves: Do you see that we prevail nothing? behold the whole world is gone after Him. Now there were certain Gentiles among them, who came up to adore on the festival day. These therefore came to Philip, who was of Bethsaida of Galilee, and desired him, saying: Sir, we would see Jesus. Philip cometh and telleth Andrew: Again Andrew and Philip told Jesus. But Jesus answered them, saying: The hour is come that the Son of Man should be glorified. Amen, amen, I say to you, unless the grain of wheat falling into the ground die, itself remaineth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit. He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world keepeth it unto life eternal. If any man minister to Me, let him follow Me: and where I am, there also shall My minister be. If any man minister to Me, him will My Father honour. Now is My soul troubled. And what shall I say? Father, save me from this hour. But for this cause I came unto this hour. Father, glorify Thy name. A voice therefore came from heaven: I have both glorified it, and will glorify it again. The multitude therefore that stood and heard said that it thundered. Others said: An angel spoke to Him. Jesus answered and said: This voice came not because of Me, but for your sakes. Now is the judgment of the world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out. And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all things to Myself. (Now this He said, signifying what death He should die.) The multitude answered Him: We have heard out of the law that Christ abideth for ever: and how sayest Thou: The Son of Man must be lifted up? Who is this Son of Man? Jesus therefore said to them: Yet a little while the light is among you. Walk whilst you have the light, that the darkness overtake you not: and he that walketh in darkness knoweth not whither he goeth. Whilst you have the light, believe in the light: that you may be the children of light. These things Jesus spoke: and He went away, and hid Himself from them.

quátur: et ubi sum ego, illic et miníster meus erit. Si quis mihi ministráverit, honorificábit eum Pater meus. Nunc ánima mea turbáta est. Et quid dicam? Pater, salvífica me ex hac hora. Sed proptérea veni in horam hanc. Pater, clarífica nomen tuum. Venit ergo vox de coelo: Et clarificávi, et íterum clarificábo. Turba ergo, quae stabat, et audíerat, dicébat tonitruum esse factum. Alii dicébant: Angelus ei locútus est. Respóndit Jesus, et dixit: Non propter me haec vox venit, sed propter vos. Nunc judicium est mundi: nunc princeps hujus mundi ejiciétur foras. Et ego si exaltátus fúero a terra, ómnia traham ad meipsum. (Hoc autem dicébat, significans qua morte esset moritúrus.) Respóndit ei turba: Nos audívimus ex lege, quia Christus manet in aetérnum: et quómodo tu dicis: Opórtet exaltári Fílium hóminis? Quis est iste Fílius hóminis? Dixit ergo eis Jesus: Adhuc módicum lumen in vobis est. Ambuláte dum lucem habétis, ut non vos ténebrae comprehéndant: et qui ámbulat in ténebris, nescit quo vadat. Dum lucem habétis, crédite in lucem: ut filii lucis sitis. Haec locútus est Jesus: et ábiit, et abscóndit se ab eis.

Palm Sunday.

Semi-double.—Privilege of the First Class.—Purple vestments.

To-day's liturgy expresses by two ceremonies, the one giving an impression of joy, the other of sorrow, the two aspects under which the Church considers the Cross.

The first is the blessing and the procession of palms. All through it bursts forth a holy gladness, which allows us, after twenty centuries, to revive the grand scene of the triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem.

Then follows the Mass, in which the chants and lessons relate exclusively to the sorrowful recollection of the Passion of the Saviour.

1.—Blessing of the Palms and Procession.

At Jerusalem, in the fourth century, on this Sunday was read, in the very place where it had taken place, the evangelical story * which shows Christ acclaimed as King of Israel and taking possession of His capital, Jerusalem being in fact only an image of the kingdom of the heavenly Jerusalem.

Then a bishop, mounted on an ass, went to the summit of the Mount of Olives to the Church of the Resurrection, surrounded by the crowd, who carried palms and sang hymns and antiphons.

This ceremony was preceded by a lesson from the passage in Exodus relating to the departure from Egypt. The people of God which had camped under the shadow of the palm trees, near the twelve fountains where Moses promised them the manna, figure the Christian people who cut branches from the palms and bear witness that their King, Jesus, comes to deliver souls from sin by bringing them to the baptismal font and by nourishing them with the Eucharistic manna.†

The Church of Rome in adopting this use about the eleventh century appears to have added to it the rite of the blessing of the palms, whence the name of Palm Sunday. In this blessing the Church asks for those who dwell "in the houses where palms are kept" "safety of soul and body." * "God," she adds, "by a wonderful order of His Providence, has been pleased to use these material things as a sign of His wonderful plan for our salvation," for "these branches of palms signified the victory which was to be gained over the prince of death, and the branches of olive proclaimed the abundant overflowing of the divine mercy."

"The dove, indeed, announced by a branch of olive peace to the earth;" "and the favours that God multiplied on Noah on coming out from the ark, and on Moses who left Egypt with the children of Israel, are a symbol of the Church" "who goes to meet Christ with good works," "works bearing boughs of righteousness."

The procession of Christians who, palms in hand and the song of hosanna on their lips, acclaim each year throughout the world, through all generations, the royalty of Christ, is composed of all the catechumens, of the public penitents and of the faithful whom the sacraments of Baptism, of the Eucharist and of Penance are about to make co-partners, at the Easter feasts, of Him Who is gloriously triumphant.

"Seeing indeed by faith this event and its meaning, we beseech Thee, O Eternal God, that what we Thy people do outwardly we may accomplish inwardly, becoming victorious over the devil."

That is what the procession which stops at the door of the church represents. A few of the choristers have entered the church. Their chanting alternates with that of the clergy †: on one side are represented the "angelic choirs," and on the other the soldiers of Christ still engaged in the strife of battle, who acclaim in turn the King of Glory. Soon the door opens, after the subdeacon has knocked on it thrice with the staff of the cross: thus does the Cross of Jesus open heaven to us, and the procession proceeds into the church as the elect will one day enter with Christ into everlasting glory.

Let us religiously keep in our home a branch of blessed palm. This sacramental will obtain graces for us by virtue of the prayer of the Church, and will assert our faith in Jesus, the conqueror of sin and death.

2.—Mass of Palm Sunday.

The Blessing of the Palms used to take place at S. Maria Maggiore, which at Rome represents Bethlehem, where He Whom the Magi proclaimed "King of the Jews" was born. The procession went from this church to St. John Lateran. It was in this basilica that the Station was formerly held: dedicated to the Holy Saviour, it reminded one of the Passion which the Mass puts before us.‡

The triumph of the Saviour must be preceded by "His humiliation unto death, even the death of the cross" (Epistle), which will serve as a model to us "so that, imitating the example of His patience, we may become partners in His resurrection" (Collect).

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

Explanation of the Passion.

(Sunday: St. Matthew—Tuesday in Holy Week: St. Mark—Wednesday in Holy Week: St. Luke—Good Friday: St. John.)

Events Preceding the Passion.

On the Tuesday, after having left the Temple, Jesus towards evening ascended Mount Olivet: " In two days," He said, " shall be the Pasch, and the Son of Man shall be delivered up to be crucified."

With the Jews, the days began the evening of the day before, so it was the beginning of Wednesday, and on the following Friday Jesus was put to death.

The Feast of the Passover coincided with the full moon of the spring equinox because it was at this time that the Hebrews left Egypt.* In the haste of departure they were unable to leaven their bread, in remembrance of which the Jews during this feast abstained from fermented bread.†

The Last Supper in the Guest Chamber.

When the Evangelists speak of the " first day of the Azymes " they indicate Thursday evening, that is to say, according to the Jews, the commencement of Friday. It was on the Thursday that Peter and John were sent by the Master to prepare the hall of the Guest Chamber, on the upper floor of a house.‡

At nightfall,§ that is to say during the evening of the day before, which lasts till nine o'clock,|| Jesus came there with His disciples, reclining there, according to Oriental custom, on couches, the left arm resting on cushions, round a table. John, seated at the right of Christ, was easily able to rest his head on the breast of the Lord. It was during this meal that, taking one of the large loaves of unleavened bread about eight inches long and very thin, Jesus changed it into His body, while saying a eucharistic prayer, or prayer of thanksgiving, as was done by the father of a family, who before eating the Paschal lamb thanked God for having delivered Israel from captivity. Then, as soon as they had supped,

* This moon marks for the Hebrews the first month of the year, which is called Nisan. " On the fourteenth day of the first month (which was the day of the full moon) shall be the phase of the Lord, and on the fifteenth the solemn feast " (Numbers xxviii. 16). The day which, according to the Jewish custom, extends from Thursday evening to Friday evening, in the course of which the last supper and crucifixion took place, was therefore the 14th Nisan or " Eve of Easter " (John xiii. 1). Thus God, to show that it is Christ Who is the true lamb of the real Passover, wished that He might be eaten by the Apostles and sacrificed by the Jews on the same day that Israel ate the sacrificed lambs which were the figure of Him. Therefore the Passover or passing of Christ from this world to His Father and our deliverance from sin took place at the time when the anniversary of the passage of the Angel and of the deliverance of Israel which were figures of it, were celebrated. Wherefore the Church, to assert that the "new Passover of the new law puts an end to the old Passover, as the day puts an end to the night " (Lauda Sion), decreed that the feast of Easter should always take place at the same time as the Jewish Passover, at the time of the Paschal moon. But, wishing to celebrate the feast of the Resurrection on a Sunday, for it was on that day that it took place, she decided at the Council of Nicaea that it would be each year on the Sunday which follows the full moon of the vernal equinox, which was supposed always to fall on March 21 as happened in the year 325, the date of this Council. If the full moon falls before the 21st it is the following moon which will decide the date of Easter, a date which varies from March 22 to April 25.

† It was the feast of Azymes, a Greek word which means unleavened bread.

as there still remained, according to the Mosaic rite, a cup to be drunk, Christ changed the same into His blood. In doing this He used the words by which Moses had sealed the ancient covenant by the blood of creatures: "This is the blood of the covenant which the Lord hath made with you." * Jesus added to it two words: This is My Blood . . . of the new Testament." It was in speaking of the Passover, the centre of all the religious life of the Jewish people, that the lawgiver of Israel had said: "You shall keep the memory of this day, and celebrate it from generation to generation, it is an ordinance for ever," † and the Saviour commanded likewise the Apostles, "and therefore all their successors in the priesthood," adds the Council of Trent, to consecrate in the same manner this bread and this cup of wine "in memory of Him." ‡ The lamb sacrificed for more than 1500 years by the children of Israel is succeeded by the Lamb of God which we will sacrifice to the end of time, and the Mass, which is one and the same as the Last Supper and Calvary, becomes the centre of religion for all Christian people. §

Last Discourse of Jesus.—Gethsemani.

After the Last Supper, Jesus uttered the sublime discourse which is His testament of love, and of which the second part || was said while from the guest chamber He went out of the town. He passed by the gate which is not far from the Pool of Siloe and went up following the Valley of Cedron along the suburb of Ophel, to go into the Garden of Gethsemani, at the foot of the Mount of Olives.¶ The three apostles, witnesses of His Transfiguration, were also witnesses of His thrice renewed agony. Judas, who had sold his Master for the sum of thirty pieces of silver, came with the captain of a Roman cohort and his soldiers, as well as with the guards who kept order in the Temple sent by the Sanhedrim. They entered when it was night with Jesus into Jerusalem, and ascending the slopes to the north of the town went into the palace of the High Priests.

The Religious Trial before Annas and Caiphas.

The religious trial had to be gone through, for it was the Jewish religious authorities who must examine Jesus on what they called His pretension to the quality of Son of God. The Sanhedrim was composed of seventy members, at the head of which were the chief priests and their supreme head the High Priest. Annas had succeeded in obtaining this office successively for his five sons, and in the year of the death of our Lord for his son-in-law Caiphas. Unfaithful to their mission, the official representatives of the Jewish religion only hoped for as Messiah a warrior king who might deliver them by force from the Roman yoke.

Jesus was first brought before Annas, the father-in-law of the High Priest. Being no longer pontiff he was incompetent to judge Christ, Who challenged his authority. It was a bad start. The case had to be referred to the tribunal of the High Priest himself, Caiphas.

§ It is the liturgy of the Season of Lent and of the Passion which, having supplied us with the elements of the ceremonies of Baptism and of Penance, also gives us the chief ceremonies of the sacrifice of the new law. (See p. 612, note *, and p. 649, note †).

|| John xvii. 1. ¶ Page 735.

He awaited Jesus in another wing of the Palace, seated, according to custom, with legs crossed, on a platform slightly raised. Around him sat the other priests on cushions placed in a semicircle. The proceedings were illegal, for they should have taken place by day and witnesses were necessary. Now it was about two o'clock in the morning, and the witnesses were convicted as flagrant impostors. Joseph Caiphas, full of anger, then solemnly adjured the accused (contrary to the Mosaic Law, which in this case annuls the confession of the accused) to tell him if He is the Son of God. And Jesus, Who awaited this moment to speak, officially affirmed His divinity before the Jewish religious authorities, convoked in open council. They judged Him to be worthy of death: He accepted the sentence, for it was precisely His quality of Son of God which allowed Him to give an infinite value to the sacrifice He was about to make to God His Father for men His brothers.

Jesus suffers the outrages of the Servants of the Priests. Repentance of St. Peter.—Despair of Judas.

The remainder of the night He was delivered to the mockery of the servants of the priests, who blasphemed and spat on Him.

It was during this night that Peter, who had followed Jesus from afar, was introduced by John into the courtyard of the Palace of the High Priests, where he denied his Master thrice. After the second crowing of the cock he went out from the Palace and " cried in a loud voice, sobbing," says the Greek text.

Towards morning the Sanhedrim met once more to give its sentence, which ought to have been delivered by day, a show of legality. Jesus appeared and as soon as He declared Himself to be the Son of God He was once more condemned.

Judas then understood all the awfulness of his crime. Torn by remorse, he sought the Council of the Priests, still gathered together, and confessed " that he had sinned in betraying the blood of the Innocent." Seized with despair, the traitor cast down in the Temple the pieces of silver he had received, and going down towards the Pool of Siloe he penetrated into the deep defile where the torrent of Ennom runs. And in this place, called Gehenna (Gehinnom), " he hanged himself," * and the rope breaking, his body was dashed face downwards to the earth and burst asunder, his bowels gushing out." †

The Civil Trial before Pilate.

But Rome, of which Palestine was at this time a dependency, alone had the right of life and death. It was necessary to refer to the Roman representative, and Jesus was taken to the praetorium of Pontius Pilate, in the Citadel of Antonia, where the Jews did not enter, for the house of a heathen would, according to the law, defile them for the Feast of the Passover.

The civil trial of Christ took place in its turn. But before this new tribunal the crime must be of a political character. The Messiah, according to the Jews, was to be an earthly monarch. Therefore they accused Jesus, Who said He was the Messiah, of being a rival king to Caesar.‡

* Matthew vii. 5. † Acts i. 18.

‡ Judaea, conquered by Pompey, became tributary to the Emperor Augustus, with whom Tiberius Caesar was later associated. Pilate was their representative in Judaea and Herod in Galilee.

On this new ground were repeated, point by point, the same proceedings as those of the night: the same silence of Christ before the false witnesses, the same official assertion of His spiritual royalty before the heathen world, this time represented by those who held the empire of the world, and lastly the same wicked treatment on the part of the Roman soldiers.

But Jesus, Who in reality directed the case, wished only to be condemned as the Son of God and King of souls. He brought the question back to the religious ground: "My Kingdom is not of this world." This was no longer within the jurisdiction of Pilate, who, to the end, declared Him to be perfectly innocent. The Jews then resorted to intimidation. Pilate, too cowardly to make use of his authority before a crowd who would be revenged by accusing him in high places, sought expedients to safeguard his interests while listening to the protests of what still remained of a superstitious heathen conscience which vaguely feared the chastisements of the gods.

Jesus before Herod.—He is led back to Pilate.—Barabbas is preferred to Him.—The Scourging.

FIRST EXPEDIENT: On hearing that Jesus was a Galilean, Pilate sends Him to Herod. This tetrarch of Galilee was the son of Herod the Great, who ordered the massacre of the Innocents when the Wise Men announced to him "the King of the Jews" was born. Humiliated by the silence of Jesus, he in turn humiliates the Jews by robing Christ in the white robe of candidates to the royalty which they denied to Him.

SECOND EXPEDIENT: Barabbas. The parallel established between a murderer and Jesus succeeded no better.

THIRD EXPEDIENT: The scourging. This was an ignominious punishment reserved for slaves. The sufferer, stripped of his clothes, had his hands bound to a ring fixed in a low pillar. The executioner, armed with a whip of supple thongs, at the ends of which were knuckle-bones, lashed the curved and stretched back of his victim with calculated slowness. The thongs, in twisting themselves supplely round the body, tore in turn the shoulders and the breast and dug deep grooves in them, from which the blood gushed out and tore off the flesh.

Jesus in this condition is shown to the crowd, clad in a scarlet cloak, with His crown and a reed for sceptre. The Jews understood all the irony of this scene. Would they dare to see in this King a rival to Caesar?

The Condemnation.

In their vexation they again refer to His title of Son of God, which is to be the sole reason for His death. Pilate, yielding to the decisive argument "We shall denounce you to Caesar," thought to find a LAST EXPEDIENT to satisfy his conscience. By the symbolic washing of his hands he showed the Jews that before his tribunal Jesus was innocent, and that he only delivered Him to them because they claimed that their laws condemned Him. This is what he asserted to the last by causing to be attached to His cross an inscription in three languages indicating, according to custom, the cause of His condemnation. It was in these words: "Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews." Pilate by his cowardice was guilty of this homicide, but the Jews in their hatred, by attacking the Son of God, committed deicide.

The Way of the Cross.—The Crucifixion. The Agony on the Cross.

Towards eleven o'clock, then, Jesus left the praetorium. The sorrowful way of the Cross began by the road which went down into the Tyropoeon Valley and then rose eastwards by a rapid slope to the gates of the town. It is there, outside the enclosed part of the town, that is situated Mount Golgotha, where executions took place.

It was in the middle of the dark night which lasted from noon till three o'clock, and which was witnessed throughout the Roman Empire, that Jesus suffered death.

The cross was the most cruel and atrocious of tortures, for the victim, necessarily unable to move, had to bear during several hours all the weight of his body with his extended arms. The awful tension which was imposed on him congested the blood in the face and chest and caused an intolerable pain which was specially characterised by a burning thirst. To die crucified was simply to die from pain in the most excruciating agony. In the evening they hastened the end by breaking the legs of the criminal, whose feet were about a yard from the ground.

The Death of Jesus and His Burial.

Then came the decisive moment which marked for the whole human race the hour of their redemption. Jesus is about to stamp with the seal of His blood all the acts of His life, that they might be acts of redemption. And to show that is was not by compulsion, but by love for His Father and for men that He accepted that Death should do its work with Him, He uttered a loud cry and expired.

It was about the third hour of the afternoon. About five o'clock He was taken down from the cross and hastily wrapped in a shroud, because at six o'clock in the evening the Sabbath commenced, which this year was a Sabbath day of great solemnity.* It coincided, in fact, with the fifteenth of Nisan, the most important day of the Feast of the Passover. It therefore perfectly symbolises the peace into which Jesus has entered for ever.

The Jews had no burial grounds. They prepared for themselves a tomb on their estate, often on both sides of the high road. Joseph, who was from Arimathea, a town of Judaea, laid Jesus in the sepulchre that he had prepared for himself, and which was situated in a garden near to the place where the Saviour died. Nicodemus had for the embalming provided a large quantity of perfumes, about fifty-six pounds. Then they closed the sepulchre with a great stone in the form of a millstone, very difficult to move. The holy women then returned to the town and bought aromatic herbs, with the intention of embalming Jesus with greater care after the rest of the Sabbath. It was on the following day, that is on the Saturday, that the Jews sealed the tomb and set a guard over it.

Let us love to repeat with Jesus on this day the prayer of the Communion: " My Father, if this chalice may not pass away, but I must drink it, Thy will be done."

* John xix. 31.

The Blessing of Palms and Procession.

After the sprinkling of holy water as usual, the Priest, in purple cope or without chasuble, accompanied by his Assistant Priests in their respective vestments, proceeds to bless the branches of palm, olive or other trees which are placed in the middle front or on the Epistle side of the Altar. The Choir begins by chanting the following antiphon.

Antiphon : Matthew xxi. 9.

Hosánna fílio David ! benedíctus qui venit in nómine Dómini. O Rex Israël : Hosánna in excélsis.

Hosanna to the Son of David ! Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord. O King of Israel : Hosanna in the highest !

Then the Priest, standing on the Epistle side, his hands joined but without turning towards the congregation, says in the Ferial tone :—

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

Collect.

Deus, quem dilígere et amáre justítia est, ineffábilis grátiae tuae in nobis dona multíplica : et qui fecísti nos in morte Fílii tui speráre quae crédimus ; fac nos eódem resurgénte perveníre quo téndimus. Qui tecum.

O God, Whom to love above all is righteousness, multiply in us the gifts of Thy ineffable grace; and since Thou hast given us in the death of Thy Son to hope for those things which we believe, grant us by the resurrection of the same to attain the end to which we aspire. Who with Thee.

Then the Subdeacon, standing in the usual place, sings the following Lesson in the tone of the Epistle, and at its close kisses the hand of the Priest.

Epistle : Exodus xv. 27 ; xvi. 1-7.

Lesson from the Book of Exodus.—In those days the children of Israel came into Elim, where there were twelve fountains of water, and seventy palm trees : and they encamped by the waters. And they set forward from Elim, and all the multitude of the children of Israel came into the desert of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai : the fifteenth day of the second month after they came out of the land of Egypt. And all the congregation of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness. And the children of Israel said to them: Would to God we had died by the hand of the Lord in the land of Egypt, when we sat over the flesh pots and ate bread to the full. Why have you brought us into this desert, that you might destroy all the multitude with famine? And the Lord said to Moses: Behold I will rain bread from heaven for you: let the people go forth, and gather what is sufficient for every day: that I may prove them whether they will walk in My law or not. But the sixth day let them provide for to bring in: and let it be double to that they were wont to gather every day. And Moses and Aaron said to the children of Israel: In the evening you shall know that the Lord hath brought you forth out of the land of Egypt: and in the morning you shall see the glory of the Lord.

Móysen et Aáron in solitúdine. Dixerúntque fílii Israel ad eos: Utinam mórtui essémus per manum Dómini in terra Aegypti, quando sedebámus super ollas cárnium, et comedebámus panem in saturitáte: cur eduxístis nos in desértum istud, ut occiderétis omnem multitúdinem fame? Dixit autem Dóminus ad Móysen: Ecce, ego pluam vobis panes de coelo: egrediátur pópulus, et cólligat quae suffíciunt per síngulos dies: ut tentem eum, utrum ámbulet in lege mea, an non. Die autem sexto parent quod ínferant: et sit duplum, quam collígere solébant per síngulos dies. Dixerúntque Móyses et Aáron ad omnes fílios Israel: Véspere sciétis, quod Dóminus edúxerit vos de terra Aegypti: et mane vidébitis glóriam Dómini.

The following is then sung as Gradual:—

Responsory: John xi. 47-50, 53.

The chief priests and the Pharisees gathered a council and said: What do we, for this man doth many miracles? If we let Him alone so, all will believe in Him; *and the Romans will come, and take away our place and nation. ℣. Gospel : Matthew xxi. 1-9.

✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Matthaeum.—In illo témpore : Cum appropinquásset Jesus Jerosólymis, et venísset Béthphage ad montem Olivéti : tunc misit duos discípulos suos, dicens eis : Ite in castéllum, quod contra vos est, et statim inveniétis ásinam alligátam, et pullum cum ea : sólvite, et addúcite mihi : et si quis vobis áliquid díxerit, dícite, quia Dóminus his opus habet, et conféstim dimíttet eos. ✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew. —At that time, when Jesus drew nigh to Jerusalem, and was come to Bethphage, unto mount Olivet, then He sent two disciples, saying to them : Go ye into the village that is over against you, and immediately you shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her : loose them and bring them to Me : and if any man shall say anything to you, say ye that the Lord hath need of them : and forthwith he will let them go. Now all this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Prophet, saying : Tell ye the daughter of Sion : Behold thy King cometh to thee meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of her that is used to the yoke. And the disciples going did as Jesus commanded them. And they brought the ass and the colt : and laid their garments upon them, and made Him sit thereon. And a very great multitude spread their garments in the way : and others cut boughs from the trees, and strewed them in the way; and the multitudes that went before and that followed cried, saying: Hosanna to the Son of David: Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord.

Let us pray.

We beseech Thee, O holy Lord, almighty Father, eternal God: that Thou wouldst vouchsafe to bless ✠ and sanctify ✠ this creature of the olive tree, which Thou hast caused to shoot out of the substance of the wood, and which the dove returning to the ark brought in its bill; that whoever receives it may find protection of soul and body; and that it may prove, O Lord, a saving remedy and the sacred sign of Thy grace. Through our Lord.

Let us pray.

O God, Who dost gather what is dispersed, and preserve what is gathered together; Who didst bless the people who went forth to meet Jesus, bearing branches of palms; bless ✠ likewise these branches of palm and olive, which Thy servants receive faithfully in honour of Thy name; that into whatever place they may be brought, those who dwell in the place may obtain Thy blessing, and all adversities being removed, Thy right hand may protect those who have been redeemed by our Lord Jesus Christ, Thy Son. Who liveth.

Let us pray.

O God, Who, by a wonderful order and disposition, hast been pleased to manifest the dispensation of our salvation even from things insensible; grant, we beseech Thee, that the devout hearts of Thy faithful may profitably understand what is mystically signified by the fact, that on this day the multitude, taught by a heavenly illumination, went forth to meet their Redeemer, and strewed branches of palm and olive at His feet. The branches of palms, therefore, signify His triumphs over the prince of death; and the branches of olive proclaim, in a manner, the coming of a spiritual unction. For that blessed company of men understood that these things were then prefigured; that our Redeemer, compassionating human miseries, was about to fight with the prince of death for the

And we also, with full faith, retaining this as done and signified, humbly beseech Thee, O holy Lord, Father almighty, eternal God, through the same Jesus Christ our Lord, that in Him and through Him, whose members Thou hast pleased to make us, we may become victorious over the empire of death, and may deserve to be partakers of His glorious resurrection. Bless, ✠ we beseech Thee, O Lord, these branches of palm or olive ; and grant that what Thy people this day bodily perform for Thy honour, they may perfect spiritually with the greatest devotion, by gaining a victory over the enemy, and ardently loving every work of mercy. Through our Lord.

Here the Priest puts incense in the thurible and sprinkles the Palms thrice with holy water, reciting the antiphon Asperges me without the Psalm ; then he incenses them three times, and proceeds :—

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

Let us pray.

O God, Who for our salvation didst send into this world Thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord, that He might humble Himself to our condition, and call us back to Thee : for Whom also, as He was coming to Jerusalem to fulfil the Scriptures, a multitude of faithful people, with a zealous devotion, spread their garments together with palm branches in the way: grant, we beseech Thee, that we may prepare for Him the way of faith, from which the stone of offence and rock of scandal being removed, our works may flourish before Thee with branches of justice ; that so we may deserve to follow His steps: Who with Thee.

The Blessing of the Palms being concluded, the first in rank of the Clergy approaches the Altar and gives a palm to the Celebrant, who neither genuflects nor kisses his hand. The latter then distributes the Palms, first to the Clergy, and afterwards to the laity, who all genuflect and kiss both the palm and the hand of the Celebrant. Meanwhile the Choir sing the following Antiphons :—

O almighty and everlasting God, Who didst ordain that our Lord Jesus Christ should sit upon an ass's colt, and didst teach the multitude to spread their garments or branches of trees in the way, and sing Hosanna to His praise; grant, we beseech Thee, that we may imitate their innocence, and deserve to obtain their merit. Through the same Christ our Lord. ℟. Amen.

The Procession of Palms.

The Procession then takes place. First the Celebrant places incense in the thurible, and the Deacon, turning towards the congregation, says: Procedamus in pace (Let us go in peace). The Choir responds: In nomine Christi. Amen (In the Name of Christ. Amen). The Thurifer precedes with the burning censer, followed by the Subdeacon in his vestments bearing the Processional Cross between two Acolytes carrying lighted candles. Then come the Clergy in order of rank, and finally the Celebrant with the Deacon on his left. All carry Palms, and all or some of them sing the following Antiphons during the whole time the Procession lasts

Antiphon : Matthew xxi. 1-3, 7-9.

When our Lord drew nigh to Jerusalem, He sent two of His disciples, saying : Go ye into the village that is over against you ; and you shall find an ass's colt tied, on which no man ever hath sat : loose it, and bring it to Me. If any man shall question you, say : The Lord wanteth it. They untied and brought it to Jesus, and laid their garments upon it, and He seated Himself on it : others spread their garments in the way ; others cut branches from trees ; and those who followed cried out : Hosanna ! Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord : blessed be the reign of our father David ! Hosanna in the highest ! O Son of David, have mercy on us !

Cum appropinquáret Dóminus Jerosólymam, misit duos ex discípulis suis, dicens : Ite in castéllum, quod contra vos est : et inveniétis pullum ásinae alligátum, super quem nullus hóminum sedit : sólvite, et addúcite mihi. Si quis vos interrogáverit, dícite : Opus Dómino est. Solvéntes adduxérunt ad Jesum : et imposuérunt illi vestiménta sua, et sedit super eum : álii expandébant vestiménta sua in via : álii ramos de arbóribus sternébant : et qui sequebántur, clamábant : Hosánna, benedictus qui venit in nómine Dómini : benedictum regnum patris nostri David : Hosánna in excélsis : miserére nobis, fili David.

Another Antiphon : John xii. 12, 13.

When the people heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem, they took palm branches, and went out to meet Him : and the children cried out, saying : This is He that is come for the salvation of the people. He is our salvation, and the redemption of Israel. How great is He Whom the Thrones and Dominions go out to meet ! Fear not, O daughter of Sion : behold thy King cometh to thee sitting on an ass's colt, as it is written. Hail, O King, Creator of the world, Who art come to redeem us !

Cum audísset pópulus, quia Jesus venit Jerosólymam, accepérunt ramos palmárum : et exiérunt ei óbviam, et clamábant púeri, dicéntes : Hic est, qui ventúrus est in salútem pópuli. Hic est salus nostra, et redémptio Israel. Quantus est iste, cui Throni et Dominatiónes occúrrunt ! Noli timére, fília Sion : ecce Rex tuus venit tibi, sedens super pullum ásinae : sicut scriptum est. Salve Rex, fabricátor mundi, qui venísti redímere nos.

Another Antiphon.

Six days before the solemnity of the Passover, when our Lord was coming into the city of Jerusalem, the children met Him,

Ante sex dies solémnis Paschae, quando venit Dóminus in civitátem Jerúsalem, occurrérunt ei púeri : et in mánibus portábant ramos palmárum, eclamábant voce magna, dicéntes: Hosánna in excélsis: benedictus, qui venisti in multitúdine misericórdiae tuae: Hosánna in excélsis.

and carried palm branches in their hands; and they cried out with a loud voice, saying: Hosanna in he highest! Blessed art Thou Who art come in the multitude of Thy mercy. Hosanna in the highest!

Another Antiphon.

Occúrrunt turbae cum flóribus et palmis Redemptóri óbviam: et victóri triumphánti digna dant obséquia: Filium Dei ore gentes praedícant: et in laudem Christi voces tonant per núbila: Hosánna in excélsis.

The multitude goeth out to meet the Redeemer with flowers and palms, and payeth the homage due to a triumphant conqueror: nations proclaim the Son of God; and their voices rend the skies in the praise of Christ: Hosanna in the highest!

Another Antiphon.

Cum Angelis et púeris fidéles inveniámur, triumphatóri mortis clamántes: Hosánna in excélsis.

Let us join in faith with the angels and children, singing to the conqueror of death: Hosanna in the highest!

Another Antiphon.

Turba multa, quae convénerat ad diem festum, clamábat Dómino: Benedictus qui venit in nómine Dómini: Hosánna in excélsis.

A great multitude that was met together at the festival cried out to the Lord: Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord: Hosanna in the highest!

On the return of the Procession two or four Cantors go into the church and, closing the door, stand facing towards the Procession, intoning the Gloria, laus, of which they sing the first two verses. These the Priest repeats with those who are outside the Church. The other verses, all or in part as may be found desirable, are then sung by those within, those remaining without answering Gloria, laus . . . after every second verse.

Gloria, laus.

℟. Glory and praise . . .

℟. Glory and praise . . .

℟. Glória, laus . . .

℟. Glória, laus . . .

℟. Glória, laus . . .

Then the Subdeacon knocks thrice at the door with the foot of the Processional Cross: the door is at once opened and the Procession enters the Church singing:—

Responsory.

Mass is then celebrated, and the palms are only held in the hand during the singing of the Passion and of the Gospel.

Dicébant autem: S. Non in die festo, ne forte tumúltus fíeret in pópulo. C. Cum autem Jesus esset in Bethánia in domo Simónis leprósi, accéssit ad eum múlier habens alabástrum unguénti pretiósi, et effúdit super

At that time Jesus said to His disciples: You know that after two days shall be the Pasch, and the Son of man shall be delivered up to be crucified. Then were gathered together the chief priests and ancients of the people, into the court of the high priest, who was called Caiphas: and they consulted together, that by subtilty they might apprehend Jesus, and put Him to death. But they said: Not on the festival day, lest perhaps there should be a tumult among the people. And when Jesus was in Bethania, in the house of Simon the leper, there came to Him a woman having an alabaster box of precious ointment, and poured it on His head as He was at table. And the disciples seeing it had indignation, saying: To what purpose is this waste? For this might have been sold for much and given to the poor. And Jesus knowing it, said to them: Why do you trouble this woman? For she hath wrought a good work upon Me. For the poor you have always with you; but Me you have not always. For she, in pouring this ointment upon My body, hath done it for My burial. Amen I say to you, wheresoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, that also which she hath done shall be told for a memory of her. Then went one of the twelve, who was called Judas Iscariot, to the chief priests, and he said to them: What will you give me, and I will deliver Him unto you? But they appointed him thirty pieces of silver. And from thenceforth he sought opportunity to betray Him.

Et exínde quaerébat opportunitátem ut eum tráderet.

The Last Supper.

And on the first day of the Azymes the disciples came to Jesus, saying: Where wilt Thou that we prepare for Thee to eat the pasch? But Jesus said: Go ye into the city to a certain man, and say to him: The master saith, My time is near at hand, with thee I make the pasch with My disciples. And the disciples did as Jesus appointed to them; and they prepared the pasch. But when it was evening, He sat down with His twelve disciples:

Prima autem die Azymórum accessérunt discípuli ad Jesum, dicéntes: S. Ubi vis parémus tibi comédere pascha? C. At Jesus dixit: ✠ Ite in civitátem ad quemdam, et dícite ei: Magíster dicit: Tempus meum prope est, apud te fácio pascha cum discípulis meis. C. Et fecérunt discípuli, sicut constítuit illis Jesus, et paravérunt pascha. Véspere utem facto, discumbébat cum duódecim discípulis suis. Et edentibus illis, dixit: ✠ Amen dico vobis, quia unus vestrum me traditúrus est. C. Et contristáti valde, coepérunt sínguli dícere: S. Numquid ego sum, Dómine? C. At ipse respóndens, ait: ✠ Qui intíngit mecum manum in parópside, hic me tradet. Fílius quidem hóminis vadit, sicut scriptum est de illo: vae autem hómini illi, per quem Fílius hóminis tradétur: bonum erat ei, si natus non fuísset homo ille. C. Respóndens autem Judas, qui trádidit eum, dixit: S. Numquid ego sum, Rabbi? C. Ait illi: ✠ Tu dixísti. C. Coenántibus autem eis, accépit Jesus panem, et benedíxit, ac fregit, dedítque discípulis suis, et ait: ✠ Accípite et comédite: hoc est corpus meum. C. Et accípiens cálicem, grátias egit: et dedit illis, dicens: ✠ Bíbite ex hoc omnes. Hic est enim sánguis meus novi testaménti, qui pro multis effundétur in remissiónem peccatórum. Dico autem vobis: Non bibam ámodo de hoc genímine vitis, usque in diem illum, cum illud bibam vobíscum novum in regno Patris mei. C. Et hymno dicto, exiérunt in montem Olivéti. Tunc dicit illis Jesus: ✠ Omnes vos scándalum patiémini in me, in ista nocte. Scriptum est enim: Percútiam pastórem, et dispergéntur oves gregis. Postquam autem resurréxero, praecédam vos in Galilaeam. C. Respóndens autem Petrus, ait illi: S. Et si omnes scandalizáti fúerint in te, ego nunquam and whilst they were eating, He said: Amen I say to you that one of you is about to betray Me. And they, being very much troubled, began every one to say: Is it I, Lord? But He answering, said: He that dippeth his hand with Me in the dish, he shall betray Me. The Son of man indeed goeth, as it is written of Him; but woe to that man by whom the Son of man shall be betrayed: it were better for him, if that man had not been born. And Judas that betrayed Him, answering said: Is it I, Rabbi? He saith to him: Thou hast said it. And whilst they were at supper, Jesus took bread, and blessed and broke and gave to His disciples, and said: Take ye and eat: this is My body. And taking the chalice, He gave thanks and gave to them, saying: Drink ye all of this. For this is My blood of the new testament, which shall be shed for many unto remission of sins. And I say to you, I will not drink from henceforth of this fruit of the vine until that day when I shall drink it with you new in the kingdom of My Father. And a hymn being said, they went out unto Mount Olivet. Then Jesus saith to them: All you shall be scandalised in Me this night; for it is written: I will strike the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be dispersed: but after I shall be risen again, I will go before you into Galilee. And Peter answering, said to Him: Although all shall be scandalised in Thee, I will never be scandalised. Jesus said to him: Amen I say to thee, that in this night, before the cock crow, thou wilt deny me thrice. Peter saith to Him: Yea, though I should die with Thee, I will not deny Thee. And in like manner said all the disciples.

Gethsemani.

Then Jesus came with them into a country place which is called Gethsemani; and He said to His disciples: Sit you here, till I go yonder and pray. And taking with Him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, He began to grow sorrowful and to be sad. Then He saith to them: My soul is sorrowful even unto death; stay you here and watch with Me. And going a little further, He fell upon His face, praying and saying: My Father, if it be possible, let this chalice pass from Me: nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou wilt. And He cometh to His disciples, and findeth them asleep. And He saith to Peter: What! Could you not watch one hour with Me? Watch ye, and pray that ye enter not into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak. Again the second time, He went and prayed, saying: My Father, if this chalice may not pass away, but I must drink it, Thy will be done. And He cometh again, and findeth them sleeping: for their eyes were heavy. And leaving them, He went again: and He prayed the third time, saying the self-same word. Then He cometh to His disciples, and said to them:

Tunc venit Jesus cum illis in villam, quae dícitur Gethsémani, et dixit discípulis suis: ✠ Sedéte hic, donec vadam illuc, et orem. C. Et assúmpto Petro, et duóbus filiis Zebedaei, coepit contristári, et moestus esse. Tunc ait illis: ✠ Tristis est ánima mea usque ad mortem: sustinéte hic, et vigiláte mecum. C. Et progréssus pusíllum, prócidit in fáciem suam orans, et dicens: ✠ Pater mi, si possíbile est, tránseat a me calix iste. Verúmtamen non sicut ego volo, sed sicut tu. C. Et venit ad discípulos suos, et invénit eos dormiéntes: et dicit Petro; ✠ Sic non potuístis una hora vigiláre mecum? Vigiláte, et oráte, ut non intrétis in tentatiónem. Spíritus quidem promptus est, caro autem infírma. C. Iterum secúndo ábiit, et orávit, dicens: ✠ Pater mi, si non potest hic calix transíre, nisi bibam illum, fiat volúntas tua. C. Et venit íterum, et invénit eos dormiéntes: érant enim óculi eórum graváti. Et relíctis illis, íterum ábiit, et orávit tértio, eúmdem sermónem dicens. Tunc venit ad díscipulos suos, et dicit illis: ✠ Dormíte jam, et requiéscite. ecce appropinquávit hora, et

The Apprehension of Jesus.

C. Adhuc eo loquénte, ecce Judas unus de duódecim venit, et cum eo turba multa cum gládiis, et fústibus, missi a princípibus sacerdótum, et senióribus pópuli. Qui autem trádidit eum, dedit illis signum dicens: S. Quemcúmque osculátus fúero, ipse est, tenéte eum. C. Et conféstim accédens ad Jesum, dixit: S. Ave, Rabbi. C. Et osculátus est eum. Dixitque illi Jesus: ✠ Amíce, ad quid venísti? C. Tunc accessérunt, et manus injecérunt in Jesum, et tenuérunt eum. Et ecce unus ex his, qui erant cum Jesu, exténdens manum, exémit gládium suum, et percútiens servum príncipis sacerdótum, amputávit aurículam ejus. Tunc ait illi Jesus: ✠ Convérte gládium tuum in locum suum. Omnes enim, qui accéperint gládium, gládio peribunt. An putas, quia non possum rogáre Patrem meum, et exhibébit mihi modo plus quam duódecim legiónes Angelórum? Quómodo ergo implebúntur Scriptúrae, quia sic opórtet fieri? C. In illa hora dixit Jesus turbis: ✠ Tamquam ad latrónem exístis cum gládiis, et fústibus comprehéndere me: quotídie apud vos sedé-

As He yet spoke, behold Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude with swords and clubs, sent from the chief priests and the ancients of the people. And he that betrayed Him gave them a sign, saying: Whomsoever I shall kiss, that is He: hold Him fast. And forthwith coming to Jesus, he said: Hail, Rabbi. And he kissed Him. And Jesus said to him: Friend, whereto art thou come? Then they came up and laid hands on Jesus, and held Him. And behold one of them that were with Jesus, stretching forth his hand, drew out his sword, and striking the servant of the high priest, cut off his ear. Then Jesus saith to him: Put up again thy sword into its place; for all that take the sword shall perish with the sword. Thinkest thou that I cannot ask My Father, and He will give Me presently more than twelve legions * of Angels? How then shall the Scriptures be fulfilled, that so it must be done? In that same hour Jesus said to the multitudes: You are come out, as it were to a robber, with swords and clubs to apprehend Me. I sat daily with you, teaching in the Temple, and you laid not hands on Me. Now all this was done that the

Jesus at the Palace of the High Priest.

But they holding Jesus led Him to Caiphas the high priest, where the scribes and the ancients were assembled. And Peter followed Him afar off, even to the court of the high priest. And going in, he sat with the servants, that he might see the end. And the chief priests and the whole council sought false witness against Jesus, that they might put Him to death. And they found not, whereas many false witnesses had come in. And last of all there came two false witnesses; and they said: This man said, I am able to destroy the temple of God, and after three days to rebuild it. And the high priest, rising up, said to Him: Answerest Thou nothing to the things which these witness against Thee? But Jesus held His peace. And the high priest said to Him: I adjure Thee by the living God, that Thou tell us if Thou be the Christ the Son of God. Jesus saith to him: Thou hast said it. Nevertheless I say to you, hereafter you shall see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of the power of God, and coming in the clouds of heaven. Then the high priest rent his garments, saying: He hath blasphemed; what further need have we of witnesses? Behold, now you have heard the blas-

At illi tenéntes Jesum, duxérunt ad Cáipham príncipem sacerdótum, ubi scribae et senióres convénerant. Petrus autem sequebátur eum a longe, usque in átrium príncipis sacerdótum. Et ingréssus intro, sedébat cum minístris, ut vidéret finem. Príncipes autem sacerdótum, et omne concílium, quaerébant falsum testimónium contra Jesum, ut eum morti tráderent: et non invenérunt, cum multi falsi testes accessíssent. Novíssime autem venérunt duo falsi testes, et dixérunt: S. Hic dixit: Possum destrúere templum Dei, et post tríduum reaedificáre illud. C. Et surgens princeps sacerdótum, ait illi: S. Nihil respóndes ad ea, quae isti advérsum te testificántur? C. Jesus autem tacébat. Et princeps sacerdótum ait illi: S. Adjúro te per Deum vivum, ut dicas nobis, si tu es Christus Fílius Dei. C. Dicit illi Jesus: ✠ Tu dixísti. Verúmtamen dico vobis, ámodo vidébitis Fílium hóminis sedéntem a dextris virtútis Dei, et veniéntem in núbibus coeli. C. Tunc princeps sacerdótum scidit vestiménta sua, dicens: S. Blasphemávit: quid adhuc egémus téstibus? Ecce nunc audístis blasphemíam: quid

The Denial of Peter.

C. Petrus vero sedébat foris in átrio: et accéssit ad eum una ancílla, dicens: S. Et tu cum Jesu Galílaeo eras. C. At ille negávit coram ómnibus, dicens: S. Néscio quid dicis. C. Exeúnte autem illo jánuam, vidit eum ália ancílla, et ait his qui erant ibi: S. Et hic erat cum Jesu Nazaréno. C. Et íterum negávit cum juraménto: Quia non novi hóminem. Et post pusíllum accessérunt qui stabant, et dixérunt Petro: S. Vere et tu ex illis es: nam et loquéla tua maniféstum te facit. C. Tunc coepit detestári, et juráre quia non novísset hóminem. Et contínuo gallus cantávit. Et recordátus est Petrus verbi Jesu, quod díxerat: Priúsquam gallus cantet, ter me negábis. Et egréssus foras, flevit amáre. Mane autem facto, consílium iniérunt omnes príncipes sacerdótum, et senióres pópuli advérsus Jesum, ut eum morti tráderent. Et vinctum adduxérunt eum, et tradidérunt Póntio Piláto praesidi.

But Peter sat without in the court, and there came to him a servant maid, saying: Thou also wast with Jesus the Galilean. But he denied before them all, saying: I know not what thou sayest. And as he went out of the gate, another maid saw him, and she saith to them that were there: This man also was with Jesus of Nazareth. And again he denied with an oath: I know not the man. And after a little while, they came that stood by and said to Peter: Surely thou also art one of them; for even thy speech doth discover thee. Then he began to curse and to swear that he knew not the man; and immediately the cock crew. And Peter remembered the word of Jesus which He had said: Before the cock crow, thou wilt deny Me thrice. And going forth, he wept bitterly. And when morning was come, all the chief priests and ancients of the people took counsel against Jesus, that they might put Him to death. And they brought Him bound, and delivered Him to Pontius Pilate the governor.

The Despair of Judas.

Tunc videns Judas, qui eum trádidit, quod damnátus esset;

Then Judas, who betrayed Him, seeing that He was condemned, repenting himself, brought back the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and ancients, saying: I have sinned in betraying innocent blood. But they said: What is that to us? Look thou to it. And casting down the pieces of silver in the Temple, he departed; and went and hanged himself with an halter. But the chief priests having taken the pieces of silver, said: It is not lawful to put them into the corbona, because it is the price of blood. And after they had consulted together, they bought with them the potter's field, to be a burying-place for strangers. For this cause that field was called Haceldama, that is The field of blood, even to this day. Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Jeremias the prophet, saying: And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of Him that was prized, Whom they prized of the children of Israel; and they gave them unto the potter's field, as the Lord appointed to me.

Príncipes autem sacerdótum, accéptis argénteis, dixérunt: S. Non licet eos míttere in córbonam: quia prétium sánguinis est. C. Consílio autem ínito, emérunt ex illis agrum fíguli, in sepultúram peregrinórum. Jesus before Pilate.

And Jesus stood before the governor, and the governor asked Him, saying: Art Thou the king of the Jews? Jesus saith to him: Thou sayest it. And when He was accused by the chief priests and ancients, He answered nothing. Then Pilate saith to Him: Dost not Thou hear how great testimonies they allege against Thee? And He answered him to never a word, so that the governor wondered exceedingly. Now upon the solemn day the Congregátis ergo illis, dixit Pilátus : S. Quem vultis dimíttam vobis : Barábbam, an Jesum, qui dícitur Christus ? C. Sciébat enim quod per invídiam tradidíssent eum. Have thou nothing to do with that just man, for I have suffered many things this day in a dream because of Him. But the chief priests and ancients persuaded the people that they should ask Barabbas, and make Jesus away. And the governor answering, said to them : Whether will you of the two to be released unto you ? But they said : Barabbas. Pilate saith to them : What shall I do then with Jesus that is called Christ ? They say all : Let Him

Tunc mílites praesidis suscipiéntes Jesum in praetórium, congregavérunt ad eum univérsam cohórtem: et exuéntes eum, chlámydem coccíneam circumdedérunt ei: et plecténtes corónam de spinis, posuérunt super caput ejus, et arúndinem in déxtera ejus. Then the soldiers of the governor, taking Jesus into the hall, gathered together unto Him the whole band; and stripping Him they put a scarlet cloak about Him. And platting a crown of thorns they put it upon His head and a reed in His right hand. And bowing the knee before Him, they mocked Him, saying: Hail, king of the Jews. And spitting upon Him, they took the reed and struck His head. And after they had mocked Him, they took off the cloak from Him, and put on Him His own garments, and led Him away to crucify Him.

The Way of the Cross and the Crucifixion.

Exeúntes autem, invenérunt hóminem Cyrenaeum, nómine Simónem: hunc angariavérunt, ut tólleret crucem ejus. Et venérunt in locum qui dícitur Gólgotha, quod est Calváriae locus. Et dedérunt ei vinum bíbere cum felle mixtum. Et cum gustásset, nóluit bíbere. Postquam autem crucifixérunt eum, divisérunt vestiménta ejus, sortem mitténtes: ut implerétur quod dictum est per Prophétam, dicéntem: Divisérunt sibi vestiménta mea, et super vestem meam misérunt sortem. Et sedéntes, servábant eum. Et imposuérunt super caput ejus causam ipsíus scriptam: Hic est Jesus Rex Judaeórum. Tunc crucifíxi sunt cum eo duo latrónes: unus a dextris, et unus a sinístris. Praetereúntes autem

And going out, they found a man of Cyrene, named Simon: him they forced to take up His cross. And they came to the place that is called Golgotha, which is The place of Calvary. And they gave Him wine to drink mingled with gall: and when He had tasted He would not drink. And after they had crucified Him, they divided His garments, casting lots; that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying: They divided My garments among them, and upon My vesture they cast lots. And they sat and watched Him. And they put over His head His cause written: This is Jesus the King of the Jews. Then were crucified with Him two thieves: one on the right hand and one on the left. And they that passed by blasphemed Him, wagging their heads, and saying: Vah, Thou that destroyest the temple of God and in three days dost rebuild it, save Thy own self. If Thou be the Son of God, come down from the cross. In like manner also the chief priests with the scribes and ancients, mocking, said: He saved others, Himself He cannot save: if He be the king of Israel, let Him now come down from the cross, and we will believe Him; He trusted in God, let Him now deliver Him if He will have Him; for He said: I am the Son of God. And the self-same thing the thieves also that were crucified with Him reproached Him with. Now from the sixth hour there was darkness over the whole earth, until the ninth hour.

blasphemábant eum, movéntes cápita sua, et dicéntes: S. Vah, qui déstruis templum Dei, et in tríduo illud reaedíficas: salva temetípsum. Si Fílius Dei es, descénde de cruce. C. Simíliter et príncipes sacerdótum illudéntes cum scribis, et senióribus, dicébant: S. Alios salvos fecit, seípsum non potest salvum fácere: si rex Israel est, descéndat nunc de cruce, et crédimus ei: confídit in Deo: líberet nunc, si vult eum; dixit enim: Quia Fílius Dei sum. C. Idípsum autem et latrónes, qui crucifíxi erant cum eo, improperábant ei. A sexta autem hora ténebrae factae sunt super univérsam terram usque ad horam nonam.

Death of Christ.

And about the ninth hour, Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying: Eli, Eli, lamma sabacthani? That is, My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me? And some that stood there and heard said: This man calleth Elias. And immediately one of them running took a sponge and filled it with vinegar and put it on a reed and gave Him to drink. And the others said: Let be; let us see whether Elias will come to deliver Him. And Jesus again crying with a loud voice, yielded up the ghost.

Et circa horam nonam clamávit Jesus voce magna, dicens: ✠ Eli, Eli, lamma sabacthâni? C. Hoc est: ✠ Deus meus, Deus meus, ut quid dereliquísti me? C. Quidam autem illic stantes, et audiéntes, dicébant: S. Elíam vocat iste. C. Et contínuo currens unus ex eis, accéptam spóngiam implévit acéto, et impósuit arúndini, et dabat ei bíbere. Céteri vero dicébant: S. Sine, videámus an véniat Elías líberans eum. C. Jesus autem íterum clamans voce magna, emísit spíritum.

Et exeúntes de monuméntis post resurrectiónem ejus, venérunt in sanctam civitátem, et apparuérunt multis. earth quaked and the rocks were rent; and the graves were opened, and many bodies of the saints that had slept arose, and coming out of the tombs after His resurrection, came into the holy city, and appeared to many. Now the centurion and they that were with him watching Jesus, having seen the earthquake and the things that were done, were sore afraid, saying: Indeed this was the Son of God. And there were there many women afar off, who had followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering unto Him: among whom was Mary Magdalen, and Mary the mother of James and Joseph, and the mother of the sons of Zebedee.

Burial of Jesus.

Cum autem sero factum esset, venit quidam homo dives ab Arimathaea, nómine Joseph, qui et ipse discípulus erat Jesu. Hic accéssit ad Pilátum, et pétiit corpus Jesu. Tunc Pilátus jussit reddi corpus. Et accépto córpore, Joseph invólvit illud in síndone munda. Et pósuit illud in monuménto suo novo, quod excíderat in petra. Et advólvit saxum magnum ad óstium monuménti, et ábiit. Erat autem ibi María Magdaléne, et áltera María, sedéntes contra sepúlcrum.

And when it was evening, there came a certain rich man of Arimathea, named Joseph, who also himself was a disciple of Jesus. He went to Pilate and asked the body of Jesus. Then Pilate commanded that the body should be delivered. And Joseph taking the body wrapt it up in a clean linen cloth, and laid it in his own new monument, which he had hewed out in a rock. And he rolled a great stone to the door of the monument and went his way And there was there Mary Magdalen and the other Mary, sitting over against the sepulchre.

The Station is at the Church of St. Praxedes, one of the twenty-five parishes of Rome in the fifth century. The precious Pillar of the Flagellation, so called, brought over from the Holy Land by Cardinal Colonna at the time of the Fifth Crusade, was placed by him in this his titular church, where it is still kept. In exchange for the iron ring attached to this pillar St. Louis presented the church with the three thorns of the Holy Crown that are still preserved there.

In the Epistle Isaias, typifying Jesus, prophesies His obedience and the indignities of His Passion. He likewise foretells His triumph, for He has placed His trust in God, Who will raise Him to life again. Finally he shows how the Jews were to be confounded. Then the Gentiles through Baptism, the public penitents by being reconciled, and the faithful by their Easter Confession and Holy Communion will pass from darkness to the light of which Jesus is the fount.

The Gospel tells of the supper of which Jesus partook in the house of Simon the leper six days before the Pasch, where the avarice of Judas served to show the generosity of Mary.* While Martha, all activity, served at table, Mary, more loving, went up to Christ, and breaking the long narrow neck of an alabaster vase filled with an ointment of great price poured the contents, of the value of about £8, over His feet. And Jesus commends her for having thus anticipated the embalming of His body. The indignant protests of Judas lead us to fear the crime into which he will fall as a result of his avarice.

Finally the presence at the supper of Lazarus, whom Jesus had raised to life, is a forecast of the coming victory of Christ over death.

" Let us beseech God that we who fail through our infirmity in so many difficulties may be vouchsafed some relief by the merits of the Passion of our Lord " (Collect).

He is near that justifieth me. Who will contend with me? Let us stand together. Who is my adversary? Let him come near to me. Behold the Lord God is my helper: who is he that shall condemn me? ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—Ante sex dies Paschae venit Jesus Betháníam, ubi Lázarus fúerat mórtuus, quem suscitávit Jesus. Fecérunt autem ei coenam ibi: et Martha Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—Six days before the Pasch Jesus came to Bethania, where Lazarus had been dead, whom Jesus raised to life. And they made Him a supper there: and Martha served.

But Lazarus was one of them that were at table with Him. Mary therefore took a pound of ointment of right spikenard, of great price, and anointed the feet of Jesus, and wiped His feet with her hair; and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment. Then one of His disciples, Judas Iscariot, he that was about to betray Him, said: Why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence and given to the poor? Now he said this, not because he cared for the poor, but because he was a thief and, having the purse, carried the things that were put therein. Jesus therefore said: Let her alone, that she may keep it against the day of My burial. For the poor you have always with you: but Me you have not always. A great multitude therefore of the Jews knew that He was there; and they came, not for Jesus' sake only, but that they might see Lazarus, whom He had raised from the dead.

María ergo accépit libram unguénti nardi pístici pretiósi, et unxit pedes Jesu, et extérsit pedes ejus capíllis suis: et domus impléta est ex odóre unguénti. Dixit ergo unus ex discipulis ejus, Judas Iscariótes, qui erat eum traditúrus: Quare hoc unguéntum non véniit trecéntis denáriis, et datum est egénis? Dixit autem hoc, non quia de egénis pertinébat ad eum, sed quia fur erat, et lóculos habens, ea, quae mittebántur, portábat. Dixit ergo Jesus: Sinite illam, ut in diem sepultúrae meae servet illud. Páuperes enim semper habétis vobíscum: me autem non semper habétis. STATION AT ST. PRISCA'S.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Privileged.—Purple vestments.

The Station is at the Church of St. Prisca, of whom St. Paul speaks: "Salute Prisca and Aquila, my helpers in Christ Jesus, and the church which is in their house" (Rom. xvi. 3, 5). This was one of the twenty-five parishes of Rome in the fifth century.

The Epistle, Gradual, Offertory and Communion are a perfect adaptation of the passages in the Old Testament to Christ persecuted. He is "the meek lamb that is carried to be a victim," and which God, by a striking revenge on them (Epistle), "delivers from the hand of the sinner" (Offertory). The Gospel of St.Mark describes the death of Christ. † The Introit and the Collects show that the Church, which continues the saving work of Christ, revives the mysteries of His Passion (Collect) and "glories in the Cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, in Whom is our salvation, life and resurrection" (Introit).

Like the Catechumens who formerly were baptised, and public penitents who were reconciled at Easter, the faithful are about to participate, by their Easter confession and holy communion, "in the mysteries of our Lord's Passion in such a manner as to deserve to obtain pardon" (Collect).

" May our healing fasts in union with the sacrifices of Christ" (Secret) " purify us from all remains of our old nature and enable us to be formed anew unto holiness" (Prayer over the People).

Epistle: Jeremias xi. 18-20.

Lesson from the Prophet Jeremias.— In those days Jeremias said: O Lord, Thou hast shown me, and I have known: then Thou showedst me their doings. And I was as a meek lamb that is carried to be a victim: and I knew not that they had devised counsels against me, saying: Let us put wood on his bread and cut him off from the land of the living, and let his name be remembered no more. But Thou, O Lord of Sabaoth, Who judgest justly and triest the reins and the hearts, let me see Thy revenge on them: for to Thee have I revealed my cause, O Lord my God.

Léctio Jeremíae prophétae. —In diébus illis: Dixit Jeremías: Dómine, demonstrásti mihi, et cognóvi: tunc ostendísti mihi stúdia eórum. Tu autem, Dómine Sábaoth, qui júdicas juste, et probas renes et corda, vídeam ultiónem tuam ex eis: tibi enim reveláviu causam meam, Dómine Deus meus.

At that time the feast of the Pasch and of the Azymes was after two days: and the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might by some wile lay hold on Him, and kill Him. But they said: Not on the festival day, lest there should be a tumult among the people. And when He was in Bethania, in the house of Simon the leper, and was at meat, there was a woman having an alabaster box of ointment of precious spikenard: and breaking the alabaster box, she poured it out upon His head. Now there were some that had indignation within themselves and said: Why was this waste of the ointment made? For this ointment might have been sold for more than three hundred pence* and given to the poor. And they murmured against her. But Jesus said: Let her alone; why do you molest her? She hath wrought a good work upon Me. For the poor you have always with you: and whensoever you will you may do them good: but Me you have not always. She hath done what she could: she is come beforehand to anoint My body for the burial. Amen I say to you, wheresoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, that also which she hath done shall be told for a memorial of her. And Judas Iscariot, one

The Last Supper.

Now on the first day of the unleavened bread, when they sacrificed the Pasch, the disciples say to Him: Whither wilt Thou that we go and prepare for Thee to eat the Pasch? And He sendeth two of His disciples and saith to them: Go ye into the city; and there shall meet you a man carrying a pitcher of water, follow him: and whithersoever he shall go in, say to the master of the house, The Master saith: Where is My refectory, where I may eat the Pasch with My disciples? And he will show you a large dining room furnished: and there prepare ye for us. And His disciples went their way and came into the city; and they found as He had told them, and they prepared the Pasch. And when evening was come, He cometh with the twelve. And when they were at table and eating, Jesus saith: Amen I say to you, one of you that eateth with Me shall betray Me. But they began to be sorrowful and to say to Him one by one: Is it I? Who saith to them: One of the twelve, who dippeth with Me his hand in the dish. And the Son of man indeed goeth, as it is written of Him: but woe to that man by whom the Son of man shall be betrayed. born. And whilst they were eating, Jesus took bread: and blessing broke, and gave to them, and said: Take ye, this is My body. And having taken the chalice, giving thanks, He gave it to them: and they all drank of it. And He said to them: This is My blood of the new testament, which shall be shed for many. Amen I say to you that I will drink no more of the fruit of the vine until that day when I shall drink it new in the kingdom of God.

Et hymno dicto, exiérunt in montem Olivárum. Et ait eis Jesus: ✠ Omnes scandalizabímini in me in nocte ista: quia scriptum est: Percútiam pastórem, et dispergéntur oves. Sed postquam resurréxero, praecédam vos in Galilaeam. C. Petrus autem ait illi: S. Et si omnes scandalizáti fúerunt in te, sed non ego. C. Et ait illi Jesus: ✠ Amen dico tibi, quia tu hódie in nocte hac, priúsquam gallus vocem bis déderit, ter me es negatúrus. C. At ille ámplius loquebátur: S. Et si oportúerit me simul cómmori tibi, non te negábo. C. Similiter autem et omnes dicébant. Et véniunt in praedium, cui nomen Gethsémani. Et ait discípulis suis: ✠ Sedéte hic donec orem. C. Et assúmit Petrum, et Jacóbum, et Joánnem secum: et coepit pavére, et taedére. Et ait illis: ✠ Tristis est ánima mea usque ad mortem: sustinéte hic, et vigiláte. C. Et cum processísset páupulum,

And when they had sung an hymn, they went forth to the mount of Olives. And Jesus saith to them: You will all be scandalised in My regard this night: for it is written: I will strike the shepherd, and the sheep shall be dispersed. But after I shall be risen again, I will go before you into Galilee. But Peter saith to Him: Although all shall be scandalised in Thee, yet not I. And Jesus saith to him: Amen I say to thee, to-day, even in this night, before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny Me thrice. But he spoke the more vehemently: Although I should die together with Thee, I will not deny Thee. And in like manner also said they all. And they came to a farm called Gethsemani. And He said to His disciples: Sit you here while I pray. And He taketh Peter, and James, and John with Him: and He began to fear and to be heavy. And He saith to them: My soul is sorrowful even unto death: stay you here, and watch.

And when He was gone forward a little, He fell flat on the ground: and He prayed that, if it might be, the hour might pass from Him. And He saith: Abba, Father, all things are possible to Thee, remove this chalice from Me: but not what I will, but what Thou wilt. And He cometh and findeth them sleeping. And He saith to Peter: Simon, sleepest thou? couldest thou not watch one hour? Watch ye, and pray that you enter not into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak. And going away again, He prayed, saying the same words. And when He returned, He found them again asleep (for their eyes were heavy), and they knew not what to answer Him. And He cometh the third time and saith to them: Sleep ye now, and take your rest. It is enough: the hour is come: behold the Son of man shall be betrayed into the hands of sinners. Rise up: let us go. Behold he that will betray Me is at hand.

Et ait Petro: ✠ Simon, dormis? non potuísti una hora vigiláre? Vigiláte, et oráte, ut non intrétis in tentatiónem. Spíritus quidem promptus est, caro vero infírma. C. Et íterum ábiens orávit, eúmdem sermónem dicens. Et revérsus, dénuo invénit eos dormiéntes, (erant enim óculi eórum graváti) et ignorábant quid respondérent ei. Et venit tértio, et ait illis: ✠ Dormíte jam, et requiéscite. Súfficit: venit hora: ecce Fílius hóminis tradétur in manus peccatórum. Súrgite, eámus: ecce qui me tradet, prope est.

The Apprehension of Jesus.

And while He was yet speaking, cometh Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the chief priests and the scribes and the ancients. And he that betrayed Him had given them a sign, saying: Whomsoever I shall kiss, that is He, lay hold on Him, and lead Him away carefully. And when he was come, immediately going up to Him, he saith: Hail, Rabbi! and he kissed Him. But they laid hands on Him and held Him.

C. Et, adhuc eo loquénte, venit Judas Iscariótes, unus de duódecim, et cum eo turba multa cum gládiis, et lignis, a summis sacerdótibus, et scribis, et senióribus. Déderat autem tráditor ejus signum eis, dicens: S. Quemcúmque osculátus fúero, ipse est, tenéte eum, et dúcite caute. C. Et cum venísset, statim accédens ad eum, ait: S. Ave, Rabbi: C. Et osculátus est eum. At illi manus injecérunt in eum, et tenuérunt eum. Unus autem quidam de circumstántibus, edúcens gládium, percússit servum summi sacerdótis: et amputávit illi aurículam. Et respóndens Jesus, ait illis: ✠ Tamquam ad latrónem exístis cum gládiis, et lignis comprehéndere me? quotídie eram apud vos in templo docens, et non me tenuístis. Sed ut impleántur Scriptúrae. C. Tunc discípuli ejus relinquéntes eum, omnes fugérunt. Adoléscens autem quidam sequebátur eum amíctus síndone super nudo: et tenuérunt eum. At ille, rejécta síndone, nudus profúgit ab eis.

And one of them that stood by, drawing a sword, struck a servant of the chief priest and cut off his ear. And Jesus answering, said to them: Are you come out as to a robber, with swords and staves to apprehend Me? I was daily with you in the temple teaching, and you did not lay hands on Me. But that the Scriptures may be fulfilled. Then His disciples leaving Him, all fled away. And a certain young man followed Him, having a linen cloth cast about his naked body: and they laid hold on him. But he casting off the linen cloth, fled from them naked.

Jesus at the Palace of the High Priest.

Et adduxérunt Jesum ad summum sacerdótem: et convenérunt omnes sacerdótes, et scribae, et senióres. Petrus autem a longe secútus est eum usque intro in átrium summi sacerdótis: et sedébat cum minístris ad ignem, et calefaciébat se. Summi vero sacerdótes, et omne concílium, quaerébant advérsus Jesum testimónium, ut eum morti tráderent, nec inveniébant. Multi enim testimónium falsum dicébant advérsus eum: et conveniéntia testimónia non erant. Et quidam surgéntes, falsum testimónium ferébant advérsus eum, dicéntes: S. Quóniam nos audívimus eum dicéntem: Ego dissólvam templum hoc manufáctum, et post tríduum áliud non manufáctum aedificábo. C. Et non erat convéniens testimónium illórum. Et exsúrgens summus sacérdos in

And they brought Jesus to the high priest: and all the priests and the scribes and the ancients assembled together. And Peter followed Him afar off, even into the court of the high priest: and he sat with the servants at the fire and warmed himself. And the chief priests and all the council sought for evidence against Jesus, that they might put Him to death, and found none. For many bore false witness against Him, and their evidences were not agreeing. And some rising up, bore false witness against Him, saying: We heard Him say, I will destroy this temple made with hands, and within three days I will build another not made with hands. And their witness did not agree. And the high priest rising up in the midst, asked Jesus, saying: Answerest Thou nothing to the things that are laid to Thy charge by these men? But He held His peace and answered nothing. Again the high priest asked Him, and said to Him: Art Thou the Christ, the Son of the Blessed God? And Jesus said to him: I am. And you shall see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of the power of God, and coming with the clouds of heaven. Then the high priest, rending his garments, saith: What need we any further witnesses? You have heard the blasphemy. What think you? And all condemned Him to be guilty of death. And some began to spit on Him, and to cover His face, and to buffet Him, and to say unto Him: Prophesy. And the servants struck Him with the palms of their hands.

médium, interrogávit Jesum, dicens: S. Non respóndes quidquam ad ea, quae tibi objiciúntur ab his? C. Ille autem tacébat, et nihil respóndit. Rursum summus sacérdos interrogábat eum, et dixit ei: S. Tu es Christus Fílius Dei benedícti? C. Jesus autem dixit illi: ✠ Ego sum: et vidébitis Fílium hóminis sedéntem a dextris virtútis Dei, et veniéntem cum núbibus coeli. C. Summus autem sacérdos scindens vestiménta sua, ait: S. Quid adhuc desiderámus testes? Audístis blasphemiam: quid vobis vidétur? C. Qui omnes condemnavérunt eum esse reum mortis. Et coepérunt quidam conspúere eum, et veláre fáciem ejus, et cólaphis eum caedere, et dícere ei. S. Prophetíza: C. Et ministri álapis eum caedébant.

The Denial of Peter.

Now when Peter was in the court below, there cometh one of the maid-servants of the high priest: and when she had seen Peter warming himself, looking on him, she saith: Thou also wast with Jesus of Nazareth. But he denied, saying: I neither know nor understand what thou sayest. And he went forth before the court: and the cock crew. And again a maid-servant seeing him began to say to the standers by: This is one of them. But he denied again. And after a while they that stood by said again to Peter: Surely thou art one of them, for thou art also a Galilean. But he began to Rursus autem cum vidísset illum ancílla, coepit dícere circumstántibus: Quia hic ex illis est. At ille íterum negávit. Et post pusíllum rursus qui adstábant, dicébant Petro: S. Vere ex illis es: nam Galilaeus es. C. Ille autem coepit anathematizáre, et juráre:

Jesus before Pilate.

Et conféstim mane consilium faciéntes summi sacerdótes, cum senióribus, et scribis, et univérso concílio, vinciéntes Jesum, duxérunt, et tradidérunt Piláto. Et interrogávit eum Pilátus: S. Tu es Rex Judaeórum? C. At ille respóndens, ait illi: ✠ Tu dicis. C. Et accusábant eum summi sacerdótes in multis. Pilátus autem rursum interrogávit eum, dicens: S. Non respóndes quidquam? vide in quantis te accúsant. C. Jesus autem ámplius nihil respóndit, ita ut mirarétur Pilátus. Per diem autem festum solébat dímittere illis unum ex vinctis, quemcúmque petiíssent. Erat autem qui dicebátur Barábbas, qui cum seditiósis erat vinctus, qui in seditióne fécerat homicídium. Et cum ascendísset turba, coepit rogáre, sicut semper faciébat illis. Pilátus autem respóndit eis, et dixit: S. Vultis dimíttam vobis Regem Judaeórum? C. Sciébat enim quod per invídiam tradidíssent eum summi sacerdótes. Pontífices autem concitavérunt turbam, ut magis Barábbam dimítteret eis. Pilátus autem íterum respóndens, ait illis: S. Quid ergo vultis fáciam

And straightway in the morning the chief priests holding a consultation with the ancients and the scribes and the whole council, binding Jesus, led Him away and delivered Him to Pilate. And Pilate asked Him: Art Thou the King of the Jews? But He answering saith to him: Thou sayest it. And the chief priests accused Him in many things. And Pilate again asked Him, saying: Answerest Thou nothing? Behold in how many things they accuse Thee. But Jesus still answered nothing: so that Pilate wondered. Now on the festival day he was wont to release unto them one of the prisoners, whomsoever they demanded. And there was one called Barabbas, who was put in prison with some seditious men, who in the sedition had committed murder. And when the multitude was come up, they began to desire that he would do as he had ever done unto them. And Pilate answered them, and said: Will you that I release to you the King of the Jews? For he knew that the chief priests had delivered Him up out of envy. But the chief priests moved the people, that he should rather release Barabbas to them. And Pilate again answering, saith to them: What will you then that I do to the King of the Jews? But they again cried out: Crucify Him. And Pilate saith to them: Why, what evil hath He done? But they cried out the more: Crucify Him. And so Pilate being willing to satisfy the people, released to them Barabbas, and delivered up Jesus, when he had scourged Him, to be crucified. And the soldiers led Him away into the court of the palace, and they called together the whole band: and they clothe Him with purple, and platting a crown of thorns, they put it upon Him. And they began to salute Him: Hail, King of the Jews. And they struck His head with a reed: and they did spit on Him, and bowing their knees they adored Him. And after they had mocked Him, they took off the purple from Him and put His own garments on Him, and they led Him out to crucify Him.

Regi Judaeórum? C. At illi íterum clamavérunt: S. Crucifíge eum. C. Pilátus vero dicébat illis: S. Quid enim mali fecit? C. At illi magis clamábant: S. Crucifíge eum. C. Pilátus autem volens pópulo satisfácere, dimísit illis Barábbam, et trádidit Jesum flagéllis caesum, ut crucifigerétur. Milítes autem duxérunt eum in átrium praetórii, et cónvocant totam cohórtem, et índuunt eum púrpura, et impónunt ei plecténtes spíneam corónam. Et coepérunt salutáre eum: Ave, Rex Judaeórum. Et percútiébant caput ejus arúndine: et conspuébant eum, et ponéntes génua, adorábant eum. Et postquam illusérunt ei, exuérunt illum púrpura, et induérunt eum vestiméntis suis: et edúcunt illum, ut crucifígerent eum.

The Way of the Cross and the Crucifixion.

And they forced one Simon a Cyrenian, who passed by coming out of the country, the father of Alexander and of Rufus, to take up His cross. And they bring Him into the place called Golgotha, which being interpreted is The place of Calvary. And they gave Him to drink wine mingled with myrrh: but He took it not. And crucifying Him they divided His garments, casting lots upon them what every man should take. And it was the third hour: and they crucified Him. And the inscription of His

Et angariavérunt praetereúntem quémpiam, Simónem Cyrenaeum, veniéntem de villa, patrem Alexándri, et Rufi, ut tólleret crucem ejus. Et perdúcunt illum in Gólgotha locum, quod est interpretátum Calváriae locus. Et dabant ei bíbere myrrhátum vinum: et non accépit. Et crucifigéntes eum, divisérunt vestiménta ejus, mitténtes sortem super eis, quis quid tólleret. Erat autem hora tértia: et crucifixérunt eum. Et erat títulus causae ejus inscríptus: Rex cause was written over: The King of the Jews. And with Him they crucify two thieves, the one on His right hand, and the other on His left. And the Scripture was fulfilled which saith: And with the wicked he was reputed. And they that passed by blasphemed Him, wagging their heads and saying: Vah, Thou that destroyest the temple of God and in three days buildest it up again: save Thyself, coming down from the cross. In like manner also the chief priests, mocking, said with the scribes one to another: He saved others, Himself He cannot save. Let Christ the King of Israel come down now from the cross that we may see and believe. And they that were crucified with Him reviled Him. And when the sixth hour was come, there was darkness over the whole earth until the ninth hour.

Judaeórum. Et cum eo crucifígunt duos latrónes: unum a dextris, et álium a sinístris ejus. Et impléta est Scriptúra, quae dicit: Et cum iníquis reputátus est. Et praetereúntes blasphemábant eum, movéntes cápita sua, et dicéntes: S. Vah, qui déstruis templum Dei, et in tribus diébus reaedíficas: salvum fac temetípsum, descéndens de cruce. C. Simíliter et summi sacerdótes illudéntes, ad altérutrum cum scribis dicébant: S. Alios salvos fecit, seípsum non potest salvum fácere. Christus Rex Israel descéndat nunc de cruce, ut videámus, et credámus. C. Et qui cum eo crucífixi erant, convitiabántur ei. Et facta hora sexta, ténebrae factae sunt per totam terram, usque in horam nonam.

The Death of Jesus.

Et hora nona exclamávit Jesus voce magna, dicens: ✠ Eloi, Eloi, lamma sabactháni? C. quod est interpretátum: ✠ Deus meus, Deus meus, ut quid dereliquísti me? C. Et quidam de circumstántibus audiéntes, dicébant: S. Ecce, Elíam vocat. C. Currens autem unus, et implens spóngiam acéto, circumponénsque cálamo, potum dabat ei, dicens: S. Sínite, videámus si véniat Elías ad deponéndum eum. C. Jesus autem emíssa voce magna exspirávit.

And at the ninth hour, Jesus cried out with a loud voice, saying: Eloi, Eloi, lamma sabacthani? which is, being interpreted: My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me? And some of the standers by hearing, said: Behold He calleth Elias. And one running and filling a sponge with vinegar and putting it upon a reed, gave Him to drink, saying: Stay, let us see if Elias come to take Him down. And Jesus, having cried out with a loud voice, gave up the ghost.

Here all kneel and pause for a few moments.

And the veil of the temple was rent in two, from the top to the bottom. And the centurion who stood over against Him, seeing that crying out in this manner He had given up the ghost, said: Indeed this man was the Son of God. And there were also women looking on afar off: among whom was Mary Magdalen, and Mary the mother of James the Less and of Joseph, and Salome; who also when He was in Galilee followed Him and ministered to Him, and many other women that came up with Him to Jerusalem.

Et velum templi scissum est in duo, a summo usque deórsum. Videns autem centúrio, qui ex advérso stabat, quia sic clamans exspirásset, ait: S. Vere hic homo Fílius Dei erat. C. Erant autem et mulíeres de longe adspiciéntes: inter quas erat María Magdaléne, et María Jacóbi minóris, et Joseph mater, et Salóme: et cum esset in Galilaea, sequebántur eum, et ministrábant ei, et áliae multae, quae simul cum eo ascénderant Jerosólymam.

If the Priest says the Munda cor, the following is read to the tone of the Gospel.

The Burial of Jesus.

And when evening was now come (because it was the Parasceve, that is the day before the Sabbath), Joseph of Arimathea, a noble counsellor, who was also himself looking for the kingdom of God, came and went in boldly to Pilate and begged the body of Jesus. But Pilate wondered that He should be already dead. And sending for the centurion, he asked him if He were already dead. And when he had understood it by the centurion, he gave the body to Joseph. And Joseph, buying fine linen, and taking Him down, wrapped Him up in the fine linen and laid Him in a sepulchre which was hewed out of a rock, and he rolled a stone to the door of the sepulchre.

Et cum jam sero esset factum (quia erat Parascéve, quod est ante sábbatum) venit Joseph ab Arimathaea nóbilis decúrio, qui et ipse erat exspéctans regnum Dei, et audácter introívit ad Pilátum, et pétiit corpus Jesu. Pilátus autem mirabátur si jam obiísset. Et accersíto centurióne, interrogávit eum si jam mórtuus esset. Et cum cognovísset a centurióne, donávit corpus Joseph. Joseph autem mercátus síndonem, et depónens eum invólvit síndone, et pósuit eum in monuménto, quod erat excísum de petra, et advólvit lápidem ad óstium monuménti.

Wednesday in Holy Week.

STATION AT ST. MARY MAJOR.*

(Indulgence of 10 years and 10 quarantines.)

Privileged.—Purple vestments.

From to-day the Stational Feasts of Holy Week are held in Rome at the great basilicas. That of Wednesday is held at St. Mary Major, the largest and most celebrated sanctuary dedicated to the Blessed Virgin, whose sufferings the Church commiserates during these days.

The first passage from the Prophet Isaias bears on the Passion. The blood that dyes the Saviour's garments is His own most precious blood. Instead of crushing the people in His indignation, He suffers and dies for them.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, G d 26.

The second passage foretells the principal features of the Passion with such remarkable precision that the Fathers of the Church speak of Isaias as the Fifth Evangelist. It is "the Man of Sorrows" who "was led as a sheep to the slaughter and was dumb." "He was covered with wounds and reputed with the wicked." "He was bruised for our sins." "Cut off out of the land of the living, He had the ungodly to guard His sepulchre and the rich to bury Him after His death," "and by His bruises we are healed."

Justifying to the full His title of Saviour, "He became obedient unto death, even to the death of the cross" (Introit) as we are shown it to-day in the Gospel according to St. Luke.

Catechumens and Christian penitents alike, "we were in truth like sheep that had gone astray, each one having turned aside into his own way," and Jesus, "having the iniquity of us all laid on Him, has received in return a multitude of disciples" (Second Lesson). During the Easter festivities the souls of men will become reconciled with God in the sacraments of Baptism and Penance.

Renewing at Mass the mysteries of the Passion of our Lord, let us pray "to be delivered by His merits from the power of the enemy and to obtain the grace of His resurrection" (First and Second Collects, and Secret).

Introit: Philippians ii. 10, 8, 11.

IN the name of Jesus let every knee bow, of those that are in heaven, on earth, and under the earth; for the Lord became obedient unto death, even to the death of the cross. Therefore our Lord Jesus Christ is in the glory of God the Father. Ps. O Lord, hear my prayer: and let my cry come to Thee. In the name . . .

IN nómine Jesu omne genu flectátur, coeléstium, terréstrium, et infernórum: quia Dóminus factus est obédiens usque ad mortem, mortem autem crucis: ideo Dóminus Jesus Christus in glória est Dei Patris. Ps. Dómine, exáudi oratiónem meam: et clamor meus ad te véniat. In nómine . . .

Immediately after the Kyrie the Priest says:—

Collect.

Let us pray. Let us bend our knees. ℟. Rise up.

Orémus. Flectámus génua. ℟. Leváte.

Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that we who are continually afflicted through our excesses, may be delivered by the passion of Thy only-begotten Son. Who with Thee.

Praesta, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus: ut, qui nostris excéssibus incessánter affligímur, per unigéniti Fílii tui passiónem liberémur. Qui tecum.

Lesson from the Prophet Isaias.—THUS saith the Lord God: Tell the daughter of Sion:

tuus venit: ecce merces ejus cum eo. Quis est iste, qui venit de Edom, tinctis véstibus de Bosra? Iste formósus in stola sua, grádiens in multitúdine fortitúdinis suae. Ego, qui loquor justítiam, et propugnátor sum ad salvándum. Quare ergo rubrum est induméntum tuum, et vestiménta tua, sicut calcántium in torculári? Tórcular calcávi solus, et de géntibus non est vir mecum: calcávi eos in furóre meo, et conculcávi eos in ira mea: et aspérsus est sanguis eórum super vestiménta mea, et ómnia induménta mea inquinávi. Dies enim ultiónis in corde meo, annus redemptiónis meae venit. Circumspéxi, et non erat auxiliátor: quaesívi, et non fuit qui adjuváret: et salvávit mihi bráchium meum, et indignátio mea ipsa auxiliáta est mihi. Et conculcávi pópulos in furóre meo, et inebriávi eos in indignatióne mea, et detráxi in terram virtútem eórum. Miseratiónum Dómini recordábor, laudem Dómini super ómnibus, quae réddidit nobis, Dóminus Deus noster.

Behold thy Saviour cometh; behold His reward is with Him and His work before Him. Who is this that cometh from Edom, with dyed garments from Bosra, this beautiful one in his robe, walking in the greatness of his strength? I, that speak justice and am a defender to save. Why then is thy apparel red, and thy garments like theirs that tread in the winepress? I have trodden the winepress alone, and of the Gentiles there is not a man with me: I have trampled on them in my indignation and have trodden them down in my wrath; and their blood is sprinkled upon my garments, and I have stained all my apparel. For the day of vengeance is in my heart, the year of my redemption is come. I looked about, and there was none to help: I sought, and there was none to give aid: and my own arm hath saved for me, and my indignation itself hath helped me. And I have trodden down the people in my wrath and have made them drunk in my indignation, and have brought down their strength to the earth. I will remember the tender mercies of the Lord, the praise of the Lord for all the things that the Lord hath bestowed upon us.

Gradual: Psalm lxviii. 18, 2, 3.

Ne avértas fáciem tuam a púero tuo, quóniam tríbulor: velóciter exáudi me. ℣. Salvum me fac, Deus, quóniam intravérunt aquae usque ad ánimam meam: infíxus sum in limo profúndi, et non est substántia.

Turn not away Thy face from Thy servant, for I am in trouble: hear me speedily. ℣. Save me, O God, for the waters are come in even unto my soul: I stick fast in the mire of the deep, and there is no sure standing.

Here the Priest says: ℣. Dominus vobiscum, and Oremus, without the addition of Flectamus genua.

Collect.

O God, Who wert pleased that Thy Son should undergo for us the ignominy of the cross to deliver us from the power of the enemy: grant to us Thy servants, that we may obtain the grace of His resurrection. Through the same Lord.

Deus, qui pro nobis Filium tuum crucis patibulum subire voluisti, ut inimíci a nobis expélleres potestátem: concéde nobis fámulis tuis; ut resurrectiónis grátiam consequámur. Per eúmdem Dóminum.

Léctio Isaíae Prophétae.—In diébus illis: Dixit Isaías: Dómine, quis crédidit audítui nostro? et bráchium Dómini cui revelátum est? Et ascéndet sicut virgúltum coram eo, et sicut radix de terra sitiénti: non est spécies ei, neque decor: et vídimus eum, et non erat aspéctus, et desiderávimus eum: despéctum, et novíssimum virórum, virum dolórum, et sciéntem infirmitátem: et quasi abscónditus vultus ejus, et despéctus, unde nec reputávimus eum. Vere languóres nostros ipse tulit, et dolóres nostros ipse portávit: et nos putávimus eum quasi leprósum, et percússum a Deo, et humiliátum. Ipse autem vulnerátus est propter iniquitátes nostras, attrítus est propter scélera nostra: disciplína pacis nostrae super eum, et livóre ejus sanáti sumus. os suum: sicut ovis ad occisiónem ducétur, et quasi agnus coram tondénte se obmutéscet, et non apériet os suum. De angústia, et de judício sublátus est: generatiónem ejus quis enarrábit? quia abscíssus est de terra vivéntium: propter scelus pópuli mei percússi eum. Et dabit ímpios pro sepultúra, et dívitem pro morte sua: eo quod iniquitátem non fécerit, neque dolus fúerit in ore ejus. Et Dóminus vóluit contérere eum in infirmitáte: si posúerit pro peccáto ánimam suam, vidébit semen longaevum, et volúntas Dómini in manu ejus dirigétur. Pro eo quod laborávit ánima ejus, vidébit, et saturábitur: in sciéntia sua justificábit ipse justus servus meus multos, et iniquitátes eórum ipse portábit. Ideo dispértiam ei plúrimos; et fórtium dívidet spólia, pro eo quod trádidit in mortem ánimam suam, et cum scelerátis reputátus est: et ipse peccáta multórum tulit, et pro transgressóribus rogávit.

His own will, and He opened not His mouth: He shall be led as a sheep to the slaughter, and shall be dumb as a lamb before his shearer, and He shall not open His mouth. He was taken away from distress and from judgement: who shall declare His generation? Because He is cut off out of the land of the living: for the wickedness of My people have I struck Him. And He shall give the ungodly for His burial, and the rich for His death: because He hath done no iniquity, neither was there deceit in His mouth. And the Lord was pleased to bruise Him in infirmity: if He shall lay down His life for sin, He shall see a long-lived seed, and the will of the Lord shall be prosperous in His hand. Because His soul hath laboured, He shall see and be filled: by His knowledge shall this My just servant justify many, and He shall bear their iniquities. Therefore will I distribute to Him very many, and He shall divide the spoils of the strong, because He hath delivered His soul unto death and was reputed with the wicked: and He hath borne the sins of many, and hath prayed for the transgressors.

THE PASSION of our Lord Jesus Christ according to St. Luke.

At that time the feast of unleavened bread, which is called the Pasch, was at hand: and the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might put Jesus to death: but they feared the people. And Satan entered into Judas, who was surnamed Iscariot, one of the twelve. And he went and discoursed with the chief priests and the magistrates how he might betray Him to them. And they were glad and covenanted to give him money. And he promised. And he sought opportunity to betray Him in the absence of the multitude.

PASSIO Dómini nostri Jesu Christi secúndum Lucam.

In illo témpore: Appropinquábat dies festus azymórum, qui dícitur Pascha: et quaerébant príncipes sacerdótum, et scríbae, quómodo Jesum interfícerent: timébant vero plebem. Intrávit autem sátanas in Judam, qui cognominabátur Iscariótes, unum de duódecim. Et ábiit, et locútus est cum príncipibus sacerdótum, et magistrátibus, quemádmodum illum tráderet eis. Et gavísi sunt, et pacti sunt pecúniam illi dare. Et spopóndit. Et quaerébat opportunitátem ut tráderet illum sine turbis.

The Last Supper.

And the day of the unleavened bread came, on which it was necessary that the pasch should be killed. And He sent Peter and John, saying: Go and prepare for us the pasch, that we may eat. But they said: Where wilt Thou that we prepare? And He said to them: Behold, as you go into the city, there shall meet you a man carrying a pitcher of water: follow him into the house where

Et ipse osténdet vobis coenáculum magnum stratum, et ibi paráte. C. Eúntes autem invenérunt sicut dixit illis, at paravérunt pascha. Et cum facta esset hora, discúbuit, et duódecim Apóstoli cum eo. Et ait illis: ✠ Desidério desiderávi hoc pascha manducáre vobíscum, ántequam pátiar. Dico enim vobis, quia ex hoc non manducábo illud, donec impleátur in regno Dei. C. Et accépto cálice, grátias egit, et dixit: ✠ Accípite, et divídite inter vos. Dico enim vobis, quod non bibam de generatióne vitis, donec regnum Dei véniat. C. Et accépto pane, grátias egit, et fregit, et dedit eis, dicens: ✠ *Hoc est corpus meum, quod pro vobis datur: hoc fácite in meam commemoratiónem. C. he entereth in: and you shall say to the goodman of the house: The Master saith to thee: Where is the guest-chamber, where I may eat the pasch with My disciples? And he will show you a large dining room furnished: and there prepare. And they going found as He had said to them, and made ready the pasch. And when the hour was come He sat down, and the twelve Apostles with Him. And He said to them: With desire I have desired to eat this pasch with you before I suffer. For I say to you, that from this time I will not eat it, till it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God. And having taken the chalice, He gave thanks, and said: Take and divide it among you. For I say to you that I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, till the kingdom of God come. And taking bread, He gave thanks, and brake, and gave to them, saying: This is My body which is given for you: do this for a commemoration of Me. In like manner the chalice also, after He had supped, saying: This is the chalice, the New Testament in My blood, which shall be shed for you. But yet behold: the hand of him that betrayeth Me is with Me on the table. And the Son of man indeed goeth, according to that which is determined: but yet, woe to that man by whom He shall be betrayed. And they began to inquire among themselves, which of them it was that should do this thing. And there was also a strife amongst them, which of them should seem to be the greater. And He said to them: The kings of the Gentiles lord it over them: and they that have power over them are called beneficent. But you not so: but he that is the greater among you, let him become as the younger: and he that is the leader as he that serveth. For which is greater, he that sitteth at table or he that serveth? Is not he that sitteth at table? But I am in the midst of you, as He that serveth: and you are they who have continued with Me in My temptations: and I dispose to you, as My Father hath disposed to Me, a kingdom: that you may eat and drink at My table in My kingdom: and may sit upon thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel. And the Lord said: Simon, Simon, behold Satan hath desired to have you that he may sift you as wheat. But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not; and thou, being once converted, confirm thy brethren. Who said to Him: Lord, I am ready to go with Thee both into prison and to death. And He said: I say to thee, Peter, the cock shall not crow this day, till thou thrice deniest that Thou knowest Me. And He said to them: When I sent you without purse and scrip and shoes, did you want anything? But they said: Nothing. Then said He unto them: But now he that hath a purse, let him take it, and

For the things concerning Me have an end. But they said: Lord, behold here are two swords. And He said to them: It is enough.

Gethsemani and the Apprehension of Jesus.

C. Et egréssus ibat secúndum consuetúdinem in montem Olivárum. Secúti sunt autem illum et discípuli. Et cum pervenísset ad locum, dixit illis: ✠ Oráte, ne intrétis in tentatiónem. C. Et ipse avúlsus est ab eis quantum jactus est lápidis, et pósitis génibus orábat, dicens: ✠ Pater, si vis, transfer cálicem istum a me: verúmtamen non mea volúntas, sed tua fiat. C. Appáruit autem illi Angelus de coelo, confórtans eum. Et factus in agonía, prolíxius orábat. Et factus est sudor ejus, sicut guttae sánguinis decurréntis in terram. Et cum surrexísset ab oratióne, et venísset ad discípulos suos, invénit eos dormiéntes prae tristítia. Et ait illis: ✠ Quid dormítis? súrgite, oráte, ne intrétis in tentatiónem.

C. Adhuc eo loquénte, ecce turba: et qui vocabátur Judas, unus de duódecim, antecedébat eos: et appropinquávit Jesu, ut oscularétur eum. Jesus autem dixit illi: ✠ Juda, ósculo Fílium hóminis tradis? C. Vidéntes autem hi, qui circa ipsum erant, quod futúrum erat, dixérunt ei: S. Dómine, si percútimus in gládio? C. Et percússit unus ex illis servum príncipis sacerdótum, et amputávit

And going out He went according to His custom to the mount of Olives. And His disciples also followed Him. And when He was come to the place, He said to them: Pray, lest ye enter into temptation. And He was withdrawn away from them a stone's cast: and kneeling down, He prayed, saying: Father, if Thou wilt, remove this chalice from Me; but yet not My will, but Thine be done. And there appeared to Him an angel from heaven, strengthening Him. And being in an agony, He prayed the longer. And His sweat became as drops of blood, trickling down upon the ground. And when He rose up from prayer, and was come to His disciples, He found them sleeping for sorrow. And He said to them: Why sleep you? arise, pray, lest you enter into temptation.

As He was yet speaking, behold a multitude; and he that was called Judas, one of the twelve, went before them, and drew near to Jesus for to kiss Him. And Jesus said to him: Judas, dost thou betray the Son of man with a kiss? And they that were about Him, seeing what would follow, said to Him:

Lord, shall we strike with the sword? And one of them struck the servant of the high priest and cut off his right ear. But Jesus answering, said: Suffer ye thus far. And when He had touched his ear, He healed him. And Jesus said to the chief priests and magistrates of the temple and the ancients, that were come unto Him: Are ye come out as it were against a thief, with swords and clubs? When I was daily with you in the temple, you did not stretch forth your hands against Me; but this is your hour, and the power of darkness. And apprehending Him, they led Him to the high priest's house: but Peter followed afar off.

Dixit autem Jesus ad eos, qui venérant ad se, príncipes sacerdótum, et magistrátus templi, et senióres: ✠ Quasi ad latrónem exístis cum gládiis, et fústibus? Cum quotídie vobíscum fúerim in templo, non extendístis manus in me: sed haec est hora vestra, et potéstas tenebrárum. C. Comprehendéntes autem eum, duxérunt ad domum príncipis sacerdótum: Petrus vero sequebátur a longe.

The Denial of Peter.

And when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the hall and were sitting about it, Peter was in the midst of them. Whom when a certain servant maid had seen sitting at the light and had earnestly beheld him, she said: This man also was with Him. But he denied Him, saying: Woman, I know Him not. And after a little while, another seeing him said: Thou also art one of them. But Peter said: O man, I am not. And after the space as it were of one hour, another certain man affirmed, saying: Of a truth this man was also with Him; for he is also a Galilean. And Peter said: Man, I know not what thou sayest. And immediately, as he was yet speaking, the cock crew. And the Lord turning looked on Peter. And Peter remembered

Accénso autem igne in médio átrii, et circumsedéntibus illis, erat Petrus in médio eórum. Quem cum vidísset ancílla quaedam sedéntem ad lumen, et eum fuísset intuíta, dixit: S. Et hic cum illo erat. C. At ille negávit eum, dicens: S. Múlier, non novi illum. C. Et post pusíllum álius videns eum, dixit: S. Et tu de illis es. C. Petrus vero ait: S. O homo, non sum. C. Et intervállo facto quasi horae uníus, álius quidam affirmábat, dicens: S. Vere et hic cum illo erat: nam et Galilaeus est. C. Et ait Petrus: S. Homo, néscio quid dicis. C. Et contínuo adhuc illo loquénte cantávit gallus. Et convérsus Dóminus respéxit Petrum. Et recordátus est Petrus verbi Dómini, sicut díxerat: Quia priúsquam gallus cantet, ter me

Jesus at the Palace of the High Priest.

Et viri, qui tenébant illum, illudébant ei, caedéntes. Et velavérunt eum, et percutiébant fáciem ejus: et interrogábant eum, dicéntes: S. Prophetíza, quis est, qui te percússit? C. Et ália multa blasphemántes dicébant in eum. Et ut factus est dies, convenérunt senióres plebis, et príncipes sacerdótum, et scribae, et duxérunt illum in concílium suum, dicéntes: S. Si tu es Christus, dic nobis. C. Et ait illis: ✠ Si vobis díxero, non credétis mihi: si autem et interrogávero, non respondébitis mihi, neque dimittétis. Ex hoc autem erit Fílius hóminis sedens a dextris virtútis Dei. C. Dixérunt autem omnes: S. Tu ergo es Fílius Dei? C. Qui ait: ✠ Vos dícitis quia ego sum. C. At illi dixérunt: S. Quid adhuc desiderámus testimónium? Ipsi enim audívimus de ore ejus. C. Et surgens omnis multitúdo eórum, duxérunt illum ad Pilátum.

And the men that held Him mocked Him and struck Him. And they blindfolded Him and smote His face. And they asked Him, saying: Prophesy, Who is it that struck Thee? And blaspheming, many other things they said against Him. And as soon as it was day, the ancients of the people, and the chief priests and scribes came together, and they brought Him into their council, saying: If Thou be the Christ, tell us. And He saith to them: If I shall tell you, you will not believe Me: and if I shall also ask you, you will not answer Me, nor let Me go. But hereafter the Son of man shall be sitting on the right hand of the power of God. Then said they all: Art Thou then the Son of God? Who said: You say that I am. And they said: What need we any further testimony? for we ourselves have heard it from His own mouth. And the whole multitude of them, rising up, led Him to Pilate.

Jesus before Pilate and Herod.

Coepérunt autem illum accusáre, dicéntes: S. Hunc invénimus subverténtem gentem nostram, et prohibéntem tribúta dare Caesari, et dicéntem se Christum regem esse. C. Pilátus autem interrogávit eum, dicens: S. Tu es Rex Judae-

And they began to accuse Him, saying: We have found this man perverting our nation, and forbidding to give tribute to Caesar, and saying that he is Christ the king. And Pilate asked Him, saying: Art Thou the King of the Jews? But

He answering, said: Thou sayest it. And Pilate said to the chief priests and to the multitudes: I find no cause in this man. But they were more earnest, saying: He stirreth up the people, teaching throughout all Judea, beginning from Galilee to this place. And Pilate hearing Galilee, asked if the man were of Galilee? And when he understood that He was of Herod's jurisdiction, he sent Him away to Herod, who was also himself at Jerusalem in those days.

And Herod, seeing Jesus, was very glad: for he was desirous of a long time to see Him, because he had heard many things of Him: and he hoped to see some sign wrought by Him. And he questioned Him in many words. But He answered him nothing. And the chief priests and the scribes stood by, earnestly accusing Him. And Herod with his army set Him at nought and mocked Him, putting on Him a white garment, and sent Him back to Pilate. And Herod and Pilate were made friends that same day: for before they were enemies one to another.

órum? C. At ille respóndens, ait: ✠ Tu dicis. C. Ait autem Pilátus ad príncipes sacerdótum, et turbas: S. Nihil invénio causae in hoc hómine. C. At illi invalescébant, dicéntes: S. Cómmovet pópulum, docens per univérsam Judaeam, incípiens a Galilaea usque huc. C. Pilátus autem áudiens Galilaeam, interrogávit si homo Galilaeus esset. Et ut cognóvit quod de Heródis potestáte esset, remísit eum ad Heródem, qui et ipse Jerosólymis erat illis diébus.

Heródes autem viso Jesu gavísus est valde. Erat enim cúpiens ex multo témpore vidére eum, eo quod audíerat multa de eo, et sperábat signum áliquod vidére ab eo fíeri. Interrogábat autem eum multis sermónibus. At ipse nihil illi respondébat. Stabant autem príncipes sacerdótum, et scribae constánter accusántes eum. Sprevit autem illum Heródes cum exércitu suo: et illúsit indútum veste alba, et remísit ad Pilátum. Et facti sunt amíci Heródes et Pilátus in ipsa die: nam ántea inimíci erant ad ínvicem.

Jesus before Pilate.

And Pilate, calling together the chief priests and the magistrates and the people, said to them: You have presented unto me this man as one that perverteth the people, and behold I, having examined Him before you, find no cause in this man in those things wherein you accuse Him. No, nor Herod neither:

Pilátus autem convocátis princípibus sacerdótum, et magistrátibus, et plebe, dixit ad illos: S. Obtulístis mihi hunc hóminem, quasi averténtem pópulum, et ecce ego coram vobis intérrogans, nullam causam invéni in hómine isto ex his, in quibus eum accusátis. Sed neque Heródes:

nam remísi vos ad illum, et ecce nihil dignum morte actum est ei. Emendátum ergo illum dimíttam. C. Necésse autem habébat dimíttere eis per diem festum, unum. Exclamávit autem simul univérsa turba, dicens: S. Tolle hunc, et dimítte nobis Barábbam. C. Qui erat propter seditiónem quamdam factam in civitáte et homicídium, missus in cárcerem. Iterum autem Pilátus locútus est ad eos, volens dimíttere Jesum. At illi succlamábant, dicéntes: S. Crucifíge, crucifíge eum. C. Ille autem tértio dixit ad illos: S. Quid enim mali fecit iste? Nullam causam mortis invénio in eo: corrípiam ergo illum, et dimíttam. C. At illi instábant vócibus magnis, postulántes ut crucifigerétur. Et invalescébant voces eórum. Et Pilátus adjudicávit fíeri petitiónem eórum. Dimísit autem illis eum, qui propter homicídium et seditiónem missus fúerat in cárcerem, quem petébant: Jesum vero trádidit voluntáti eórum.

for I sent you to him, and behold, nothing worthy of death is done to Him. I will chastise Him therefore and release Him. Now of necessity he was to release unto them one upon the feast day. But the whole multitude together cried out, saying: Away with this man, and release unto us Barabbas, who for a certain sedition made in the city, and for a murder, was cast into prison. And Pilate again spoke to them, desiring to release Jesus. But they cried again, saying: Crucify Him, crucify Him. And he said to them the third time: Why, what evil hath this man done? I find no cause of death in Him: I will chastise Him therefore and let Him go. But they were instant with loud voices, requiring that He might be crucified. And their voices prevailed. And Pilate gave sentence that it should be as they required. And he released unto them him who for murder and sedition had been cast into prison, whom they had desired: but Jesus he delivered up to their will.

And as they led Him away, they laid hold of one Simon of Cyrene, coming from the country: and they laid the cross on him to carry after Jesus. And there followed Him a great multitude of people and of women, who bewailed and lamented Him. But Jesus turning to them, said: Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not over Me, but weep for yourselves and for your children. For behold, the days shall come wherein they will say: Blessed are the barren,

Et stabat pópulus spectans, et deridébant eum príncipes cum eis, dicéntes: S. Alios salvos fecit: se salvum fáciat, si hic est Christus Dei eléctus. C. Illudébant autem ei et mílites accedéntes, et acétum offeréntes ei, et dicéntes: S. Si tu es Rex Judaeórum, salvum te fac. C. Erat autem et superscriptio scripta super eum lítteris graecis, et latínis, et hebráicis: Hic est Rex Judaeórum. what shall be done in the dry? And there were also two other malefactors led with Him to be put to death. And when they were come to the place which is called Calvary, they crucified Him there; and the robbers, one on the right hand, and the other on the left. And Jesus said: Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do. But they, dividing His garments, cast lots. And the people stood beholding, and the rulers with them derided Him, saying: He saved others; let Him save Himself, if He be Christ, the elect of God. And the soldiers also mocked Him, coming to Him and offering Him vinegar, and saying: If Thou be the King of the Jews, save Thyself. And there was also a superscription written over Him in letters of Greek and Latin and Hebrew: This is the King of the Jews. And one of those robbers who were hanged blasphemed Him, saying: If Thou be Christ, save Thyself and us. But the other answering, rebuked him, saying: Neither dost thou fear God, seeing thou art under the same condemnation? And we indeed justly, for we receive the due rewards of our deeds; but this man hath done no evil. And he said to Jesus: Lord, remember me when Thou shalt come into Thy kingdom. And Jesus said to him: Amen I say to thee: This day thou shalt be with Me in paradise. And it was almost the sixth hour; and there was darkness over all the earth until the ninth hour.

The Death of Jesus and His Burial.

And the sun was darkened; and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst. And Jesus, crying with a loud voice, said: Father, into Thy hands I commend My spirit. And saying this, He gave up the ghost.

Et obscurátus est sol: et velum templi scissum est médium. Et clamans voce magna Jesus ait: ✠ Pater, in manus tuas comméndo spíritum meum. C. Et haec dicens exspirávit.

Here all kneel and pause for a few moments.

Now, the centurion seeing what was done, glorified God, saying: Indeed this was a just man. And all the multitude of them that were come together to that sight and saw the things that were done returned, striking their breasts. And all His acquaintance and the women that had followed Him from Galilee stood afar off, beholding these things.

Videns autem centúrio quod factum fúerat, glorificávit Deum, dicens: S. Vere hic homo justus erat. C. Et omnis turba eórum, qui simul áderant ad spectáculum istud, et vidébant quae fiébant, percutiéntes péctora sua revertebántur. Stabant autem omnes noti ejus a longe, et mulíeres, quae secútae eum erant a Galilaea, haec vidéntes.

Here the Munda cor is said, etc., as on Palm Sunday: see p. 41.

The following is then said in the tone of the Gospel:—

And behold there was a man named Joseph, who was a counsellor, a good and a just man (the same had not consented to their counsel and doings), of Arimathea, a city of Judea, who also himself looked for the kingdom of God. This man went to Pilate and begged the body of Jesus. And taking Him down, he wrapped Him in fine linen and laid Him in a sepulchre that was hewed in stone, wherein never yet any man had been laid.

Et ecce vir nómine Joseph, qui erat decúrio, vir bonus, et justus: hic non consénserat consílio, et áctibus eórum, ab Arimathaea civitáte Judaeae, qui exspectábat et ipse regnum Dei. Hic accéssit ad Pilátum, et pétiit corpus Jesu: et depósitum invólvit síndone, et pósuit eum in monuménto excíso, in quo nondum quisquam pósitus fúerat.

Washing of the feet. Holy Mass. Blessing of the Holy Oils.

Maundy Thursday.

STATION AT ST. JOHN LATERAN.* (Plenary Indulgence.)

Double of the First Class.—White vestments.

The Station was formerly held at St. John Lateran, originally called the Basilica of Saint Saviour.

The Liturgy of Maundy Thursday is full of memories of the Redemption. It provided formerly for the celebration of three Masses: the first for the reconciliation of public Penitents, the second for the consecration of the Holy Oils, and the third for a special commemoration of the Institution of the Holy Eucharist at the Last Supper. This last Mass is the only one that has been preserved, and at it the Bishop, attended by twelve Priests, seven Deacons and seven Subdeacons, blesses the Holy Oils in his Cathedral church.

1. THE RECONCILIATION OF PUBLIC PENITENTS.†

Sinners who had undergone a course of penance were granted on this day " the abundant remission of their sins," " which were washed away in the blood of Jesus." Dying with Christ, they were " cleansed of all their sins, and clad in the nuptial robe they were admitted once more to the banquet of the Most Holy Supper." ‡

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, H f 15.

† The Church, endowed with the power of laying down the conditions necessary for the validity of the Sacrament of Penance, required in the first centuries, after open confession of sins of public notoriety, described by the Fathers of the Church as capital sins, and as a precedent condition of absolution, the full performance of the satisfaction or penance. Hence the rite of the reconciliation of Penitents, who on Maundy Thursday received the sacramental absolution of the sins for which they had done public penance during Lent. To this may be traced the Easter Confession following the forty days' penance. In the beginning of the fourth century private penance came more largely into vogue, and this led gradually to the reversal of the practice aforesaid now in general use—the absolution being given immediately after the confession, and being followed by the performance of the penance imposed.

‡ See the Roman Pontifical.

2. THE BLESSING OF THE HOLY OILS.

This blessing took place with a view to the baptism and confirmation of the Catechumens during Easter night. The Bishop exorcised the oils, praying God " to instil into it the power of the Holy Ghost," so that " the Divine gifts might descend on those who were about to be anointed." *

The oil of the sick, which is the substance of the Sacrament of Extreme Unction, is the first to be blessed, before the Pater. Formerly this used also to be blessed on other days.

The Holy Chrism, which is the matter of the Sacrament of Confirmation, is the noblest of the Holy Oils, and the blessing of it takes place with greater pomp after the Clergy have communicated. It is used for the consecration of Bishops, in the rite of Baptism, in the consecration of churches, altars and chalices, and in the baptism or blessing of bells.

The third holy oil, which is blessed immediately after, is that of the Catechumens. It is used to anoint the breast and between the shoulders of the person to be baptised, for the blessing of baptismal fonts on Holy Saturday and on Whitsun Eve, at the Ordination of Priests and for the coronation of kings and queens.

3. MASS FOR MAUNDY THURSDAY.

The Church which, by placing the Mass of the Catechumens in juxtaposition with the Mass of the Faithful, commemorates throughout the year in the Holy Eucharist all the mysteries of the life of Christ, celebrates to-day in a special manner the institution of that Sacrament and of the Catholic Priesthood (Secret).†

This Mass then realises eminently the command laid by Jesus on his Priests to renew the Last Supper, at which Christ, at the very moment that His death was being plotted, instituted His immortal presence among us. And the Church, forgetting for the moment her mourning, celebrates the Holy Sacrifice to-day with holy joy. The Crucifix is covered with a white veil, her Ministers are vested in festal robes, and the Gloria is sung to the ringing of all the bells. And after this Hymn the bells remain silent till Holy Saturday.

Certain abuses which had crept in owing to the Eucharistic banquet being partaken of after another meal, following the example set by Christ, having been abolished, St. Paul tells us in the Epistle that the Mass is a " memorial of the death of Jesus." The Sacrifice of the Altar is necessary if we are to communicate in the Victim of Calvary and share in His merits. And the Eucharist, which derives all its virtue from the Sacrifice of the Cross, makes it universal as regards time and space in a sense unknown so far. To love the Blessed Sacrament is " to glory in the Cross of our Lord Jesus Christ " (Introit). Christ takes on Himself to perform the ablutions prescribed by the Jews during the supper (Gospel), to evidence the purity and charity that God requires of those who desire to communicate, for, as in the case of Judas (Collect), " whosoever eats this

† The Eucharist and Priesthood are inseparable, for Jesus instituted them both at the Last Supper. After for the first time changing the bread and wine into His Body and Blood, He at once added, addressing only the Apostles present : " Do this for a commemoration of Me." In those words He charged the Apostles and all their successors, Bishops and Priests, to continue the Eucharistic Sacrifice, thus subordinating its perpetuation to the permanence of His Priesthood on earth.

bread unworthily is guilty of the body and of the blood of the Lord" (Epistle).

After the Mass the altar is stripped in order to show that the Holy Sacrifice is interrupted and will not be offered up again to God until Holy Saturday. The Priest therefore has consecrated two hosts, for on Good Friday the Church refrains from renewing on the altar the sacrifice of Calvary.

Introit: Galatians vi. 14.

BUT it behoves us to glory in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ: in Whom is our salvation, life, and resurrection: by Whom we are saved and delivered. Ps. lxvi. 2. May God have mercy on us, and bless us: may He cause the light of His countenance to shine upon us; and may He have mercy on us.—But it behoves us.

The Gloria is now said and the bells are rung, after which the ringing of bells in churches is stopped until Holy Saturday.

Collect.

O God, from Whom Judas received the punishment of his guilt, and the thief the reward of his confession, grant us the effect of Thy clemency: that as our Lord Jesus Christ in His passion gave to each a different retribution according to his merits; so He may destroy the old man in us, and give us the grace of His resurrection. Who liveth and reigneth.

Deus, a quo et Judas reátus sui poenam, et confessiónis suae latro praemium sumpsit, concéde nobis tuae propitiatiónis efféctum; ut, sicut in passióne sua Jesus Christus Dóminus noster divérsa utrísque íntulit stipendia meritórum; ita nobis, abláto vetustátis erróre, resurrectiónis suae grátiam largiátur. houses to eat and to drink in? Or despise ye the church of God and put them to shame that have not? What shall I say to you? Do I praise you? In this I praise you not. For I have received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you, that the Lord Jesus, the same night in which He was betrayed, took bread, and giving thanks, broke and said: Take ye and eat: this is My body, which shall be delivered for you. This do for the commemoration of Me. In like manner also the chalice, after He had supped, saying: This chalice is the new testament in My blood. This do ye, as often as you shall drink, for the commemoration of Me. For as often as you shall eat this bread and drink the chalice, you shall show the death of the Lord, until He come. Therefore, whosoever shall eat this bread, or drink the chalice of the Lord unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and of the blood of the Lord. But let a man prove himself: and so let him eat of that bread and drink of the chalice. For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily eateth and drinketh judgment to himself, not discerning the body of the Lord. Therefore are there many infirm and weak among you: and many sleep. But if we would judge ourselves, we should not be judged. But whilst we are judged, we are chastised by the Lord, that we be not condemned with this world.

Gospel: John xiii. 1-15.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—BEFORE the festival day of the Pasch, Jesus knowing that His hour was come, that He should pass out of this world to the Father: having loved His own who were in the world, He loved them unto the end. And when supper was done (the devil having now put into the heart of Judas, the son of Simon the Iscariot, to betray Him), knowing that the Father had given Him all things into His hands and that He came from God and goeth to God: He riseth from supper and layeth aside His garments and, having taken a towel, girded Himself. After that, He putteth water into a basin and began to wash the feet of the disciples and to wipe them with the towel wherewith He was girded. He cometh therefore to Simon Peter. And Peter saith to Him: Lord, dost Thou wash my feet? Jesus answered and said to him: What I do, thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter. Peter saith to Him: Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him: If I wash thee not, thou shalt have no part with Me. Simon Peter saith to Him: Lord, not only my feet, but also my hands and my head. Jesus saith to him: He that is washed needeth not but to wash his feet, but is clean wholly. And you are clean, but not all. For He knew ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—ANTE diem festum Paschae, sciens Jesus, quia venit hora ejus, ut tránseat ex hoc mundo ad Patrem: cum dilexísset suos, qui erant in mundo, in finem diléxit eos. Et coena facta, cum diábolus jam misísset in cor, ut tráderet eum Judas Simónis Iscariótae: sciens quia ómnia dedit ei Pater in manus, et quia a Deo exívit, et ad Deum vadit: surgit a coena, et ponit vestiménta sua: et cum accepísset línteum, praecínxit se. Respóndit Jesus, et dixit ei: Quod ego fácio, tu nescis modo, scies autem póstea. Dicit ei Petrus: Non lavábis mihi pedes in aetérnum. Respóndit ei Jesus: Si non lávero te, non habébis partem mecum. Dicit ei Simon Petrus: Dómine, non tantum pedes meos, sed et manus, et caput. Dicit ei Jesus: Qui lotus est, non índiget nisi ut pedes lavet, sed est mundus totus. Et vos mundi estis, sed non omnes. Sciébat enim quisnam esset qui tráderet eum: proptérea, dixit: Non estis mundi omnes. Postquam ergo lavit pedes eórum, et accépit vesti-

Secret.

Ipse tibi, quaesumus Dómine sancte, Pater omnípotens, aetérne Deus, sacrifícium nostrum reddat accéptum, qui discípulis suis in sui commemoratiónem hoc fíeri hodiérna traditióne monstrávit, Jesus Christus Fílius tuus Dóminus noster. Qui tecum.

We beseech Thee, O holy Lord, almighty Father, eternal God, that our Lord Jesus Christ Thy Son may make our sacrifice acceptable to Thee, who on this day commanded His disciples to celebrate it in memory of Him. Who liveth and reigneth.

Preface of the Holy Cross, p. 53.

Prayers for the Canon: Communicantes.

Communicántes, et diem sacratíssimum celebrántes, quoi Dóminus noster Jesus Christus pro nobis est tráditus: sed et memóriam venerántes, in primis gloriósae semper Vírginis Maríae, Genitrícis ejúsdem Dei et Dómini nostri Jesu Christi: sed et beatórum, etc., p. 59.

Communicating and celebrating the most sacred day on which our Lord Jesus Christ was delivered up for us: and also honouring in the first place the memory of the ever glorious Virgin Mary, Mother of the same God, and our Lord Jesus Christ: likewise of Thy blessed, etc., p. 59.

Hanc igitur.

We therefore beseech Thee, O Lord, graciously to accept this offering of our service, and that of Thy whole family, which we make to Thee in memory of the day on which our Lord Jesus Christ gave to His disciples the mysteries of His body and blood to be celebrated, etc., p. 61.

Hanc igitur oblatiónem servitútis nostrae, sed et cunctae famíliae tuae, quam tibi offérimus ob diem, in qua Dóminus noster Jesus Christus trádidit discípulis suis Córporis et Sánguinis sui mystéria celebránda: quaesumus, Dómine, ut placátus accípias, etc., p. 61.

Qui pridie.

Who, the day before He suffered for the salvation of us and of all men, that is, on this day, took bread, etc., p. 62.

Qui prídie, quam pro nostra omniúmque salúte paterétur, hoc est, hódie, accépit panem, etc., p. 62.

The Agnus Dei is said as usual, but the kiss of peace is not given; the three ordinary Prayers in preparation for the Communion, however, are said.

On this day the Priest consecrates two hosts; with one he communicates, reserving the other for the next day, on which there is no consecration. After partaking of the precious Blood, and before the ablutions, he puts the reserved Host in a chalice which the Deacon covers with a pall, a reversed paten and a veil, and places in the middle of the altar. Communion is then given to the Clergy and laity, and the Mass proceeds as usual.

Communion: John xiii. 12, 13, 15.

The Lord Jesus, after He had supped with His disciples, washed their feet, and said to them: Know you what I, your Lord and Master, have done to you? I have given you an example, that you also may do likewise.

Dóminus Jesus, postquam coenávit cum discípulis suis, lavit pedes eórum, et ait illis: Scitis quid fécerim vobis ego Dóminus, et Magíster? Exémplum dedi vobis, ut et vos ita faciátis.

Postcommunion.

We beseech Thee, O Lord our God, that, being nourished with this life-giving food, we may receive by the gift of Thy immortality what we celebrate in this mortal life. Through our Lord.

Refécti vitálibus aliméntis, quaesumus, Dómine Deus noster: ut, quod témpore nostrae mortalitátis exséquimur, immortalitátis tuae múnere consequámur. Per Dóminum.

The Ite, Missa est is said and the Blessing given, followed by the Gospel of St. John, only when commencing it the Priest crosses himself, but not the altar.

Immediately after Mass, the Celebrant incenses the chalice containing the reserved Host, which is carried in procession to the Altar of Repose prepared for its reception within the church. During the Procession the hymn Pange lingua, from the Vespers of the Most Holy Sacrament, is sung (see Index). On reaching the Altar of Repose the reserved Host is placed on it, and after being incensed it is placed in the tabernacle.

Vespers are then said in the choir.

Who purpose to overthrow my goings. The proud have hid a snare for me:

And spread a net with cords: by the way-side have they set a trap for me.

I said unto the Lord: Thou art my God: hear the voice of my supplication, O Lord.

O Lord, my Lord, Thou Strength of my salvation: Thou hast covered mine head in the day of battle!

Give me not up, O Lord, to the desires of the wicked: they take counsel together against me: forsake me not, lest they exalt themselves.

As for the head of those that compass me about, let the mischief of their own lips cover them.

Incline not mine heart to any evil word, to excuse myself in my sins,

With men that work wickedness ; and let me not eat of their dainties.

Let the righteous smite me in kindness : and let him reprove me : but the oil of the wicked shall not anoint mine head :

For yet my prayer shall be against their lusts. Their judges

Antiphon at the Magnificat for Good Friday: John xix. 30.

Cum accepísset acétum dixit: Consummátum est; et, inclináto cápite, emísit spíritum.

When He had taken the vinegar He said: It is consummated; and bowing His head, He gave up the ghost.

After the Magnificat (p. 112) the Antiphon is repeated, with the following addition:—

℣. Christus factus est pro nobis obédiens usque ad mortem (on Good Friday: mortem autem crucis).

℣. Christ became obedient for us unto death (on Good Friday: even to the death of the cross).

The Pater noster is said in a low voice, and then the following Psalm:—

Ps. l.: Miserere mei.

The cry of David and of contrite sinners who in their utter misery implore the great mercy of God.

MISERERE mei, Deus, * secúndum magnam misericórdiam tuam.

HAVE mercy upon me, O God, after Thy great mercy:

And according to the multitude of Thy tender mercies blot out my transgressions.

Et secúndum multitúdinem miseratiónum tuárum * dele iniquitátem meam.

Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity: and cleanse me from my sin.

Amplius lava me ab iniquitáte mea, * et a peccáto meo munda me.

For I acknowledge my transgression: and my sin is ever before me.

Quóniam iniquitátem meam ego cognósco, * et peccátum meum contra me est semper.

Against Thee, Thee only, have I sinned, and done evil in Thy sight: that Thou mightest be justified when Thou speakest, and be clear when Thou art judged.

For behold, I was shapen in iniquity: and in sin did my mother conceive me.

For behold Thou desirest truth: the hidden secrets of Thy wisdom Thou hast made manifest unto me.

Ecce enim veritátem dilexísti; * incérta et occúlta sapiéntiae tuae manifestásti mihi.

Make me to hear joy and gladness: that the bones which Thou hast broken may rejoice.

Hide Thy face from my sins: and blot out all mine iniquities.

Averte fáciem tuam a peccátis meis * et omnes iniquitátes meas dele.

Create in me a clean heart, O God: and renew a right spirit within me.

Cor mundum crea in me, Deus; * et spíritum rectum ínnova in viscéribus meis.

Cast me not away from Thy presence: and take not Thine holy Spirit from me.

Ne projícias me a fácie tua, * et spíritum sanctum tuum ne áuferas a me.

Restore unto me the joy of Thy salvation: and uphold me with Thy free Spirit.

Redde mihi laetítiam salutáris tui, * et spíritu principáli confírma me.

The sacrifice of God is a broken spirit : a broken and a contrite heart, O God, Thou wilt not despise.

Do good in Thy good pleasure unto Zion : to build the walls of Jerusalem.

Then shalt Thou be pleased with the sacrifices of righteousness, with burnt-offering and whole burnt-offering : then shall they offer bullocks upon Thine altar.

Prayer.

Réspice, quaesumus, Dómine, super hanc famíliam tuam, pro qua Dóminus noster Jesus Christus non dubitávit mánibus tradi nocéntium et crucis subíre torméntum. (The rest is said in silence) Qui tecum vivit . . .

Look down, O Lord, we beseech Thee, on this Thy family, for which our Lord Jesus Christ did not shrink from being delivered into the hands of the wicked, and from suffering the torments of the cross. (The rest is said in silence) Who liveth and reigneth . . .

5. THE UNCLOTHING OF THE ALTARS.

At the conclusion of Vespers the Priest, assisted by his Ministers, proceeds to unclothe the Altars, while the Antiphon Diviserunt and Psalm xxi. are recited alternately with the Choir.

"The Divine Saviour applied this Psalm to Himself by beginning it with a loud cry on the Cross, in order to teach us to continue it in the same sense." (Bossuet.)

Antiphon.

Divisérunt sibi * vestiménta mea : et super vestem meam misérunt sortem.

Ps. xxi. 19. They parted my garments amongst them : and upon my vesture they cast lots.

Ps. xxi. : Deus, Deus meus.

Deus, Deus meus, réspice in me : quare me dereliquísti ? *

My God, my God, look upon me : why hast Thou forsaken me? the voice of mine offences keepeth Thy deliverance far from me.

longe a salúte mea verba delictórum meórum.

O mу God, I cry in the daytime, and Thou hearest not: and in the night season—and still it is not foolishness in me.

Deus meus clamábo per diem, et non exáudies: * et nocte, et non ad insipiéntiam mihi.

But Thou dwellest in holiness, O Thou Praise of Israel!

Tu autem in sancto hábitas, * laus Israel.

Our fathers trusted in Thee: they trusted, and Thou didst deliver them.

In te speravérunt patres nostri: * speravérunt, et liberásti eos.

They cried unto Thee, and were delivered: they trusted in Thee, and were not confounded.

Ad te clamavérunt, et salvi facti sunt: * in te speravérunt, et non sunt confúsi.

But I am a worm and no man: a reproach of men, and despised of the people.

Ego autem sum vermis, et non homo: * oppróbrium hóminum, et abjéctio plebis.

All they that see me laugh me to scorn: they shoot out the lip, and shake their head:

Omnes vidéntes me, derisérunt me: * lócuti sunt lábiis, et movérunt caput.

He trusted in the Lord, let Him rescue him: let Him deliver him, seeing He delighteth in him.

Sperávit in Dómino, erípiat eum: * salvum fáciat eum, quóniam vult eum.

But Thou art He that took me out of the womb: Thou art mine hope from my mother's breasts. I was cast upon Thee from the womb:

Quóniam tu es, qui extraxísti me de ventre: * spes mea ab ubéribus matris meae.

Thou art my God from my mother's belly. Be not far from me:

In te projéctus sum ex útero: de ventre matris meae Deus meus es tu: * ne discésseris a me:

For trouble is near: for there is none to help.

Quóniam tribulátio próxima est, * quóniam non est qui ádjuvet.

Many bulls have compassed me: strong bulls have beset me round.

Circumdedérunt me vituli multi: * tauri pingues obsedérunt me.

They gaped upon me with their mouths, as a ravening and a roaring lion.

Aperuérunt super me os suum, * sicut leo rápiens et rúgiens.

I am poured out like water, and all my bones are out of joint.

Sicuta qua effúsus sum; * et dispérsa sunt ómnia ossa mea.

Factum est cor meum tamquam cera liquéscens, * in médio ventris mei.	Mine heart is like melting wax in the midst of my bowels.
Aruit tamquam testa virtus mea, et lingua mea adhaesit fáucibus meis : * et in púlverem mortis deduxísti me.	My strength is dried up like a potsherd, and my tongue cleaveth to my jaws : and Thou hast brought me into the dust of death.
Quóniam circumdedérunt me canes multi : * concílium malignántium obsédit me.	For many dogs have compassed me : the assembly of the wicked have inclosed me.
Fodérunt manus meas, et pedes meos : * dinumeravérunt ómnia ossa mea.	They pierced mine hands and my feet : they have told all my bones :
Ipsi vero consideravérunt, et inspexérunt me : divisérunt sibi vestiménta mea, * et super vestem meam misérunt sortem.	They look and stare upon me. They part my garments among them, and upon my vesture do they cast lots.
Tu autem, Dómine, ne elongáveris auxílium tuum a me ; * ad defensiónem meam cónspice.	But let not Thine help be far from me ; O Lord, haste Thee to save me.
Erue a frámea, Deus, ánimam meam : * et de manu canis únicam meam.	O God, deliver my soul from the sword : my darling from the power of the dog !
Salva me ex ore leónis : * et a córnibus unicórnium humilitátem meam.	Save me from the lion's mouth ; and mine affliction from the horns of the unicorns.
Narrábo nomen tuum frátribus meis : * in médio ecclésiae laudábo te.	I will declare Thy name unto my brethren : in the midst of the congregation will I praise Thee.
Qui timétis Dóminum, laudáte eum : * univérsum semen Jacob glorificáte eum.	Ye that fear the Lord, praise Him : all ye seed of Jacob, glorify Him ;
Tímeat eum omne semen Israel, * quóniam non sprevit, neque despéxit deprecatiónem páuperis.	Let all the seed of Israel fear Him. For He hath not despised nor abhorred the prayer of the poor ;
Nec avértit fáciem suam a me : * et cum clamárem ad eum, exaudivit me.	Neither hath He hid His face from me : but when I cried unto Him, He heard me.
Apud te laus mea in ecclésia magna : * vota mea reddam in conspéctu timéntium eum.	My praise shall be of Thee in the great congregation : I will pay my vows before them that fear Him.

The poor shall eat and be satisfied, and they shall praise the Lord that seek Him: their heart shall live for ever.

Edent páuperes, et saturabúntur: et laudábunt Dóminum, qui requírunt eum: * vivent corda eórum in saeculum saeculi.

All the ends of the earth shall remember and turn unto the Lord.

Reminiscéntur et converténtur ad Dóminum * univérsi fines terrae.

And all the kindreds of the nations shall worship before Him.

Et adorábunt in conspéctu ejus * univérsae famíliae géntium.

For the kingdom is the Lord's: and He hath dominion among the nations.

Quóniam Dómini est regnum: * et ipse dominábitur géntium.

All they that be fat upon earth shall eat and worship: all they that go down to the dust shall fall down before Him.

Manducavérunt, et adoravérunt omnes pingues terrae: * in conspéctu ejus cadent omnes qui descéndunt in terram.

My soul also shall live unto Him; and my seed shall serve Him.

Et ánima mea illi vivet: * et semen meum sérviet ipsi.

The generation to come shall tell it unto the Lord: and the heavens shall declare His righteousness unto a people that shall be born, whom the Lord hath made.

Annuntiábitur Dómino generátio ventúra: et annuntiábunt coeli justítiam ejus, pópulo qui nascétur, * quem fecit Dóminus.

Antiphon.

Ps. xxi. 19. They parted my garments amongst them: and upon my vesture they cast lots.

Divisérunt sibi vestiménta mea: et super vestem meam misérunt sortem.

6. THE WASHING OF THE FEET.

After the unclothing of the Altars, the Clergy at a convenient hour meet to perform the ceremony known as Mandatum. The Prelate or a Priest puts on over the amice and alb a stole and purple cope. Then the Deacon, in white vestments (as is also the Subdeacon), sings the Gospel Ante diem festum Paschae (p. 784) in the usual way. The Officiating Priest then removes his cope, girds himself with a cloth, and, assisted by his Ministers, begins the washing of the feet of twelve clerics or twelve poor people chosen for the ceremony. The Officiating Priest kneels before each one of them, washes, wipes and kisses the foot presented, using the cloth tendered by the Deacon. Meanwhile the following is sung:—

Antiphon: John xiii. 34.

A new commandment I give unto you: That you love one

Mandátum novum do vobis: * ut diligátis ínvicem, sicut diléxi vos, dicit Dóminus. Ps. Beáti immaculáti in via: qui ámbulant in lege Dómini.—Mandátum novum.

another, as I have loved you, says the Lord. Ps. cxviii. 1. Blessed are the undefiled in the way: who walk in the law of the Lord.—A new commandment.

The Antiphon Mandatum is repeated, as is also each of the following Antiphons after its Psalm or Verse; but only the first Verse of each Psalm is said.

Antiphon: John xiii. 4, 5, 15.

Postquam surréxit Dóminus* a coena, misit aquam in pelvim; coepit laváre pedes discipulórum suórum: hoc exémplum relíquit eis. Ps. Magnus Dóminus, et laudábilis nimis: in civitáte Dei nostri, in monte sancto ejus.—Postquam.

After our Lord was risen from supper, He put water into a basin, and began to wash the feet of His disciples: to whom He gave that example. Ps. xlvii. 2. Great is the Lord, and exceedingly to be praised in the city of our God, in His holy mountain. —After.

Antiphon: John xiii. 12, 13, 15.

Dóminus Jesus, * postquam coenávit cum discípulis suis, lavit pedes eórum, et ait illis: Scitis quid fécerim vobis ego Dóminus, et Magíster? Exémplum dedi vobis, ut et vos ita faciátis. Ps. Benedixísti, Dómine, terram tuam: avertísti captivitátem Jacob.—Dóminus Jesus.

Our Lord Jesus, after He had supped with His disciples, washed their feet, and said to them: Know you what I your Lord and Master have done to you? I have given you an example, that ye also may do likewise. Ps. lxxxiv. 2. Thou hast blessed, O Lord, Thy land: Thou hast turned away the captivity of Jacob.—Our Lord Jesus.

Antiphon: John xiii. 6-8.

Dómine, * tu mihi lavas pedes? Respóndit Jesus, et dixit ei: Si non lávero tibi pedes, non habébis partem mecum. ℣. Venit ergo ad Simónem Petrum, et dixit ei Petrus: Dómine, tu mihi lavas pedes? Respóndit Jesus, et dixit ei: Si non lávero tibi pedes, non habébis partem mecum. ℣. Quod ego fácio, tu nescis modo, scies autem póstea.—Dómine.

Lord, dost Thou wash my feet? Jesus answered and said to him: If I shall not wash thy feet, thou shalt have no part with Me. ℣. He came to Simon Peter, and Peter said to him: Lord, dost Thou wash my feet? Jesus answered and said to him: If I shall not wash thy feet, thou shalt have no part with Me. ℣. What I do, thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter.—Lord.

Antiphon : John xiii. 14.

If I your Lord and Master have washed your feet : how much more ought you to wash one another's feet. Ps. xlviii. 2. Hear these things, all ye nations : give ear, ye that inhabit the world.—If I.

Si ego Dóminus, * et Magister vester lavi vobis pedes : quanto magis debétis alter altérius laváre pedes ? Ps. Audíte haec omnes gentes : áuribus percípite qui habitátis orbem.—Si ego.

Antiphon : John xiii. 35.

By this shall all men know that you are My disciples, if you have love one for another. ℣. Said Jesus to His disciples.—By this shall all men know.

In hoc cognóscent omnes, * quia mei estis discípuli, si dilectiónem habuéritis ad ínvicem. ℣. Dixit Jesus discípulis suis. —In hoc cognóscent omnes.

Antiphon : 1 Corinthians xiii. 13.

Let these three, faith, hope and charity remain in you ; but the greatest of these is charity. ℣. And now there remain faith, hope and charity, these three : but the greatest of these is charity.—Let these three.

Máneant in vobis fides, spes, cáritas, tria haec : major autem horum est cáritas. ℣. Nunc autem manent fides, spes, cáritas, tria haec : major autem horum est cáritas.—Máneant in vobis.

Antiphon.

Blessed be the holy Trinity and undivided Unity : we will praise Him, because He has shown us His mercy. ℣. Let us bless the Father, and the Son, with the Holy Ghost. Ps. lxxxiii. 2, 3. How lovely are Thy tabernacles, O Lord of hosts ! My soul longeth and fainteth for the courts of the Lord.—Blessed be.

Benedícta sit * sancta Trínitas, atque indivísa Unitas : confitébimur ei, quia fecit nobíscum misericórdiam suam. ℣. Benedicámus Patrem, et Fílium * cum sancto Spíritu. Ps. Quam dilécta tabernácula tua, Dómine virtútum, concupíscit, et déficit ánima mea in átria Dómini.—Benedícta sit.

Antiphon : John ii. 3, 4.

Where charity and love are, there is God. ℣. The love of Christ has gathered us together. ℣. Let us rejoice in Him and be glad. ℣. Let us fear and love the living God. ℣. And let us love one another with a sincere heart.

Ubi cáritas, et amor, Deus ib est. ℣. Congregávit nos in unum Christi amor. ℣. Exsultémus, et in ipso jucundémur. ℣. Timeámus, et amémus Deum vivum. ℣. Et ex corde diligámus nos sincéro.

The Antiphon is repeated.

Where charity and love are, there is God. ℣. When, therefore, we are assembled. ℣. Let us take heed, that we be not divided in mind. ℣. Let malicious quarrels and contentions cease. ℣. And let Christ our God dwell among us.

The Antiphon is again repeated.

Ubi cáritas, et amor, Deus ibi est. ℣. Simul quoque cum beátis videámus. ℣. Gloriánter vultum tuum, Christe Deus: ℣. Gáudium, quod est imménsum, atque probum. ℣. Saecula per infiníta saeculorum. Amen.

Where charity and love are, there is God. ℣. Let us also with the blessed see. ℣. Thy face in glory, O Christ our God. ℣. There to possess an immense and happy joy. ℣. For infinite ages of ages. Amen.

After the washing of the feet, the Prelate, or whoever has performed the ceremony, washes his hands. Then returning to the place where he first stood he puts on his cope, and standing with his head uncovered he says the Pater noster (in secret).

℣. Et ne nos indúcas in tentatiónem.
℟. Sed líbera nos a malo.
℣. Tu mandásti mandáta tua, Dómine.
℟. Custodíri nimis.
℣. Tu lavásti pedes discipulórum tuórum.

Prayer.

Assist, O Lord, we beseech Thee, this duty of our service: and since Thou didst vouchsafe to wash the feet of Thy disciples, despise not the work of Thy hands, which Thou hast commanded us to imitate: that as here the outward stains are washed away by us and from us, so the inward sins of us all may be blotted out by Thee. Which do Thou vouchsafe to grant, Who livest and reignest God for ever and ever. Amen.

INDULGENCES FOR MAUNDY THURSDAY.

Pius VII. granted a plenary indulgence to all who on Maundy Thursday perform some pious exercise (reading, meditation or office) for one hour in commemoration of the institution of the Holy Eucharist, provided that, being truly contrite, they go to Confession and Holy Communion on that day or on any day of the week following.

He also granted a plenary indulgence to all who pay a visit to the Blessed Sacrament at altars of repose or sepulchres on Maundy Thursday and Good Friday, and pray there for the intentions of the Sovereign Pontiff, provided they have been to Confession and that they go to Holy Communion on Maundy Thursday or on Easter Sunday.

STATION AT S. CROCE IN GERUSALEMME.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Double of the First Class.—Purple vestments.

The Station is held at the basilica in Rome which represents Jerusalem, after which it is called. It is consecrated to the Passion of our Lord, and contains soil from Calvary, substantial fragments of the wood of the true Cross, and one of the nails used to crucify Jesus.

On this day, which is the anniversary of the death of our Lord, the Church imparts an aspect of sadness to her temples, while her Ministers are robed in vestments of mourning. (See " Passion Time from a Liturgical Point of View," p. 674.)

1. MASS OF THE CATECHUMENS.

The first part of this day's liturgy recalls the gatherings held in the synagogues on the Sabbath. The early Christian communities, composed as they were of converted Jews, took them as a model, but not without subjecting them to all the necessary modifications. Soon they became associated with the Eucharistic Sacrifice. It is in the Mass of the Catechumens that these are told (First Lesson) that the mercies of God are about to be poured down on the Christians and punishments on the infidels (Ephraim and Juda), for at the very hour that " the multitude of the children of Israel shall sacrifice the Paschal Lamb " (Second Lesson) the Jews will put the Lamb of God to death on the Cross. The Passion according to St. John describes this death.

None being ended in the choir, the Priest and his Ministers, in black vestments, without lights or incense, go up to the Altar, where they prostrate themselves in prayer for a few moments. Meanwhile the Acolytes spread a single linen cloth over it. The Priest, having finished his prayer, ascends the steps with his Ministers and kisses the middle of the Altar. He then goes to the Epistle side, and a Reader, standing in the place where the Epistle is usually read, begins without any introduction the following Prophecy :—

Prophecy : Osee vi. 1-6.

HAEC dicit Dóminus : In tribulatióne sua mane con-

THUS saith the Lord : In their affliction they will rise early to

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, K f 10.

Me: Come, and let us return to the Lord: for He hath taken us, and He will heal us: He will strike, and He will cure us. He will revive us after two days: on the third day He will raise us up and we shall live in His sight. We shall know and we shall follow on, that we may know the Lord. His going forth is prepared as the morning light and He will come to us as the early and the latter rain to the earth. What shall I do to thee, O Ephraim? What shall I do to thee, O Juda? Your mercy is as a morning cloud and as the dew that goeth away in the morning. For this reason have I hewed them by the prophets, I have slain them by the words of my mouth: and thy judgments shall go forth as the light. For I desired mercy and not sacrifice: and the knowledge of God more than holocausts.

súrgent ad me: Veníte, et revertámur ad Dóminum: quia ipse cepit, et sanábit nos: percútiet, et curábit nos. Vivificábit nos post duos dies: in die tértia suscitábit nos, et vivémus in conspéctu ejus. Sciémus, sequemúrque, ut cognoscámus Dóminum: quasi dilúculum praeparátus est egréssus ejus, et véniet quasi imber nobis temporáneus, et serótinus terrae. Quid fáciam tibi, Ephraim? Quid fáciam tibi, Juda? misericórdia vestra quasi nubes matutína: et quasi ros mane pertránsiens. Propter hoc dolávi in prophétis, occídi eos in verbis oris mei: et judícia tua quasi lux egrediéntur. Quia misericórdiam vólui, et non sacrifícium, et sciéntiam Dei, plus quam holocáusta.

Tract: Habacuc iii.

O Lord, I have heard Thy hearing and was afraid: I have considered Thy works and trembled. ℣. In the midst of two animals Thou shalt be made known: when the years shall draw nigh Thou shalt be known: when the time shall come, Thou shalt be manifested. ℣. When my soul shall be in trouble, Thou wilt remember mercy, even in Thy wrath. ℣. God will come from Libanus, and the Holy One from the shady and thickly covered mountain. ℣. His majesty covered the heavens: and the earth is full of His praise.

Dómine, audívi audítum tuum, et tímui: considerávi ópera tua, et expávi. ℣. In médio duórum animálium innotescéris: dum appropinquáverint anni, cognoscéris: dum advénerit tempus, ostendéris. ℣. In eo, dum conturbáta fúerit ánima mea: in ira, misericórdiae memor eris. ℣. Deus a Líbano véniet, et Sanctus de monte umbróso, et condénso. ℣. Opéruit coelos majéstas ejus: et laudis ejus plena est terra.

After the Tract the Priest says: Oremus; the Deacon continues, Flectamus genua, to which the Subdeacon answers, Levate.

Collect: Deus, a quo et Judas, p. 782.

The Subdeacon then sings without introduction, in the tone of the Epistle, the following Lesson:—

Lesson: Exodus xii. 1-11.

In diébus illis: Dixit Dóminus ad Móysen, et Aaron in terra Aegypti: Mensis iste, vobis princípium ménsium: primus erit in mensibus anni. Loquímini ad univérsum coetum filiórum Israel, et dícite eis: Décima die mensis hujus tollat unusquísque agnum per famílias, et domos suas. Sin autem minor est númerus, ut sufficere possit ad vescéndum agnum, assúmet vicínum suum, qui junctus est dómui suae, juxta númerum animárum, quae sufficere possunt ad esum agni. Erit autem agnus absque mácula, másculus, annículus: juxta quem ritum tollétis et hoedum. Et servábitis eum usque ad quartam décimam diem mensis hujus: immolabítque eum univérsa multitúdo filiórum Israel ad vésperam. Et sument de sánguine ejus, ac ponent super utrúmque postem, et in superlimináribus domórum, in quibus cómedent illum. Et edent carnes nocte illa assas igni, et ázymos panes cum lactúcis agréstibus. Non comedétis ex eo crudum quid, nec coctum aqua, sed tantum assum igni: caput cum pédibus ejus, et intestínis vorábitis. Nec remanébit quidquam ex eo usque mane. Si quid resíduum fúerit, igne comburétis. Sic autem comedétis illum:

In those days the Lord said to Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt: This month shall be to you the beginning of months: it shall be the first in the months of the year. Speak ye to the whole assembly of the children of Israel, and say to them: On the tenth day of this month let every man take a lamb by their families and houses. But if the number be less than may suffice to eat the lamb, he shall take unto him his neighbour that joineth to his house, according to the number of souls which may be enough to eat the lamb. And it shall be a lamb without blemish, a male, of one year: according to which rite also you shall take a kid. And you shall keep it until the fourteenth day of this month: and the whole multitude of the children of Israel shall sacrifice it in the evening. And they shall take of the blood thereof, and put it upon both the side posts, and on the upper door posts of the houses, wherein they shall eat it. And they shall eat the flesh that night roasted at the fire: and unleavened bread with wild lettuce. You shall not eat thereof any thing raw, nor boiled in water, but only roasted at the fire. You shall eat the head with the feet and entrails thereof. Neither shall there remain any thing of it until morning. If there be any thing left, you shall burn it with fire. And thus you shall eat it: You shall gird your reins, and you shall have shoes on your feet, holding staves in your hands, and you shall eat in haste; for it is the Phase (that is the Passage) of the Lord.

Renes vestros accingétis, et calceaménta habébitis in pédibus, tenéntes báculos in mánibus, et comedétis festinánter: est enim Phase (id est tránsitus) Dómini.

Tract Psalm cxxxix. 2-10, 14.

Deliver me, O Lord, from the evil man: rescue me from the unjust man. ℣. Who have devised iniquities in their hearts: all the day long they designed battles. ℣. They have sharpened their tongues like a serpent: the venom of asps is under their lips. ℣. Keep me, O Lord, from the hand of the wicked: and from unjust men deliver me. ℣. Who have proposed to supplant my steps. The proud have hidden a net for me. ℣. And they have stretched out cords for a snare for my feet: they have laid for me a stumbling-block by the wayside. ℣. I said to the Lord: Thou art my God. Hear, O Lord, the voice of my supplication. ℣. O Lord, Lord, the strength of my salvation: overshadow my head in the day of battle. ℣. Give me not up from my desire to the wicked: they have plotted against me. Do not Thou forsake me, lest at any time they should triumph. ℣. The head of them compassing me about: the labour of their lips shall overwhelm them. ℣. But the just shall give glory to Thy name: and the upright shall dwell with Thy countenance.

Eripe me, Dómine, ab hómine malo: a viro iníquo líbera me. ℣. Qui cogitavérunt malítias in corde: tota die constituébant praelia. ℣. Acuérunt linguas suas sicut serpéntis: venénum áspidum sub lábiis eórum. ℣. Custódi me, Dómine, de manu peccatóris: et ab homínibus iníquis líbera me. ℣. Qui cogitavérunt supplantáre gressus meos: abscondérunt supérbi láqueum mihi. ℣. Et funes extendérunt in láqueum pédibus meis: juxta iter scándalum posuérunt mihi. ℣. Dixi Dómino, Deus meus es tu: exáudi, Dómine, vocem oratiónis meae. ℣. Dómine, Dómine virtus salútis meae, obúmbra caput meum in die belli. ℣. Ne tradas me a desidério meo peccatóri: cogitavérunt advérsus me: ne derelínquas me, ne unquam exalténtur. ℣. Caput circúitus eórum: labor labiórum ipsórum opériet eos. ℣. Verúmtamen justi confitebúntur nómini tuo: et habitábunt recti cum vultu tuo.

After the Tract the Deacon and Subdeacon sing the Passion from bare lecterns, while the Celebrant reads it in a low voice on the Epistle side of the Altar.

Gospel: John xviii. 1-40 xix. 1-42.

PASSIO Dómini nostri Jesu Christi secúndum Joánnem.

THE Passion of our Lord Jesus Christ according to St. John.

The Apprehension of Jesus.

IN illo témpore: Egréssus est Jesus cum discípulis suis trans torréntem Cedron, ubi erat hortus, in quem introívit ipse, et discípuli ejus. Sciébat autem et Judas, qui tradébat eum, locum: quia frequénter Jesus convénerat illuc cum discípulis suis. Judas ergo cum accepísset cohórtem, et a pontifícibus et pharisaeis minístros, venit illuc cum latérnis, et fácibus, et armis. Jesus ítaque sciens ómnia, quae ventúra erant super eum, procéssit, et dixit eis: ✠ Quem quaerítis? C. Respondérunt ei: S. Jesum Nazarénum. C. Dicit eis Jesus: ✠ Ego sum. C. Stabat autem et Judas, qui tradébat eum, cum ipsis. Ut ergo dixit eis: Ego sum: abiérunt retrórsum, et cecidérunt in terram. Iterum ergo interrogávit eos: ✠ Quem quaerítis? C. Illi autem dixérunt: S. Jesum Nazarénum. C. Respóndit Jesus: ✠ Dixi vobis, quia ego sum: si ergo me quaeritis, sínite hos abíre. C. Ut implerétur sermo, quem dixit: Quia quos dedísti mihi, non pérdidi ex eis quemquam. Simon ergo Petrus habens gládium edúxit eum: et percússit pontíficis servum: et abscídit aurículam ejus déxteram.

AT that time Jesus went forth with His disciples over the brook Cedron, where there was a garden, into which He entered with His disciples. And Judas also, who betrayed Him, knew the place: because Jesus had often resorted thither together with His disciples. Judas therefore having received a band of soldiers and servants from the chief priests and the Pharisees, cometh thither with lanterns and torches and weapons. Jesus therefore, knowing all things that should come upon Him, went forth and said to them: Whom seek ye? They answered him: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus saith to them: I am He. And Judas also, who betrayed Him, stood with them. As soon therefore as He had said to them: I am He; they went backward and fell to the ground. Again therefore He asked them: Whom seek ye? And they said: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus answered: I have told you that I am He. If therefore ye seek Me, let these go their way, that the word might be fulfilled which He said: Of them whom Thou hast given Me, I have not lost any one. Then Simon Peter, having a sword, drew it and struck the servant of the high priest and cut off his right ear.

And the name of the servant was Malchus. Jesus therefore said to Peter: Put up thy sword into the scabbard. The chalice which My Father hath given Me, shall I not drink it? Then the band and the tribune and the servants of the Jews took Jesus and bound Him. And they led Him away to Annas first, for he was father-in-law to Caiphas, who was the high priest of that year.

Erat autem nomen servo Malchus. Dixit ergo Jesus Petro: ✠ Mitte gládium tuum in vagínam. Cálicem, quem dedit mihi Pater, non bibam illum? C. Cohors ergo, et tribúnus et minístri Judaeórum comprehendérunt Jesum, et ligavérunt eum: et adduxérunt eum ad Annam primum, erat enim socer Cáiphae, qui erat póntifex anni illíus.

Jesus at the Palace of the High Priest.

Now Caiphas was he who had given the counsel to the Jews: That it was expedient that one man should die for the people. And Simon Peter followed Jesus: and so did another disciple. And that disciple was known to the high priest and went in with Jesus into the court of the high priest. But Peter stood at the door without. The other disciple therefore, who was known to the high priest, went out and spoke to the portress and brought in Peter. The maid therefore that was portress saith to Peter: Art not thou also one of this man's disciples? He saith: I am not. Now the servants and ministers stood at a fire of coals, because it was cold, and warmed themselves. And with them was Peter also, standing, and warming himself. The high priest therefore asked Jesus of His disciples and of His doctrine. Jesus answered him: I have spoken openly to the world. I have always taught in the synagogue and in the temple, whither all the Jews resort: and in secret I have spoken nothing. Why

Erat autem Cáiphas, qui consílium déderat Judaeis: Quia éxpedit, unum hóminem mori pro pópulo. Sequebátur autem Jesum Simon Petrus, et álius discípulus. Discípulus autem ille erat notus pontífici, et introívit cum Jesu in átrium pontíficis. Petrus autem stabat ad óstium foris. Exívit ergo discípulus álius, qui erat notus pontífici, et dixit ostiáriae: et introdúxit Petrum. Dicit ergo Petro ancílla ostiária: S. Numquid et tu ex discípulis es hóminis istíus? C. Dicit ille: S. Non sum. C. Stabant autem servi, et minístri ad prunas, quia frigus erat, et calefaciébant se: erat autem cum eis et Petrus stans, et calefáciens se. Póntifex ergo interrogávit Jesum de discípulis suis, et de doctrína ejus. Respóndit ei Jesus: ✠ Ego palam locútus sum mundo: ego semper dócui in synagóga, et in templo, quo omnes Judaei convéniunt: et in occúlto locútus sum nihil. Quid me intérrogas? intérroga eos, qui audiérunt quid locútus askest thou Me? Ask them who have heard what I have spoken unto them. Behold they know what things I have said. And when He had said these things, one of the servants standing by gave Jesus a blow, saying: Answerest Thou the high priest so? Jesus answered him: If I have spoken evil, give testimony of the evil; but if well, why strikest thou Me? And Annas sent Him bound to Caiphas the high priest. And Simon Peter was standing and warming himself. They said therefore to him: Art not thou also one of His disciples? He denied it and said: I am not. One of the servants of the high priest (a kinsman to him whose ear Peter cut off) saith to him: Did not I see thee in the garden with Him? Again therefore Peter denied; and immediately the cock crew.

Erat autem Simon Petrus stans, et calefáciens se. Dixérunt ergo ei: S. Numquid et tu ex discípulis ejus es? C. Negávit ille, et dixit: S. Non sum. C. Dixit ei unus ex servis pontíficis, cognátus ejus, cujus abscídit Petrus auriculam: S. Nonne ego te vidi in horto cum illo? C. Iterum ergo negávit Petrus: et statim gallus cantávit.

Jesus before Pilate.

Addúcunt ergo Jesum a Cáipha in praetórium. Erat autem mane: et ipsi non introiérunt in praetórium, ut non contaminaréntur, sed ut manducárent pascha. Exívit ergo Pilátus ad eos foras, et dixit: S. Quam accusatiónem affértis advérsus hóminem hunc? C. Respondérunt, et dixérunt ei: S. Si non esset hic malefáctor, non tibi tradidissémus eum. C. Dixit ergo eis Pilátus: S. Accípite eum vos, et secúndum legem vestram judicáte eum. C. Dixérunt ergo ei Judaei: S. Nobis non licet interfícere quemquam. C. Ut sermo Jesu

Then they led Jesus from Caiphas to the governor's hall. And it was morning: and they went not into the hall, that they might not be defiled, but that they might eat the Pasch. Pilate therefore went out to them, and said: What accusation bring you against this man? They answered and said to him: If He were not a malefactor, we would not have delivered Him up to thee. Pilate therefore said to them: Take Him you, and judge Him according to your law. The Jews therefore said to him: It is not lawful for us to put any man to death. That the word of Jesus might be fulfilled, which

He said, signifying what death He should die. Pilate therefore went into the hall again and called Jesus and said to Him: Art Thou the king of the Jews? Jesus answered: Sayest thou this thing of thyself, or have others told it thee of Me? Pilate answered: Am I a Jew? Thy own nation and the chief priests have delivered Thee up to me. What hast Thou done? Jesus answered: My kingdom is not of this world. If My kingdom were of this world, My servants would certainly strive that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now My kingdom is not from hence. Pilate therefore said to Him: Art Thou a king then? Jesus answered: Thou sayest that I am a king. For this was I born, and for this came I into the world; that I should give testimony to the truth. Every one that is of the truth heareth My voice. Pilate saith to Him: What is truth? And when he said this, he went out again to the Jews and saith to them: I find no cause in Him. But you have a custom that I should release one unto you at the Pasch. Will you, therefore, that I release unto you the king of the Jews? Then cried they all again, saying: Not this man, but Barabbas. Now Barabbas was a robber. Then therefore Pilate took Jesus and scourged Him. And the soldiers platting a crown of thorns, put it upon His head: and they put on Him a purple garment. And they came to Him and said: Hail, king of the Jews. And they gave Him blows. Pilate therefore went forth again and saith to them: Behold, I bring Him forth unto you, that you may know that I find no cause in Him. (Jesus therefore came forth, bearing the crown of thorns and the purple garment.) And he saith to them: Behold the Man. When the chief priests, therefore, and the servants had seen Him, they cried out, saying: Crucify Him, Crucify Him. Pilate saith to them: Take Him you, and crucify Him: for I find no cause in Him. The Jews answered him: We have a law: and according to the law He ought to die, because He made Himself the Son of God. When Pilate therefore had heard this saying, he feared the more. And he entered into the hall again; and he said to Jesus: Whence art Thou? But Jesus gave him no answer. Pilate therefore saith to Him: Speakest Thou not to me? Knowest Thou not that I have power to crucify Thee, and I have power to release Thee? Jesus answered Thou shouldst not have any power against Me, unless it were given thee from above. Therefore, he that hath delivered Me to thee hath the greater sin. And from henceforth Pilate sought to release Him. But the Jews cried out, saying: If thou release this man, thou art not Caesar's friend. For whosoever maketh himself a king speaketh against Caesar. Now when Pilate had heard these words, he brought Jesus forth and sat down in the judgment seat, in the place that is called Lithostrotos, and in Hebrew Gabbatha. And it was the Parasceve of the Pasch, about the sixth hour: and he saith to the Jews: Behold your king. But they cried out: Away with Him: Away with Him: Crucify Him. Pilate saith to them: Shall I crucify your king? The chief priests answered: We have no king but Caesar. Then therefore he delivered Him to them to be crucified.

Erat autem Parascéve Paschae, hora quasi sexta, et dicit Judaeis: S. Ecce Rex vester. C. Illi autem clamábant: S. Tolle, tolle, crucifíge eum. C. Dicit eis Pilátus: S. Regem vestrum crucifígam? C. Respondérunt pontífices: S. Non habémus regem, nisi Caesarem. C. Tunc ergo trádidit eis illum ut crucifigerétur.

The Crucifixion.

And they took Jesus and led Him forth. And bearing His own cross, He went forth to that place which is called Calvary, but in Hebrew Golgotha; where they crucified Him, and with Him two others, one on each side and Jesus in the midst. And Pilate wrote a title also: and he put it upon the cross. And the writing was: Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews. This title therefore many of the Jews did read: because the place where Jesus was crucified was nigh to the city. And it was written in Hebrew, in Greek, and in Latin. Then the chief priests of the Jews said to Pilate: Write not: The King of the Jews; but that He said: I am the King of the Jews. Pilate answered: What I have written, I have written. The soldiers therefore, when they had crucified Him, took His garments (and they made four parts, to every soldier a part) and also Suscepérunt autem Jesum, et eduxérunt. Et bájulans sibi crucem, exívit in eum, qui dícitur Calváriae locum, hebráice autem Golgótha: ubi crucifixérunt eum, et cum eo álios duos, hinc et hinc, médium autem Jesum. Scripsit autem et títulum Pilátus: et pósuit super crucem. Erat autem scriptum: Jesus Nazarénus, Rex Judaeórum.* Hunc ergo títulum multi Judaeórum legérunt quia prope civitátem erat locus, ubi crucifíxus est Jesus. Et erat scriptum hebráice, graece, et latíne. Dicébant ergo Piláto pontífices Judaeórum: S. Noli scríbere, Rex Judaeórum, sed quia ipse dixit: Rex sum Judaeórum. C. Respóndit Pilátus: S. Quod scripsi, scripsi. C. Mílites ergo cum crucifixíssent eum, accepérunt vestiménta ejus (et fecérunt quátuor partes: unicuíque míliti partem), et túni-his coat. Now the coat was without seam, woven from the top throughout. They said then one to another: Let us not cut it, but let us cast lots for it, whose it shall be: that the Scripture might be fulfilled which saith: They have parted My garments among them, and upon My vesture they have cast lots. And the soldiers indeed did these things. Now there stood by the cross of Jesus His mother, and His mother's sister, Mary of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalen. When Jesus therefore had seen His mother and the disciple standing whom He loved, He saith to His mother: Woman, behold thy son. After that, He saith to the disciple: Behold thy mother. And from that hour, the disciple took her to his own.

Dixérunt ergo ad ínvicem: S. Non scindámus eam, sed sortiámur de illa cujus sit. C. Ut Scriptúra implerétur, dicens: Partíti sunt vestiménta mea sibi: et in vestem meam misérunt sortem. Et mílites quidem haec fecérunt. Stabant autem juxta crucem Jesu, mater ejus, et soror matris ejus María Cléophae, et María Magdaléne. Cum vidísset ergo Jesus matrem, et discípulum stantem, quem diligébat, dicit matri suae: ✠ Múlier, ecce fílius tuus. C. Deínde dicit discípulo: ✠ Ecce mater tua. C. Et ex illa hora accépit eam discípulus in sua.

The Death of Jesus.

Póstea sciens Jesus quia ómnia consummáta sunt, ut consummarétur Scriptúra, dixit: ✠ Sítio. C. Vas ergo erat pósitum acéto plenum. Illi autem spóngiam plenam acéto, hyssópo circumponéntes, obtulérunt ori ejus. Cum ergo accepisset Jesus acétum, dixit: ✠ Consummátum est. C. Et inclináto cápite trádidit spíritum.

Afterwards, Jesus knowing that all things were now accomplished, that the Scripture might be fulfilled, said: I thirst. Now there was a vessel set there, full of vinegar. And they, putting a sponge full of vinegar about hyssop, put it to His mouth. Jesus therefore, when He had taken the vinegar, said: It is consummated. And bowing His head, He gave up the ghost.

Here all kneel and pause for a few moments.

Judaei ergo (quóniam Parascéve erat) ut non remanérent in cruce córpora sábbato (erat enim magnus dies ille sábbati), rogavérunt Pilátum, ut frangeréntur eórum crura, et tolleréntur. Venérunt ergo mílites:

Then the Jews (because it was the Parasceve), that the bodies might not remain upon the cross on the Sabbath day (for that was a great Sabbath day), besought Pilate that their legs might be broken and that they might be taken away. The soldiers therefore came, and they broke the legs of the first, and of the other that was crucified with Him. But after they were come to Jesus, when they saw that He was already dead, they did not break His legs. But one of the soldiers with a spear opened His side: and immediately there came out blood and water. And he that saw it hath given testimony: and his testimony is true. And he knoweth that he saith true: that you also may believe. For these things were done that the Scripture might be fulfilled: You shall not break a bone of Him. And again another Scripture saith: They shall look on Him Whom they pierced.

et primi quidem fregérunt crura, et altérius, qui crucifíxus est cum eo. Ad Jesum autem cum veníssent, ut vidérunt eum jam mórtuum, non fregérunt ejus crura: sed unus mílitum láncea latus ejus apéruit, et contínuo exívit sanguis, et aqua. Et qui vidit, testimónium perhíbuit: et verum est testimónium ejus. Et ille scit, quia vera dicit: ut et vos credátis. Facta sunt enim haec, ut Scriptúra impleátur: Os non comminuétis ex eo. Et íterum ália Scriptúra dicit: Vidébunt in quem transfixérunt.

The following is sung in the Gospel tone. The Munda cor is said, but the blessing is not asked, lights are not carried or incense used, nor does the Priest kiss the book at the end.

The Burial of Jesus.

And after these things, Joseph of Arimathea (because he was a disciple of Jesus, but secretly for fear of the Jews) besought Pilate that he might take away the body of Jesus. And Pilate gave leave. He came therefore and took away the body of Jesus. And Nicodemus also came (he who at the first came to Jesus by night), bringing a mixture of myrrh and aloes, about an hundred pound weight. They took therefore the body of Jesus and bound it in linen cloths, with the spices, as the manner of the Jews is to bury. Now there was in the place where He was crucified a garden: and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein no man

Post haec autem rogávit Pilátum Joseph ab Arimathaea (eo quod esset discípulus Jesu, occúltus autem propter metum Judaeórum), ut tólleret corpus Jesu. Et permísit Pilátus. Venit ergo, et tulit corpus Jesu. Venit autem et Nicodémus, qui vénerat ad Jesum nocte primum, ferens mixtúram myrrhae, et áloës, quasi libras centum. Accepérunt ergo corpus Jesu, et ligavérunt illud línteis cum aromátibus, sicut mos est Judaeis sepelíre. Erat autem in loco, ubi crucifíxus est, hortus: et in horto monuméntum novum, in quo nondum quisquam pósitus erat. Ibi ergo propter yet had been laid. There, therefore, because of the Parasceve of the Jews, they laid Jesus, because the sepulchre was nigh at hand.

The Priest then, standing at the Epistle side of the Altar, with hands joined, proceeds at once with the following Prayers.

2. THE COLLECTS.

This second part of the day's liturgy recalls the prayers that used to be offered up at the gatherings held in the synagogues on the Sabbath,* and the only trace of which in the Roman liturgy, apart from Good Friday, is to be found in the Collect that precedes the Offertory.†

These prayers, in the form of a litany, show that the effects of the death of Jesus cover all the needs of the Church and of mankind. They even lead us to foresee the conversion of the Deicide People, who will one day be brought to acknowledge that Jesus is the Messias.

Orémus, dilectíssimi nobis, pro Ecclésia sancta Dei: ut eam Deus et Dóminus noster pacificáre, adunáre, et custodíre dignétur toto orbe terrárum: subjíciens ei principátus, et potestátes: detque nobis quiétam et tranquíllam vitam degéntibus, glorificáre Deum Patrem omnipoténtem.

Let us pray, dearly beloved, for the holy Church of God: that our God and Lord may be pleased to give it peace, and union, and preserve it throughout the world: subjecting to it principalities and powers: and that He may grant us who live in peace and tranquillity grace to glorify God the Father Almighty.

Orémus. Deacon: Flectámus génua. Subdeacon: Leváte.

Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, qui glóriam tuam ómnibus in Christo géntibus revelásti: custódi ópera misericórdiae tuae; ut Ecclésia tua toto orbe diffúsa, stábili fide in confessióne tui nóminis persevéret. Per eúmdem Dóminum. ℟. Amen.

Let us pray. Deacon: Let us kneel down. Subdeacon: Arise.

Almighty and eternal God, Who in Christ hast revealed Thy glory to all nations, preserve the works of Thy mercy, that Thy Church, spread over all the world, may persevere with a steadfast faith in the confession of Thy name. Through the same our Lord. ℟. Amen.

* The Celebrant suggested an intention, adding to it a few words of exhortation. Thus, Let us pray for our most Holy Father the Pope, that he . . . the Deacon then bade them kneel down: Flectamus genua, and all prayed in silence. After a few moments another cleric bade them stand up again, and the Celebrant summed up in a short set form of words spoken aloud the prayers made by all present in the secret of their hearts.

† In the Eastern Churches this part of the liturgy was in daily use. It is called "the Mass of the Penitents." In the Western Church it was suppressed and the penitents were only dismissed at the Communion.

Let us pray also for our holy Father Pope N.; that our God and Lord, Who elected him to the order of the episcopacy, may preserve him in health and safety for the good of His holy Church, to govern the holy people of God.

3. ADORATION OF THE CROSS.

This rite owes its origin to the custom obtaining in Jerusalem in the fourth century of venerating on Good Friday the wood of the true Cross, while the Reproaches spoken by Christ to His people, whom He had always treated with kindness, were sung. Some of these Reproaches are still used in the Mass.*

At the end of the Collects the Priest removes his chasuble. Then turning towards the congregation, at the foot of the Altar on the Epistle side, he uncovers the upper portion of the veiled Cross and intones:—

Ec - ce li - gnum Cru - cis,

Behold the wood of the Cross,

* These prayers form part of the Ritual for penitents.

The Ministers continuing with him :—

on which hung the Saviour of the world.

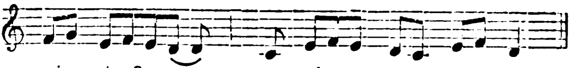
dit.

The Choir responding, while all except the Celebrant kneel :—

Ve - ni - te ad - o - ré - mus.
Come let us adore.

The Celebrant then goes to the right side of the Altar, uncovers the right arm of the Cross, and elevating it sings in a louder tone Ecce lignum Crucis. Again all kneel, continuing as above. Then, at the middle of the Altar, the Celebrant uncovers the whole of the Crucifix, repeating on a higher note still Ecce lignum Crucis, the Ministers and Choir continuing as before.

The Priest himself then carries the Cross to the place prepared for it in front of the Altar and, kneeling, lays it there. Then, removing his shoes, he proceeds to adore the Cross, kneeling three several times before kissing it. After which he withdraws and resumes his shoes and chasuble. Then the Ministers first and the other Clergy, and afterwards the laity, advancing two and two, kneel three several times and adore the Cross. Meantime all or some of the following Reproaches and Verses are sung according to the length of time the ceremony takes, the while the Priest, sitting, recites them with his Ministers.



Two Cantors sing the following verses :—

℣. Pó - pu - le me - us, quid fe - ci
My people, what have I done to thee?

or in what have I griev-

℣. Quia edúxi te de terra Ægypti: parásti Crucem Salvatóri tuo.

℣. Because I brought thee out of the land of Egypt: thou hast prepared a cross for thy Saviour.

The two Choirs then sing alternately:—

1) Agios o Theos. ℟. San - ctus De - us. O holy God,
2) Agios ischyros. ℟. San - ctus for - tis. O holy strong One
3) Agios athanatos, eléison imas.

℟.) Sanc - tus im-mor-tá - lis,

Two of the first Choir sing:—

℣. Quia edúxi te per desértum quadragínta annis, et manna cibávi te, et introdúxi te in terram satis bonam: parásti Crucem Salvatóri tuo.

℣. Because I led thee through the desert forty years: and fed thee with manna, and brought thee into a land exceedingly good, thou hast prepared a cross for thy Saviour.

The two Choirs then repeat alternately as before, Agios o Theos. ℟. Sanctus Deus, etc.

Two Cantors of the second Choir continue:—

℣. Quid ultra débui fácere tibi, et non feci? Ego quidem plantávi te víneam meam speciosíssimam: et tu facta est mihi nimis amára: acéto namque sitim meam potásti: et láncea perforásti latus Salvatóri tuo.

℣. What more ought I to do for thee, that I have not done? I planted thee, indeed, My most beautiful vineyard: and thou hast become exceeding bitter to Me: for in My thirst thou gavest Me vinegar to drink: and with a spear thou hast pierced the side of thy Saviour.

The two Choirs again respond as before Agios o Theos ℟. Sanctus Deus, etc.

The verses of the following Reproach are sung alternately by two Cantors of each Choir. The Choirs respond after each verse, Popule meus as above, as far as ℣. Quia.

Two Cantors.

For thy sake I scourged Egypt with its first-born: and thou hast scourged Me and delivered Me up.	℣. Ego propter te flagellávi Aegyptum cum primogénitis suis: et tu me flagellátum tradidísti.

℟. Pópule meus.

℣. I have exalted thee with great power: and thou hast hanged Me on the gibbet of the Cross.

℟. My people.

The following Antiphon is then sung:—

Crucem tuam * ádoramus, Dómine: et sanctam resurrectiónem tuam laudámus, et glorificámus: ecce enim propter lignum venit gáudium in univérso mundo.

Ps. Deus misereátur nostri, et benedícat nobis: illúminet vultum suum super nos, et misereátur nostri. — ℣. Crucem.

We adore Thy Cross, O Lord: and we praise and glorify Thy holy resurrection: for behold by the wood of the Cross joy came into the whole world.

Ps. lxvi. 2.—May God have mercy on us, and bless us: may He cause the light of His countenance to shine upon us, and have mercy on us.— ℣. We adore.

The Crux fidelis is then sung, the first and second part of it in turn following each verse of the Pange lingua.

4. MASS OF THE PRESANCTIFIED.

Such is the impression produced on the whole Christian world on Good Friday, when the throne of the Cross, from the height of which God made man reigns,† stands out stained with His Blood before the world on Calvary, that the Church shrinks on this day from renewing that sacrifice on her altars. She is content therefore, as is the custom in the Greek Church during Lent, with the exception of Holy Saturday and Easter Sunday, to consume the Holy Species that have previously been consecrated. Hence the term Mass of the Presanctified, for the offerings have been sanctified in advance of the day.

Towards the end of the Adoration of the Cross the candles on the Altar are lighted, and the Deacon, taking the burse for the corporal, spreads the corporal in the usual way and places on it the mundatory. When the Adoration of the Cross is completed he replaces the Cross reverently on the Altar, and the Priest and Clergy go in procession to the place where the Blessed Sacrament has reposed since the day previous. The Subdeacon, bearing the Cross, leads the way with an Acolyte on either side carrying candelabra with lighted candles; the Clergy follow in the order of their rank, and last of all the Priest with his Ministers. On reaching the Altar of Repose tapers are lighted, and these are not extinguished until after the Communion. Kneeling before the Blessed Sacrament, the Priest prays for a few moments. Meanwhile the Deacon opens the tabernacle where lies the Body of Our Lord, and the Priest puts incense without blessing it into two thuribles, assisted by the Deacon, who presents the incense-boat. Then, kneeling, he incenses the Sacred Host. The Deacon then, taking from the tabernacle the chalice that contains the Host, places it in the hands of the Priest and covers it with the ends of the chalice veil. The procession then returns in the same order, the Blessed Sacrament being carried under a canopy, two thurifers incensing It the whole way. During the procession the Hymn Vexilla Regis (p. 681) is sung.

Arrived at the Altar the Priest places the chalice upon it and, kneeling, again incenses it; then, taking the paten from the Deacon, he lays the Sacred Host in silence on the corporal. Meanwhile the Deacon pours wine into the chalice, and the Subdeacon a little water which is not blessed by the Priest; nor is the usual prayer said. But taking the chalice from the Deacon he places it in silence on the Altar, and the Deacon covers it with the pall. After this the Priest puts incense into the thurible without blessing it, and incenses the oblation and the Altar in the usual manner, but genuflecting each time he passes the Blessed Sacrament, the while he recites the prayers Incensum, Dirigatur, Accendat (p. 47).

The Priest is not incensed.

Withdrawing from the Altar on the Epistle side, the Celebrant there washes his hands in silence. Then returning to the middle of the Altar, bowing down and joining his hands he says:—

In spíritu humilitátis, et in ánimo contríto suscipiámur a te, Dómine: et sic fiat sacrifícium nostrum in conspéctu tuo hódie, ut pláceat tibi, Dómine Deus.	Accept us, O Lord, in the spirit of humility, and with a contrite heart: and may our sacrifice be so performed this day in Thy sight, as to be pleasing to Thee, O Lord God.

Then turning towards the people he says, from the Gospel side of the Altar, as usual:—

Oráte, fratres, ut meum ac vestrum sacrifícium acceptábile fiat apud Deum Patrem omnípotentem.	Brethren, pray that my sacrifice and yours may be acceptable to God the Father Almighty.

He then turns back the same way, without completing the circle, and proceeds at once to sing the Pater noster in the usual way: Oremus. Praeceptis salutaribus, etc., p. 67.

Then the Priest says to himself Amen, and aloud the Libera nos, p. 68.

The Priest then genuflects, holds the paten underneath the Sacred Host which he takes in his right hand and elevates so that all may see It. He next divides It into three portions over the chalice, putting the last particle into the chalice as usual, but without saying anything. Neither the Pax Domini nor the Agnus Dei is said, and the kiss of peace is not given. Only the third of the three Prayers before the Communion, Perceptio, p. 70, is said.

Having genuflected, he takes up the paten on which lays the Body of our Lord, and in a spirit of profound humility and with great reverence he says as usual Panem coelestum, thrice Domine, non sum dignus, and finally Corpus Domini, p. 70.

He then reverently receives the Sacred Host, and immediately after the particle with the wine in the chalice; and, having received the ablution, with bowed head and hands joined, standing at the middle of the Altar, he says —

Quod ore súmpsimus, Dómine, purà mente capiámus: et de múnere temporáli fiat nobis remédium sempitérnum.	Grant, O Lord, that what we have taken with our mouth we may receive with a pure heart: and that from a temporal gift it may become to us an eternal remedy.

Then, after bowing before the Altar, the Priest departs with his Ministers. Vespers are then recited in the choir (p. 787) and the Altar is stripped.

Holy Saturday.

STATION AT ST. JOHN LATERAN.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Double of the First Class.—Purple and White vestments.

The Station is at St. John Lateran, the mother church of the Christian world, and it is here that the Church celebrates the First Mass of Easter and that formerly she received into her bosom the many Catechumens who were baptised on this day. First dedicated to our Blessed Saviour, this basilica was subsequently consecrated to St. John the Baptist with the baptistery attached to it.

In former times the Church held no special service on this day. Like a wife left desolate, she kept vigil by the tomb of the husband of whom she had just been robbed.

Apart from all Station gathering, the meeting was held in the course of the afternoon for the seventh and last scrutiny which almost immediately preceded the baptism.†

At night was held the Watch or solemn Vigil of Easter, towards the end of which, before daybreak, the Catechumens plunged in the water of the baptistery were so to speak buried with Jesus; and at the very hour at which Christ rose triumphantly from the sepulchre they were born to the life of grace.‡

Later the great ceremonies were anticipated, being held first in the evening, and subsequently in the morning of Holy Saturday. They reveal a sudden change from sorrow to joy, and disclose certain anomalies which this notice helps to explain.

* See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, H f 15.

† It was at this gathering that the rite of Exorcism took place, and the rite of Ephpheta, which recalls the miracle worked by Jesus when He cured the deaf and dumb, and the renunciation of Satan pronounced by the Catechumen after being anointed with the oil for Catechumens. He then recited the Symbol, a proceeding known as "the rendering of the Symbol." We discover these rites again in the actual ceremonies of baptism, following those that took place at the third scrutiny (see p. 649, note †).

‡ Rom. vi. 4; Col. ii. 12.

1. THE BLESSING OF THE NEW FIRE.

The Church, blessing as she does all elements of which she makes use for Divine Worship, made a practice of blessing every evening the new fire that was to provide the light for the Office of Vespers. The liturgy of Holy Saturday maintains this custom. She also blesses the five grains of incense which are to be fixed in the Paschal Candle, the offering of which to God will thenceforward be accepted as a sweet savour.

At a convenient hour the Altars are covered with linen cloths, but the candles are not lighted until the beginning of Mass. Meanwhile fire is struck from a flint outside the church and the coals are kindled. At the end of None, the Priest vested in amice, alb, girdle, stole and purple cope, or else without the chasuble, accompanied by his Ministers with processional cross, holy water and incense, goes to the church door, if it can be conveniently done, or stands in the entrance of the church, and blesses the new fire, saying :—

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

Collect.

Deus, qui per Fílium tuum, angulárem scílicet lápidem, claritátis tuae ignem fidélibus contulísti : prodúctum e sílice, nostris profutúrum úsibus, novum hunc ignem sanctí ✠ fica : et concéde nobis, ita per haec festa paschália coeléstibus desidériis inflammári ; ut ad perpétuae claritátis, puris méntibus, valeámus festa pertíngere. Per eúmdem Christum Dóminum nostrum. ℟. Amen.

O God, Who hast bestowed on the faithful the fire of Thy brightness by Thy Son, Who is the corner-stone, sanctify ✠ this new fire produced from a flint that it may be profitable to us : and grant that by this Paschal festival we may be so inflamed with heavenly desires, that with pure minds we may be able to arrive at the festival of perpetual light. Through the same Christ our Lord. ℟. Amen.

Collect.

Dómine Deus, Pater omnípotens, lumen indefíciens, qui es cónditor ómnium lúminum : béne ✠ dic hoc lumen, quod a te sanctificátum atque benedíctum est, qui illumlnásti omnem mundum : ut ab eo lúmine accendámur, atque illuminémur igne claritátis tuae : et sicut illumlnásti Móysen exeúntem de Aegypto, ita illúmines corda, et sensus nostros ; ut ad vitam et lucem aetérnam

O Lord God, Almighty Father, unfailing light, Who art the author of all lights, bless this light, that is blessed and sanctified by Thee, Who hast enlightened the whole world : that we may be inflamed with that light and enlightened by the fire of Thy brightness : and as Thou didst give light to Moses when he went out of Egypt, so illuminate our hearts and senses, that we may deserve to arrive at light and life everlasting. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

pervenîre mereámur. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. ℟. Amen.

Collect.

O holy Lord, Almighty Father, eternal God: vouchsafe to co-operate with us, who bless this fire in Thy name, and in that of Thy only-begotten Son Christ Jesus, our Lord and God, and of the Holy Ghost: assist us against the fiery darts of the enemy, and enlighten us with Thy heavenly grace. Who livest and reignest with the same only Son and Holy Ghost, one God, for ever and ever. ℟. Amen.

Dómine sancte, Pater omnípotens, aetérne Deus: benedicéntibus nobis hunc ignem in nómine tuo, et unigéniti Fílii tui Dei ac Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, et Spíritus Sancti, cooperári dignéris; et ádjuva nos contra ignita tela inimíci, et illústra grátia coelésti: Qui vivis et regnas cum eódem Unigénito tuo, et Spíritu sancto, Deus: per ómnia saecula saeculórum. ℟. Amen.

He then blesses the five grains of incense which will presently be set in the Paschal Candle, and says the following prayer:—

May the abundant infusion of Thy ✠ blessing descend upon this incense, we beseech Thee, Almighty God: and do Thou, O invisible regenerator, lighten this nocturnal splendour, that not only the sacrifice that is offered this night may shine by the secret mixture of Thy light: but also into whatever place anything of this mysterious sanctification shall be brought, there the power of Thy majesty may be present and all the malice of satanic deceit may be defeated. Through Christ our Lord. ℟. Amen.

Véniat, quaesumus, omnípotens Deus, super hoc incénsum larga tuae bene ✠ dictiónis infúsio: et hunc noctúrnum splendórem invisibílis regenerátor accénde; ut non solum sacrifícium, quod hac nocte litátum est, arcána lúminis tui admixtióne refúlgeat; sed in quocúmque loco ex hujus sanctificatiónis mystério áliquid fúerit deportátum, expúlsa diabólicae fraudis nequítia, virtus tuae majestátis assístat. Per Christum Dóminum nostrum. ℟. Amen.

During the blessing of the grains of incense an Acolyte, taking some of the blessed coals, places them in the thurible. Having finished the foregoing Prayer, the Priest takes some incense from the incense-boat and puts it in the thurible, blessing it in the usual manner. He then sprinkles the grains of incense and the new fire three times with holy water, reciting the Asperges me without the Psalm, afterwards incensing them thrice.

Then the Deacon, in a white dalmatic, takes a reed at the top of which is fixed a three-branched candlestick with candles, symbolical of the three Divine Persons in Whose name the Catechumens were this day baptised. The Thurifer goes first with an Acolyte carrying in a vessel the five grains of incense; next comes the Subdeacon bearing the cross, followed by the Clergy in order; then the Deacon with the reed, and finally the Celebrant. As soon as the Deacon has entered the church he lowers the reed, and the Acolyte carrying the candle lighted from the new fire lights one of the three branch candles. Then the Deacon, raising up the reed, genuflects, as do all the rest with the exception of the Subdeacon who carries the cross, and sings :—

Lumen Christi.	The light of Christ.
℟. Deo grátias.	℟. Thanks be to God.

On arriving at the middle of the church the second branch candle is lighted, and again genuflecting the Deacon sings on a higher tone :—

Lumen Christi.	The light of Christ.
℟. Deo grátias.	℟. Thanks be to God.

He then advances to the foot of the Altar, where the third candle is lighted, and once more genuflecting he sings on a higher tone still :—

Lumen Christi.	The light of Christ.
℟. Deo grátias.	℟. Thanks be to God.

2. BLESSING OF THE PASCHAL CANDLE.

The Celebrant then goes up to the Epistle side of the Altar, and the Deacon, giving the reed to an Acolyte, takes the book, asks a blessing of the Priest as at the Gospel, the latter giving it in the following words :—

Dóminus sit in corde tuo, et in lábiis tuis : ut digne, et competénter annúnties suum paschále praecónium : In nómine Patris, et Fílii ✠, et Spíritus Sancti. ℟. Amen.	May the Lord be in thy heart and on thy lips, that thou mayest worthily and duly announce His Paschal praise. In the name of the Father, and of the Son ✠, and of the Holy Ghost. ℟. Amen.

The Deacon goes to the ambo, puts down the book and incenses it. At his right stand the Subdeacon with the cross and the Thurifer; at his left the two Acolytes, one holding the reed and the other the vessel containing the five blessed grains of incense to be set in the Paschal Candle. All rise and stand as at the Gospel, and the Deacon sings the Exsultet, in which the Church expounds the beautiful symbolic meaning of the Paschal Candle. He sings the night of happy memory which witnessed the escape of the children of Israel from Egypt, conducted by a pillar of a cloud illumined with the splendour of Christ.

Exsúltet jam Angélica turba coelórum*: exsúltent divína mystéria: et pro tanti Regis victória, tuba ínsonet salutáris. Gáudeat et tellus tantis irradiáta fulgóribus: et aetérni Regis	Let the angelic choirs of heaven now rejoice; let the divine mystery rejoice; and let the trumpet of salvation resound for the victory of so great a King. Let the earth also rejoice, illumined with such splendour; and, enlightened with the brightness of the eternal King, let it feel that the darkness of the whole world is dispersed. Let also our mother the Church rejoice, adorned with the brightness of so great light; and may this temple resound with the loud voices of the people. Wherefore I beseech you, most dear brethren, who are here present in the wonderful brightness of this holy light, to invoke with me the mercy of Almighty God. That He Who has vouchsafed to number me among the Levites, without any merits of mine, would pour forth His brightness upon me, and enable me to perfect the praise of this light. Through our Lord Jesus Christ His Son, Who with Him and the Holy Ghost liveth and reigneth one God for ever and ever.

Vere dignum et justum est, invisíbilem Deum Patrem omnipoténtem, Filiúmque ejus unigénitum, Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum, toto cordis ac mentis afféctu, et vocis ministério personáre. Qui pro nobis aetérno Patri Adae débitum solvit: et véteris piáculi cautiónem pio cruóre detérsit. Haec sunt enim festa paschália, in ille Agnus occíditur, cujus quibus verus sánguine postes fidélium consecrántur. Haec nox est, in qua primum patres nostros fílios Israel edúctos de Aegypto, Mare Rubrum sicco vestígio transíre fecísti. Haec ígitur nox est, quae peccatórum ténebras, colúmnae illuminatióne purgávit. Haec nox est, quae hódie per univérsum mundum, in Christo credéntes, a vítiis saeculi, et calígine peccatórum segregátos, reddit grátiae, sociat sanctitáti. Haec nox est, in qua destrúctis vínculis mortis, Christus ab inferis victor ascéndit. Nihil enim nobis nasci prófuit, nisi rédimi profuísset. O mira circa nos tuae pietátis dignátio! O inaestimábilis diléctio caritátis: ut servum redímeres, Fílium tradidísti! O certe necessárium Adae peccátum, quod Christi morte delétum est! O felix culpa, quae talem ac tantum méruit habére Redemptórem! O vere beáta nox, quae sola méruit scire tempus et horam, in qua Christus ab inferis resurréxit! Haec nox est, de qua scriptum est: Et nox sicut dies illuminábitur: et nox illuminátio mea in delíciis meis. blood cancelled the guilt incurred by original sin. For this is the Paschal solemnity, in which that true Lamb is slain, with Whose blood the posts of the faithful are consecrated. This is the night in which Thou didst first cause our forefathers, the children of Israel, when brought out of Egypt, to pass through the Red Sea, with dry foot. This, therefore, is the night which purged away the darkness of sinners by the light of the pillar. This is the night which at this time throughout the world restores to grace and unites in sanctity those that believe in Christ, and are separated from the vices of the world and the darkness of sinners. This is the night in which, destroying the bonds of death, Christ arose victorious from the grave. For it would have profited us nothing to have been born, unless redemption had also been bestowed upon us. O wonderful condescension of Thy mercy towards us! O inestimable affection of charity: that Thou mightest redeem a slave, Thou didst deliver up Thy Son! O truly needful sin of Adam, which was blotted out by the death of Christ! O happy fault, which deserved to possess such and so great a Redeemer! O truly blessed night, which alone deserved to know the time and hour in which Christ rose again from the grave! This is the night of which it is written: And the night shall be as light as the day; and the night is my light in my enjoyments. Therefore the sanctification of this night drives away all wickedness, cleanses faults, and restores innocence to the fallen, and gladness to the sorrowful. It puts to flight hatreds, it prepares concord, and brings down haughtiness.

Here the Deacon fixes the five blessed grains of incense in the Paschal Candle in the form of a cross in the following order:—

Therefore, in this sacred night, receive, O holy Father, the evening sacrifice of this incense, which the holy Church presents to Thee by the hands of Thy ministers in the solemn offering of this wax candle, the work of bees. Now also we know the praises of this column, which the shining fire enkindles to the honour of God.

In hujus ígitur noctis grátia, súscipe, sancte Pater, incénsi hujus sacrifícium vespertínum: quod tibi in hac Cérei oblatióne solémni, per ministrórum manus de opéribus apum, sacrosáncta reddit Ecclésia. Sed jam colúmnae hujus praecónia nóvimus, quam in honórem Dei rútilans ignis accéndit.

Here the Deacon lights the Paschal Candle with one of the three candles on the reed.

Which, although divided into parts, suffers no detriment from its light being borrowed. For it is nourished by the melting wax, which the parent bee produced for the substance of this precious light.

Qui licet sit divísus in partes, mutuáti tamen lúminis detriménta non novit. Alítur enim liquántibus ceris, quas in substántiam pretiósae hujus lámpadis, apis mater edúxit.

Here the lamps are lighted.

O truly blessed night, which despoiled the Egyptians and enriched the Hebrews! A night in which heavenly things are united to those of earth, and things divine to those which are human. We beseech Thee, therefore, O Lord, that this candle, consecrated in honour of Thy name, may continue to burn to dissipate the darkness of this night. And being accepted as a sweet savour, may be mixed with

O vere beáta nox, quae exspoliávit Aegyptios, ditávit Hebraeos! Nox, in qua terrénis coeléstia, humánis divína jungúntur. the heavenly lights. May the morning star find its flame alive. That star, I say, which knows no setting. He who returning from the grave, serenely shone upon mankind. We beseech Thee therefore, O Lord, that Thou wouldst grant peaceful times during these Paschal solemnities, and vouchsafe to rule, govern, and preserve with Thy constant protection us Thy servants, and all the clergy, and the devout people, together with our most holy Father, Pope N., and our Bishop N. (Regard also our most devout Emperor—or Emperor elect—N., and since Thou knowest, O God, the desires of his heart, grant by the ineffable grace of Thy goodness and mercy, that he may enjoy with all his people the tranquillity of perpetual peace and heavenly victory.) Through the same Lord Jesus Christ Thy Son: Who with Thee and the Holy Ghost liveth and reigneth one God for ever and ever. ℟. Amen.

3. THE PROPHECIES

After the blessing of the Paschal Candle the Deacon lays aside his white dalmatic and puts on a purple stole and maniple. He then goes to the Celebrant, who after laying aside his cope puts on a purple maniple and chasuble. The Prophecies are then chanted without any introduction, while the Priest standing on the Epsitle side of the Altar reads them in a low voice.

The reading of the twelve Prophecies served the object formerly of a final initiation of the Catechumens.

The First Prophecy: Genesis I. 1-31; II. 1-2.

Through baptism the souls of men will recover the rights which they enjoyed in Eden before the Fall of Adam.

In principio creávit Deus coelum, et terram. Terra autem erat

In the beginning God created heaven and earth. And the earth was void and empty, and darkness was upon the face of the deep: and the Spirit of God moved over the waters. And God said: Be light made. And light was made. And God saw the light that it was good: and He divided the light from the darkness. And He called the light Day, and the darkness Night: and there was evening and morning, one day. And God said: Let there be a firmament made amidst the waters: and let it divide the waters from the waters. And God made a firmament, and divided the waters that were under the firmament from those that were above the firmament. And it was so. And God called the firmament Heaven: and the evening and morning were the second day. God also said: Let the waters that are under the heaven be gathered together into one place: and let the dry land appear. And it was so done. And God called the dry land Earth: and the gathering together of the waters He called Seas. And God saw that it was good. And He said: Let the earth bring forth the green herb, and such as may seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after its kind, which may have seed in itself upon the earth. And it was so done. And the earth brought forth the green herb, and such as yieldeth seed according to its kind, and the tree that beareth fruit, having seed, each one according to its kind. And God saw that it was good.

inánis, et vácua, et ténebrae erant super fáciem abýssi: et Spíritus Dei ferebátur super aquas. Dixítque Deus: Fiat lux. Et facta est lux. Et vídit Deus lucem quod esset bona: et divísit lumen a ténebris. Appellavítque lucem Diem, et ténebras Noctem: factúmque est véspere, et mane, dies unus. Dixit quoque Deus: Fiat firmaméntum in médio aquárum: et divídat aquas ab aquis. Et fecit Deus firmaméntum, divisítque aquas, quae erant sub firmaménto, ab his, quae erant super firmaméntum. Et factum est ita. Vocavítque Deus firmaméntum Coelum: et factum est véspere, et mane, dies secúndus. Dixit vero Deus: Congregéntur aquae, quae sub coelo sunt, in locum unum: et appáreat árida. Et factum est ita. Et vocávit Deus áridam, Terram: congregationésque aquárum appellávit Mária. Et vidit Deus quod esset bonum. Et ait: Gérminet terra herbam viréntem, et faciéntem semen, et lignum pomíferum fáciens fructum juxta genus suum, cujus semen in semetípso sit super terram. Et factum est ita. Et prótulit terra herbam viréntem, et faciéntem semen juxta genus suum, lignúmque fáciens fructum, et habens unumquódque seméntem secúndum spéciem suam. Et vidit Deus quod esset bonum. Et factum est véspere, et mane, dies tértius. Dixit autem Deus: Fiant luminária in firmaménto coeli, et dívidant diem, ac noc-tem, et sint in signa, et témpora, et dies, et annos: ut lúceant in firmaménto coeli, et illúminent terram. Et factum est ita. Fecítque Deus duo lumināria magna: luminâre majus, ut praeésset diéi: et lumináre minus, ut praeésset nocti: et stellas. Et pósuit eas in firmaménto coeli, ut lucérent super terram, et praeéssent diéi ac nocti, et divíderent lucem,ac ténebras. Et vidit Deus, quod esset bonum. Et factum est véspere, et mane, dies quartus. Dixit étiam Deus: Prodúcant aquae réptile ánimae vivéntis, et volátile super terram sub firmaménto coeli. Creavítque Deus cete grándia, et omnem ánimam vivéntem atque motábilem, quam prodúxerant aquae in spécies suas, et omne volátile secúndum genus suum. Et vidit Deus quod esset bonum. Benedixítque eis, dicens: Créscite, et multiplicámini, et repléte aquas maris: avésque multiplicéntur super terram. Et factum est véspere, et mane dies quintus. Dixit quoque Deus: Prodúcat terra ánimam vivéntem in génere suo: juménta, et reptília, et béstias terrae secúndum spécies suas. Factúmque est ita. Et fecit Deus béstias terrae juxta spécies suas, et juménta, et omne réptile terrae in génere suo. Et vidit Deus, quod esset bonum, et ait: Faciámus hóminem ad imáginem, et similitúdinem nostram: et praesit píscibus maris, et volatílibus coeli, et béstiis, universaeque

And the evening and the morning were the third day. And God said: Let there be lights made in the firmament of heaven to divide the day and the night, and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days and years: to shine in the firmament of heaven, and to give light upon the earth. And it was so done. And God made two great lights: a greater light to rule the day: and a lesser light to rule the night: and the stars. And He set them in the firmament of heaven, to shine upon the earth, and to rule the day and the night, and to divide the light and the darkness. And God saw that it was good. And the evening and morning were the fourth day. God also said: Let the waters bring forth the creeping creature having life, and the fowl that may fly over the earth under the firmament of heaven. And God created the great whales, and every living and moving creature, which the waters brought forth, according to their kinds, and every winged fowl according to its kind. And God saw that it was good. And He blessed them, saying: Increase and multiply, and fill the waters of the sea: and let the birds be multiplied upon the earth. And the evening and the morning were the fifth day. And God said: Let the earth bring forth the living creature in its kind, cattle, and creeping things, and beasts of the earth according to their kinds. And it was so done. And God made the beasts of the earth according to their kinds, and cattle, and every thing that creepeth on the earth after its kind. And God saw that it was good. And He said: Let us make man to Our image and likeness: and let him have dominion over the fishes of the sea, and the fowls of the air, and the beasts, and the whole earth, and every creeping creature that moveth upon the earth. And God created man to His own image: to the image of God He created him, male and female He created them. And God blessed them, saying: Increase and multiply, and fill the earth, and subdue it, and rule over the fishes of the sea, and the fowls of the air, and all living creatures that move upon the earth. And God said: Behold, I have given you every herb bearing seed upon the earth, and all trees that have in themselves seed of their own kind, to be your meat: and to all beasts of the earth, and to every fowl of the air, and to all that move upon the earth, and wherein there is life, that they may have to feed upon. And it was so done. And God saw all the things that He had made, and they were very good. And the evening and morning were the sixth day. So the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the furniture of them. And on the seventh day God ended His work which He had made: and He rested on the seventh day from all His work which He had done.

terrae, omníque réptili, quod movétur in terra. Et creávit Deus hóminem ad imáginem suam: ad imáginem Dei creávit illum, másculum et féminam creávit eos. Benedixítque illis Deus, et ait: Créscite, et multiplicámini, et repléte terram, et subjícite eam, et dominámini píscibus maris, et volatílibus coeli, et univérsis animántibus, quae movéntur super terram. Dixítque Deus: Ecce dedi vobis omnem herbam afferéntem semen super terram, et univérsa ligna, quae habent in semetípsis seméntem géneris sui, ut sint vobis in escam: et cunctis animántibus terrae, omníque vólucri coeli, et univérsis, quae movéntur in terra, et in quibus est ánima vivens, ut hábeant ad vescéndum. Et factum est ita. Viditque Deus cuncta, quae fécerat: et erant valde bona. Et factum est véspere, et mane, dies sextus. Igitur perfécti sunt coeli, et terra, et omnis ornátus eórum. Complevítque Deus die séptimo opus suum, quod fécerat: et requiévit die séptimo ab univérso ópere quod patrárat.

At the end of the Prophecy, the Priest says:—

Let us pray. | Orémus.

The Deacon:—

Let us kneel. | Flectámus génua.

The Subdeacon:—

℟. Leváte. | ℟. Arise.

Deus, qui mirabíliter creásti hóminem, et mirabilius redemisti: da nobis, quaesumus, contra oblectaménta peccáti, mentis ratióne persístere; ut mereámur ad aetérna gáudia pervenire. Per Dóminum.

O God, Who hast wonderfully created man, and more wonderfully redeemed him: grant us, we beseech Thee, to resist with strong mind the allurements of sin, that we may deserve to arrive at eternal joys. Through our Lord Jesus Christ. ℟. Amen.

The Second Prophecy: Genesis v. 31; vi.; vii. 6, 11-14, 18-21, 23, 24; viii. 1-3, 6-12, 15-21.

God, through baptism, brings souls into the Church, which is the Ark of Salvation.

Noe vero cum quingentórum esset annórum, génuit Sem, Cham, et Japheth. Cumque coepíssent hómines multiplicári super terram, et fílias procreássent, vidéntes fílii Dei fílias hóminum, quod essent pulchrae, accepérunt sibi uxóres ex ómnibus, quas elégerant. Dixítque Deus: Non permanébit spíritus meus in hómine in aetérnum, quia caro est: erúntque dies illíus centum vigínti annórum. Gigántes autem erant super terram in diébus illis. Postquam enim ingréssi sunt fílii Dei ad fílias hóminum, illaeque genuérunt, isti sunt poténtes a saeculo viri famósi. Videns autem Deus, quod multa malítia hóminum esset in terra, et cuncta cogitátio cordis inténta esset ad malum omni témpore, poenítuit eum, quod hóminem fecísset in terra. Et tactus dolóre cordis intrínsecus: Delébo, inquit,

Noe, when he was five hundred years old, begot Sem, Cham, and Japheth. And after that men began to be multiplied upon the earth, and daughters were born to them, the sons of God seeing the daughters of men, that they were fair, took to themselves wives of all, which they chose. And God said: My Spirit shall not remain in man for ever, because he is flesh: and his days shall be a hundred and twenty years. Now giants were upon the earth in those days. For after the sons of God went in to the daughters of men, and they brought forth children, these are the mighty men of old, men of renown. And God seeing that the wickedness of men was great on the earth, and that all the thought of their heart was bent upon evil at all times, it repented Him that He had made man on the earth. And being touched inwardly with sorrow of heart, He said: I will destroy man, whom I have created, from the face of the earth, from man even to beasts, from the creeping thing even to the fowls of the air; for it repenteth Me that I have made them. But Noe found grace before the Lord. These are the generations of Noe: Noe was a just and perfect man in his generations, he walked with God. And he begot three sons, Sem, Cham, and Japheth. And the earth was corrupted before God, and was filled with iniquity. And when God had seen that the earth was corrupted (for all flesh had corrupted its way upon the earth), He said to Noe: The end of all flesh is come before Me: the earth is filled with iniquity through them, and I will destroy them with the earth. Make thee an ark of timber planks: thou shalt make little rooms in the ark, and thou shalt pitch it within and without. And thus shalt thou make it: The length of the ark shall be three hundred cubits, the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits. Thou shalt make a window in the ark, and in a cubit shalt thou finish the top of it: and the door of the ark thou shalt set in the side: with lower, middle chambers and third stories shalt thou make it. Behold I will bring the waters of a great flood upon the earth, to destroy all flesh, wherein is the breath of life, under heaven. All things that are hóminem, quem creávi, a fácie terrae, ab hómine usque ad animántia, a réptili usque ad vólucres coeli: poenitet enim me fecísse eos. Noe vero invénit grátiam coram Dómino. Hae sunt generatiónes Noe: Noe vir justus atque perféctus fuit in generatiónibus suis, cum Deo ambulávit. Et génuit tres fílios, Sem, Cham, et Japheth. Corrúpta est autem terra coram Deo, et repléta est iniquitáte. Cumque vidísset Deus terram esse corrúptam (omnis quippe caro corrúperat viam suam super terram), dixit ad Noe: Finis univérsae carnis venit coram me: repléta est terra iniquitáte a fácie eórum, et ego dispérdam eos cum terra. Fac tibi arcam de lignis laevigátis: mansiúnculas in arca fácies, et bitúmine línies intrínsecus, et extrínsecus. Et sic fácies eam: Trecentórum cubitórum erit longitúdo arcae, quinquagínta cubitórum latitúdo, et trigínta cubitórum altitúdo illíus. Fenéstram in arca fácies, et in cúbito consummábis summitátem ejus: óstium autem arcae pones ex látere: deórsum coenácula, et trístega fácies in ea. Ecce ego addúcam aquas dilúvii super terram, ut interfíciam omnem carnem, in qua spíritus vitae est subter coelum. Univérsa quae in terra sunt, consuméntur. Ponámque foedus meum tecum: et ingrediéris arcam tu, et fílii tui, uxor tua, et uxóres filiórum tuórum tecum. Et ex cunctis animántibus univérsae carnis bina indúces in arcam, ut vivant tecum: masculíni sexus, et feminíni. De volúcribus juxta genus suum, et de juméntis in génere suo, et ex omni réptili terrae secúndum genus suum: bina de ómnibus ingrediéntur tecum, ut possint vívere. Tolles ígitur tecum ex ómnibus escis, quae mandi possunt, et comportábis apud te: et erunt tam tibi, quam illis in cibum. Fecit ígitur Noe ómnia, quae praecéperat illi Deus. Erátque sexcentórum annórum, quando dilúvii aquae inundavérunt super terram. Rupti sunt omnes fontes abýssi magnae, et cataráctae coeli apértae sunt: et facta est plúvia super terram quadragínta diébus, et quadragínta nóctibus. In artículo diéi illíus ingréssus est Noe, et Sem, et Cham, et Japheth, fílii ejus, uxor illíus, et tres uxóres filiórum ejus cum eis in arcam: ipsi, et omne ánimal secúndum genus suum, universáque juménta in génere suo, et omne, quod movétur super terram in génere suo, cunctúmque volátile secúndum genus suum. Porro arca ferebátur super aquas. Et aquae praevaluérunt nimis super terram: opertíque sunt omnes montes excélsi sub univérso coelo. Quíndecim cúbitis áltior fuit aqua super montes, quos operúerat. Consumptáque est omnis caro, quae movebátur super terram, vólucrum, animántium, bestiárum, omniúmque reptílium, quae reptant super terram. Remánsit autem solus Noe, et qui cum eo erant in in the earth shall be consumed, and I will establish My covenant with thee: and thou shalt enter into the ark, thou and thy sons, and thy wife, and the wives of thy sons with thee. And of every living creature of all flesh, thou shalt bring two of a sort into the ark, that they may live with thee: of the male sex, and the female. Of fowls according to their kind, and of beasts in their kind, and of every thing that creepeth on the earth according to its kind: two of every sort shall go in with thee, that they may live. Thou shalt take unto thee of all food that may be eaten, and thou shalt lay it up with thee: and it shall be food for thee and them. And Noe did all things which God commanded him. And he was six hundred years old when the waters of the flood overflowed the earth. All the fountains of the great deep were broken up, and the flood-gates of heaven were opened; and the rain fell upon the earth forty days and forty nights. In the selfsame day, Noe, and Sem, and Cham, and Japheth, his sons, his wife, and the three wives of his sons with them, went into the ark: they and every beast according to its kind, and all the cattle in their kind, and every thing that moveth upon the earth according to its kind, and every fowl according to its kind. And the ark was carried upon the waters. And the waters prevailed beyond measure upon the earth: and all the high mountains under the whole heaven were covered. The water was fifteen cubits higher than the mountains which it covered. And all flesh was destroyed that moved upon the earth, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of beasts, and of all creeping things that creep upon the earth. And Noe only remained, and they that were with him in the ark. And the waters prevailed upon the earth a hundred and fifty days. And God remembered Noe, and all the living creatures and all the cattle which were with him in the ark, and brought a wind upon the earth, and the waters were abated. The fountains also of the deep, and the flood-gates of heaven were shut up: and the rain from heaven was restrained. And the waters returned from off the earth, going and coming: and they began to be abated after a hundred and fifty days. And after that forty days were passed, Noe, opening the window of the ark which he had made, sent forth a raven, which went forth and did not return, till the waters were dried up upon the earth. He sent forth also a dove after him, to see if the waters had now ceased upon the face of the earth. But she not finding where her foot might rest, returned to him into the ark: for the waters were upon the whole earth: and he put forth is hand, and caught her, and brought her into the ark. And having waited yet seven other days, he again sent forth the arca. Obtinuerúntque aquae terram centum quinquagínta diébus. Recordátus autem Deus Noe, cunctorúmque animántium, et ómnium jumentórum, quae erant cum eo in arca, addúxit spíritum super terram, et imminútae sunt aquae. Et clausi sunt fontes abýssi, et cataráctae coeli: et prohíbitae sunt plúviae de coelo. Reversaeque sunt aquae de terra eúntes, et redeúntes: et coepérunt mínui post centum quinquagínta dies. Cumque transíssent quadragínta dies, apériens Noe fenéstram arcae, quam fécerat, dimísit corvum, qui egrediebátur, et non revertebátur, donec siccaréntur aquae super terram. Emísit quoque colúmbam post eum, ut vidéret si jam cessássent aquae super fáciem terrae. Quae cum non invenísset ubi requiésceret pes ejus, revérsa est ad eum in arcam: aquae enim erant super univérsam terram: extendítque manum, et apprehénsam íntulit in arcam. Exspectátis autem ultra septem diébus áliis, rursum dimísit colúmbam ex arca. At illa venit ad eum ad vésperam, portans ramum olivae viréntibus fóliis in ore suo. Intelléxit ergo Noe, quod cessássent aquae super terram. Exspectavítque nihilóminus septem álios dies: et emísit colúmbam, quae non est revérsa ultra ad eum. Locútus est autem Deus ad Noe, dicens: Egrédere de arca, tu, et uxor tua, fílii tui, et uxóres filiórum tuórum tecum. Cuncta animántia, quae sunt apud te, ex omni carne, tam in volatílibus quam in béstiis, et univérsis reptílibus, quae reptant super terram, educ tecum, et ingredímini super terram: créscite, et multiplicámini super eam. Egréssus est ergo Noe, et fílii ejus, uxor illíus, et uxóres filiórum ejus cum eo. Sed et ómnia animántia, juménta, et reptília quae reptant super terram, secúndum genus suum, egréssa sunt de arca. Aedificávit autem Noe altáre Dómino: et tollens de cunctis pecóribus, et volúcribus mundis, óbtulit holocáusta super altáre. Odoratúsque est Dóminus odórem suavitátis.

dove out of the ark. And she came to him in the evening, carrying a bough of an olive tree with green leaves in hei mouth. Noe therefore understood that the waters were ceased upon tne earth. And he stayed yet other seven days: and he sent forth the dove, which returned not any more unto him. And God spoke to Noe, saying: Go out of the ark, thou and thy wife, thy sons, and the wives of thy sons with thee. All living things that are with thee of all flesh, as well in fowls as in beasts, and all creeping things that creep upon the earth, bring out with thee, and go ye upon the earth: increase and multiply upon it. So Noe went out, he and his sons, his wife, and the wives of his sons with him. And all living things, and cattle, and creeping things that creep upon the earth, according to their kinds, went out of the ark. And Noe built an altar unto the Lord, and taking of all cattle and fowls that were clean, offered holocausts upon the altar. And the Lord smelled a sweet savour.

The Third Prophecy: Genesis xxii. 1-19.

IN those days God tempted Abraham, and said to him: Abraham, Abraham. And he answered: Here I am. He said to him: Take thy only-begotten son, Isaac, whom thou lovest, and go into the land of vision; and there thou shalt offer him for an holocaust upon one of the mountains which I will show thee. So Abraham, rising up in the night, saddled his ass: and took with him two young men, and Isaac his son. And when he had cut wood for the holocaust, he went his way to the place which God had commanded him. And on the third day, lifting up his eyes, he saw the place afar off; and he said to his young men: Stay you here with the ass: I and the boy will go with speed as far as yonder, and after we have worshipped will return to you. And he took the wood for the holocaust, and laid it upon Isaac his son: and he himself carried in his hands fire and a sword. And as they two went on together, Isaac said to his father: My father. And he answered: What wilt thou, son? Behold, saith he, fire and wood: where is the victim for the holocaust? And Abraham said: God will provide Himself a victim for an holocaust, my son. So they went on together; and they came to the place which God had shown him, where he built an altar and laid the wood in order upon it: and when he had bound Isaac his son, he laid him on the altar upon the pile of Igitur Abraham de nocte consúrgens, stravit ásinum suum: ducens secum duos júvenes, et Isaac fílium suum. Cumque concidísset ligna in holocáustum, ábiit ad locum, quem praecéperat ei Deus. Die autem tértio, elevátis óculis, vidit locum procul: dixítque ad púeros suos: Expectáte hic cum ásino: ego, et puer illuc usque properántes, postquam adoravérimus, revertémur ad vos. Tulit quoque ligna holocáusti, et impósuit super Isaac fílium suum: ipse vero portábat in mánibus ignem et gládium. Cumque duo pérgerent simul, dixit Isaac patri suo: Pater mi. At ille respóndit: Quid vis, fili? Ecce, inquit, ignis, et ligna: ubi est víctima holocáusti? Dixit autem Abraham: Deus providébit sibi víctimam holocáusti, fili mi. Pergébant ergo páriter: et venérunt ad locum, quem osténderat ei Deus, *in quo aedificávit altáre, et désuper ligna compósuit: cumque alligásset Isaac fílium suum, pósuit eum in altáre super struem lignórum. Unde usque hódie dícitur: In monte Dóminus vidébit. And he said to him: Lay not thy hand upon the boy, neither do thou any thing to him: now I know that thou fearest God, and hast not spared thy only-begotten son for my sake. Abraham lifted up his eyes and saw behind his back a ram amongst the briers, sticking fast by the horns, which he took and offered for a holocaust instead of his son. And he called the name of that place, The Lord seeth. Whereupon even to this day it is said: In the mountain The Lord will see. And the angel of the Lord called to Abraham a second time from heaven, saying: By My own self have I sworn, saith the Lord: because thou hast done this thing, and hast not spared thy only-begotten son for My sake: I will bless thee, and I will multiply thy seed as the stars of heaven, and as the sand that is by the sea shore: thy seed shall possess the gates of their enemies, and in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed, because thou hast obeyed My voice. Abraham returned to his young men, and they went to Bersabee together, and he dwelt there.

The Fourth Prophecy: Exodus xiv. 24—xv. 1.

In those days, it came to pass in the morning watch, and behold the Lord looking upon the Egyptian army through the pillar of fire, and of the cloud, slew their host: and overthrew the wheels of the chariots, and they were carried into the deep. And the Egyptians said: Let us flee from Israel: for the Lord fighteth for them against us. And the Lord said to Moses: Stretch forth thy hand over the sea, that the waters may come again upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots and horsemen. And when Moses had stretched forth his hand towards the sea, it returned at the first break of day to the former place: and as the Egyptians were fleeing away the waters came upon them, and the Lord shut them up in the middle of the waves. And the waters returned, and covered the chariots and the horsemen of all the army of Pharao, who had come into the sea after them: neither did there so much as one of them remain. But the children of Israel marched through the midst of the sea upon dry land, and the waters were to them as a wall on the right hand and on the left: and the Lord delivered Israel on that day out of the hands of the Egyptians.

Dixérunt ergo Aegyptii: Fugiámus Israélem: Dóminus enim pugnat pro eis contra nos. Reversaeque sunt aquae, et operuérunt currus, et équites cuncti exércitus Pharaónis, qui sequéntes ingréssi fúerant mare: nec unus quidem supérfuit ex eis. Filii autem Israel perrexérunt per médium sicci maris, et aquae eis erant quasi pro muro a dextris et a sinístris: liberavítque Dóminus in die illa Israel de manu Aegyptiórum. Et vidérunt Aegyptios mórtuos super littus maris, et manum magnam, quam exercúerat Dóminus contra eos: timuítque

Thou art grown old in a strange country, thou art defiled with the dead: thou art counted with them that go down into hell! Thou hast forsaken the fountain of wisdom. For if thou hadst walked in the way of God, thou hadst surely dwelt in peace for ever. Learn where is wisdom, where is strength, where is understanding: that thou

Who hath passed over the sea and found her, and brought her preferably to chosen gold? There is none that is able to know her ways, nor that can search out her paths: but He that knoweth all things knoweth her, and hath found her out with His understanding: He that prepared the earth for evermore, and filled it with cattle and four-footed beasts: He that sendeth forth light, and it goeth: and hath called it, and it obeyed Him with trembling. And the stars have given light in their watches, and rejoiced: they were called, and they said: Here we are: and with cheerfulness they have shined forth to Him that made them. The Seventh Prophecy: Ezechiel xxxvii. 1-14.

Baptism infuses new life into our souls. This is what is meant by the dry bones which at the command of Ezechiel stood up upon their feet, put on flesh and became a mighty army.

IN those days the hand of the Lord was upon me, and brought me forth in the spirit of the Lord: and set me down in the midst of a plain that was full of bones: and He led me about through them on every side. Now they were very many upon the face of the plain, and they were exceeding dry. And He said to me: Son of man, dost thou think these bones shall live? And I answered: O Lord God, Thou knowest. And He said to me: Prophesy concerning these bones: and say to them: Ye dry bones, hear the word of the Lord. Thus saith the Lord God to these bones: Behold, I will send spirit into you, and you shall live. And I will lay sinews upon you, and will cause flesh to grow over you, and will cover you with skin: and I will give you spirit, and you shall live, and you shall know that I am the Lord. And I prophesied as He had commanded me: and as I prophesied there was a noise, and behold a commotion: and the bones came together, each one to its joint. And I saw, and behold the sinews and the flesh came up upon them: and the skin was stretched out over them, but there was no spirit in them. And He said to me: Prophesy to the spirit, prophesy, O son of man, and say to the spirit: Thus saith the Lord God: Come, spirit, from the four winds, and blow upon these slain, and let them live again. And I prophesied as He had commanded me: and the spirit came into

The Tenth Prophecy: Jonas iii. 1-10.

Like the Ninivites of old, our souls in baptism will obtain mercy from God.

In diébus illis: Factum est verbum Dómini ad Jonam prophétam secúndo, dicens: Surge, et vade in Níniven civitátem magnam: et praedica in ea praedicatiónem, quam ego loquor ad te. Et surréxit Jonas, et ábiit in Níniven juxta verbum Dómini. Et Nínive erat cívitas magna itínere diérum trium. Et coepit Jonas introíre in civitátem itínere diéi uníus: et clamávit, et dixit: Adhuc quadraginta dies, et

In those days the word of the Lord came to Jonas the Prophet the second time, saying: Arise and go to Ninive the great city: and preach in it the preaching that I bid thee. And Jonas arose and went to Ninive, according to the word of the Lord. Now Ninive was a great city of three days' journey And Jonas began to enter into the city one day's journey: and he cried, and said: Yet forty days, and Ninive shall be destroyed. And the men of Ninive believed in God: and they proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth from the greatest to the least. And the word came to the king of Ninive: and he rose up out of his throne, and cast away his robe from him, and was clothed with sackcloth, and sat in ashes. And he caused it to be proclaimed and published in Ninive, from the mouth of the king and of his princes, saying: Let neither men nor beasts, oxen nor sheep, taste any thing: let them not feed, nor drink water. And let men and beasts be covered with sackcloth, and cry to the Lord with all their strength, and let them turn every one from his evil way, and from the iniquity that is in their hands. Who can tell if God will turn and forgive, and will turn away from His fierce anger, and we shall not perish? And God saw their works, that they were turned from their evil way: and the Lord our God had mercy on His people.

Ninive subvertétur. Et credidérunt viri Ninivitae in Deum: et praedicavérunt jejúnium, et vestiti sunt saccis a majóre usque ad minórem. Et pervénit verbum ad regem Nínive: et surréxit de sólio suo, et abjécit vestiméntum suum a se, et indútus est sacco, et sedit in cínere. Et clamávit, et dixit in Nínive ex ore regis, et príncipum ejus, dicens: Hómines, et juménta, et boves, et pécora non gustent quidquam: nec pascántur, et aquam non bibant. Et operiántur saccis hómines, et juménta, et clament ad Dóminum in fortitúdine, et convertátur vir a via sua mala, et ab iniquitáte, quae est in mánibus eórum. Quis scit si convertátur, et ignóscat Deus: et revertátur a furóre irae suae, et non peribimus? Et vidit Deus ópera eórum, quia convérsi sunt de via sua mala: et misértus est pópulo suo, Dóminus Deus noster.

The Eleventh Prophecy: Deuteronomy xxxi. 22-30.

The souls of those that have been baptised must bear in mind, like the people led by Moses, the law of God and His munificence.

In diébus illis: Scripsit Móyses cánticum, et dócuit fílios Israel. Praecepítque Dóminus Jósue fílio Nun, et ait: Confortáre, et esto robústus: tu enim introdúces filios Israel in terram quam pollícitus sum, et ego ero tecum. Postquam ergo scripsit Móyses verba legis hujus in volúmine, atque complévit: praecépit Levítis, qui portábant arcam foederis Dómini, dicens: Tóllite librum istum, et pónite eum in látere arcae foederis Dómini Dei vestri: ut sit ibi contra te in testimónium. Ego enim scio contentiónem tuam, et cervícem tuam duríssimam. Adhuc vivénte me, et ingrediénte vobíscum, semper contentióse egístis contra Dóminum: quanto magis cum mórtuus fúero? Congregáte ad me omnes majóres natu per tribus vestras, atque doctóres, et loquar audiéntibus eis sermónes istos, et invocábo contra eos coelum, et terram. Novi enim quod post mortem meam iníque agétis, et declinábitis cito de via, quam praecépi vobis: et occúrrent vobis mala in extrémo témpore, quando fecéritis malum in conspéctu Dómini, ut irritétis eum per ópera mánuum vestrárum. Locútus est ergo Móyses, audiénte univérso coetu Israel, verba cárminis hujus, et ad finem usque complévit.

In those days Moses wrote the canticle, and taught it to the children of Israel. And the Lord commanded Josue the son of Nun, and said: Take courage, and be valiant: for thou shalt bring the children of Israel into the land which I have promised, and I will be with thee. Therefore, after Moses wrote the words of this law in a volume, and finished it: he commanded the Levites, who carried the ark of the covenant of the Lord, saying: Take this book and put it in the side of the ark of the covenant of the Lord your God: that it may be there for a testimony against thee. For I know thy obstinacy, and thy most stiff neck. While I am yet living, and going in with you, you have always been rebellious against the Lord: how much more when I shall be dead? Gather unto me all the ancients of your tribes, and your doctors, and I will speak these words in their hearing, and will call heaven and earth to witness against them. For I know that after my death you will do wickedly and will quickly turn aside from the way that I have commanded you: and evils shall come upon you in the latter times, when you shall do evil in the sight of the Lord, to provoke Him by the works of your hands. Moses therefore spoke in the hearing of the whole assembly of Israel the words of this canticle, and finished it even to the end.

The Twelfth Prophecy: Daniel iii. 1-24.

The souls of those who have been baptised are shielded by God in the midst of all danger, as were the three children in the furnace.

In those days king Nabuchodonosor made a statue of gold of sixty cubits high and six cubits broad, and he set it up in the plain of Dura of the province of Babylon. Then Nabuchodonosor the king sent to call together the nobles, the magis-

In diébus illis: Nabuchodónosor rex fecit státuam áuream, altitúdine cubitórum sexagínta, latitúdine cubitórum sex, et státuit eam in campo Dura provínciae Babylónis. Itaque Nabuchodónosor rex misit ad congregándos sátrapas, magistrátus, et júdices, duces, et tyránnos, et praeféctos, omnésque príncipes regiónum, ut convenírent ad dedicatiónem státuae, quam eréxerat Nabuchodónosor rex. Tunc congregáti sunt sátrapae, magistrátus, et júdices, duces, et tyránni, et optimátes, qui erant in potestátibus constitúti, et univérsi príncipes regiónum, ut convenírent ad dedicatiónem státuae, quam eréxerat Nabuchodónosor rex. Stabant autem in conspéctu státuae, quam posúerat Nabuchodónosor rex, et praeco clamábat valénter: Vobis dícitur pópulis, tríbubus, et linguis: In hora, qua audiéritis sónitum tubae, et fístulae, et cítharae, sambúcae, et psaltérii, et symphóniae, et univérsi géneris musicórum, cadéntes adoráte státuam áuream, quam constítuit Nabuchodónosor rex. Si quis autem non prostrátus adoráverit, eádem hora mittétur in fornácem ignis ardéntis. Post haec ígitur statim ut audiérunt omnes pópuli sónitum tubae, fístulae, et cítharae, sambúcae, et psaltérii, et symphóniae, et omnis géneris musicórum, cadéntes omnes pópuli, tribus, et linguae, adoravérunt státuam áuream, quam constitúerat Nabuchodónosor rex. Statímque in ipso témpore accedéntes viri Chaldaei accusavérunt Judaeos, dixerúntque Nabuchodónosor regi: Rex in aetérnum vive: tu rex posuísti decrétum, ut omnis homo, qui audíerit sóni-trates and the judges, the captains, the rulers and governors, and all the chief men of the provinces, to come to the dedication of the statue which king Nabuchodonosor had set up. Then the nobles, the magistrates and the judges, the captains and rulers, and the great men that were placed in authority, and all the princes of the provinces were gathered together to come to the dedication of the statue which king Nabuchodonosor had set up. And they stood before the statue which king Nabuchodonosor had set up. Then a herald cried with a strong voice: To you it is commanded, O nations, tribes, and languages: that in the hour that you shall hear the sound of the trumpet and of the flute and of the harp, of the sackbut and of the psaltery and of the symphony and of all kind of music, ye fall down and adore the golden statue which king Nabuchodonosor hath set up. But if any man shall not fall down and adore, he shall the same hour be cast into a furnace of burning fire. Upon this therefore, at the time when all the people heard the sound of the trumpet, the flute and the harp, of the sackbut and the psaltery, of the symphony and of all kind of music, all the nations, tribes and languages fell down and adored the golden statue which king Nabuchodonosor had set up. And presently at that very time some Chaldeans came and accused the Jews, and said to king Nabuchodonosor: O king, live for ever: thou, O king, hast made a decree, that every man that shall hear the sound of the trumpet, the flute and the harp, of the sackbut and the psaltery, of the symphony and of all kind of music shall prostrate himself and adore the golden statue: and that if any man shall not fall down and adore, he should be cast into a furnace of burning fire. Now there are certain Jews whom thou hast set over the works of the province of Babylon, Sidrach, Misach and Abdenago: these men, O king, have slighted thy decree: they worship not thy gods, nor do they adore the golden statue which thou hast set up. Then Nabuchodonosor, in fury and in wrath, commanded that Sidrach, Misach and Abdenago should be brought: who immediately were brought before the king. And Nabuchodonosor the king spoke to them, and said: Is it true, O Sidrach, Misach and Abdenago, that you do not worship my gods, nor adore the golden statue that I have set up? Now therefore if you be ready, at what hour soever you shall hear the sound of the trumpet, flute, harp, sackbut and psaltery and symphony and of all kind of music, prostrate yourselves and adore the statue which I have made: but if you do not adore, you shall be cast the same hour into the furnace of burning fire; and who is the God that shall deliver you out of my hand? tum tubae, fístulae, et cítharae, sambúcae, et psaltérii, et symphóniae, et univérsi géneris musicórum, prostérnat se, et adóret státuam áuream: si quis autem non prócidens adoráverit, mittátur in fornácem ignis ardéntis. Sunt ergo viri Judaei, quos constituísti super ópera regiónis Babylónis, Sidrach, Misach, et Abdénago: viri isti contempsérunt, rex, decrétum tuum: deos tuos non colunt, et státuam áuream, quam erexísti, non adórant. Tunc Nabuchodónosor in furóre et in ira praecépit ut adduceréntur Sidrach, Misach, et Abdénago: qui conféstim addúcti sunt in conspéctu regis. Pronuntiánsque Nabuchodónosor rex, ait eis: Veréne Sidrach, Misach, et Abdénago deos meos non cólitis, et státuam áuream, quam constítui, non adorátis? Nunc ergo si estis paráti, quacúmque hora audiéritis sónitum tubae, fístulae, cítharae, sambúcae, et psaltérii, et symphóniae, omnísque géneris musicórum, prostérnite vos, et adoráte státuam quam feci: quod si non adoravéritis, eádem hora mittémini in fornácem ignis ardéntis; et quis est Deus, qui erípiet vos de manu mea? Respondéntes Sidrach, Misach, et Abdénago, dixérunt regi Nabuchodónosor: Non opórtet nos de hac re respondére tibi. Ecce enim Deus noster, quem cólimus, potest erípere nos de camíno ignis ardéntis, et de mánibus tuis, o rex, liberáre.

Quod si nolúerit, notum sit tibi, rex, quia deos tuos non cólimus, et státuam áuream, quam erexísti, non adorámus. Tunc Nabuchodónosor replétus est furóre, et aspéctus faciéi illíus immutátus est super Sidrach, Misach, et Abdénago, et praecépit ut succenderétur fornax séptuplum, quam succéndi consuéverat. Et viris fortíssimis de exércitu suo jussit, ut ligátis pédibus Sidrach, Misach, et Abdénago, mítterent eos in fornácem ignis ardéntis. Et conféstim viri illi vincti, cum braccis suis, et tiaris, et calceaméntis, et véstibus, missi sunt in médium fornácis ignis ardéntis: nam jússio regis urgébat: fornax autem succénsa erat nimis. Porro viros illos, qui miserant Sidrach, Misach, et Abdénago, interfécit flamma ignis. Viri autem hi tres, id est, Sidrach, Misach, et Abdénago, cecidérunt in médio camino ignis ardéntis colligáti. Et ambulábant in médio flammae laudántes Deum, et benedicéntes Dómino.

Abdenago answered and said to king Nabuchodonosor: We have no occasion to answer thee concerning this matter. For behold our God, Whom we worship, is able to save us from the furnace of burning fire, and to deliver us out of thy hands, O king. But if He will not, be it known to thee, O king, that we will not worship thy gods, nor adore the golden statue which thou hast set up. Then was Nabuchodonosor filled with fury: and the countenance of his face was changed against Sidrach, Misach and Abdenago, and he commanded that the furnace should be heated seven times more than it had been accustomed to be heated. And he commanded the strongest men that were in his army to bind the feet of Sidrach, Misach and Abdenago, and to cast them into the furnace of burning fire. And immediately these men were bound and were cast into the furnace of burning fire, with their coats and their caps and their shoes and their garments: for the king's commandment was urgent, and the furnace was heated exceedingly. And the flame of the fire slew those men that had cast in Sidrach, Misach and Abdenago. But these three men, that is, Sidrach, Misach and Abdenago, fell down bound in the midst of the furnace of burning fire. And they walked in the midst of the flame, praising God and blessing the Lord.

In churches where there is no baptismal font all the following is omitted as far as the Litany, p. 866.

5. THE BLESSING OF THE FONT.

In earlier times the Clergy at this point went to the Baptistery at the Lateran, where the Sovereign Pontiff blessed, by virtue of the Cross, the water that was to be used for the baptism. The Paschal Candle, which he dipped three several times in it, recalled to mind the incident of the baptism of Jesus in the Jordan, whereby He sanctified the water and imparted to it the power of regeneration. The Catechumens were then questioned for the last time on the Symbol, were baptised and then confirmed, and the white vestment in which they were then clothed became the mystical robe which entitled them to sit at the holy table and make their first communion.*

At the end of the reading of the Prophecies, if there is a baptismal font in the church the Priest who is about to bless it puts on a purple cope and, preceded by the Processional Cross, the candelabra and the lighted blessed Candle, goes to the font with his Ministers and the Clergy, while the following Tract is sung:—

Tract: Psalm xli. 2-4.

As the hart panteth after the fountains of water, so my soul panteth after Thee, O God. ℣. My soul hath thirsted for the living God: when shall I come and appear before the face of God? ℣. My tears have been my bread day and night, while they say to me daily: Where is thy God?

Sicut cervus desíderat ad fontes aquárum: ita desíderat ánima mea ad te, Deus. ℣. Sitívit ánima mea ad Deum vivum: quando véniam, et apparébo ante fáciem Dei? ℣. Fuérunt mihi lácrymae meae panes die ac nocte, dum dícitur mihi per síngulos dies: Ubi est Deus tuus?

On arriving at the baptistery, the Priest, before going in to bless the font, offers up the following prayer:—

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

* The rites which were then observed are still found now in the ceremonies for the administration of Baptism. The Priest changed his purple stole for a white one, as Baptism was administered during the night, when the Paschal festivities began. He asked the three questions which summarised the whole of the Symbol, he baptised, anointed with the Holy Chrism, put a white linen cloth upon the head of the person baptised and gave him or her a lighted candle.

Collect.

Omnípotens sempitérne Deus, réspice propítius ad devotiónem pópuli renascéntis, qui sicut cervus, aquárum tuárum éxpetit fontem: et concéde propítius; ut fídei ipsíus sitis, baptísmatis mystério ánimam, corpúsque sanctíficet. Per Dóminum. ℟. Amen.

He then begins the blessing of the font, saying:—

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

Collect.

O Almighty and eternal God, be present at these mysteries, be present at these sacraments of Thy great goodness: and send forth the spirit of adoption to regenerate the new people, whom the font of baptism brings forth: that what is to be done by our humble ministry may be accomplished by the effect of Thy power. Through our Lord Jesus Christ Thy Son, Who with Thee and the same Holy Spirit liveth and reigneth one God.

Raising his voice to the tone of the Preface, and joining his hands, he continues:—

O God, Whose Spirit in the very beginning of the world moved over the waters, that even then the nature of water might receive the virtue of sanctification. O God, Who by water didst wash away the crimes of the guilty world, and by the overflowing of the deluge didst give a figure of regeneration, that one and the same element might in a mystery be the end of vice and the origin of virtue. Look, O Lord, on the face of Thy Church, and multiply in her Thy regenerations, Who by the streams of Thy abundant grace fillest Thy city with joy, and openest the fonts of baptism all over the world for the renovation of the Gentiles: that by the command of Thy Majesty she may receive the grace of Thy only Son from the Holy Ghost.

Here the Priest, with outstretched hand, divides the water in the form of a cross, and wiping his hand with a cloth says:—

Therefore may all unclean spirits, by Thy command, O Lord, depart far from hence: may the whole malice of diabolical deceit be entirely banished: may no power of the enemy prevail here: may he not fly about to lay his snares: may he not creep in secretly: may he not corrupt with his infection.

He touches the water with his hand.

Sit haec sancta, et ínnocens creatúra, líbera ab omni impugnatóris incúrsu, et totíus nequítiae purgáta discéssu. Sit fons vivus, aqua regénerans, unda puríficans: ut omnes hoc lavácro salutífero diluéndi, operánte in eis Spíritu sancto, perféctae purgatiónis indulgéntiam consequántur.

May this holy and innocent creature be free from all the assaults of the enemy, and purified by the removal of all his malice. May it be a living fountain, a regenerating water, a purifying stream: that all those that are to be washed in this saving bath may obtain, by the operation of the Holy Ghost, the grace of a perfect purification.

He makes the sign of the cross three times over the water, saying:—

Unde benedíco te, creatúra aquae, per Deum ✠ vivum, per Deum ✠ verum, per Deum ✠ sanctum: per Deum, qui te in princípio, verbo separávit ab árida: cujus Spíritus super te ferebátur.

Therefore I bless thee, O creature of water, by the living ✠ God, by the true ✠ God, by the holy ✠ God, by that God Who in the beginning separated thee by His word from the dry land, Whose spirit moved over thee.

He divides the water with his hand, and throws some towards the four quarters of the world, saying:—

Qui te de paradísi fonte manáre fecit, et in quátuor flumínibus totam terram rigáre prae-

Who made thee flow from the fountain of paradise and commanded thee to water the whole earth with thy four rivers. Who, changing thy bitterness in the desert into sweetness, made thee fit to drink, and produced thee out of a rock to quench the thirst of the people. I bless thee also by our Lord Jesus Christ His only Son: who in Cana of Galilee changed thee into wine, by a wonderful miracle of His power. Who walked upon thee dry foot, and was baptised in thee by John in the Jordan. Who made thee flow out of His side together with His blood, and commanded His disciples that such as believed should be baptised in thee, saying: Go teach all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.

cépit. Qui te in desérto amáram, suavitáte índita fecit esse potábilem, et sitiénti pópulo de petra prodúxit. Bene ✠ dico te et per Jesum Christum Fílium ejus únicum, Dóminum nostrum: qui te in Cana Galilaeae signo admirábili, sua poténtia convértit in vinum. Qui pédibus super te ambulávit: et a Joánne in Jordáne in te baptizátus est. Qui te una cum sánguine de látere suo prodúxit: et discípulis suis jussit, ut credéntes baptizaréntur in te, dicens: Ite, docéte omnes gentes, baptizántes eos in nómine Patris, et Fílii, et Spíritus sancti.

He changes the tone to that of the lesson, and continues:—

Do Thou, almighty God, mercifully assist us that observe this command: do Thou graciously inspire us.

Haec nobis praecépta servántibus, tu Deus omnípotens clemens adésto: tu benígnus aspíra.

He breathes thrice upon the water in the form of a cross, saying:—

Do Thou with Thy mouth bless these pure waters: that besides their natural virtue of cleansing the body, they may also be effectual for the purifying of the soul.

Tu has símplices aquas tuo ore benedícito: ut praeter naturálem emundatiónem, quam lavándis possunt adhibére corpóribus, sint étiam purificándis méntibus efficáces.

Here the Priest dips the Paschal Candle in the water, and resuming the tone of the Preface says:—

May the virtue of the Holy Ghost descend into all the water of this font.

Descéndat in hanc plenitúdinem fontis, virtus Spíritus sancti.

He then withdraws the Candle from the water, sinks it in it to a greater depth, and repeats in a higher tone Descendat, etc.

Again he withdraws the Candle from the water, and for the third time sinks it in it to the bottom, repeating in a higher tone still Descendat, etc. Then breathing thrice upon the water in the form of the following figure he goes on:—

Totámque hujus aquae substántiam, regenerándi foecúndet efféctu.

And make the whole substance of this water fruitful for regeneration.

He then withdraws the Candle from the water and continues:—

Hic ómnium peccatórum máculae deleántur: hic natúra ad imáginem tuam cóndita, et ad honórem sui reformáta princípii, cunctis vetustátis squalóribus emundétur: ut omnis homo sacraméntum hoc regeneratiónis ingréssus, in verae innocéntiae novam infántiam renascátur.

Here may the stains of all sins be washed out: here may human nature, created to Thy image, and reformed to the honour of its author, be cleansed from all the filth of the old man: that all who receive this sacrament of regeneration, may be born again new children of true innocence.

The following is said in the tone of the lesson:—

Per Dóminum nostrum Jesum Christum Fílium tuum: Qui ventúrus est judicáre vivos et mórtuos, et saeculum per ignem. ℟. Amen.

Through our Lord Jesus Christ Thy Son: Who shall come to judge the living and the dead, and the world by fire. ℟. Amen.

Then the assistant Priests sprinkle the people with this blessed water, and one of the Ministers of the church reserves some of it in a vessel to sprinkle in houses and other places. After this the Priest who has blessed the Font pours some of the Oil of Catechumens into the water in the form of a cross, saying in a clear voice:—

Sanctificétur, et foecundétur fons iste Oleo salútis renascéntibus ex eo, in vitam aetérnam. ℟. Amen.

May this font be sanctified and made fruitful by the Oil of salvation, for such as are born anew therein unto life everlasting. ℟. Amen.

He then pours some of the Holy Chrism into the water after the same manner, saying:—

Infúsio Chrísmatis Dómini nostri Jesu Christi, et Spíritus sancti Parácliti, fiat in nómine sanctae Trinitátis. ℟. Amen.

May this infusion of the Chrism of our Lord Jesus Christ, and of the Holy Ghost the Comforter, be made in the name of the Holy Trinity. ℟. Amen.

After this he takes the two phials containing the Oil of Catechumens and the Holy Chrism, and pours from both together into the water in the form of a cross, saying:—

Commíxtio Chrísmatis ✠ sanctificatiónis, et Olei unctiónis, et aquae Baptísmatis, páriter fiat

May this mixture of the Chrism of sanctification, and of the Oil of unction, and of the water of baptism, be made in the name of the Father ✠, and of the Son ✠, and of the Holy ✠ Ghost. ℟. Amen.

in nómine Pa ✠ tris, et Fí ✠ lii, et Spíritus ✠ sancti. ℟ Amen.

He then mingles the oil with the water and with his hand spreads it all over the font. If there are any to be baptised he baptises them in the usual way. Then, while the Priest and his Ministers return to the Altar, two Cantors begin the Litany.

6. THE LITANY.

In churches which have no baptismal font the Celebrant, at the end of the twelfth Prophecy and its Collect, puts aside his chasuble, and with his Ministers prostrates himself before the Altar. All the rest kneel, and two Cantors in the middle of the choir sing the Litany, both sides repeating each invocation. See p. 317 : the invocations marked with an asterisk are omitted, and the name of St. Agatha comes after that of St. Cecilia.

At the invocation Peccatores, te rogamus, audi nos the Priest and his Ministers rise and go into the sacristy, where they put on white vestments for the solemn celebration of Mass. Meanwhile the candles are lighted on the Altar.

7. MASS AND VESPERS.

During the singing of the Litany the Neophytes re-entered the church, and the Mass was begun which inaugurated the solemn services of Easter (Secret). This celebrates the glory of the risen Christ (Introit, Gospel), and that of the souls who, through baptism, have entered on a new life, a pledge of their future resurrection (Epistle, Collect, Hanc igitur). Hence the joyful Alleluia that is sung, the pealing of the organ and the ringing of the bells.

The Vespers, which follow the Communion,* remind us of the holy women who were the first to realise the great mystery of the Resurrection.

Let us show our gratitude to God for the Sacraments of Baptism, Confirmation and the Holy Eucharist, which have made it possible for us to pass with Jesus from the death of sin to the life of grace.

At the end of the Litany the Cantors sing the solemn Kyrie eleison, Christe eleison, Kyrie eleison, each invocation being twice repeated. Meanwhile the Priest attended by his Ministers, all in white vestments, goes to the Altar, recites the Judica me adding the Gloria Patri, and makes the Confession in the usual way. Then, ascending the steps, he kisses the Altar, incenses it as usual, and as soon as the Choir has finished the Kyrie eleison intones the Gloria in excelsis Deo, and the bells are rung.

The Priest then says :—

℣. The Lord be with you.
℟. And with thy spirit.

℣. Dóminus vobíscum.
℟. Et cum spíritu tuo.

Lesson from the Epistle of blessed Paul the Apostle to the Colossians.—BRETHREN: If you be risen with Christ, seek the things that are above, where Christ is sitting at the right hand of God: mind the things that are above, not the things that are upon the earth. For you are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God. When Christ shall appear, Who is your life, then you also shall appear with Him in glory.

At the end of the Epistle the Celebrant begins the Alleluia. He sings it in its entirety thrice, each time upon a higher tone, and the Choir standing repeats it after him in the same manner. The Choir then proceeds:—

Verse: Psalm cxvii. 1.

℣. Confitémini Dómino quóniam bonus: quóniam in saeculum misericórdia ejus.

Give praise to the Lord, for He is good: for His mercy endureth for ever.

O praise the Lord, all ye nations: and praise Him, all ye people. ℣. For His mercy is confirmed upon us: and the truth of the Lord remaineth for ever.

At the Gospel lights are not carried, but only incense. The Deacon solicits a blessing, and everything else is done as usual.

And for fear of him the guards were struck with terror and became as dead men. And the Angel answering, said to the women: Fear not you: for I know that you seek Jesus Who was crucified: He is not here: for He is risen, as He said. Come and see the place where the Lord was laid. 7. Eastertide.

A.—The Mystery of the Resurrection.

1. Easter from a Doctrinal Point of View.

The Church recalls each year in her Liturgy the events in the life of our Lord in which she wishes us to take part, and during Eastertide she celebrates the anniversary of Christ's triumph over Death. As Bossuet says, this is the central event of history, round which everything in the life of Jesus converges, and it is also the culminating point of the ecclesiastical life in its Liturgical Cycle.*

Our Lord's Resurrection is the most glorious event of His life, the most conclusive proof of His Divinity and the foundation of our faith.† The

* A memorial of the Passion and Resurrection of Jesus, "(the Canon of) the Mass is like the grain of mustard seed whence has sprung the whole of Catholic liturgy" (Dom Cabrol: Liturgical Prayer: its History and Spirit, p. 58). Christ having risen again on a Sunday, that day was substituted for the Sabbath, and set apart for the official celebration of the Christian Sacrifice. Consequently the anniversary of the Resurrection was kept on the Sunday following the Jewish Passover. Lent was a season of preparation for this feast, which extended over Eastertide, its full effects being realised during Whitsuntide. The Easter Cycle led to the appointment of the Christmas Cycle, December 25 corresponding with March 25. The week, the Christian year and Catholic worship as a whole revolve round the mystery of Easter.

† "If Christ be not risen again, your faith is vain" (1 Cor. xv. 14). "In baptism you are risen again with Him by the faith of the operation of God, Who hath raised Him up from the dead" (Col. ii. 12).

Passover of Christ, or His passage from death to life and from earth to heaven set the seal on His victory over the devil, the world and the flesh.* It was for that purpose that the Word was made flesh, that He suffered and died. We also are risen with Him. As a matter of fact the virtue of this mystery works in the faithful throughout their life, but more particularly during the Easter festivities, in order to help them to pass over from sin to grace, and later on from grace to glory.† As stated in the Roman Martyrology, " the Resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ according to the flesh is the Solemnity of Solemnities and our Easter."

This formula is a worthy counterpart of the formula that proclaimed the birth of the Messiah at the Christmas festivities, for the Christmas Cycle, which chronologically comes first, is logically dependent on the Easter Cycle. For if God was made man (Christmas), it was that we might be made gods (Easter).‡ At the Incarnation it was the soul of Jesus that was born to the divine life in the enjoyment of the beatific vision, and at the Resurrection His body in turn entered into the glory of God. In the same way, just as we had to be born with Christ to His new life at the Christmas festival, so also at the Easter festival must our souls follow Him in the life of glory He is now entering upon.§ Easter week therefore was the feast of the baptised, and the Church, concentrating all a mother's care on those whom St. Paul calls " the newly born," fortified them by giving them for seven days, along with the Holy Eucharist,‖ instruction bearing on the Resurrection as typical of the supernatural life. Eastertide, moreover, corresponding with the period of forty days during which, after His Resurrection, Jesus established His Church, reminds us in a very special manner of the infant Church.

Corresponding with the Cycle of the Incarnation, when we adore the Son of God clothed with our humanity, we have the Cycle of the Redemption, when by His death He communicates to us His Divinity. Septuagesima, Lent and Passion Time are seasons of struggle and victory. Eastertide serves to glorify the divine life that penetrates and transfigures the humanity of Christ in His Resurrection and Ascension. Whitsuntide shows us the Holy Ghost nourishing our souls with this divine life, and prepares us for the resurrection to come, when it will be made manifest in our own bodies. Formerly it was the custom for all to receive the Sacraments of Baptism, Confirmation and the Eucharist on the Feast of the Resurrection of our Lord or on that of Pentecost, both of which thus served to remind them each year of the double anniversary of the triumph of Christ and of His mystical body.¶

* Col. ii. 15.

† " God hath given us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ " (1 Cor. xv. 57) " He hath raised us up together with Christ and hath made us sit together in the heavenly places " (Eph. ii. 6).

‡ See p. 375, ¶.

§ " Thou Who, formerly born of the Virgin, art now born from the sepulchre " (Hymn for Matins on Low Sunday). He was born of the Virgin Mary in like manner as He came forth from the sealed sepulchre.

‖ During the seven days of the Octave of Easter parents and their children attended Mass daily and went to Holy Communion. This was the general rule. The First Communion was repeated the very next day and continuously for a whole week.

¶ As the liturgy for Quadragesima was more particularly intended for the reception of the Sacraments of the dead, so the liturgy for Eastertide made Christians participate in the Sacraments of the living. Until the twelfth century in all cathedrals in the West little children, immediately after being baptised during the Saturday night, received

The Easter Cycle awakens each year recollections of our Baptism, our First Communion and our Confirmation, and should penetrate us more and more with the new life that will attain its fulness at the second coming of Christ.*

Eastertide prefigures heaven and affords us a glimpse of the eternal Pasch that is the goal of our existence. After weeping over Jesus and over sinners during Passion Time, the Church has now a double motive for rejoicing, in that Jesus is risen again and in that a number of children have again been born unto Him. This feeling of joy is a foretaste of our own resurrection, and of our entrance into the heavenly kingdom whither the Master has gone to prepare a place for us, to which the Holy Ghost, Whom He is about to send down, will lead us.

2. Easter from a Historical Point of View.

Until the Ascension the liturgy for Eastertide takes us to the various scenes of the appearance of Jesus—in the vicinity of the Holy Sepulchre, at Emmaus, in the Cenacle and in Galilee—and it shows Him laying the foundations of His Church and preparing His disciples for the Mystery of His Ascension.

On the day following the Sabbath, while it was yet night, Mary Magdalen and two other holy women went to the Sepulchre, arriving there with the rising of the sun. It was the first day of the Jewish week, or Easter Sunday. An Angel had just rolled back the great stone that closed the door of the monument, and the guards, struck with terror, had run away. Magdalen, finding the tomb open, hastened back to Jerusalem to warn Peter and John, the while the Angel declared to the other holy women the Resurrection of Jesus.† The two Apostles then came running to the Sepulchre (see Plan, p. 873) and verified the fact of the disappearance of the Master.‡

Magdalen, having returned to the Sepulchre, was the first to see the risen Christ.§ Towards evening, two of the disciples on their way to Emmaus also see Jesus, and, returning at once to tell the Apostles, are informed that the Redeemer had appeared to Peter.|| Towards night on the same day Christ manifested Himself to His disciples gathered together in the Cenacle. ¶ A week later He appeared to them again and convinced Thomas, who was still doubtful.

After the Octave of Easter, the disciples returned to Galilee. One day that seven of them were fishing on the Lake of Gennesareth, Jesus appeared to them once more.††

He also manifested Himself to five hundred disciples on a mountain which He had appointed. It is possible that this was Mount Thabor, or more likely a hill on the shores of the lake, such as the Mount of the Beatitudes.‡‡

Confirmation and the Holy Eucharist, the latter as a pledge of the life to come (O sacrum convivium), for Jesus said: "He that eateth My flesh, I will raise him up in the last day" (John vi. 55).

* "The firstfruits, Christ: then they that are of Christ, who have believed in His coming. Afterwards the end: when He shall have delivered up the kingdom to God and the Father: when He shall have brought to nought all principality and power and virtue. For He must reign, until He hath put all His enemies under His feet" (1 Cor. xv. 23-25).

The Gospel for the Second Sunday after Easter tells of the Parable of the Good Shepherd that Jesus spoke in the third year of His ministry, at the time of the Feast of the Tabernacles, at Jerusalem.

The Gospels for the three following Sundays are taken from Christ's discourse to His disciples after the Last Supper.

3. Easter from a Liturgical Point of View.

Eastertide, which begins on Holy Saturday and ends on the Saturday after Pentecost, is like one uninterrupted feast, in the course of which we celebrate the mysteries of the Resurrection, of the Ascension of our Lord, and of the Descent of the Holy Ghost on the Church. The date of Easter, from which all movable feasts * are calculated, has been the subject of solemn Conciliar Decrees. Seeing that Christ's death and resurrection coincided with the Jewish Pasch, and that the celebration of those mysteries was to take the place of the Mosaic rites which prefigured them, the Church adhered to the Jewish method of reckoning in fixing the date of Easter. There was a difference of eleven days between the lunar year in use by the Jews and the solar year; the date of Easter therefore varies from March 22 to April 25. The First Council of Nicaea finally decreed that it should be kept on the Sunday following the first new moon after the vernal equinox (March 21).

The joyful character of Eastertide is marked by the sumptuous decoration of the sanctuary and the jubilant pealing of the organ. The Vidi aquam, referring to the water of Baptism, is chanted instead of the Asperges. Certain prayers, as for instance the anthem Regina Coeli, are said standing, as befits people triumphant, and during these fifty days the Church excludes fasting.† Oblivious, so to speak, of this earth, she sings her official acclamation expressive of the joy that St. John tells us he heard in Heaven.‡ The Introit, anthems, versicles and responsories all end in the enthusiastic refrain "Alleluia, Alleluia, Alleluia" first sung during Mass on Holy Saturday, in tones suggestive of "good tidings of great joy" (Luke ii. 10).

Until Ascension Day the Paschal Candle, symbolic of the visible presence of Christ on earth, illuminates the congregation with its shining light, and white vestments are used as a sign of joy and purity. "Display in your conduct the innocence which the whiteness of your garments symbolises," as St. Augustine said to the Neophytes, who wore albs throughout the Octave of Easter.

* All Sundays from Septuagesima until Advent and some feasts, the principal of which are Ash Wednesday, Ascension Day, Corpus Christi and the Feast of the Sacred Heart are movable.

Formerly during Eastertide the Church did not allow Saints' feasts of secondary rank, in order that the thoughts of the faithful might not be distracted from the contemplation of Christ triumphant. The suffrages of the Saints are omitted, and there is a special Mass for Apostles and Martyrs, because they were more closely associated with Christ in His sorrows and in His triumph. The Martyrs especially, in this part of the Cycle, form the escort of the Risen Christ.

Christ is risen indeed. Alleluia.

The Solemnity of Solemnities.

STATION AT ST. MARY MAJOR.*

(Plenary Indulgence.)

Double of the First Class with privileged octave.

White vestments.

On this, the greatest feast of the whole year, the Station was at St. Mary Major, as on Christmas Day. The Church never dissociates Jesus from Mary, and to-day she glorifies the Son and His Mother in a common triumph.

The risen Christ pays a tribute of gratitude first of all to His Father (Introit). The Church for her part thanks God for having opened up again for us, by the triumph of His Son, the way to heaven, and solicits His help to the end that we may attain to this supreme good (Collect).

For that it is necessary, St. Paul tells us, that as the Jews ate the Paschal lamb with unleavened bread, so should we also partake of the Lamb of God with the azyms † of a pure and holy life (Epistle, Communion), that is to say free from the leaven of sin.

The Sequence gives the details of this immolation. Jesus triumphs on the cross and He comes triumphant out of the sepulchre.

The Gospel ‡ and the Offertory describe the coming of the Holy Women to anoint Christ. They find the sepulchre empty, but an angel reveals to them the great mystery of the Resurrection.

Let us joyfully celebrate this day on which Jesus has brought us back to life by His Resurrection (Preface). And that it may be given to us to celebrate it through all eternity in heaven (Secret), let us live a wholly new life.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Mark.—At that time, Mary Magdalen, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome bought sweet spices, that coming they might anoint Jesus. And very early in the morning, the first day of the week, they came to the sepulchre, the sun being now risen. And they said one to another: Who shall roll us back the stone from the door of the sepulchre? And looking, they saw the stone rolled back. For it was very great. And entering into the sepulchre, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed with a white robe, and they were astonished. Who saith to them, Be not affrighted; ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, Who was crucified: He is risen, He is not here; behold the place where they laid Him. But go, tell His disciples, and Peter, that He goeth before you into Galilee: there you shall see Him, as He told you.—Credo.

STATION AT ST. PETER'S.†

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Double of the First Class.—White vestments.

† See Plan of the Stations at Rome, p. 510, A bc 38.

The Octave of Easter, throughout which formerly servile work was abstained from, was one continual feast. Each day the neophytes attended Mass at a Station, at which they received Holy Communion. In the evening they went to St. John Lateran for the Office of Vespers.

On the first day of the week the Station was at St. Peter's, which contains the tomb of the head of the Church. We hear his voice in the Epistle. He proclaims to the world the Resurrection of Christ of which he was witness. Likewise the Gospel, after describing the appearance of the risen Christ to the Disciples of Emmaus, mentions His apparition to Peter on the very day of His Resurrection.*

On this day, then, the neophytes testified in this way their faith in Jesus and in His Church, of which St. Peter was the first Pope. Let us follow their example.

Receiving as we do one and the same Sacrament during these Easter festivities, let us all be one in heart and soul (Postcommunion) in proclaiming together our faith in the risen Christ.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

And we are witnesses of all things that He did in the land of the Jews, and in Jerusalem; Whom they killed, hanging Him upon a tree. Him God raised up the third day, and gave Him to be made manifest, not to all the people, but to witnesses preordained by God; even to us, who did eat and drink with Him, after He arose again from the dead. And He commanded us to preach to the people, and to testify that it is He Who was appointed by God to be judge of the living and of the dead. To Him all the Prophets give testimony, that by His name all who believe in Him receive remission of sins.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Luke.—At that time, two of the disciples of Jesus went that same day to a town which was sixty furlongs * from Jerusalem, named Emmaus. And they talked together of all these things which had happened. And it came to pass, that while they talked and reasoned with themselves, Jesus Himself also, drawing near, went with them. But their eyes were held that they should not know Him. And He said to them: What are these discourses that you hold one with another as you walk, and why are you sad? And the one of them whose name was Cleophas answering said to Him: Art Thou only a stranger in Jerusalem, and hast not known the things that have been done there in these days? To whom He said: What things? And they said: Concerning Jesus of Nazareth, Who was a prophet, mighty in work and word before God and all the people; and how our chief priests and princes delivered Him to be condemned to death, and crucified Him. But we hoped that it was He that should have redeemed Israel: and now, besides all this, to-day is the third day since these things were done. Yea, and certain women also of our company affrighted us who, before it was light, were at the Et factum est, dum fabularéntur, et secum quaererent: et ipse Jesus appropínquans ibat cum illis: óculi autem illórum tenebántur, ne eum agnóscerent. Et ait ad illos: Qui sunt hi sermónes, quos confértis ad ínvicem ambulántes, et estis tristes? Et respóndens unus, cui nomen Cléophas, dixit ei: Tu solus peregrínus es in Jerusálem, et non cognovísti, quae facta sunt in illa his diébus? Quibus ille dixit: Quae? Et dixérunt: De Jesu Nazaréno, qui fuit vir prophéta potens in ópere et sermóne coram Deo, et ómni pópulo: et quómodo eum tradidérunt summi sacerdótes, et príncipes nostri in damnatiónem mortis, et crucifixérunt eum. Nos autem sperabámus, quia ipse esset redemptúrus Israel: et nunc super haec ómnia, tértia dies est hódie, quod haec facta sunt. Et ipse dixit ad eos: O stulti, et tardi corde ad credéndum in ómnibus quae locúti sunt prophétae! Nonne haec opórtuit pati Christum, et ita intráre in glóriam suam? Et incípiens a Móyse, et ómnibus prophétis, interpretabátur illis in ómnibus Scriptúris, quae de ipso erant. Et appropinquavérunt castéllo, quo ibant et ipse se finxit lóngius ire. Et coegérunt illum, dicéntes: Mane nobíscum, quóniam advesperáscit, et inclináta est jam dies. Et intrávit cum illis. Et factum est, dum recúmberet cum eis, accépit panem, et benedíxit, ac fregit, et porrigébat illis. Et apérti sunt óculi eórum, et cognovérunt eum, et ipse evánuit ex óculis eórum. Et dixérunt ad ínvicem: Nonne cor nostrum ardens erat in nobis dum loquerétur in via, et aperíret nobis Scriptúras? Et surgéntes eádem hora regréssi sunt in Jerúsalem: et invenérunt congregátos úndecim, et eos, qui cum illis erant, dicéntes: Quod surréxit Dóminus vere, et appáruit Simóni. Et ipsi narrábant, quae gesta erant in via: et quómodo cognovérunt eum in fractióne panis.—Credo.

Then He said to them: O foolish, and slow of heart to believe in all things which the Prophets have spoken! Ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and so to enter into His glory? And, beginning at Moses and all the Prophets, He expounded to them in all the Scriptures the things that were concerning Him. And they drew nigh to the town whither they were going; and He made as though He would go farther. But they constrained Him, saying: Stay with us, because it is towards evening, and the day is now far spent. And He went in with them. And it came to pass, whilst He was at table with them, He took bread, and blessed, and broke, and gave to them; and their eyes were opened, and they knew Him, and He vanished out of their sight. And they said one to the other: Was not our heart burning within us whilst He spoke in the way, and opened to us the Scriptures? And rising up the same hour, they went back to Jerusalem, and they found the eleven gathered together, and those that were with them, saying: The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon. And they told what things were done in the way, and how they knew Him in the breaking of bread.—Credo.

STATION AT ST. PAUL'S WITHOUT THE WALLS.†

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Double of the First Class.—White vestments.

The Station was at St. Paul's on the Via Ostia. On this day the Church was wont to gather her new-born children round the tomb of the Apostle of the Gentiles (Collect), there to teach them out of his mouth the words of Divine Wisdom (Introit).

The Epistle consists of a portion of the address in which St. Paul announced to the Jews of the Synagogue of Antioch in Pisidia the Resurrection of Christ, foretold by the Prophets and witnessed to by the Apostles.

The Gospel tells of an appearance of Jesus in the Cenacle on the very day of His Resurrection.‡ Jesus makes His disciples touch Him, He eats in their presence and demonstrates from the Scriptures that it was necessary that Christ should die to save the world. The neophytes, "redeemed out of the hand of the enemy and united to God's own people" (Gradual), and all Christians with them, must, continues St. Paul, henceforth live, like the risen Christ, none but a heavenly life (Communion), and by their manner of living proclaim their faith in Christ (Collect).

Let us renew our faith in the risen Christ and show it by living, like Jesus, an entirely new life.

Every Parish Priest celebrates Mass for the welfare spiritual and temporal of his Parishioners.

Léctio Actuum Apostolórum.—In diébus illis: Surgens Paulus, et manu siléntium indícens, ait: Viri fratres, fílii géneris Abraham, et qui in vobis timent Deum, vobis verbum salútis hujus missum est. Qui enim habitábant Jerúsalem, et príncipes ejus, ignorántes Jesum, et voces prophetárum, quae per omne sábbatum legúntur, judicántes implevérunt: et nullam causam mortis inveniéntes in eo, petiérunt a Piláto, ut interfícerent eum. Taken from the Acts of the Apostles.—In those days, Paul standing up, and with his hand bespeaking silence, said: Men brethren, children of the stock of Abraham, and whosoever among you fear God, to you the word of this salvation is sent. For they that inhabited Jerusalem, and the rulers thereof, not knowing Jesus, nor the voices of the Prophets which are read every Sabbath, judging Him have fulfilled them; and finding no cause of death in Him, they desired of Pilate that they might kill Him. And when they had fulfilled all things that were written of Him, taking Him down from the tree, they laid Him in a sepulchre. But God raised Him up from the dead the third day; Who was seen for many days by them who came up

And they offered Him a piece of broiled fish, and a honey-comb. And when He had eaten before them, taking the remains, He gave to them. And He said to them: These are the words which I spoke to you while I was yet with you, that all things must needs be fulfilled that are written in the law of Moses, and in the Prophets, and in the Psalms, concerning Me. Then He opened their understanding, that they might understand the Scriptures. And He said to them: Thus it is written, and thus it behoved Christ to suffer, and to rise again from the dead the third day; and that penance and remission of sins should be preached in His name among all nations.—Credo.

STATION AT ST. LAWRENCE WITHOUT THE WALLS.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Semi-double.—White vestments.

The Station was at St. Lawrence without the Walls. The Church put before her new-born children as a model the illustrious Roman Deacon to whom this basilica is dedicated.

Like St. Paul, yesterday, St. Peter tells us that the Prophets foretold the death of Jesus and that the Apostles were witnesses of His Resurrection (Epistle). The Alleluia further reminds us that " the Lord hath appeared to Peter "; while the Gospel shows us St. Peter directing the fishing operations of his companions, in expectation of the hour now fast approaching when he will direct their labours as fishers of men. More devoted to Jesus than the others, he cast himself into the sea to rejoin Him, and it was he who drew to land the net full of one hundred and fifty-three big fishes.†

According to the Fathers, these fishes brought by Peter to the feet of the risen Christ represented the neophytes, for the catechumens were born to supernatural life in the font of Baptism. Called by God to receive His kingdom (Introit), they eat the bread of Angels, the bread of heaven (Offertory, Secret), which transforms them into new creatures (Postcommunion).‡

Let us celebrate these festivities of the Resurrection of our Lord in a spirit of holy rejoicing, a foretaste of the joy we will experience at the eternal Pasch (Collect).

Introit: Matt. xxv. 34.

COME, ye blessed of My Father, receive the Kingdom, alleluia, which was prepared for you from the foundation of the world, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia. Ps. xcv. 1. Sing ye to the Lord a new canticle: sing to the Lord through the whole earth. ℣. Glory be to the Father.

Epistle: Acts of the Apostles iii. 13-15, 17-19

Léctio Actuum Apostolórum.—In diébus illis: Apériens Petrus os suum, dixit: Viri Israelítae, ut qui timétis Deum, audíte. Deus Abraham, et Deus Isaac, et Deus Jacob, Deus patrum nostrórum, glorificávit Fílium suum Jesum, quem vos quidem tradidístis, et negástis ante fáciem Piláti, judicánte illo dimítti. Vos autem sanctum, et justum negástis, et petístis virum homicídam donári vobis: auctórem vero vitae interfecístis, quem Deus suscitávit a mórtuis, cujus nos testes sumus. Et nunc, fratres, scio quia per ignorántiam fecístis, sicut et príncipes vestri. Deus autem, quae praenuntiávit per os ómnium Prophetárum, pati Christum suum, sic implévit. Poenitémini ígitur et convertímini, ut deleántur peccáta vestra.

Taken from the Acts of the Apostles.—In those days Peter, opening his mouth, said: Ye men of Israel, and ye that fear God, hear. The God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, the God of our fathers hath glorified His son Jesus, Whom you indeed delivered up and denied before the face of Pilate, when he judged He should be released. But you denied the Holy One and the Just, and desired a murderer to be granted unto you: but the author of life you killed, Whom God hath raised from the dead, of which we are witnesses. And now, brethren, I know that you did it through ignorance, as did also your rulers. But these things which God before had showed by the mouth of all the Prophets, that His Christ should suffer, He hath so fulfilled. Repent therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out.

Gospel : John xxi. 1-14.

✠ Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. John.—At that time, Jesus showed Himself again to His disciples at the sea of Tiberias. And He showed Himself after this manner: There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas who is called Didymus, and Nathanael, who was of Cana in Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two others of His disciples. Simon Peter saith to them: I go a-fishing. They say to him: We also come with thee. And they went forth, and entered into the ship: and that night they caught nothing. But when the morning was come, Jesus stood on the shore; yet His disciples knew not that it was Jesus. Jesus therefore said to them: Children, have you nothing to eat? They answered him: No. He saith to them: Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and you shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it, for the multitude of fishes. That disciple therefore whom Jesus loved saith to Peter: It is the Lord. Simon Peter, when he heard that it was the Lord, girt his coat about ✠ Sequéntia sancti Evangélii secúndum Joánnem.—In illo témpore: Manifestávit se iterum Jesus discípulis ad mare Tiberíadis. Manifestávit autem sic: Erant simul Simon Petrus, et Thomas, qui dícitur Dídymus, et Nathánael, qui erat a Cana Galilaeae, et fílii Zebedaei, et álii ex discípulis ejus duo. Dicit eis Simon Petrus: Vado piscári. Dicunt ei: Venímus et nos tecum. Et exiérunt, et ascendérunt in navim: et illa nocte nihil prendidérunt. Mane autem facto, stetit Jesus in líttore: non tamen cognovérunt discípuli quia Jesus est. Dixit ergo eis Jesus: Púeri, numquid pulmentárium habétis? Respondérunt ei: Non. Dicit eis: Míttite in déxteram navígii rete: et inveniétis. Misérunt ergo: et jam non valébant illud tráhere prae multitúdine píscium. Dixit ergo discípulus ille, quem diligébat Jesus, Petro: Dóminus est. Simon Petrus cum audísset quia Dóminus est, túnica succínxit se (erat enim nudus) et misit se in mare. Alii autem discípuli navígio venérunt:

(non enim longe erant a terra, sed quasi cúbitis ducéntis) trahéntes rete píscium. Ut ergo descendérunt in terram, vidérunt prunas pósitas, et piscem superpósitum, et panem. Dicit eis Jesus: Afférte de píscibus, quos prendidístis nunc. Ascéndit Simon Petrus, et traxit rete in terram, plenum magnis piscíbus centum quinquagínta tribus. Et cum tanti essent, non est scissum rete. Dicit eis Jesus: Veníte, prandéte. Et nemo audébat discumbéntium interrogáre eum: Tu quis es? sciéntes, quia Dóminus est. Et venit Jesus, et accipit panem, et dat eis, et piscem simíliter. Hoc jam tértio manifestátus est Jesus discípulis suis, cum resurrexisset a mórtuis.—Credo.

him (for he was naked) and cast himself into the sea. But the other disciples came in the ship (for they were not far from the land, but as it were two hundred cubits) dragging the net with fishes. As soon then as they came to land, they saw hot coals lying, and a fish laid thereon, and bread. Jesus saith to them: Bring hither of the fishes which you now have caught. Simon Peter went up (into the ship), and drew the net to land, full of great fishes, one hundred and fifty-three. And although there were so many, the net was not broken. Jesus saith to them: Come, and eat. And none of them who were at meat durst ask Him: Who art Thou? knowing that it was the Lord. And Jesus cometh, and taketh bread, and giveth them, and fish in like manner. This is now the third time that Jesus was manifested to His disciples, after He was risen from the dead.—Credo.

STATION AT THE TWELVE APOSTLES.*

(Indulgence of 30 years and 30 quarantines.)

Semi-double.—White vestments.

On this day the Church used to gather together in the Church of the Twelve Apostles, witnesses of the risen Christ, her new born children, in order that they might sing the praises of the Lord, Who had associated them with His triumph (Introit, Communion).

The Gospel tells of the appearance of Jesus to Magdalen, who was the first to inform the Apostles of the disappearance of our Lord's body, and who, after seeing the risen Christ, was deputed by Him to proclaim to them the double mystery of the Resurrection and the Ascension.†

In this Stational basilica are the bodies of St. Philip and St. James. The Epistle tells of one of the first seven deacons, called Philip.‡ He baptises a heathen eunuch, who in a transport of joy preaches everywhere the Gospel of Jesus.

This is what the Church has done for the catechumens "who have just been born again in the font of Baptism" (Collect). "God hath made the tongues of those infants eloquent" (Introit), and by their faith and their good actions (Collect) they sing the triumph of Jesus over death (Alleluia) and over their own souls (Communion).

Let us remember that by Baptism we have become united in one and the same faith to the risen Christ (Collect), Whose Father is now our Father.
